Huskies Use Team Effort To Scuttle Pirates By 18

A sterling ensemble effort by the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team paced the Huskies to an impressive 68-50 victory over visiting Paw Paw Monday night in Accident.

The hustling play of senior guards Greg Speicher and Jeremy Frazee, along with an aggressive performance from sophomore forward Aaron Mitchell, helped spark Northern's third win in four games.

The momentum swung both ways during the contest, as the Huskies ran out to a first-quarter lead of 20-13, and were up 30-25 at the half. The Pirates surged back in the third period to outscore NHS 15-8 and go up by two, 40-38. It took a concerted Northern run that saw the Huskies pour 30 points through the net to Paw Paw's 10 over the final eight minutes to take the 18-point win.

Speicher and Frazee netted 39 points and sank five three-point buckets between them, as Speicher hit for a team-high 21 points and dished out six assists and Frazee scored 18 points. Mitchell contributed 11 points and hauled down nine rebounds. Paw Paw was paced by junior center Matt DeLawder's 24 points and junior guard Adam Carter's 10 points as the Pirates fell to 6-3.

Northern won the junior varsity contest, although the score and details were not available.

The high-flying Huskies will be put to the test this week when the top-ranked team in the area, the Southern Rams, visit the Cove tomorrow for a 7:30 p.m. match-up. Northern hits the road Tuesday to take on the Allegany Campers, another tough opponent.

Huskies' Collins Named To WMIL Volleyball Team

Northern High School girls' volleyball standout Malia Collins, the Huskies' Most Valuable Player for the 2000 volleyball season, has been selected to the All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League first team through a poll of WMIL coaches.

The senior is the county's sole representative on the All-WMIL first team, while teammate Christie Flockhart and Southern High setter Amy Parrack both received second-team honors. Northern's Kelly Carr and Southern middle hitters Laura Johnson and Heather Boyce were each recognized with honorable mention status.

As the Huskies' team captain this year, Collins was the only returning starter for Coach Linda Wengerd's squad. She led NHS with 27 service aces and an 82 percent blocking efficiency rating. She also had an 84 percent serving accuracy, and an attack efficiency of 80 percent, tallying 33 kills.

"Malia had an excellent work ethic and was a true team leader," Wengerd commented. "She never gave up, was a very good all-around player, and was a very consistent server for us."

DRAWING A CROWD, Northern High guard Greg Speicher (#14) pulls up at the top of the key to hit a jumper for two of his team-high 21 points during the Huskies' 68-50 throttling of visiting Paw Paw Monday night. By pulling four Pirate defenders to the ball, Speicher has freed up NHS's rebounding chances should he (doubtfully) miss the shot, as center Josh Swandol (#34) boxes out his man and forward Aaron Mitchell (#11) has a free path to the board.

Mitchell is shown below going up for a reverse lay-up on his way to two of his 11 points, with teammate Jeremy Frazee (#24) waiting to the left. The 5-8 Frazee is pictured at the right catching some air on the business end of a fast break as he nets two of his 18 points. Winners of three of their last four outings, the Huskies are slated to host the top-ranked Southern Rams tomorrow night in a 7 p.m. Cove match-up.

IT WAS A PITCHED BATTLE, as usual when the high-flying Southern Rams and the hustling Northern Huskies battled for county girls' high school basketball bragging rights last night. The Cove match-up ended with SHS taking a 53-39 win as the Rams upped their record to 12-4. Northern's Kristin Lander (#10) has gotten behind the Rams' defense in the above photo, as, from the left, Southern's Ashlee Spady (#33), Kate Dugan (#41), Ashley Liller (#21), and Robbin Gregg (#15) collapse on the Huskies' ballhandler. NHS's Bridget Frazee (#43) and Nicole Sisler (#44) can also be seen in the background following the action. Southern guard Gina Reeves (#23), is shown below working off Dugan's screen, while Northern's Frazee moves in to defend against the drive. SHS is slated to host Preston County Saturday at 3 p.m., while NHS will host Westmar that same evening in a 7:30 p.m. make-up game.

Rams' Second-Period Flurry Helps Down Northern, 53-39

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team solidified its claim as one of the top squads in the area by defeating a doggedly determined Husky unit last night at Northern High School 53-39. The Rams utilized a 27-3 second-quarter explosion to take control of the contest and take their winning streak to eight games and up their record to 12-4. Northern's record falls to 6-7.

The Huskies had the upper hand through the first quarter, taking a 9-6 lead before a ravenous home crowd, but SHS's second-period eruption gave the Rams a 33-12 lead going into the half. Southern held a 45-20 advantage as the third quarter closed, and won by 14 points.

Rami guard Ashley Liller paced SHS with a 19-point performance that upped her scoring average to 14.2 points per game. The junior also snagged eight rebounds, handed out five assists, and nabbed seven steals along the way. SHS senior forwards Ashlee Spady and Kate Dugan scored eight points apiece in what might have been their last visit to the Cove, while freshman guard Robbin Gregg notched seven points in her first visit to the Igloo.

Northern forward Bridget Frazee led the Huskies with nine points and 10 rebounds, and guard Heather Lander and forward Nicole Sisler added six points each.

SHS's junior varsity team recorded a 40-16 victory as freshman guard Justine Pagenhardt scored 19 points.

The Rams, top-ranked in the WMIL with a 6-0 league mark, host Preston Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m., then visit second-ranked Fort Hill Thursday, Feb. 1, for a 7:30 p.m. contest which will be broadcast on 92.3-FM. The Huskies (1-5 WMIL) host Westmar in a 7:30 p.m. make-up contest that same evening, travel to Allegany Monday, and hit the road again Wednesday for a battle with Hyndman. All junior varsity contests will get under way at 6 p.m.

Course Records Topple In Uno's Snowflake Chase

The Uno's Snowflake Chase 5-mile race and 2-mile funwalk took place at Deep Creek Lake State Park Saturday, as 84 runners and 47 walkers took part in the annual fundraiser to raise money for the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers Big Sisters. Although the course was blanketed by three inches of snow that had fallen the previous night, the competitors set a number of new running race records in relatively balmy January temperatures that topped last year's event by almost 28 degrees.

This year's Snowflake Chase drew over 100 new participants and a number of noted runners. Among the distinguished competitors in the men's 5-mile race were Kevin Williams, who earned the NCAA Division II 5000-meter crown while a member of the West Virginia Wesleyan College track team; Terry Croyle, a two-time USA World Cross Country team member; and Michael Taye, the Division III 5000-meter champion from Frostburg State University.

Also on hand were Zach Bittinger, winner of the 1998 Maryland high school cross country championship while a student at Westmar, who currently competes at the Division I level for West Virginia University; Jeff Smith, the 1982 winner of the U.S. Marine Corps Marathon in Washington, D.C.; and Garrett County resident Jimmy Railey, who completed the 1990 Ironman Triathlon. The women's 5-mile field included Heather Bury, who placed ninth in the 3000-meter steeple chase trials for the 2000 Olympics.

The men's 5-mile race went down to the wire as Williams and Croyle, both running in full stride, crossed the finish line at the same time to record a 27:33 mark. Race officials declared Williams the overall winner after he and Croyle had shattered the standing race record of 29:00 by almost 90 seconds. Third-place finisher Bittinger also came in under the previous record time with a 28:38 performance.

The women's 5-mile race crown went to Bury, who lived up to her own prediction of a new race record. Bury's 31:48 time shattered the existing women's course record by a full two minutes, and earned her tenth place in the overall co-ed field. The defending female champion, Maureen Hall, finished a strong second at 36:48, while Inga Olsen took third place in 37 minutes flat.

The men's masters category of the 5-mile run featured another record-setting performance, as Ed Fronapfel's 29:19 trimmed over a minute off the old mark and earned him a fifth-place overall finish. Cur-

SNOWFLAKE CHASE LEADS TO BBBS DONATION — The annual Uno's Snowflake Chase 5-mile run and 2-mile walk event held at Deep Creek Lake State Park this past Saturday resulted in a donation to the Garrett County chapter of Big Brothers Big Sisters. Shown above as the donation check is being presented, from the left, are GC BBBS board president Mike Logadon, fellow board member Suzanne Wilburn, Snowflake Chase race director David Ritchie, BBBS coordinator JoAnn Fletcher, vice president and Big Brother Ed Hill, and Kevin, Hill's Little Brother. Pictured below, Terry Croyle, left, and Kevin Williams vie for the lead in the 5-mile run. The pair battled for the lead throughout the race, and, separated by a snowflake, Williams eventually crossed the finish line a split-second ahead of Croyle.

Panther Paces Rams To Wins Over Alco, Keyser

A pair of solid performances by Bryan Panther paved the way for two more victories this past week for the Southern High School boys' varsity, as the Rams topped host Allegany, 47-42, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest Friday night in Cumberland, and then defeated host Keyser on Tuesday, 48-37. The wins upped the Rams' overall record to 11-2, while the Allegany victory gave them a 4-1 mark in the WMIL.

Panther's performance was unquestionably the key to Southern's second win of the season over the Campers of Allegany, as he scored nearly half of his team's points (23), pulled down a game-high 10 rebounds, and blocked five shots. He hit 11 of 16 shots from the floor, and his 23-point total was a career high.

The Rams held a modest lead throughout most of the game until the Campers knotted the score at 31-31 with six minutes left in the fourth quarter. Southern was on top 11-5 at the end of the first quarter, led 20-17 at halftime, and held a 31-25 lead at the end of the third quarter. Alco's Marcus Waites then hit the first three baskets of the final period to tie the score at 31-31, but the Rams countered by recording 13 of the next 16 points to seal the victory.

The tie was broken for good when Panther scored a jumper from the corner, Bryson Meyers followed with an inside shot, and Panther hit another bucket from inside to put the Rams back on top, 37-31. Panther sustained a sprained ankle with about 3½ minutes left and had to leave the game, but returned for the final moments.

The Rams were lucky to have still had the lead by the end of the first half, since they committed 10 turnovers in the first two quarters, but they had only three turnovers throughout the entire second half.

Panther was the only Ram to reach double figures, while Ryan Rebuck paced the Campers (8-3, 3-3) with 15 points and six rebounds.

"Bryan played a great game," stated Ram coach Tom Bosley. "He rarely has an off night. He is consistent, and has always been a good shooter. He made a huge difference tonight.

"This was a big win for us against a good team," he continued, "especially in their gym, where there was tremendous enthusiasm."

The Southern junior varsity stretched its perfect season streak to 10-0 with a 42-30 victory in the preliminary game. Matt Stephens scored 11 points to lead three Rams who finished in double figures, as Joe Davis and Dennis Tressler each netted 10. Shawn Dicken and John Rebuck each scored eight points to pace the Allegany jayvees.

Continued outstanding defense was a major key to the Rams' win over Keyser on Tuesday, as Southern forced 21 turnovers and held the Golden Tornadoes to just seven points in the first half.

Bryan Panther again led the Rams' scoring with 17 points, while Chad Panther finished with 11 and Josh Sharon hit nine.

Southern held a commanding 19-2 lead at the end of the first quarter, was on top by a 27-7 margin at halftime, and took a 35-22 advantage into the fourth period. Keyser out-scored the Rams in the third stanza, 15-8, and in the fourth, 15-13, but it wasn't enough.

David Reams paced the Tornadoes' scoring effort with 14 points.

The Rams had whipped the Campers just 10 days earlier in Oakland in their best defensive effort of the year, as they recorded a 54-28 victory.

The Southern jayvees added yet another victory in the first game, but only when Joe Davis hit a three-point bucket at the buzzer to give the Rams a 35-32 win. Dennis Tressler led Southern in scoring with 11 points, while Davis scored eight. Leading Keyser were Adam Pritts and Clint Niland with nine and eight points, respectively.

The Rams will meet county rival Northern this Friday on the Huskies' court before entertaining Westmar next Tuesday and attempting to avenge their only loss of the season.

THE BOUNCE PASS is demonstrated in the above photo by Garrett Community College Lakers Ladon Garrett, left, to teammate Antonio Lappegard in last night's clash with Cecil Community College. The Lakers won the first half of the game by eight points, but the Skipjacks regrouped at intermission and came back to dismantle the Lakers, 95-70. It was the first home loss of the season for the Lakers. Putting up a shot in the photo at right is GCC's Dustin Long, former standout at Northern High School. The defeat dropped the Lakers to 15-4 overall and 6-4 in the JUCO conference standings. See story for details. Photos by John McEwen.

WITH THE HOOP IN HER SIGHTS, JoEllen Kitt (#25) goes airborne to score a pair for Garrett Community College during last night's battle with the Community College of Allegheny County (Pa.), which the Lakers lost 57-50. Kitt's teammates are hustling into rebounding position, as Tameka Graves (#42) is making her break to the board from the top of the key, while Donna Lyles cuts to the rim from the right. Shawntice McLaughlin (#12) is shown below connecting on a fast-break lay-up, with a hustling Kitt trailing. Garrett is in the midst of a brutal sequence of tightly spaced games, some of which involve many hours of road travel. The 8-7 Lakers travel to Charles County to take on the College of Southern Maryland tomorrow, then visit Harford CC the following afternoon.

Lakers Win OT Thriller Over Hawks, Fall To Cecil

An exciting, 90-88 overtime JUCO Conference win over host Hagerstown Community College on Saturday was followed by a 95-70 conference loss last night to visiting Cecil CC, a split that left the Garrett Community College men's basketball team record at 15-4 overall and 6-4 in the conference.

Hagerstown held a 46-42 advantage at halftime on Saturday, and an 82-80 edge with less than a minute to play. Then Garrett's Jontae Harrington scored off a feed from Dustin Long to tie the score at 82-82 and ultimately send the game into overtime when a desperation, three-point shot by the Hawks at the buzzer missed.

Harrington recorded the go-ahead basket in the overtime period and, along with teammate Antonio Lappegard, led the Lakers in scoring as each finished with 17 points. Also reaching double figures in two categories for GCC was Kortaa Hall, who scored 14 points and pulled down 13 of the Lakers' 53 rebounds. Rob Hall also netted 14 points and dished out nine assists, while Lee Parris chipped in with 10 points.

The Hawks, who lost for only the third time this season (16-3) and were 5-0 in JUCO contests coming into Saturday's game, finished with a total of 11 three-point buckets. Brandon DeShields hit three of those and recorded a game-high 20 points. Cory Tabron had four three-pointers and finished with 15 points. Also reaching double figures were Eric Braham and Gebront Gaddy with 12 each, and Marquim Jennings with 10.

"This was a good win on the road for us," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson. "We played much better defensively in the second half and were able to limit their three-point shooting."

The Lakers completely fell apart in the second half of last night's contest with Cecil, as they allowed an eight-point halftime advantage (38-30) evaporate. Cecil, which came into the game with a perfect 9-0 JUCO record and a 15-2 overall mark, erupted for 65 points in the second half to record the 25-point win. It was the first home loss of the season for the Lakers.

Elijah Holland hit all seven of the Skipjacks' three-point goals and finished with a game-high 25 points, while Derrell Turpin was close behind with 22 points. Holland scored 11 of his points in a 29-12 run in the first 6:37 of the second half of action, which gave the visitors the lead for good.

Also turning in a solid performance for Cecil was Damian McPherson, who hit seven of eight shots from the floor and finished with 16 points, blocked three shots, and pulled down eight rebounds. Jermome Coleman also hit double figures with 11 points.

Pacing the Lakers was Kortaa Hall, who netted 18 points, while Antonio Lappegard recorded a double-double with 15 points and 11 rebounds. Robert Hall scored 11 points, all from the foul line, and dished out four assists. Jontae Harrington chipped in with 10 points.

Garrett will go back on the road for a game at Montgomery College-Germantown this Saturday, and play at CCBC-Dundalk next Wednesday.

GCC Looks To Regroup After Hectic Week Of 1-3 Action

The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College showed how grueling a college basketball schedule can be this week, as the Lakers played four games in a five-day span, including a pair during a weekend tourney that involved a road trip of several hundred miles to North Carolina. Garrett's record has dropped to 8-7 after action that began with a 50-49 win over Methodist College's junior varsity, but continued with three straight losses to Louisburg Junior College, 89-33, Prince George's Community College, 67-58, and Community College of Allegheny County (Pa.), 57-50.

"This was our fourth game in five days because of a weather-related make-up game," GCC coach Ann Wellham commented of last night's loss to CCAC. "We played very sluggish for the entire game. Unfortunately, we don't get a break because we are on the road again tomorrow. We definitely need time to rest and get healthy." There will be no rest for the weary anytime soon, however, as the Lakers will be on the road both tomorrow and Saturday.

Garrett had to stave off a late rally by Methodist Saturday to take the opening round of the Louisburg tourney and its third win in row. The Lakers let a 24-19 halftime advantage and a 32-20 lead at the 13:35 mark of the second half evaporate to a one-point margin, 50-49, with five seconds to go. Methodist had a chance to take the lead at the foul line, but missed a pair.

A Laker snagged the rebound after the second missed free throw, but stepped on the line to turn

Healthy Living in Garrett County

GCMH Offers Promising New Medication For Heart Attacks

A new medication awaits heart attack patients who are rushed to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital emergency room. TNKase (teneeteplase), a thrombolytic, or "clot-buster," drug, recently was approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for treatment of acute myocardial infarction (AMI), or heart attack.

According to Don Battista, hospital president, Garrett Memorial was one of more than 300 hospitals and medical clinics across the United States that participated in a clinical trial known as ASSENT 2 (Assessment of the Safety and Efficacy of a New Thrombolytic agent), which provided researchers with important data largely responsible for the recent FDA approval of TNKase.

TNKase is the first "clot buster" that can be administered over five seconds in a single dose, offering physicians at Garrett Memorial the fastest administration of a thrombolytic to date in the treatment of a heart attack. "With the advent of TNK, the cardiac emergency team has a drug that offers improvement in both more rapid administration and increased efficiency," said Dr. Thomas Johnson, GCMH physician. "This is a great advantage and allows a community hospital to provide first rate heart attack care."

Johnson said that heart attacks affect 1.1 million Americans and causes 500,000 early deaths each year. Therapies and procedures, such as thrombolytics, that open the blocked artery causing the heart attack have been shown to significantly improve survival, but they must be administered within a few short hours of the onset of symptoms. Those symptoms include chest pain or discomfort, breathing difficulty, cold sweats, and nausea. Johnson added that it is important for people to recognize these symptoms of heart attack and seek immediate medical attention as soon as they occur.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will welcome donors at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall on Friday, Feb. 2, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Persons who weigh at least 105 pounds, are at least 17 years of age, and in generally good health, and who have not donated for at least 56 days, are welcome and encouraged by the ARC to donate a unit of blood.

A critical shortage of blood in the region and nation continues, the ARC reports.

Overcrowded ER Leads To Yellow Alert Policy

Over the last few weeks, the number of patients visiting the emergency departments at area hospitals has increased significantly due to upper respiratory illnesses, viruses, flu and other flu-like ailments. And when emergency departments are busy, it means longer than usual waits for patients who do not need immediate medical attention when they arrive.

Representatives for the Allegany and Garrett County health departments, Western Maryland Health System, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Region 1 EMS Advisory Council, and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services System (MIEMSS) met late last week to finalize plans for dealing with these increased volumes, especially those times when an emergency department cannot handle additional patients. Designed specifically for this type of situation, a Yellow Alert policy was approved in December by the Region I EMS Council, which oversees emergency services in Allegany and Garrett counties.

When an emergency department reaches its peak capacity, the new Yellow Alert policy can be used to divert ambulance patients who are in stable condition to another hospital in the area. The area 911 Emergency Call centers are responsible for communicating with ambulance companies about where to take patients during a Yellow Alert.

Even during a Yellow Alert, patients with life-threatening conditions are always taken to the closest hospital, regardless of current patient loads. Only patients in stable condition are diverted to the next closest hospital that has room available and can handle the incoming case.

According to David Ramsey, administrator for MIEMSS, the public can do its part by using area emergency departments for emergency care only. Unless it is an emergency, individuals should contact their primary care physician or an urgent care clinic if they feel like they are coming down with the flu or an upper respiratory illness. This will reduce waiting times in emergency departments and also can help alleviate the Yellow Alert status.

However, anyone with an emergency condition should still go to the emergency department. Individuals will receive appropriate care, regardless of how busy the emergency departments are, Ramsey said.

Hospital admissions also increase during the winter months, and there are often delays in moving patents from the emergency department to an inpatient bed. These delays increase the waiting time in the emergency departments for patients who do not require immediate care.

Local hospitals are working with inpatients being discharged to ensure that they leave the hospital as soon as they are discharged to free up hospital beds lor patients waiting to be admitted. One of the proactive steps included in the local Yellow Alert policy is using area ambulances to transport patients being discharged from area hospitals to their homes or nursing homes when they have no other means of transportation. This action would be implemented as needed to help ease Yellow Alert conditions.

So far this winter, Region I is faring better than other areas of the state in dealing with emergency department utilization, according to Ramsey. Yellow alerts have been issued only sporadically for local hospitals. The issuance of Yellow Alert has become a daily occurrence for hospitals in Baltimore City and Baltimore County.

For more information about the Yellow Alert status, contact David Ramsey, Region I Administrator lor MIEMSS, at 301-895-5934.

Commissioner Issues Alert On Carbon Monoxide

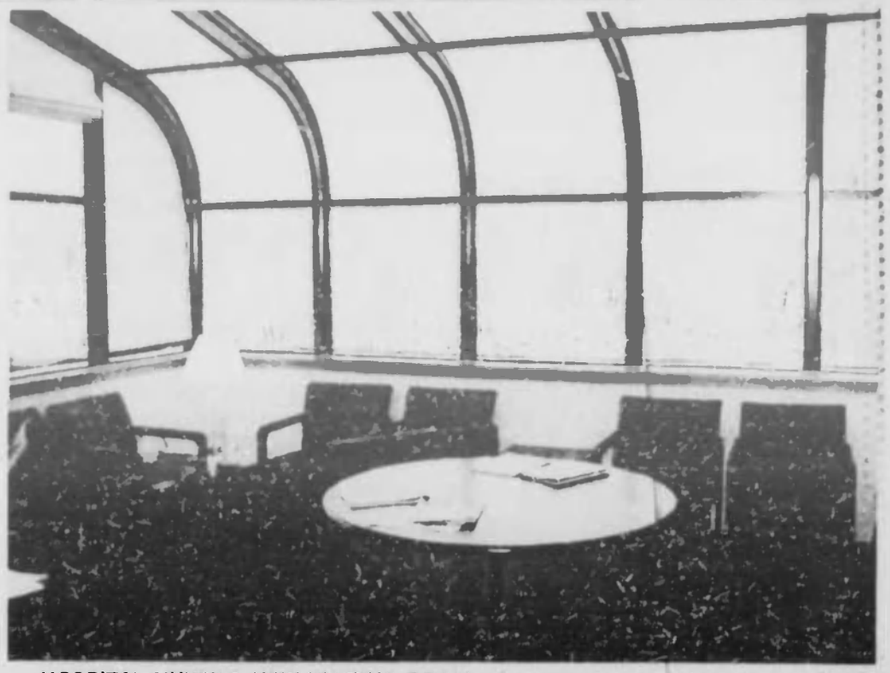
"Maryland employers and employees should be on the alert because of increased danger of exposure to deadly carbon monoxide gas during the winter mouths," warns Kenneth P. Reichard, commissioner ol Labor and Industry and an official of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation. The risk of accidental poisoning increases when doors and windows are closed. Many buildings have been sealed up tightly because of concern about energy conservation. This can further decrease ventilation, raising levels of gas already present in the atmosphere.

Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless, and tasteless gas that gives no warning to its victims. Produced as a by-product of combustion, it commonly is found in many commercial and industrial facilities. These include warehouses which operate gasoline or propane powered equipment, auto repair shops, foundries, blast furnaces, commercial laundries, and bakeries.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include headaches, fatigue, nausea, and dizziness. Continued exposure leads to muscle weakness, confusion, unconsciousness, collapse, and even death. Large doses can kill in minutes or cause permanent heart or brain damage in victims who recover. Co-workers can be overcome while giving assistance to a victim. Immediate ventilation and first aid are vital.

"All workers who face the danger of exposure to this potentially lethal substance should be trained to recognize the symptoms and be able to respond quickly and appropriately in an emergency," stressed Reichard.

Maryland Occupational Safety and Health (MOSH), an agency of the Division of Labor and Industry, Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation, is sponsoring its annual winter educational campaign to stress prevention and treatment of carbon monoxide poisoning. Fact sheets containing valuable information for employers and employees are available free of charge by calling 410-880-4970 or 301-483-8406, ext. 348.



HOSPITAL UNVEILS NEW WAITING ROOM - A new surgery waiting room at Garrett County Memorial Hospital is now complete. The atrium-like space provides a more comfortable atmosphere for friends and family of surgery patients, according to Don Battista, GCMH president, as visitors can enjoy the view from the glass-enclosed area. "We've received a lot of positive feedback," stated Anne Forrester, SIL (surgical information liaison) volunteer. "People really enjoy the view." One of the primary features of the new area is more seating, as the previous waiting area could seat a maximum of eight people and had no windows. The new space can seat up to 20. "The new waiting area provides a more relaxing atmosphere for family members," said Vince Genco, another SIL volunteer. Forrester and Genco are pictured below manning the SIL desk in the new area. The space previously used as a waiting room has been converted into a conference room where physicians can meet with patients' family members in a private setting.

Rams' Petrella, Sincell Noted By Dapper Dan

Southern High School's girls' varsity soccer team continues to draw accolades for its superlative 12-1 season, as head coach Ron Petrella and defensive specialist Miriam Sincell have both been selected for top honors by the Cumberland-based Dapper Dan club. Petrella has been named the girls' soccer high school coach of the year, and Sincell has been named the top girls' soccer defender of the year through the organization's poll of area coaches.

Petrella and Sincell will be honored at the annual Dapper Dan Sports Awards Banquet, slated to get under way at 6 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 3, at the Ali Ghan Shriners Club in Cumberland. The dinner is a fund-raiser open to the public, and tickets are available at $20 per person through the Sports Shoppe in Cumberland, which may be reached at 301-722-5490. Proceeds raised by the banquet will go to support the various activities of the non-profit Dapper Dan Club, which include a youth baseball league and services for children with disabilities.

A story detailing Petrella's coaching achievements of this past season will appear in next week's paper. Sincell's honor was first reported two weeks ago in these pages.

DNR Seeking Input On Boat Race Proposal

The Department of Natural Resources is seeking public comment on a proposal by Pride Promotions Inc. to have a power boat race on Deep Creek Lake on June 2-3. Pride Promotions is requesting the use of the beach area at Deep Creek Lake State Park, and the lake area immediately in front of it, for two days to hold races for boats that hit speeds up to 120 miles per hour.

The promoter has indicated that the race is being held to raise funds for the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's disease research. DNR expects to render a final decision on the event in late February. The promoter is required to obtain a permit from DNR before the race can be held.

A copy of the proposal may be reviewed at the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center during regular business hours, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., seven days a week. Written comments should be mailed to: Manager, Deep Creek Lake State Park, 898 State Park Road, Swanton, MD 21561.

GCC Looks

the ball back over to the opponents. Methodist got off a final shot at the buzzer, but the ball bounded off the rim and Garrett took the win.

Tameka Graves led the Lakers in the scoring column with 11 points, and Gretchen Baker added 10 and Edgell contributed eight. Donna Lyles hauled down a team-high 11 rebounds and nabbed seven steals, Nikki Jackson had six rebounds, and JoEllen Kitt had seven points and five assists. Tameka Jones paced Methodist with 13 points and 15 rebounds.

The Lakers shot only 29 percent from the field, but were able to win in large measure because of the miserable shooting of the Methodist squad, which connected on only 27 percent of its shots.

Taking a victory with such poor shooting leaves a team on shaky ground, and Garrett's roof caved in the following evening when Louisburg, the nation's 18th-ranked Division I junior college program, manhandled Garrett during its 56-point victory. GCC hit only 12 field goals on the night, a tally more than tripled by the hosts' 37-bucket total.

Graves was the Laker closest to breaking into double scoring figures, as she netted nine points. Teammates Baker, Lyles, and Christi Edgell connected for four points apiece. Louisburg had four players produce double figures, led by Brandi Fowler's 16 points.

Graves put in a fine performance during Tuesday night's nine-point loss to Prince George's, scoring 17 points and hauling down 11 rebounds. Lyles recorded a double-double as well, as she scored 11 points and snagged 11 rebounds.

Despite those efforts, the Lakers were downed one free throw at a time Prince George's, which took a 26-19 lead into the halftime locker room, hit 21 of 32 foul shots on the night. Garrett's ratio was much better at 10 of 11, but PG's more numerous trips to the charity stripe made the difference, along with the 23-point performance of Joy Mascetti and a 19-point tally by Kiwanda Davis.

"It's impossible to come out with a win when you give up as many free throws as we did," observed Coach Wellham. "Our defense was out of sync in the first half. We've been hot and cold lately, but fatigue and injury are affecting our play."

The week's hectic schedule took its toll in last night's contest as well, as the Lakers couldn't get anything going in the second half against CCAC. Garrett trailed by 27-22 at the half, and lost by a seven-point margin.

Graves scored 11 points for Garrett, and Shawntice McLaughlin added seven. CCAC was paced by Sharon Coleman's 13 points and 12 apiece from Loni Wojciehowski and Kathy Brudrok.

The Lakers travel to La Plata tomorrow night to take on the College of Southern Maryland, then visit Harford CC on Saturday. After catching their breath the Lakers return home midweek for a Wednesday match-up with Baltimore City CC, which will get under way at 5 p.m. on the McHenry court.

be on supervised probation, according to the report.

Two officers of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force went to her home last June after receiving reports of drug activity. While there, they purchased a small quantity of the narcotic from Stripling.

William Thomas Harless, 19, Oakland, was sentenced last week by Sherbin to six months in the local jail and fined $300 for possession of marijuana. Harless pleaded guilty to the charge, according to the report. All but 30 days of the jail term was suspended. Harless will be on supervised probation after serving the jail sentence.

The defendant was charged by the September Term Grand Jury with a number of drug-related violations. The charges stemmed from a January 2000 incident during which Harless apparently participated in the sale of a quantity of marijuana to a police informant. All charges but possession were dropped when the defendant entered his guilty plea.

Drug Interactions Can Be Life Threatening

According to a recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, each year in the US approximatey 1.5 million persons are injured and require hospitalization because of prescription medicines. A number of hospitalizations are caused by drug interactions (use of two or more drugs at the same time resulting in a modificaton of effect of at least one of the drugs). Sometimes theeffect is desirable, but often the effect is not and can lead to serious injury or delay in effectiveness of one or more medicines.

Methods of interaction may be from interference with gastrointestinal absorption, one drug affecting the binding of another drug to blood proteins, a pronounced effect when both drugs produce the same effect; and an effect on a drug's metabolizing enzymes. For example the action of a blood pressure medicine may be interfered with by one of the nonsteroidal antiinflammatory drugs. The effectiveness of certain oral antibiotics can be modified by antacid medicines. Prevent such interactions by talking with your pharmacist and physician about all the medicines you are taking.

PLANNING IS UNDER WAY to try to gain All-American Road designation of the National Road (U.S. Rt. 40) from the federal government, which would result in federal support for now tourism efforts. Historic Stanton's Mill, located in Grantsville near the 1813 Casselman Bridge and pictured above, is under consideration to be the National Road Welcome Center to Maryland for persons entering the state from the west. Pictured below at a recent project planning meeting held in Allegany County are, from left: Trish Morgan, administrator of Spruce Forest Artisan Village (locale of Stanton's Mill); Deb Clatterbuck, representing the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce; and Jim Klein of the consulting firm Lardner/Klein Landscape Architects. See story for details.

Effort Under Way To Designate National Road As All-American

by Peggy Santamaria
Chamber of Commerce

The National Road, winding from Baltimore westward across Maryland before swinging north through Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, is significant as the first federally financed route in the nation. Cut through the wildness of 18th century Maryland landscape, the road permitted the passage of horse-drawn wagons and carriages through forests and over the ridges of the Alleghenies to the west. This historic thoroughfare is now being studied with an eye toward designation as a heritage tourism route.

Local and state officials have been working with groups of citizens to identify sites along the National Road that could be enhanced as tourist attractions. In Garrett County, the course of the road follows along what was known as Nemacolin's Path, an ancient trail over which Native Americans pursued bear, deer, buffalo, and other wild game plentiful in the area.

It was across this same centuries-old trace used by Nemacolin that General Edward Braddock moved his British troops during the French and Indian War. Sites of Braddock's encampments in the area are designated with roadside markers along old Route 40 near Grantsville. For centuries a passageway through the rugged terrain that is now Garrett County, the former Braddock's Road was improved as the National Road, and commerce first grew and then flourished along its corridors.

In the early 1800s, heavy wagon traffic over the National Road gave rise to hospitality businesses, such as inns and taverns to accommodate journey-weary travelers. Some of the same hostelries that sheltered passengers of 19th century horse-drawn coaches still stand along the National Road in the areas known as Little Crossings and Grantsville, as testament to the historic migrations westward.

Recognizing the uniqueness of this road, the Maryland State Highway Administration has hired the consulting firm of Lardner/Klein Landscape Architects to devise a strategic tourism plan for the roadway. The goals of the study are to preserve, enhance, interpret, and market this important cultural heritage attraction. There are also plans to gain federal designation as an "All American Road' similar to Route 66, which brings with it federal support for new tourism initiatives.

With the consultant's study nearing completion, attention is being focused on the Stanton's Mill buildings in Grantsville, situated near the 1813 Casselman Bridge. With encouragement from the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, this location is under consideration as the National Road Welcome Center to Maryland for tourists entering the state from points west. As such, it could include an interpretative center and possibly a museum dedicated to the milling industry.

The buildings are under the stewardship of the Spruce Forest Artisan Village. Trish Morgan, administrator of the Village, expressed her agreement with this concept at a recent meeting of community leaders held at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland. Morgan explained to the group that the mill, established along the National Road at Little Crossings around 1795 and rebuilt in 1856, has been idle since 1995. "We would like to renovate and reopen the mill because it reflects the history of the community and the economy of the people. Its location would make it an ideal Gateway to Maryland center," Morgan stated.

"Getting tens of thousands of visitors to stop at Stanton's Mill and learn more about heritage attractions in Grantsville can be a real boon to our community. We would also like to get some support for opening a museum in Grantsville to display the photos of Leo Beachy and depict the history of the area," said Mayor Gerry Beachy. "We are pleased to be working with the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce in advocating for this great tourism project."

Chamber president Ken Wishnick said that the Stanton's Mill facility could display information on loop trips to area attractions, such as the Oakland train station, the Drane House in Accident, and the Mountain Lake Park historical area. "Our goal would be to entice visitors to take a break from their travels along the National Road and spend a day or two here in Garrett County," Wishnick commented.

The consultant has planned presentations to local governments on the project for early April, and there will be a prior public meeting the end of February in Cumberland. It is also anticipated that implementation grant requests will be submitted in June.

New Full-Color County Map Is Being Printed

A new full-color map of Garrett County, complete with a street index and updated road information, will soon be available. The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has contracted with a private company to prepare and print this publication for both residents and visitors.

The new map will be based on the county's 911 computer mapping program and will offer several additional enhancements. One such feature is inclusion on the chamber's web site. A web-surfer will need only click on an ad to find the exact location of a business, according to Ken Wishnick, chamber president.

Community Link, a national company with an established record of creating such maps for chambers of commerce, will produce approximately 30,000 copies on high-quality paper. This project is being funded entirely through the income generated by the advertising, Wishnick said.

As in the past, the new Garrett Chamber of Commerce map will continue to be free to the public.

MSP's Mitchell Named Chair Of Special Olympics

The superintendent of the Maryland State Police has recently accepted new civic duties that will impact the lives of 10,000 special Marylanders.

Colonel David B. Mitchell has been elected chairman of the board of directors of Special Olympics Maryland. Colonel Mitchell was unanimously elected by the 22-member board last month. His term as chairman began January 1, 2001.

The board of directors oversees the statewide operations of Special Olympics Maryland, which provides year-round sports training and competition for 10,000 children and adults with mental retardation.

Dr. Patricia Krebs, president and CEO of Special Olympics Maryland, said she is "extremely pleased" with the board's decision to elect Colonel Mitchell. "The unanimous election of Colonel Mitchell as chairman is an exciting opportunity for Special Olympics Maryland," Dr. Krebs said. "Colonel Mitchell brings dynamic leadership, enthusiasm, and energy to his position. His insight and direction will have a significant and positive impact on the future success of Special Olympics Maryland. His involvement with Special Olympics at the local, state, and national level for more than two decades is evidence of his personal commitment to this great cause."

Mitchell began his involvement with Special Olympics as a volunteer in the early 1970s while a Prince George's County police officer. Throughout his career in Prince George's County, including his tenure as chief, Mitchell worked to increase awareness of Special Olympics and the involvement of police officers in supporting its cause.

Krebs said Mitchell brought that same commitment to the Maryland State Police when he was appointed superintendent in 1995. He is the founder and chairman of the Maryland State Police Polar Bear Plunge, the Maryland State Police St. Mary's Splash, and the Maryland State Police Deep Creek Dunk. All three events, coordinated by state and local law enforcement, raise funds for Special Olympics Maryland. In 1998, the Polar Bear Plunge became the most successful single-day fund-raising event in the history of Special Olympics Maryland. Last year, the three events raised more than $310,000 for the program.

Special Olympics Maryland elected Mitchell to its official board in 1998. Now as chairman, he will conduct board meetings, serve as ex officio on all board committees, and serve as the state's spokesman for Special Olympics. He has been elected to serve a one-year term, and can be re-elected to a second term.

Mitchell will lead more than 1,200 plungers into the Chesapeake Bay on January 27 for the fifth annual Maryland State Police Polar Bear Plunge at Sandy Point State Park. Less than one month later, Colonel Mitchell will "hit the icy waters" of Garrett County in the third annual Deep Creek Dunk.

Shank Noted By Comptroller For E-Filing

Brenda L. Shank, owner of the H&R Block office located in the Midway Plaza shopping center, has been recognized by Maryland state comptroller William Donald Schaefer for attaining the largest percentage increase in electronic tax filing in Garrett County for the second consecutive year. Shank's 13 percent increase over last year was noted last week when Louis Hall, the comptroller's Cumberland branch office manager, presented her with a certificate from state comptroller William Donald Schaefer.

"Electronic filing reduces costs and saves time for individuals and businesses," according to Schaefer. "Taxpayers who file electronically from home or through a professional tax preparer and who choose direct deposit can have their refunds in their bank accounts within 48 hours after their Maryland return is processed."

Taxpayers have three options for filing electronically: by visiting the comptroller's web site at www.marylandtaxes.com and completing the on-line form with the use of Maryland short forms 503 or 123; by using a personal computer furnished with tax preparation software; or through a commercial tax preparer.

Marylanders can secure free state income tax assistance by calling 1-800-MD-TAXES.

Many Activities Slated At Our Town Theatre

Numerous activities for all ages will be taking place at Our Town Theatre, Oakland, within the next few weeks, according to Jane Avery, OTT artistic director.

This year's first Kidstuff class will be held at the theatre this Saturday, Jan. 27. Instructor Deb Wolf and her assistants will be working with children ages 5-10 in creative dramatics, poetry, dance, puppets, mime, etc., from 1 to 2:30 p.m. The cost is a modest donation to the theatre. Additional classes will take place on February 10 and 24, March 10 and 24, and April 7. Reservations are required for each date and must be made by calling the theatre during the week of the class. No reservations will be accepted after 5 p.m. on the Friday before the class. Persons may call 301-334-5640 for reservations.

OTT has also scheduled a teen coffeehouse for this Saturday, Jan. 27. It will be from 8 to 11 p.m. and feature the band Biggin's Child, along with theatre games and various other entertainments. Cover price is $2. Coffee and animal crackers are free, and other refreshments will be for sale.

Auditions for the British comedy The Importance of Being Earnest will be held at the theatre on January 28 and 29. Audition times are: Sunday, Jan. 28, noon-2 p.m. and 5-6 p.m.; and Monday, Jan. 29, 7-9 p.m.

Nine actors are needed for the following roles: two males (ages late teens to early 20s), two females (ages late teens to early 20s), one middle-aged male (30s-50s), one middle-aged female (30s-50s), two older males (ages 50-plus), and one older female (age 50-plus). Persons who cannot attend one of the audition times but would still like to try out should call the theatre and leave a message. Performances are scheduled for the second and third weeks of March.

Sunday, Jan. 28, is also earmarked for a play reading, which will begin at 2 p.m. and is open to the public. The play is the sequel to the popular production Smoke on the Mountain, which the theatre performed in 1999. "If you'd like to know what happened to the Sanders family from Smoke, you may want to attend this reading and give your input on whether or not the theatre should consider this play for production," Avery said.

Auditions are scheduled for all interested students from Southern High School for the play Fools by Neil Simon on February 2 from 7 to 9 p.m.; February 3, from 9 to 11 a.m; and on February 4 from 1 to 3 p.m. Only students from SHS are eligible to try out. Interested students who cannot attend one of these auditions may contact Avery to schedule an audition. The production is tentatively scheduled for the first week of April.

A Malfunction

My Gameboy has malfunctioned.
My Sega has gone berserk.
When I inserted Sonic 3,
It showed a bookstore clerk.

My computer has a virus.
And when I turn on the screen,
The only thing that will appear
Is a big lima bean.

The TV's antenna is twisted,
The radio is cooked.
I guess I'll just sit right here,
And start to read this book.

The town of Friendsville will hold its municipal election on Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the town hall. Those who have filed to run for a seat on the town council are: Herschel Allen III, Wayne Friend, Edward Kelley, and Robert Sines. Current council members Shirley Metheny and Jess Whittemore announced that they will be seeking re-election as write-in candidates.

Residents are reminded that all municipal real estate and personal taxes not paid to date are considered delinquent and will be included in the annual Certification of Taxes Due Report, which is to be submitted to the county treasurer for inclusion in the tax sale. If any local property owner has questions regarding tax accounts, the clerk-treasurer can be contacted at 301-746-5847.

The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council will be held Monday, Feb. 5, at the town hall.

On a Personal Note
by Lucretia Sines

I would like to thank everyone who has taken the time to comment on my "year-end happenings" in the Friendsville News. I am very happy that it was appreciated. Now with Valentines Day fast approaching, I am in search of a "Sweetheart of a Story" from anyone who has one to tell. February 14th is the time of romance, but it can also be a sweet Valentine gesture from a parent, sibling, or friend. So if you have a special memory, please share it with us. I can be contacted at 301-746-5933.

The following was handed to me as a way to show her appreciation to a friend, Ellen Humberson, who is dearly cared about. The writer wishes to remain anonymous:

I first met this lady when I was 16 and went to her home when a school picnic was rained out. She gave me dry clothes to go home in. The word "gave" is an important part of describing her life and my relationship with her. I am now 70 and she is 90, and is still giving to me.

If you visit her, when you leave she will ask, "What can I give you? Let me give you something."

When I married and started a home of my own, I moved two doors up from her, and our relationship continued and grew. I have gone to her for advice, love, and compassion, and always came away rewarded.

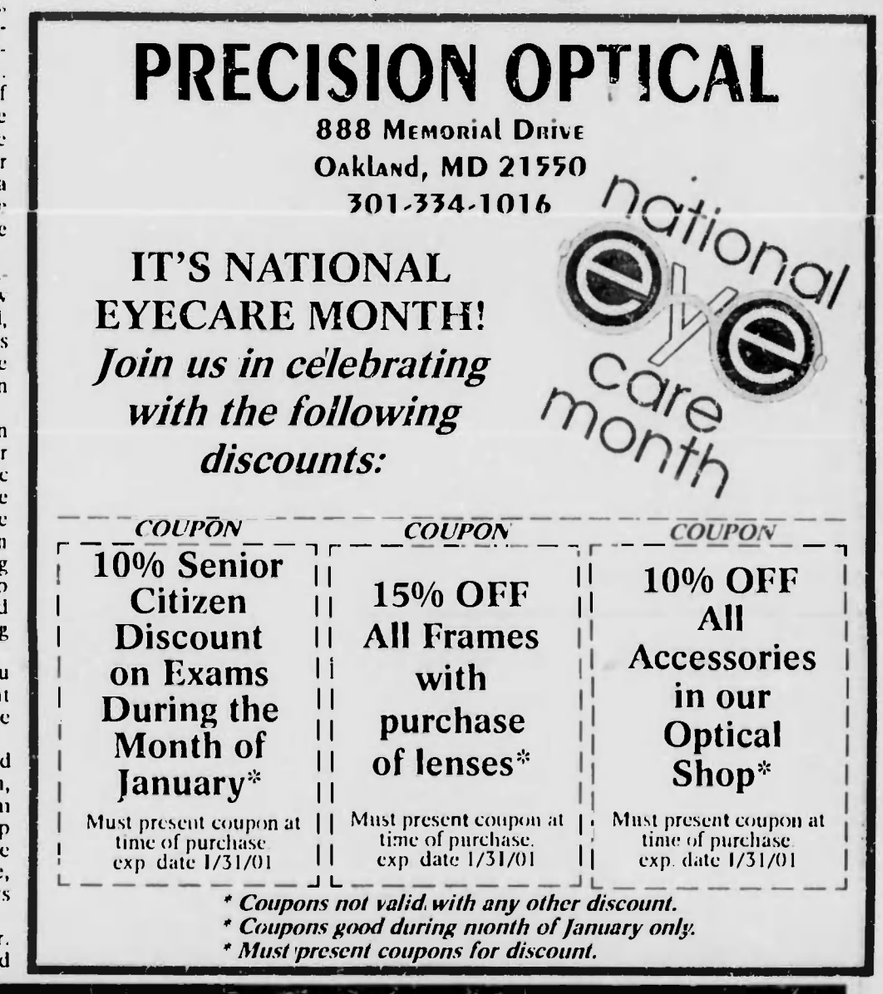
This lady is a survivor. Over the years, she has had two strokes, from which she was unable to speak or move her right side, a heart attack, placement of a pacemaker, and a broken arm and leg. While enduring all this, she has also coped with the loss of a son, granddaughter, husband of 60 years, five brothers, and her only sister.

The church has been an important part of who she is, and she presently serves as president of the Ladies group.

Thanksgiving, Christmas, and all holidays are celebrated in her home, with her cooking the meal for all the families. She goes to the beauty parlor on Saturday (she drives herself), comes home, and does the normal housework that housewives do to keep a six-room house.

I continue to go to her and say "Hold me, I need a hug," and that is what I get. This lady sets an example for anyone to follow, and our town is proud to say she belongs to us. A remarkable lady and my friend, God bless her!

STUDENTS SUPPORT HOUSE OF HOPE - Students of Broad Ford Elementary School conducted a food drive during the months of November and December to support the House of Hope. They collected canned and dried food items as part of their character education studies involving the traits of "caring and giving." They met their goal of collecting one food item per student in the school, as over 600 were collected from the student body of 506. Pictured above are the Character Club members who helped count and deliver the food items. In front, from left, are: Stefany Glotfelty, Kristen Gatto, and Chris Shue. In the second row are: Matt Paugh, Torie Boaley, Tricia Martin, and Robbie Mayle. Not present for the photo was Tommie Reams.



Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

It seems as if the rage around this part of Bittinger recently is physical fitness and/or running. Beside our marathon woman, Tesa Whittemore, my brother, Rodney Glotfelty, and his wife Marci also got bit by that bug. After months of working on the treadmill and also on the road, they were among about 160-some types who participated in the Snowflake Race at Deep Creek Lake State Park benefiting the Big Brothers Big Sisters program. Marci finished third in her age category, and Rodney was just pleased that he finished. Even our friend, Steve Sherrard, who is into the running big time, did not place. The race was appropriately named since Saturday there was almost a steady falling of snow and sleet, causing slick conditions. Rodney said he was just glad that he did not fall down. They enjoyed more than the race itself the post-race dinner at Uno's.

Maddy Whittemore recently accompanied her big brother, Greg Whittemore, on a weeklong trip to Las Vegas.

My youngest daughter Meredith celebrated her 10th birthday on Friday, the 19th. She was joined by her two good buddies, Hannah Avis and Megan Voelkel, for a sewing lesson on Saturday with Thelma Emory (bless her heart). They made some things for Caitlin's favorite doll, Sally: a quilt, pillow, and a rug, which was perfect since I found a set of antique wicker furniture for Sally at a yard sale last summer. I gave it to her for Christmas. Recently, Claire sewed a little robe for Sally. The final birthday event for Mere was a cousin birthday party on Sunday afternoon at her Gram's house.

We also celebrated the birthday of my cousin, Courtney Englar. His brother Mike, from Westminster, also came up to lend a hand on the finishing touch on Courtney's new house, which is almost ready to move into.

The best thing I know around here is that we eliminated a bad problem with Claire's dog Boo. She had the worst smelling breath I ever smelled, and today, Claire found a stick caught between her jaws. As soon as she removed it we could sense instant improvement. Thank goodness, because when she panted nearby it was unbearable.

Also some very good news is that all three of my girls' 4-H record books are now completed, two days ahead of the deadline!

Last weekend, our globe-trotting computer expert, Joe Volinakis, breezed up one day before he was due to fly out for Egypt again. He does get to see the work, but he has more nerve than I, living in the Mideast these days.

Another regular visitor over the year, Don Powell, one of Barry's friends from college, told me about his recent trip to Hawaii. He and his friend visited a lava flow under a full moon and toasted marshmallows over the lava. How cool (or maybe hot) that is.

Couldn't be more different than the scene of winter in Garrett County just now. Last week the snow cover half melted, and what was left was dirty and shabby and in no way like a Christmas card. But the end of last week saw new snow, and Meredith got her birthday off from school on Friday, and the snow just kept on falling. I guess we got a new layer of almost a foot of new snow. Once again Bittinger is a winter wonderland. Personally, I would rather see some greens and some flowers, but we will have to wait for about another three months or more.

The Poholsky basement turned into a street of Venice, as a group of 9th grade students did a video tape of Act II, scene 7 and 9, of Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice. Mrs. Delan's students, including Torrey Poholsky, Robbie Glotfelty, Steve Rounds, and Hiada McMillian, did the whole nine yards of the set, props, and costumes. Sally told me it was quite a production.

I remember very clearly when I was in the 9th or 10th grade and studied The Merchant of Venice. I still can remember the clump of lines I memorized, with Portia saying, "The quality of mercy is twice blessed, it blesses the giver and the receiver. It drops like gentle rain from heaven." I am not quite sure whether that last part is right or not. Still, even if I am only half right it has been 30 years ago or so. I did learn enough from Mr. Bill Carlson, who is now Northern Middle School principal and was an excellent English teacher, that I just breezed through an upper-level Shakespeare course in college. I got the only "A" in the whole class. Actually I think I pretty much got the right words, but maybe switched them around.

I took a break from trying to finish this column to start dinner, and at the stove I remembered where I went wrong. Here is my second try. "The quality of mercy is not strained; it dropeth like the gentle rain from heaven upon the place beneath. It is twice blessed! It blesseth him that gives and him that takes." This is closer than my first try, but I am still not sure that is 100% right. I have not read that play since 1973 and my copy of the Complete Works of Shakespeare is in my basement in a box.

"I BET WE HAVE A MILLION PENNIES," said one young student at Accident Elementary School, where a fund-drive was held in December to benefit The Republican newspaper's Warm the Children (WTC) campaign. While not quite a million pennies came in, about 3,410 did, along with other contributions, making the total donation to the program $277. Teacher Cindy Stanton's first graders not only worked on collecting the donations, but also honed their math skills by learning about counting in tens. Fifth graders in Angie Rush's class helped the first graders count stacked groups of ten to help reinforce the math skills of place value and addition. Stanton expressed special thanks to Jason Rush of First United Bank & Trust for doing a final count of the coppers. These photographs were taken as the fifth graders assisted their younger peers in the counting exercises. In the picture above, from left, are Mandy Fazenbaker, Derrick Maust, Dustin Platter, Travis VanSickle, Matthew Sisler, and Jessica Yutzy. Pictured below, same order, are Kevin Haonftling, Rosalie Coffren, Kieraten Butler, Karl Meyer, and Kasey Fratz. "We think it's great that the kids have gotten so involved in this project," said Mary McEwen, WTC coordinator. "We send them our warmest thanks."

Recent Activities Held At Crellin Comm. Building

A bake sale was held on Dec. 1, 2000, during the Hometown Christmas celebration in Oakland to benefit ongoing renovations at the Crellin Community Building. According to the Crellin Community Building Association's president, Cathy Estill, many people contributed by donating baked goods, and their time preparing the items, and by coming out to support the cause with their time and energy. Estill said the group is very pleased with the money raised, along with the 50/50 drawing that took place that same evening. The winner of the 50/50 drawing was Bob Gnegy, who donated his winnings back to the organization. Estill said the group also appreciated Gnegy for supplying his place of business (Snowflake Floor Covering) to be used as setup for the bake sale.

A Christmas party was held on Dec. 14 at the Crellin Community Building, consisting of Christmas caroling, refreshments, a visit from Santa with gifts for the children, and the opportunity for the children to have their picture taken with Santa. Estill said it was a very rewarding evening for all who participated.

The board members and I appreciate everything that was done in an effort to support our plans for renovations and to keep the building open for use in the future," Estill said. "That appreciation extends to all those who helped with the bake sale and participated in the Christmas party."

Extension Plans Seminar On Custom Raising Dairy Heifers

The word "specialization" is being tossed around in the dairy industry more often these days. This word came into being when expanding dairies were adding additional milk cows and found out that they were needing more space, additional crops, more labor, an increased number of replacement heifers, and more land on which to spread animal waste.

Faced with this situation, Garrett County Extension agent Jim Simms reported that many dairy farmers said, "If I need more space, feed and labor, maybe it is a good idea to hire someone to raise my heifers while I specialize in my milk cows."

In Simms's opinion many dairy businesses should be contracting with a grower to raise their replacement heifers. There are positive economic facts that support why a producer should have his heifers custom grown, Simms said. "The producers who are expanding and using all of their resources available will in all likelihood save money and probably will end up with healthier, better-developed heifers.

"There are also pros for the grower," Simms continued, "particularly those in the beef business. Raising contracted dairy heifers will provide economic stability, rather than the high-risk market in the beef industry."

To meet this need and the opportunity it presents, an informative seminar for the producer and the potential grower, titled "Custom Raising Dairy Heifers," will be held at the Garrett County Extension office on Tues., Feb. 13, from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The workshop will describe the reasons for entering a dairy heifer raising contract—both producer and grower; costs of raising a dairy heifer; forms of contracting; choosing a contract form; justifying the return to the grower, justifying the return to the producer; and writing the agreement.

Reservations for the workshop must be made by Mon., Feb. 5, by calling the Garrett County Extension office at 301-334-6960. Lunch will be "Dutch treat" or brown bag lunches brought by those attending.

Managing Farm Labor Seminar Set For 2/27

A seminar on managing farm labor will be held Tues., Feb. 27, from 10:15 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Garrett County Extension office. According to Extension agent Jim Simms, reservations must be made by Mon., Feb. 19, by calling the office at 301-334-6960. Those attending may bring a "brow bag" lunch or go "Dutch treat."

Simms said those attending will learn how to assess personnel needs, supervisory skills, and working conditions; develop job descriptions; match workers with job descriptions; hire employees who fit job descriptions; develop a thorough training program; train and reward employees; improve communication skills; schedule work effectively; train and coach employees; and evaluate employee performance and provide feedback.

"Perhaps the most important decision you make in the farm operation is hiring and keeping the right employee," said Simms. "Hiring a person not suited to your operation can be catastrophic. It does not take long for an employee to start a flare up of mastitis, ruin equipment, or harm livestock.

"Your second challenge will be retaining a good employee. As we are well aware, it is very difficult to compete with the prevailing wages that other industries offer. You must offer other amenities to offset the difference in the wage scale. A happy worker is the most productive.

"You all have more employees involved in the farm operation than you might think. Some examples are: other family members, the feed salesman, veterinarian, nutrition consultant, etc. Most of us normally do not think of these people as employees; however, they are receiving compensation for their inputs in your farm operation. The farm manager is responsible for coordinating everyone in obtaining the best possible rewards from the farm operation," concluded Simms.

Eggs Set For Broiler Chicks Down Slightly

Commercial hatcheries in the 15-state area surveyed by the National Ag Statistics Service set 180 million eggs in incubators during the week ending Dec. 23, 2000.

This was down slightly from the eggs set the corresponding week a year earlier. Average hatchability for chicks hatched during the week was 82%. Average hatchability is calculated by dividing chicks hatched during the week by eggs set three weeks earlier.

Broiler growers in the 15-state weekly program placed 145 million chicks for meat production during the week ending Dec. 23, 2000. Placements were up 1% from the comparable week in 1999. Cumulative placements from Jan. 2, 2000, through Dec. 23, 2000, were 7.33 billion, up 1% from the same period a year earlier.

Former UM Extension Youth Leader Dies In Thailand

A retired Howard County resident and former state 4-H youth leader for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, W. Sherard Wilson, died suddenly on Dec. 18, 2000, at age 93, following a heart attack, less than two months after arriving in Bangkok, Thailand, where he had planned to spend his final years with his "adopted" Thai family. His wife Lucy (Sue) died in 1998 after 60 years of marriage.

Wilson, who was truly a "citizen of the world," was well known by many in Garrett County as the person who established the State 4-H Conservation Camp, an annual one-week event held for many years at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Swanton, one of the first of its kind in the nation.

According to his friend and former Garrett County Agricultural Extension agent Jim McHenry, Wilson loved Garrett County, and he and his wife visited the area at least twice a year all the rest of their lives. McHenry said that many former 4-H members will remember Wilson for his love of the outdoors and his enthusiasm for teaching youth, which led to his establishment of the conservation camp, and his leadership in the 4-H marksmanship/gun safety programs that brought Maryland into the spotlight as a national leader in those programs.

Following graduation from the University of Maryland in 1932, Wilson taught vocational agriculture for two years at Baden High school (Prince George's County) and spent nine years as an assistant Extension agricultural agent in Howard and Harford counties, successively.

Wilson began his statewide 4-H youth leadership role in Maryland following return from military service with the U.S. Army during World War II.

While serving with the Extension Service, Wilson helped make Maryland a national leader by establishing a statewide 4-H leadership development camp held annually near Rocks State Park in Harford County.

During his tenure, thousands of youth from across the state descended on the University of Maryland campus at College Park each year for 4-H Club Week. He was a booster of Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging teams, which won nine national championships during his 13 years as state 4-H leader.

Wilson also was a leader in promoting racial diversity. He was instrumental in Maryland being the first state to include an Africa-American teenager in its four-person delegation to the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C., in 1960.

During his retirement years, Wilson honed his expertise as a professional-quality photographer, wood craftsman, and antique and glassware collector. He and his wife traveled around the world at least eight times, and they had visited Thailand on 14 occasions. His worldwide glasswork collection is now on sale at an antique shop in Easton, with profits designated for the Maryland 4-H Foundation at College Park.

Wilson's body was cremated in Thailand, and his ashes will be brought back to the United States by a member of his Thai family—tentatively in April—for interment next to his wife's grave near Glenelg (Howard County). A concurrent memorial service will be arranged by the Maryland 4-H Foundation. Memorial gifts may be sent to the foundation, c/o Sherard and Sue Wilson Memorial Endowment, 8020 Greenmead Dr., College Park, MD 20740-4000.

WORC Calls Beef Decision "Outrageous"

Outrageous. That's how Linda Rauser, the chair of the Western Organization of Resource Councils, summed up USDA's announcement yesterday that it has decided not to call for a referendum of the Beef Checkoff.

"WORC and the Livestock Marketing Association turned in more than 140,000 signatures on petitions demanding a vote. After doing nothing for more than a year, USDA threw together a contract with an accounting firm to verify whether enough of the signatures were valid, using a process that was not only designed to fail, but was a proven failure when it was used in the Pork Checkoff," she said.

"That process is at issue in our lawsuit against USDA over the Beef Checkoff referendum, and we expect it to be resolved there," she said.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service used PricewaterhouseCoopers to validate signatures. The accounting firm determined only 83,464 of the 127,92 signatures submitted were valid.

To succeed in calling for a referendum, 10% of producers needed to sign petitions during a 12-month period. That would have required 107,883 valid signatures, according to USDA.

In November of 1999, the Livestock Marketing Association said it had collected 146,000 names over an 18-month period.

Maryland With Pride

NFU Disappointed Over Recent Beef Checkoff Announcement

The National Farmers Union (NFU) today expressed its disappointment at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's announcement that not enough verifiable signatures from beef producers were secured in order to force a vote on the continuation of the beef checkoff program.

"This announcement is unfortunate because it means that producers will not have the opportunity to vote on whether they should approve or disapprove the beef checkoff program," said NFU president Leland Swenson.

"Producers are assessed one dollar for each animal sold. It is their dollar and they should be allowed the opportunity to say what happens with this program."

Farmers Union recommends a reform of all checkoff programs. These recommendations include:

- requiring that a vote on whether these programs should be continued or halted be conducted every four years in order to improve accountability;
- requiring adequate firewalls to ensure that the funds are spent for commodity promotion and research;
- and allowing producers to seek refunds.

Each commodity program has different rules allowing producers to vote on the continuation of checkoff programs. Consistent rules must be established across commodity programs to make petitions and voting more accessible and fair.

"Checkoff programs must be fair and accountable to the producer," said Swenson.

Bureau Calls EPA Pesticide Settlement A "Slap" To Farmers

A last-minute settlement between the Clinton administration and an environmental group of a 1999 lawsuit challenging the Environmental Protection Agency's implementation of the Food Quality Protection Act "represents a slap in the face to farmers and ranchers," the American Farm Bureau Federation said.

The settlement agreed to by the Natural Resources Defense Council and EPA "would allow EPA to bypass many of the procedural steps needed to ensure that decisions on pesticide registrations are based on science, not politics," AFBF president Bob Stallman said.

"The timing and deadlines surrounding EPA's settlement with NRDC deprive farmers and other formal petitioners in this suit of their ability to have any meaningful opportunity to review the proposal, let alone provide any substantive comment," said Stallman.

"EPA has effectively yielded to NRDC without giving America's farmers a fair chance to comment on how the settlement will affect their ability to produce safe and abundant food," the farm leader stressed.

In 1999, AFBF, the American Crop Protection Association and other industry groups sued EPA, claiming the agency used flawed assumptions and incomplete data when making pesticide regulatory decisions under the 1996 Food Quality Protection Act. The lawsuit also charged that EPA had failed to use customary regulatory rulemaking procedures before announcing its decisions.

Later that same year, NRDC separately sued EPA over the agency's implementation of FQPA, claiming the agency failed to meet deadlines in regulating specific classes of chemicals.

"For four-plus years EPA officials and others in the administration paid lip service to the notion that implementation of FQPA must be an open and transparent process, with opportunity for all affected parties to comment, and that the resulting decisions should be based on sound science," Stallman noted.

"This settlement belies that notion," he asserted. "It is unfortunate, but telling, that EPA has chosen to selectively settle just one of the FQPA lawsuits," said Stallman. "We have made several reasonable attempts to settle our suit almost from the beginning but have gotten nowhere. We should have been more cynical and realized that a decision this far-reaching would be made on this administration's last day in office."

Misunderstanding on the Nutrient Management Law

I would like to clarify a point of the Nutrient Management Law concerning the Nutrient Management Voucher. One of the requirements of the law is that anyone who spreads animal waste or commercial fertilizers on 10 acres or more must have a Nutrient Management Voucher. This voucher can be obtained by attending an educational seminar prescribed by the Maryland Department of Agriculture. I am responsible for offering the seminars. The following are the points that I need to clarify: 1) you do not need the voucher until January 1, 2002; 2) you do not need a voucher to purchase fertilizer. As I understand, the only time you would need to present the voucher is upon request by MDA. This situation would likely occur if you were selected for inspection of the nutrient management plan.

Where are You Throwing the Wood Ashes

There are a lot of wood ashes being generated this winter. A good place to spread the ashes is on your garden, providing the soil pH is low. Wood ashes have a value of 40% of agricultural lime in neutralizing soil acidity. This value is based on weight, not volume. Of course, wood ashes are much lighter.

Top Trade Concern Is Market Access

Although U.S. farm exports are rebounding, ag exports from competitors such as the European Union are rising at a faster rate. In order to boost U.S. farm exports and ensure producers have the market access they need to remain competitive in a growing, global economy, the United States must commit to "significant, sustained investment in market development," according to Agriculture Department senior economist Mike Dwyer.

Dwyer isn't the first, the only, or the last person in the U.S. agriculture industry to say this. American farmers and ranchers, many facing their fourth year of low commodity prices, have long been telling the federal government that more foreign markets are needed for the abundance of high-quality farm goods produced in this country each year.

The Clinton administration's successful push for permanent normal trade relations with China, a nation of 1.2 billion consumers, should prove to be an important component to end this downward commodity price trend.

But more work remains, including the launch and completion of a new round of World Trade Organization agriculture talks. This has been a consistent goal of U.S. trade representative Charlene Barshefsky.

Barshefsky this week, referring to a number of stumbling blocks between the United States and the EU, said those talks will only take place this year if the EU further opens its agricultural market to foreign competition. U.S. farmers agree that this is a cornerstone of increasing their exporting opportunities.

On the same day, USTR announced plans to begin an interagency review of possible environmental implications of the outcome of current WTO agriculture negotiations.

Without a doubt, environmental impacts are important. Farmers and ranchers whose very livelihood is strongly linked to even the most minute environmental alterations know that—probably better than the officials chosen to perform these reviews.

The expansion of trade comes with many implications. In addition to the environmental aspects, there are cultural and political considerations. But those considerations should not be the "make 'em or break 'em" aspects of a trade deal.

Increased trade improves the financial stability and longevity of farmers and ranchers, their families, employees and communities. The success of rural producers has a ripple effect that reaches all the way to urban consumers, both domestic and foreign. That should be a top consideration in all trade talks.

Preston County Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
300 Tunnelton St., Kingwood, WV 26537

Crop Disaster Program Sign-up Begins

The USDA Farm Service Agency is now accepting applications for the new Crop Disaster Program (CDP), announced Eric McCartney, county executive director of the Preston County FSA office. The CDP provides financial assistance to farmers who are eligible for compensation for crop losses directly attributed to adverse weather and related conditions.

"Natural disasters are a constant threat to our farmers," said McCartney. "This program will help those who suffered losses last year. The sign up began on Jan. 18, and the end of the sign-up period will be announced at a later date, once the program regulations are published in the Federal Register," he said.

According to McCartney, 2000 CDP payments will be calculated at 65 percent of the county rate for insured and uninsurable crops. For crops that are insurable in the county (corn, oats, wheat), but for which the producer did not purchase insurance, the payment will be calculated at 60 percent of the county rate.

"Funding is not limited for the 2000 CDP, unlike last year," said McCartney. "Because it was fully funded, farmers will receive 100 percent of the final calculated payments as soon as program regulations are published--providing their county FSA committee has approved their CCC-557 (application for benefits) and the producer has provided all the necessary program documentation."

The secretary of agriculture is authorized to provide disaster assistance through the CDP by the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2001, Pub. L. 106-387.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting the Preston County FSA Office at 300 Tunnelton Street, Kingwood, or by calling 304-429-1923. Fax us at 304-329-3056. E-mail addresses for the office staff will be given on request.

Here's Leo's West Wing parable for Josh

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

John Spencer

Q: The "Noel" episode of The West Wing had one of the most beautiful Christmas messages we've ever heard in a story Leo tells Josh to help him deal with his depression. Could you reprint it, please? –Mr. and Mrs. Julius Johnson, New Castle, Pa.

A: With pleasure. For those who missed the episode, Josh (Bradley Whitford) suffered a breakdown following his near-death experience earlier this season. Leo (John Spencer), a recovering alcoholic, offered Josh his support by recounting this parable:

"This guy's walking down the street when he falls in a hole. The walls are so steep he can't get out. A doctor passes by, and the guy shouts up, 'Hey, you, can you help me out?' The doctor writes a prescription, throws it down in the hole and moves on.

"Then a priest comes along, and the guy shouts up, 'Father, I'm down in this hole! Can you help me out?' The priest writes a prayer, throws it down in the hole and moves on.

"Then a friend walks by. 'Hey, Joe, it's me! Can you help me out?' And the friend jumps in the hole. Our guy says, 'Are you nuts? Now we're both down here!'

"The friend says, 'Yeah, but I've been down here before – and I know the way out.'"

Q: How long were Emergency! stars Julie London and Bobby Troup married? –Fran Carlson, Bonita Springs, Fla.

A: London and Troup were married from 1959 until his death in February 1999. London died last October.

Q: Regarding recent interest in The Two Worlds of Jennie Logan, I bought a copy several years ago from Fries Home Video, 6922 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90028. –Janet Cooney, New Prague, Minn.

A: Thanks for writing, Janet. Due to the unprecedented interest in this particular title, I am breaking with our usual policy and printing this information for those who want to try it. Please note, however – and I cannot emphasize this strongly enough – that the volume of mail we receive makes it impossible for TV Pipeline to perform video searches for readers.

Q: What happened to Larry Riley, who played Frank Williams on Knots Landing? –Judie Adams, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A: Riley succumbed to AIDS on June 6, 1992. He was 39.

Q: My friend insists that the mother on Malcolm in the Middle is played by Patricia Richardson of Home Improvement. Is he right, or do the actresses just look alike? –Michael Luppino, Flint, Mich.

A: Neither. Apart from dark hair color, Jane Kaczmarek of Malcolm looks very little like Richardson.

"Hot dog!...well, maybe not exactly 'hot'...but if global warming doesn't head this way any time soon, at least I'll stay warm in my 'dogloo'; and my fur coat is keeping me toasty outdoors."

Our Creator made sure our canine friend's coat grew even thicker than usual to protect him in this chilly habitat, for God loves all of His creatures. Luke 24 tells us, "Consider the ravens: they neither reap nor sow... and yet God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds!"

Is it not soul-warming to have the assurance that our Father knows our needs even before we ask; that He will protect us and help us find a solution to any challenge if we let Him?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DON'T BE STUPID!

January 28, 2000

Background Scripture:
Luke 16
Devotional Reading:
Luke 12:15-21

Ten years ago, Valere and I were victims of pickpockets in Lisbon, Portugal. Riding a streetcar, we were packed tightly with a number of passengers. When we returned to our hotel, we found that they had taken my cash and Valere's wallet in her purse. At first we couldn't believe it.

Whoever stole Valere's wallet had managed what seemed an impossible feat: they had gotten up under her cape, somehow under or through her jacket and into her purse that was closed with a clasp. All the while we were quite unaware. We couldn't help feeling nothing that such bad people could be so good at the bad they were doing.

When we look at Luke 16:1-13, we find this a different kind of parable than most. While the parable of the Good Samaritan is a story of a good example, that of the Dishonest Steward is not. The "rich man" in the parable is not God or Christ and the follower of Jesus is NOT intended to behave as the Dishonest Steward did.

Sons Of Light

So this is not a parable of example but of analogy. They key is in 16:8b: "for the sons of this world are wiser in their own generation than the sons of light." The 'sons of the world' are the worldly people who are dedicated to material rather than spiritual values. The 'sons of light' are those who are not of the world, but for a time to live in it. All too often they are inept in living in the here and now, while, the 'sons of the world,' like our pickpockets, are often very good at what they do. Frequently they are more dedicated to their ignoble ends than are the 'sons of light' to their spiritual ends.

All of Luke 16 is about the right use of material wealth. Just because we have a spiritual destiny, doesn't mean that the followers of Jesus can be indifferent or negligent in the way that they use material wealth. Although this world is not our final destination, there is nothing that says we have to be stupid in the way we live while we are here. Even when Jesus says, "And I tell you, make friends for yourselves by means of unrighteous mammon, so that when it fails they may receive you into the eternal habitations," (16:9), he not telling us to use our material possessions to buy friends in the material world, but to better qualify ourselves for the life "in the eternal habitations.".

LOVERS OF MONEY

The follower of Jesus must not love money itself, but he or she should not fail to use it for good purposes. "The Pharisees, who were lovers of money, heard all this," Luke tells us. That is the problem: loving money and material wealth to the point that it rules us rather than the other way around. "No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon" (16:13). In these words Jesus once again throws down the challenge of radical discipleship serve him and him alone!

The Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus (16:19-31) is another demonstration, this time by bad example. The Rich Man was apparently good at amassing and keeping his wealth. The principles by which he lived assured him of a high old time here on earth. Lazarus, by contrast, was one of the 'children of light'. Actually, Lazarus presented the Rich Man with an opportunity to use his wealth for long-run security. But he passed up his chance. In the long run, he paid a terrible price for his worldly stewardship.

In John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, we find this demonstrated in three characters: Worldly-Wiseman is a 'son of darkness,' a man who, like the dishonest steward, skillfully feathered his earthly nest. He planned for the future, but it was the wrong future, a future outside the Celestial City. Ignorance, on the other hand, was a Christian, but he had no zeal, no zest for life, no involvement in this world. Detached from the world, he was amazed to find the gates of the Celestial City closed against him. Christian, however, sought God with the same dedication and energy with which others seek wealth and success, and the gates of the Celestial City were opened to him.

Where is it written that the followers of Jesus Christ have to be inept at living in this world, leaving it by default to the 'sons of darkness'?

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

The definition of American art pottery is constantly expanding. In the 1970s, it referred to the work of a limited group of potteries working before the 1930s. As time has passed, the pottery made by other factories has been added to the list.

Now the term refers to potteries working into the 1960s. The Red Wing Pottery of Red Wing, Minn., opened in 1878, making crocks and pots. In the 1920s, the factory started making a form of art pottery. Later, Red Wing made dinnerware and florist ware. The company closed in 1967.

Today, collectors seek the well-designed art-pottery figurines and vases by industrial designers like Belle Kogan and ceramic artists like Charles Murphy. Red Wing's best pieces, with streamlined shapes and stylized figures, were ahead of their time.

Glazes were also in the modern taste and included textures, muted colors and geometric designs. Even some of the dinnerware designed by Murphy or the famous Eva Zeisel are wanted by art-pottery collectors.

Red Wing is almost always marked with the famous wing mark or its name. It was sold in department stores in all parts of the country, so look for undiscovered pieces at house sales.

Q: What is a cellaret? I've seen the word in articles in antiques newspapers.

A: The term "cellaret" seems to have originated around the middle of the 18th century. It refers to a small piece of wooden furniture used to store bottles of wine. Most cellarets (called "cellars" until about 1750) have individual, lead-lined compartments to keep wine bottles cool. Many have legs with wheels or rollers so the wine can be wheeled around the table. Today, some people call any piece of furniture or silver designed to hold wine bottles a cellaret.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Base jumping (parachute jumping from fixed objects such as cliffs, buildings and bridges) seems to be all over the place these days. Magazines, commercials and movies have all depicted this extreme sport. Most people think BASE jumping is a recent invention, but it's been around for quite a while. In 1912 Frederick Law jumped off the Statue of Liberty, and in 1917 Major Orde Lees and the Honorable Lieutenant Bowen jumped off the Tower Bridge in London. All three landed safely with their parachutes, Lee and Bowen landed in the Thames River.

Taming the tiger in your pussycat

Q: My cat keeps me up most nights with her constant meowing, hissing and dashing from room to room. What's wrong with her? Is there some medicauon I can get from the vet to stop it?

A: There's nothing wrong with your cat — she's just doing what comes naturally. In the wild, the housecat's larger cousins, tigers and panthers and such, tend to hunt at night; your cat is reflecting this trait.

Of course, understanding this fact won't replace a night of lost sleep. However, you can curtail your cat's level of activity after bedtime. The key is to tire her out beforehand.

Play a game with the cat for at least 10 minutes, once or twice in the afternoon and shortly before you retire. This will help her work off some of the energy she has stored up during a long day of napping. Then, leave her with an assortment of toys so that she can entertain herself through the night.

Some cats don't respond as quickly to a few minutes of playtime; they may curl up in the corner for an hour or so, only to begin dashing around the house again, hissing and meowing on their imaginary hunt.

In this case, a bit of training is necessary. Continue to play games with your cat in the evening. When you are ready for bed, place the cat in a laundry room or bathroom overnight. (Make sure she has water and a litter box available.) Toss a towel or piece of clothing that has your scent onto the floor.

According to authors Dr. Larry Lachman and Frank Mickadeit in their book, "Cats on the Counter," two to eight weeks of overnight confinement should help your cat learn that nighttime is sleep time — or at least, a settled period.

Medication, in the form of an anti-anxiety drug, is rarely needed for this common behavior. However, if the above techniques don't curtail nighttime meowing and hunting, then talk to the vet about taking this step.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

CASSELMAN VALLEY SPORTSMAN'S CLUB

The Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club will hold a running deer shooting match this Saturday, Jan. 27. The match will begin at 1 p.m. and will be held at the Sportsman's Club, located along National Pike west of Grantsville.

A .22 match will also be held on January 28, beginning at 1 p.m. The match will have separate divisions for women, men, and junior shooters. The public is welcome to participate in both matches.

NORTHERN MAT CLUB

Twenty members of the Northern Mat Club traveled to Pennsylvania on Saturday to participate in the Conemaugh Township wrestling tournament.

Taking first place were Brock Glotfelty and Casey Kamp. Second places were captured by Adam Finzel, Brandon Opel, Michael Wolfe, Randall Frantz, Cody Kamp, Robert Stark, and Nathan Payne. Jason Opel, Ryan Finzel, and Jason Warnick placed third in their divisions, while Cooper Corley, Zach Watkins, Josh Duckworth and Nick Payne placed fourth. Additional participants in the tournament were Carson Kamp, Jeff Beachy, Ryan Winebrenner, and Randy Wilhelm.

The practice schedule for the middle school division will be Wednesday, Jan. 31, from 4 to 5:30 p.m., and on Thursday, Feb. 1, from 4 to 5:30 p.m.

The next tournament for the club will be in Berlin, Pa., on February 3.

Wrestling coach Randy Glotfelty noted that the benefit dance held Saturday for the club was a "huge success," despite the severe winter weather.

BOY SCOUTS

Troop #53 of the Boy Scouts held a special meeting on January 21, with seven Scouts in attendance. Anthony Lewis, Adam Rounds, Ben Margroff, Craig Margroff, and Brooks DuBose were recognized for participating in the Frozen First Aid Meet held at New Germany State Park on Saturday. The Scouts explained hypothermia and discussed different techniques for preventing and treating it.

The Scouts discussed selling popcorn for their fund-raising activity and hope to distribute sales sheets as soon as possible.

An election was held for senior patrol leader, with Adam Rounds being declared the winner. Elections for other positions will be held at a later date.

The next meeting scheduled for January 28 has been canceled and moved to February 4, at the United Church of Christ in Grantsville at 6 p.m.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren youth will meet at the church next Wednesday, Jan. 31, at 7 p.m. All youth are encouraged and invited to attend. The youth meet every other Wednesday evening to work on crafts and participate in different activities each month.

Pilot's Body Discovered; Search Ends

After nearly a weeklong search for a missing pilot and his plane, the Civil Air Patrol ground crew located the pilot's body and his plane in the area about one mile from the Marion and Taylor county border in West Virginia.

The Federal Aviation Administration identified the pilot as Frank Glonek, 69, of Lacey, N.J. He was flying a single-engine Whitman Tailwind Experimental aircraft, and was alone when he left the Allaire Airport in Farmingdale, N.J., last Monday headed for the Mason County airport in Point Pleasant, W.Va.

Searchers said their job was made more difficult because the plane was mostly white and blended into the snowy landscape.

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board were scheduled to arrive and take over the investigation at the beginning of this week.

MAINTAINING A GRIP on the mountaintop is Old Man Winter, although temperatures have moderated somewhat the past week and there has been little accumulation of new snow. Rains arrived Monday, but quickly turned solid again, as the mercury resumed its place below the 32-degree level. The forecast calls for a few inches of snow tonight and tomorrow, much to the delight of skiers and snowmobilers. Photo by John McEwen.

Oakland Man Jailed Twice In Two-Week Span

An Oakland man has been arrested twice over the past two weeks by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on a variety of charges stemming from separate investigations.

Delmos Russell Warnick Jr., 19, was arrested Sunday in connection with a pair of alleged break-ins at a residence in the 2200 block of Oakland Sang Run Road that took place over the weekend. Two Midland hand-held CB radios, valued at $80 each, and $65 in change were taken from the home.

Some of the stolen material was reportedly recovered from Warnick's vehicle, and he was jailed on charges of first- and second-degree burglary, misdemeanor theft, and trespassing. He was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center after he posted a $5,000 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

Warnick's Sunday incarceration followed his Jan. 18 arrest by sheriff's deputies who were investigating several incidents that took place this summer. Over several occasions from early July into early August, Warnick reportedly harassed a family that resides along

Money Sought For Nursing Home Residents

District 1 Senator John Hafer recently introduced a bill in the Maryland General Assembly asking for an increase in the personal needs allowance for nursing home residents who receive assistance from Medicaid.

"The personal needs allowance of $40 a month has not been raised since 1987 and has not kept up with inflation," said Hafer. Senate Bill 156 asks for the personal needs allowance to be raised from $40 to $60 a month and includes an index for cost of living increases.

"Nursing home residents use the personal needs allowance (PNA) to buy clothing, go to the hair dresser or barber, pay for cable TV, telephone, newspapers, and all other personal items," Hafer said. "Some residents have family members that are financially able to help, but several do not. Many of these once hard-working citizens are now unable to even buy a soda with the rate being so low."

Senate Bill 156 has been assigned to the Finance Committee and will be heard on Wednesday, Feb. 7, at 1 p.m. Persons interested in testifying at the hearing should call Hafer's Annapolis office at 1-800-492-7122, extension 3565. Also, those interested in expressing support for the bill may call the Finance Committee at 1-800-492-7122, extension 3677.

PG County Woman Killed In Collision Near Keyser's Ridge

A head-on collision on U.S. Route 219 just south of Keyser's Ridge Saturday morning resulted in the death of Silver Spring resident Anita Lynne Machlin, 49, a passenger in one of the vehicles. Seven other persons involved in the two-vehicle accident were seriously injured, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack, who are continuing to investigate the incident.

The 10:22 a.m. accident occurred as a southbound 2000 Chevrolet Malibu sedan operated by Jacob Wayne Forney, 25, Severn, attempted to pass a tractor-trailer truck on what police described as a snow-covered roadway, with the visibility reduced by high winds and blowing snow. Forney's sedan collided head-on with a northbound 1989 Chevrolet S-10 pick-up truck operated by Jack Machlin, 57, Silver Spring, which also contained Anita Machlin and a third passenger, Erin Lynne Machlin, 20, also of Silver Spring.

Forney and Jack Machlin were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital in critical condition and were subsequently transferred to the R. Adams Shock Trauma Center of the University of Maryland Medical System in Baltimore. Both remain hospitalized there, listed in serious but stable condition.

Erin Machlin and the four passengers in Forney's Mahbu — George Walter Davis, 41, and Roberta Sue Markley, 25, both of Pasadena, Jeremy Addison Brookman, 24, Jessup, and a 13-year-old juvenile male — were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where they were admitted in serious condition. Each of those subjects has since been discharged.

The Northern Garrett Rescue Squad and the Salisbury (Pa.) Ambulance Service made the patient transports. The Accident Volunteer Fire Department and Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the accident scene.

Tfc. Eric Derham is continuing to investigate the accident, and at this point no charges have been filed. The issue of charges will be decided upon the completion of the MSP investigation and a conference with the Garrett County state's attorney.

Jennings Head Start To Reopen

The Jennings Head Start Center is set to reopen on Feb. 12, following results from the air quality tests being released by the Garrett County Community Action Committee this week, according to Duane Yoder, president of Community Action.

Yoder stated that the report from Jenkins Environmental Inc. and earlier testing completed by the Garrett County Health Department and Naylor's Contracting did not reveal contamination with fungi or bacteria. He also stated that tests for carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, and formaldehyde completed earlier by Naylor's and the health department did not show unusually high or unacceptable levels.

Testing on the air quality at the Jennings facility was ordered after parents of Head Start children and staff at the center complained of a pattern of symptoms and illnesses. The center was closed in December and children relocated to Maranatha Assembly of God Church in Grantsville.

Yoder stated that the decision to reopen the center is based on evidence and recommendations common in each of the test results. Yoder noted that there was no evidence reported of unacceptably high risk factors. "A unanimous recommendation was that the building

Four Arrested For Drugs After Traffic Stop

Four Erie, Pa., men were arrested Friday afternoon on a variety of drug charges after their vehicle was clocked traveling at 85 miles per hour along Interstate 68 in the Avilton area, according to the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack.

Michael J. Daniels and Josha M. Baden, both 19, and Michael J. Baker and Samuel A. Donahue, both 18, each face charges of possession of marijuana, Ketamine, Alprazom, and drug paraphernalia. The odor of burnt marijuana was detected by troopers who had stopped the defendants' vehicle at 2:50 p.m. along eastbound I-68 at Green Lantern Road. A search of the driver uncovered marijuana hidden in his clothing, and a vehicle search located packs of marijuana and the two prescription drugs.

The four defendants were subsequently released on their own recognizance.

Three subjects were arrested last night after a traffic stop on westbound I-68 one mile east of the West Virginia state line. A 1997 Subaru operated by Joseph Paul Otto, 18, Friendsville, was stopped at 1:20 a.m. for failing to stay

Transportation Project Receives $67,994 Grant

The Maryland Health Care Foundation awarded grants this week to seven programs across the state to improve access to preventive and primary health care for rural residents who are uninsured or underinsured. As the Medical Transportation Voucher Project (MTVP), Garrett County received $67,994 of the total grant funds of $384,820.

The MTVP, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, in partnership with its Healthy Families Garrett County program, will provide transportation vouchers to low-income seniors, children and their families, uninsured households, and homebound persons to access a wide range of programs.

This project will build on existing Early Childhood/Early Intervention partnerships to provide health care transportation in areas where lack of transportation is a barrier to accessing health care. Access to comprehensive, low cost, preventive and primary care services is a critical need in rural areas. According to a 1997 national study by the federal Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, uninsured rates in rural areas are 20 percent higher than in urban areas, and rural uninsured persons have longer periods without insurance.

The seven programs will address key barriers to primary health care in rural areas, including the lack of access caused by geography and transportation problems, by shortages of available health care providers, and by lack of outreach and case management services. Practicing health care providers are in short supply in most rural areas of the state. The federal governu-

County Asked To Drop Fee For Semi-Annual Tax Pymt.

A number of county department heads reported to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners this week during the monthly staff meeting, among them Garrett County Treasurer Patty Glover, who, on behalf of a number of taxpayers, has asked the commissioners to consider eliminating the service charge incurred when taxpayers choose to pay their county taxes on a twice-yearly basis.

Glover has asked that the board consider dropping that fee now applied to any county taxpayer choosing the semi-annual payment option, because, she said, it seems to penalize those in the low and moderate income brackets.

Glover noted that six counties in Maryland, including Allegany, have now dropped that interest charge (a maximum of 1.65 percent applied to the second half of the bill). It is under each county's jurisdiction to choose to levy such a tax, she said.

Glover also informed the board that, as a result of the Truth in Taxation Act passed by Maryland's General Assembly last October, her office would be required again this year to print notices regarding that act on all the tax bills mailed out. Taxpayers will now be billed based on the full market value of their property, and according to Glover, the county tax rate will be adjusted accordingly.

Health Dept.

Garrett County health officer Rodney Glotfelty stated that the health department is ready to begin a number of programs, one of which is a dental program targeting children and pregnant women enrolled in the Maryland Children's Health Program. Currently around 2,000 people in the county qualify under that program, he said.

Toward that end, a Cumberland-based dentist, Dr. George Papidimitriou, has been recruited, reported Glotfelty, and will begin seeing patients on Feb. 20. The health department will also work with a group of area dentists to help with appointments and other pertinent paperwork and to coordinate the patients' needs. More information about the dental program may be obtained by calling 301-334-1319.

Glotfelty reported about another program recently funded that will provide medical travel vouchers to other members of the families of qualifying patients who must travel for medical appointments. Currently, only the patient is provided with the voucher. He added that this program is a cooperative effort with Garrett County Community Action, and would prove especially helpful for adults who cannot keep medical appointments without leaving children behind. Vouchers can also be used for appointments with other health and welfare related agencies.

Yet another program to begin soon, said Glotfelty, is one that would allow home health nurses to draw blood from house-bound patients who, until now, would have had to be transported for such a procedure.

Glotfelty also reported that another grant will be utilized to implement a cancer prevention and diagnostic/screening program. The current program will be expanded to include more types of cancer screenings to those uninsured persons who qualify.

He noted that the program will be large in scope and will endeavor to promote cancer awareness and screening to the general public as well. He said that Cindy Kutchman, R.N., will be administering the program beginning in late February.

Finally, Glotfelty updated the board on the progress of the new health depart-

Friendsville Buildings Destroyed By Fire; Loss Set At $190,000

The cause of a fire that leveled a pair of adjoining storage buildings in Friendsville early Tuesday morning, resulting in an estimated loss of $190,000, remains under investigation by personnel from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office.

Volunteers from six area fire departments were summoned to 1001 Maple Street at 2:51 a.m. after fire was discovered in one of the buildings by a person delivering newspapers. By the time firefighters from Friendsville, Accident, Deep Creek, Grantsville, Addison, Pa., and Markleysburg, Pa., arrived on the scene, the larger of the two buildings was fully involved in flames and the fire had also spread to the smaller adjoining building.

The buildings were owned by Doris Frantz, who was in her house on the same property at the time of the fire, but was unaware of the fire until after firefighters were summoned.

The buildings housed a variety of farm machinery, parts, and equipment. Both buildings and all of the contents were declared a total loss by Steve Wendling and Ryan Chapman of the fire marshal's office.

Some 55 firefighters responded to the scene, and it took approximately 40 minutes to bring the blaze under control. Also responding was the Northern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

CHAMBER UNVEILS NEW DISPLAY - Among the exhibits on display at the annual PACE reception and breakfast in Annapolis last week, sponsored for Maryland legislators by Garrett and Allegany counties, was the new tourism display of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg is pictured above in front of the display, which will also be utilized at some 15 to 20 travel shows throughout a five-state area over the next four months. At the PACE events, the display had signage boasting that Garrett County has seven public lakes. "This modern, [illegible] display gives us the ability to change photos and signage, according to the type of show we are attending," stated Ken Wishnick, chamber president. "For example, when we're at a fly-fishing show, people want to see pictures of huge catches, and we [illegible] disappoint them."

BLAZE DESTROYS FRIENDSVILLE BUILDINGS - A fire of as yet unknown origin destroyed two adjacent storage buildings in Friendsville early Tuesday. Some 55 volunteer firefighters from several area departments responded to the 2:51 a.m. alarm and found one of the two structures fully engulfed in flames upon their arrival. The fire quickly spread to the second building. The loss has been estimated to be $190,000. The property is owned by Doris Frantz. See story for details.

Beauty Fund-Raiser Set To Help Ill Child

CHIANNE BOSLEY

"Cuts for Chianne," a benefit event involving haircuts, manicures, and massages, will be held at the Oakland Armory on Saturday, Feb. 17, beginning at noon.

Chianne Bosley, 2, Cumberland, has Down's syndrome and has recently been diagnosed with leukemia. While the treatment is being covered by medical insurance, the expense of traveling from Cumberland to Morgantown every month for Chianne's chemotherapy has caused a hardship on the young family. Chianne's parents, Cami and Darrin Bosley, have each taken a leave of absence from work to tend to their baby.

Kim Sanders, a local hair stylist, is organizing the fund-raiser to help offset the family's expenses in handling Chianne's illness. Sanders has marshaled the help of about 20 beauticians, two massage therapists, and two nail technicians for the event.

Participants may get a $5 hair cut by his/her choice of local hair stylists during the event. They may also get seated massages, $5 each, and/or mini-manicures, $5 each. For best results, persons are encouraged to make appointments for the day with the stylists of their choice. Interested persons are encouraged to call their beauticians to schedule a time slot.

In addition to the $5 options, a door prize will be awarded during the day, and raffles for other gifts will take place. Refreshments will be available for purchase. All proceeds from the event will be given to the Bosley family, Sanders said.

Persons who would rather simply donate to the family may do so by calling Sanders at 301-334-8129 or 301-334-2069.

Jailed Twice

Pleasant View Drive by entering the home through a window and taking coins, and by parking in front of the home and following family members on their travels. He was jailed on charges of first degree burglary, misdemeanor theft, and harassment, and later released when he posted a $15,000 bond.

Warnick's trial hearings are pending in Garrett County District Court.

In other sheriff's news, Darwin Harold Dimick Jr., 19, Oakland, was arrested on Jan. 17 on assault charges stemming from an incident at the S&S Market in Friendsville. Dimick is accused of arguing with a juvenile acquaintence in the store and twisting her arm behind her back in an attempt to get some money from her. When she switched the money to her other hand, Dimick allegedy pried her hand open, breaking one of her fingers in the process.

The victim required medical treatment at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and Dimick was arrested on first- and second-degree assault charges. He was later released when he posted a $5,000 bond.

A domestic altercation resulted in the arrest of Peter John Ligas III, 38, Oakland, on Jan 17. Ligas was charged with second degree assault after he reportedly threw his girlfriend against the wall of her Mtn. Lake Park apartment and hit her in the head. He was released from jail after posting a $5,000 bond.

Roy Lee Friend, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on Jan. 19 and charge with harrassment, telephone misuse through repeated phone calls, and failure to comply with a peace order. The deputy's report stated that Friend has allegedly been harrassing his ex-wife and her family on an ongoing basis for well over a year. He was released on his own recognizance under the condition that he cease contact with the victim.

DWI Arrests

Three subjects were charged by deputies this week with driving while intoxicated (DWI) or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs. They were Raymond Douglas Dewey, 53, McHenry, Donald Richard Doman, 39, Mtn. Lake Park, and Paul Douglas Friend, 19, Loch Lynn.

Single-Vehicle Mishaps Result In Minor Injuries

A pair of separate single-vehicle accidents on opposite ends of the county resulted in minor injuries to the respective drivers this week, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack. No charges were filed in either accident.

Sheriff's deputies investigated an 8:40 p.m. accident Tuesday along Garrett Highway, one mile north of Ben DeWitt Road. A 1997 Chevrolet pick-up truck operated by David Allen Sypolt, 38, Eglon, W.Va., traveled off the road, into a snowdrift, and overturned. The truck skidded on its top for a short distance along the roadway. Sypolt was treated at the scene by personnel from the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Yesterday state troopers investigated an 8:10 a.m. accident along Friendsville Road just south of Fearer Road that occurred when a 1992 Chevrolet Geo operated by Regina Ann Johnson, 39, Friendsville, went out of control in a curve. Johnson required transport by the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted on the scene.

SHS WINNERS OF THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE MAP CONTEST — Two Southern High School freshmen predicted the outcome by one vote and beat nearly 100 students who participated in the contest designed by Civics teachor LuAnn Watson and AP (advanced placement) government and politics teacher Dave Bender. Willie Davis and Robbie Stemple pre-dicted that George W. Bush would receive 271 electoral votes to Al Gore's 267. The actual results were George W. Bush 271 to Al Gore's 266. The activities included a po-litical ideology survey, a quiz on s major candidates' positions, completing a mock voter registration, and casting a mock election ballot. Students were given the op-portunity to predict and color in the states that would be won by each candidate on an electoral college map of the United States and to chose the percent of the popular vote each candidate would get as a tie breaker. The prize was $150, which was put to-ward the cost of attending the annual AP government and politics overnight field trip to Washington, D.C. The cost of the prize was subsidized by gifts to the school by First United Bank, the Garrett County Democratic Central Committee, and the Garrett County Republican Central Committee. Pictured left to right are LuAnn Watson; Willie Davis; Becky Sanders of First United Bank; Tom Bratten, Democratic Central Committee; Brenda Butscher, Republican Central Committee; Robbie Stemple, and Dave Bender.

Local Students' Works Published In Maryland Literary Anthology

REGINA PEACHEY

TASHA STEMPLE

Two local fifth graders, Regina Peachey of Swan Meadow School and Tasha Stemple of Dennett Road Elementary School, have had their writings accepted for inclusion in Of Whispers and the Wind: Selections of Art and Writing by Maryland Students. The anthology collects prose and poetry produced by young writers from across the state. Student submissions from every school system were nominated by teachers and literary arts supervisors.

Peachey's prose writing, 'My Favorite Place," was nominated by teacher Elizabeth Gilbert. Peachey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Peachey of the Oakland area.

Stemple's poem "What is a Miracle?" was nominated by teacher Pat Bonnefield. Stemple is the daughter of M. Kelly Stemple of Mtn. Lake Park and W. Jimi Stemple of Accident.

MY FAVORITE PLACE

My favorite place is on our top porch, a place where I go to be by myself and read. This place is special to me because it is comfortable, and I have plenty of fresh air.

The sounds I hear are the dishes rattling in the kitchen as my mom is preparing supper. The crickets chirp, and the birds sing their songs.

On our top porch, I feel the soft couch I am sitting on and the cover of the book I am holding. I smell the freshly mowed grass that reminds me of summer. Delicious smells come from the open kitchen window. I see a row of pine trees straight and tall and the pink and purple petunias spilling over the flower boxes.

I taste the snack I have brought outside to enjoy in my favorite place. I am glad that I can return here to peace and quiet.

Regina Peachey

WHAT IS A MIRACLE?

A miracle to me is the creation of things,
a star, a bird, a world,
Steel, a wheel, you, me!
A crown, a frown,
a dance.
A chance to be ALIVE!

Maryland Registers Lowest Crime Rate On Record In '99

Maryland's crime rate set a record low for 1999, dropping 19.5 percent since 1995, as crime across the state declined for the fourth straight year.

According to the recently released Uniform Crime Report, the crime rate for Maryland in 1999 was 5,064.2 victims for every 100,000 population. This is the lowest crime rate in Maryland recorded since at least 1975, when Maryland began its current system of recording crime data.

In 1975, the crime rate was 5,910 victims for every 100,000 population. It rose to a high of 6,627 in 1980. In 1995, the crime rate was 6,294. It has dropped each year since then to its current low.

"Governor Glendening and I are pleased to see such positive results from crime fighting efforts that have been initiated all across Maryland," Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend said. "Thousands of dedicated citizens, working with police officers and local officials in community policing efforts like our HotSpots Communities initiative, have had a tremendous impact on crime in Maryland. I hope these results energize all of us to continue our fight to reduce crime in our neighborhoods, our cities, and our state.

"We began this administration with a pledge to make Maryland a safer place to live, and, through great community cooperation between our citizens and police, we are fulfilling this goal," Governor Parris N. Glendening said. "We have been progressive in our approach and relentless in our pursuit of crime reduction. Although encouraged by the lowest Maryland crime rate in more than two decades, we realize much more needs to be accomplished."

The specific crime rates of murders, rapes, motor vehicle theft, larceny, and robberies dropped to their lowest levels in more than 10 years. The murder rate dropped to 9.5 victims for every 100,000 population. The rate of rapes declined to 28.7 per 100,000, and the robbery rate dropped to 273.1 per 100,000.

During 1999, Marylanders reported a total of 261,919 crime incidents to law enforcement, compared with 274,587 crimes reported in 1998. These 1999 crime statistics include revised crime numbers from Baltimore City. In 1999, the Baltimore Police Department conducted an audit and review of its crime reporting system. This resulted in the revision of certain criminal statistics reported to the Statewide Uniform Crime Reporting Program, making comparisons of 1999 data to previous years difficult.

Christmas Tree Recycling Effort Deemed Success

The seventh annual Christmas tree recycling event, sponsored recently by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling (GCSW), has been deemed successful, according to Gary Love, GCSW director, who reported that trees were chipped into mulch at two locations in the county as well as those trees delivered directly to the Garrett County landfill site.

Christmas trees delivered by county residents will continue to be accepted free of charge at the main landfill only, located along Oakland-Sang Run Road, through Saturday, Feb. 3.

Municipalities delivering loads of trees will be charged at $20 per ton.

The mulch from the trees will be used at various designated sites around the county, said Love, who also noted that some of the remaining trees will be used by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Fisheries Division, to enhance fish habitat.

Love expressed appreciation to Randy Sisler of Oakland Timberjax Tree Service, Randy DiSimone GCSW employee, and to several students who helped with the effort to earn student learning hours.

Any questions or comments should be directed to GCSW at 301-387-0322 or at gcsw@genet.net.

Promoting Bigotry...

Baltimore was rocked this past week when a teenager who killed a police officer was acquitted on all charges. The teen killed the officer when he crashed into his patrol car during a high-speed chase. The youth was clad in body armor, was armed with a 10mm semi-automatic handgun, had a lengthy criminal history, and was seen shooting into a crowd of people just before the chase, during which he hit speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour. He was charged with murder, attempted murder, and vehicular manslaughter, but all three, even the manslaughter charge, were dropped. Even charges of wearing a bulletproof vest in the commission of a crime of violence and using a handgun in a crime of violence were rendered moot by the jury.

The 27-year-old officer was a Desert Storm veteran and a father of a 3-year-old, who had an opportunity to work for the Prince George's County Police Department for higher pay and lower stress, but chose to stay in Baltimore because he wanted to help the inner city. His funeral was attended by 3,000 people.

When a black resident in one of our inner cities is killed by white police, under almost any circumstances, civil rights leaders such as Al Sharpton and Jesse Jackson usually come out of the woodwork to lead protests and marches. Granted, sometimes they are warranted. Corruption, racial profiling, and other forms of bigotry are not uncommon. And, granted, the Baltimore City police force has some internal problems, and outright corruption, that at least muddied the waters in the aforementioned murder case. Regardless, the 18-year-old youth absolutely, positively should not have been allowed to simply walk away scot-free.

But we're almost certain Mr. Sharpton and Rev. Jackson will not be organizing any protests of this particular court outcome, even though it is one of the most outrageous, clear-cut cases of injustice to come down the path in some time, and even though the slain officer was also black.

It seems to us that the black civil rights leaders would take a giant leap forward in the minds of all citizens if they, too, paid no attention to the particular race of those involved in criminal cases and took a leading role in protesting all cases of injustice, whether or not the victims/criminals are black, white, yellow, or red. A march led by Jesse Jackson through inner-city Baltimore in protest of this court outcome would make a huge, positive impact on citizens of all races, and probably on would-be perpetrators of future criminal acts in the city.

Martin Luther King advocated and dreamed of a nation in which people of all races would live in peace, harmony, and mutual respect. Yet it seems some of his most ardent black followers are actually promoting continued discrimination and violence by not taking a stand when the criminal happens to be black. Violence is violence, and black vs. black violence is rampant in our inner cities. These leaders should employ all of the same efforts to improve the situation that they are so quick to utilize when the violence happens to be between blacks and whites.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Dan Brenneman's venom toward the newly elected town officials may come from the fact that he was bitten by a rattler a few years ago, which produced this little jingle:

Danny got bitten upon his side, Danny lived but the rattler died.

To the Editor:

This is in response to the few complaints concerning the light situation at our Wal-Mart store here in Oakland.

In all due respect, it might be a little uncomfortable for a few of their neighbors, but look on the "bright" side of things.

If it is as they say, that a newspaper can be read throughout the entire house, this is actually a benefit to them. Think about it; the more light generated from an outside source, the less that is generated within the home. Therefore this means that you spend less and save more money coming from within your own electric source.

So in all reality, Wal-Mart is always trying to save you money (one way or another). How can you beat that?

Respectfully,
Jerry Tasker

P.S. Can't wait 'til those big doors open.

Editor note: The writer of the following letter to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland requested that it be published in this column.

Mayor and Council:

Just before New Year's my office sewer became frozen at Third Street. We tried, with men from the town cooperating, to solve the problem, but it became clear that it was not going to happen.

We gave up, and the day after New Year's we began again and, with the town's help, were able to install a new sewer line to the alley, thereby creating a good gravity waste system. Jay (Moyer) was the man of the hour!

As in prior situations I have always noted the men gave their best, but this time I was very, very pleased to see so much cooperation by the men of the town of Oakland. Thanks for the excellent help and attention!

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Doyle

To the Editor:

On January 8, Accident Community helped save the lives of more than 147 people. That day at Zion Lutheran Church 49 pints of blood were collected. Since hospital usage continues to increase, this blood was critically needed. Unfortunately, our van broke down on the way to the church and our blood drive began an hour late. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

Maintaining adequate blood supply levels is critical. It is critical for the cancer patients who need platelets to sustain their bodies. It is critical for the neighbor who waits for his hip replacement. It is critical for burn victims and premature babies. In fact, having adequate blood supplies available is so critical because almost everyone who lives to 75 will require a blood transfusion. With the growth of medical technology resulting in increased use of blood and blood products, it is essential that communities donate. And Accident did just that. Thank you.

County Asked

ment facility, reporting that construction appears to be on schedule, with approximately 33 percent of the work finished. Occupancy should take place in October, he said.

Extension Service

Garrett County Extension agent Jim Simms shared the news of a local effort to implement an "all natural pork production" program "the way my Dad raised them" that would serve to satisfy a large demand for the product.

Simms said he is working with Yoder's Meat Packer Inc. to help get the program up and running. Already, he said, about 45 people in the area have shown an interest in the enterprise. One company in California has reportedly expressed interest in 265 finished hogs per week.

"That doesn't sound like a lot," said Simms, "but if you multiply that by 52, that's a bunch of pigs."

Community Action

Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc. told the county board that there are still some concerns in the community involving the air quality at the newly renovated Jennings Head Start Center, which is scheduled to open in February.

Yoder explained that several tests have been performed and have shown the air quality to be safe.

"We've taken every step we know we can take," he said, noting that final test results will be confirmed this week. (See separate story.)

Solid Waste & Recycling

The process to begin calculating the county's recycling rate for the year 2000 is now under way, according to Gary Love, director of Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling (GCSW), who reported he anticipates the county rate, after the calculations are finalized, to be at approximately 20 percent.

Love stated that while Garrett County has maintained a rate well above the state mandate (15 percent) and slightly above the state average, the county's overall recycling rate dropped slightly over the past two years.

Love explained, however, that the rate has been significantly affected by one county plant whose business was scaled back from 1998 to 1999.

"The statewide recycling rate for 1999 was 36 percent, while Garrett County's rate was 38 percent for the same year," reported Love. "This was a drop from 41 percent, but this entire decrease can be attributed to a drop in the amount of rendering waste recycled."

The recycling rate takes into account all materials deposited at the seven facilities operated by GCSW. Love stated that recycling report forms were recently mailed to all individuals and businesses that reported recyclables deposited at alternative facilities in 1999. He added that any person or business that might have been missed by GCSW is urged to call 301-387-0322.

In other business, Love also announced that GCSW will, once again, be sponsoring a tire amnesty day, tentatively scheduled for Saturday, April 21, at the Garrett County fairgrounds. Detailed information will be published at a future date.

Chamber of Commerce

Ken Wishnik, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, was on hand to let the commissioners know that efforts to promote the area's tourism appear to be successful. He cited recently established statistics, such as the increase in the collection of accommodation taxes during the first five months of this year of $27,000 – a 9 ½ percent increase over the same time period for last year, he said.

This increase does not include those tourists who visit the county during the day and do not stay overnight, Wishnik said.

He also reported that the chamber is experiencing its "best advertising year" as more pages have had to be added to this year's Vacation Guide. He noted that they are still on target with the March delivery date.

Wishnik told the board that a "rainy day" brochure is in the works in an effort to promote activities during inclement weather.

GCC

Dr. Steve Herman, Garrett Community College (GCC) president, was on hand to report that the enrollment rate at GCC has improved over last year, and that "we are on target with our budget."

Herman also updated the commissioners on the building being constructed at the campus that will house the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC). The bid was awarded to Harbel Inc., Cumberland, and is scheduled for completion within one year, Herman said.

He also reported that the Information Technology Program has now expanded its offerings, including online training with CISCO Systems certifications during the current spring semester and, in the fall, classroom offerings with Oracle instruction.

Dove center

Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, reported that full funding has now been obtained, retroactive to last July, from the Violence Against Women Act — which has been held up in Congress for some time — in the amount of $90,043.

That amount will be shared with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, which collaborates with the center.

The center has also applied for funding in an effort to hire an assistant who would serve as program coordinator for the group.

Spassil told the commissioners that programs about the subject of date rape were presented by the center at both county high schools recently, and the center is now in the process of creating focus groups at the schools to better address the subject. Spassil hopes to have these groups in place by April, which is Rape Crisis Awareness month, she said.

Emergency Mgmt.

Brad Frantz, director of the Office of Emergency Management, informed the commissioners that, during a recent meeting, the decision was made to expand the Yellow Alert Policy into West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The policy, said Frantz, was implemented in an effort to deal with the overcrowding of hospital emergency rooms which reach peak capacity and cannot handle additional patients. During those times, patients who are in stable condition may be transported to any cooperating hospital.

Roads Dept.

The supervisor of the Garrett County Roads Department, Fred Polce, reported that, because of unusually harsh winter weather so far this year, a total of $245,000 has been spent for cinders for Garrett County roads, an amount that is $45,000 over the department's budget, he said.

He added that 45,000 tons of cinders have already been purchased this year, compared to a total of 29,000 tons purchased last year for the entire year. The department has spent a total of 58 days this year treating the county roads, concluded Polce.

Ruth Enlow Library

Library director Cathy Ashby updated the board of commissioners on the progress of the proposed new Grantsville Library building, stating that fund-raising efforts have now yielded $100,000, the initial goal, and that efforts are under way to raise an additional $100,000. She added that funds are also being sought from the state and federal governments.

"We've had a lot of support from Delegate George Edwards and Commissioner Fred Holliday," said Ashby, who noted that the project is moving along "slowly, but nicely." She said that the initial design has been completed and a site has now been purchased along Hershberger Lane near Parkview Circle in Grantsville for the over 4,000-square-foot facility, that will replace the old 845-square-foot library building.

She reported that bricks will be offered for sale to those who wish to have their or someone else's name engraved on them. More information about the bricks may be obtained by calling the Grantsville Library at 301-895-5298.

Ashby also noted that a meeting of the fund-raising committee, reNew Grantsville Library, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 7 p.m., in the Grantsville Town Hall. Any interested persons are urged to attend.

Ashby also told the commissioners that new software learning programs have been purchased for the children's computers at the Oakland branch of the library and that more children's books are also being purchased for all five branches through a recently obtained $9,000 grant.

ment also designates areas as medically underserved as an indication of inadequate access to primary care. Allegany, Caroline, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, St. Mary's, Washington, Wicomico, and Worcester counties have all or part of their areas officially designated as medically underserved.

"Maryland citizens living in rural communities face serious challenges in obtaining vital health care services," said Stephen McHenry, executive director of the FORVM for Rural Maryland (the State Rural Development Council). "Funding for programs relating to improved access to primary care services and medical transportation is long overdue," he said.

The seven successful programs were among 13 proposals received in response to the Foundation's Request for Proposals. This brings the total of grant funding made by the Foundation since February 1999 to nearly $2.5 million.

CANDLEMAS EVE

The final hours of Christmas are upon us. Tomorrow is Candlemas, the 40th day from Christmas. The Biblical account for the day is found in St. Luke 2:22-40. St. Luke, the only non-Jew to write a book of the Bible, rolled two Jewish observances together. St. Mary was obliged to offer a sacrifice for ritual cleansing after the flow of blood in childbirth. That was a requirement after every birth.

Since Jesus was Mary's firstborn there was also a required sacrifice for him as the fruit that opened the womb. The first fruits belonged to God, whether of crops, animals, or humans. There had been a violent age before the opening of Abraham's saga when the first born child would have been literally sacrificed. God's intervention at the near sacrifice of Isaac ended human sacrifice once and for all in the Hebrew tradition.

Still, the firstborn belonged to the Lord. Sometimes, as in the case of the prophet Samuel, the firstborn son would be dedicated to the Lord's service. In most cases, however, there was the ritual offering made in place of the child, as was the case for Jesus. Here is an example of how superabundantly Jesus fulfilled the law: The sacrifice was made on his behalf and he was dedicated to God's service and he became human sacrifice on the cross.

All of that is present in St. Luke's account of the day that Joseph and Mary took their newborn son to the temple. The sacrifice of the doves is explicit. That Jesus is the Messiah (or Christ) was prophesied by two old people — the kind of faithful old people who have blessed my ministry and that of most pastors. Simeon even foresaw darker things, a shadow before the event of Calvary, when he said to Mary, "Yea, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also." (v. 35)

I leave up my Christmas tree and most of the other decorations until Candlemas. On Saturday they will come down and go back into their boxes until Advent rolls around again. For me, Candlemas is a tender feast. Christmas Day possesses tenderness, no doubt, but it is clothed with so many other emotions and characteristics that tenderness tends to be outdone by more intense qualities. Those have faded by February 2, and tenderness stands at the center. There is the tenderness of the Holy Family, the tenderness of Anna and Simeon, and even the tenderness of St. Luke as he wrote about that day.

A Christmas ballad, published 400 years ago, speaks to the spirit of Christmas tenderness. "This time of yeare/ Is spent in good cheare;..." it begins. The spelling as well as the cadences remind us that it was written before the King James Version of the Bible, which had the practical effect on the English language of standardizing many usages.

The ballad draws a picture of an idyllic Christmas gathering to which many more aspired, as we may guess, than attained.

Kind neighbors together meet
To sit by the fire
With friendly desire
Each other in love to greet;

I love the lesser feast of Christmas (from January 6 until February 2) because it is a calmer time when neighbors feel that they actually have time to sit and chat.

A sigh can communicate many things: sadness, weariness, distress, impatience, relief. There is also the sigh that comes after having held one's breath. It is an exhalation in which all that has been pent up is released. I feel like that sometimes in January. I sigh just to let go of it all. That summarizes my life running up to Candlemas.

There is plenty to let go of. "Old grudges, forgot," the ballad continues, "Are put in the pot,/ All sorrowes aside they lay,...." Like germs and bugs which, I hope, cold weather has killed, grudges and sorrows in general should be let die in this dying season. My garden and I shall both be the healthier in 2001 A.D. if winter does its job well.

I embrace Candlemas in order to let go of Christmas: a quick hug and then onward.

IT Program Teaching Computer Skills To High School Seniors

by Jeremy Carr

After noticing a need for technology experience and knowledge in the Garrett County area, Northern and Southern high schools, in association with Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Board of Education, have joined together to begin the Information Technology (IT) program at GCC.

Working with I/Tech Services of Frederick, GCC has developed the curriculum for this program.

Computer repair, computer programming, data analysis, and Internet specialties are among the areas of study.

Recent market studies have provided the reasoning behind the inception of the IT program. These studies show that 82% of large and mid-sized companies expect to increase the number of IT workers employed and, as of right now, one in 10 IT positions are vacant.

According to the Information Technology Advisory Group, Garrett County will be facing shortages in trained IT workers during the next five years, which is one of the main reasons for the inauguration of the program.

Students who participate in the classes at GCC will complete the A+ Repair Technician Training program during the fall semester and the Network+ Technician program during the spring semester. In doing so, students can earn academic credit that can be carried over to GCC.

Mark Otto, one of the students from Northern High, has recognized the need for technology oriented skills and noted, "Computers are the future. They're what everyone is turning to, and it pays to have knowledge in that area, no matter what career you may choose."

The A+ and Network+ credentials are highly sought after in the IT industry. A+ and Network+ certification courses are equally valuable to students who choose non-certification IT routes.

"We are very excited about the program," said Terry Norris, interim director of Business and Information Technologies at GCC. "As far as we know, this is the only program around that offers this kind of education."

Once students have completed the classroom training component in computer repair, they will be placed in a job shadowing program with area IT related businesses. Students will be able to apply the classroom skills to a real-world work environment.

The fact that the class gives the students expertise in an area they may actually pursue professionally is what appeals the most to those who participate in the program.

"I will probably use some of the things I learn here. It's not the same kind of things you get at school," commented Mark Zimmerman, also from Northern.

The Advisory Group also pointed out that computer technicians are some of the most highly demanded professionals in the IT industry today. As more and more companies are requiring their employees to be certified, the demand for quality training grows.

"Students in Garrett County are not adequately prepared with the technical skills necessary for entry into the Information Technology workplace," stated an advisory group spokesperson.

Existing IT related curricula at the high school level (Electronics and Computer Applications) and at the college level provide a foundation for IT-related jobs. Students need to be provided more intensive and hands-on experiences, the spokesperson concluded.

Students or parents who are interested in this program may contact their school's guidance counselor or Norris at 301-387-3043.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY is the name of a new program available to Garrett County high school youth that is designed to provide computer technology knowledge and experience. The program, which is a joint effort between Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Board of Education, teaches computer repair, programming, data analysis, and Internet specialties. Pictured above are students from Southern and Northern high schools who are currently in the program. In the front row, from left, are: Denny Thorp, Jeremy Frazee, and Mark Zimmerman. In the second row are: Mike Scudder, Amanda Kamp, Megan Tichinel, Erik Yoder, Mark Wolf, and Jerry Kisner. In the back row are: Mark Otto, Toby Gilpin, Sam Miller, Bill Rodeheaver, Brandon Kamp, Jordan Swerbinsky, Nathan Gregg, and Dustin Slider. Not present for the photo were Anthony Thomas and Aaron Close. See story for details.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Last week as I drove home from Grantsville, I shot a 24 exposure roll of film, starting from Casselman Valley and up through Bittinger, of all the beautiful snow scenes. Cattails along the river poking up through pillows of snow, hardwood forest with gracefully draped branches with caps of snow, wide-spaced snow covered fields with some golden corn stubble showing through, thick stand of hemlock trees with their branches bowed down with heavy caps of snow, split-rail fences, and barns with their roofs covered with snow peeking over snow banks and the cornice drifted with light snow spray blowing off them — These were some of the beautiful things that I observed. Also those beautiful winter skies, some almost lavender colored, with almost every kind of clouds with lacy branches reaching up to the clouds. I got enough good images to keep me busy painting for months. My favorite shot is of a very old maple tree stretched up to a patch of pure cobalt blue in pale lavender clouds. Bittinger is certainly a winter wonderland.

Groundhog Day is just around the corner, but we still have winter conditions in Bittinger. In spite of some warmer weather, the roads around her were still very icy over the weekend. The few weeks when we had real winter weather at its worst, with blizzard conditions, plenty of whiteouts, and high winds, is real winter here on the tableland between Meadow Mountain and Negro Mountain. Any long lanes were a nightmare. Both my lane and the one next door at Rodney's and Marci's house were pretty much closed. For several days Marci had to resort to driving in the field to get in and out.

But then a real surprise! Bright and early on Sunday morning, Floyd Ellis blasted both of them like there was nothing to it at all. He cleared out those four-foot drifts in no time at all. It is a good thing that he pushed most of the snow away, because now with the rain, I have a whole bunch of slush, eight inches or more. I am not certain if I can get out or not since neither Marci nor I have 4-wheel drive vehicles. I hope it melts before the next winter blast that gives us more fresh snow. I believe we are supposed to get more of that soon.

Since Lloyd is not living here anymore, his new phone number is 301-387-2077. He is now living in McHenry next door to BFS. That is all I want to say about that. The girls are here with me on the weekends, and most school evenings they are at Lloyd's. They do catch the school bus from here and come home on it to be with me here for a few hours.

Besides the winter weather, nothing much is going on in Bittinger, or because of the weather people are staying home more. Except, of course, for the sports fans. Rodney and Robbie Glotfelty made the trip to College Park for a big game between the Maryland Terps and the Duke Blue Devils. Maryland led almost the whole game, and by as many as 10 points until the

by Dan Whittelsey

We start the new year 2001 with a brief look ahead.

We now own the El Lobo property. The town council will direct the method of removing the building and preparing the property as an entrance to Mountain Lake Park. This would suggest that other entrances to Mountain Lake Park should be equally improved by signs and landscaping.

As of today, Feb. 1, Leo Martin requests that all matters pertaining to the budget be brought forward for possible inclusion. Mayor Shockey emphasized the importance of all budget items being prepared. An item included in the budget authorizes its expenditure and payment for such work to be promptly paid by the town. This saves future arguments and misunderstandings, and town council meeting time. Please present your budget idea (anyone can do this) complete with details of benefits to the town, budget item, cost, and when required.

Broadford Lake utilization and the goose situation will have to be resolved between Mtn. Lake Park and Oakland.

Elections will take place in June or July for mayor and two town council seats. While I support repeat terms for Fred Learey, Leo Martin, and Paul Shockey, we should have some additional candidates. If you wish to put your hat in the ring I would be pleased to broadcast your desire in this column along with a short profile.

We need your attendance at town council meetings. Please come. Recent discord and disagreements with the Loch Lynn town council and mayor show how important it is to have open town council meetings.

I congratulate Mayor Paul Shockey and the town council for having such meetings. I think we can be very proud of our town council, mayor and staff.

This basic checklist can get you started on your way to a beautiful wedding day.

- Set the date – As soon as possible after getting engaged, you should select a wedding date and decide on the type of wedding you would like to have. Keep Your Wedding Running Smoothly

You're engaged. A sparkling gem sits atop your finger and you are humming the familiar tune of "dom, dom, da dom" as you browse through a bridal magazine. A wedding is a momentous event that requires a lot of planning – but you needn't get frazzled about the work involved. Staying organized and taking advantage of timesavers will help your day go by without a hitch.

Here are a few organizational tips to make sure you'll be all smiles on your wedding day.

• 'Slow and Steady Wins the Race' – Don't try to do everything at once. Many bridal magazines and books give realistic countdowns to the wedding and tell you what things you should be concerned with at what time. These checklists often advise that planning should begin at least six to 12 months in advance of your wedding date. Booking caterers, reception and ceremony sites, and popular DJs or bands are some of your first concerns.

• Plan the 'Write' Way – Purchase a wedding planner book or create one of your own to keep track of everything from guest lists to fabric samples to vendor addresses. You certainly can't remember every small detail – a written list stored in one location will keep important information at your fingertips.

• Round Up Helping Hands – Family members and friends may be eager to help you with wedding details. Enlist these thoughtful individuals to take over some of the work, like addressing thank-you notes or picking up rental items and accessories for the bridal party.

• Keep Guests Well Informed – A multitude of wedding stationery items will make things easier for your guests and for you too. William Arthur Inc., manufacturer of fine stationery products for weddings and other special occasions, offers a wide variety of wedding stationery components that will graciously facilitate your special day.

Keep your RSVPs organized by sending Reply Cards along with your invitations. You might even print them with meal options, giving both you and the caterer a heads-up before the event regarding the number of guests who will be attending.

Including Pew Cards or "Within the Ribbon" Cards will direct close friends and relatives to specific, special rows for the ceremony. Keepsake wedding programs are more than a treasured memento of the day - they also serve as a useful tool for orienting guests to the order of activities during the ceremony and they provide a who's who of the attendants and participants. Table Cards and Place Cards will help your guests find their seats at the reception without difficulty. And beautifully printed menus add a touch of class, offering a list of the different appetizers, main courses, wines and desserts.

Staying calm on your wedding day is easy if you start getting organized early. The extensive selection of products offered by William Arthur stationers will help maintain gracious orderliness both prior to and during your special day. Visit www.williamarthur.com to find an authorized retailer near you, then sit back and relax ... your day is sure to be magical.

Fairy Tales

• Select a photographer – Every photographer has a different style. You should choose one who will accommodate your wishes, like taking the types and number of shots you want, attending both the ceremony and reception, and offering the album design you would like. The photographer's personality is very important – you will be spending an entire day with this person, so you should choose someone who will make you feel comfortable.

• Book reception entertainment – Select a band or disc jockey who will cater to everyone at the reception - both the younger and older generations. The musical selections should be diverse, and requests from the guests should be taken.

• Arrange wedding transportation – Whether it's a Rolls-Royce, stretch limo, horse and buggy, or double-decker bus, you should plan for transportation to and from the ceremony and to the reception for yourself and your attendants. Make reservations early, especially if you want a white car.

• Order dresses – Shopping for a wedding dress, headpiece and bridesmaid dresses is one of the most fun parts of the planning process. Choose a wedding dress that reflects your style and personality – and makes you look beautiful. When considering dresses for your attendants, you should opt for a style that complements your dress, as well as the women in your party.

• Choose a florist – Flowers can add an elegant touch to the wedding day, and every florist has a unique style. Select one whose arrangements you like and who can offer helpful, creative ideas about bouquets, corsages and centerpieces.

• Decide on a bakery – Select a bakery based on the varieties of the cakes offered and the look of previous work. Ask for a taste of the different types of cake offered, and check if the bakery will be able to create the design that you want.

• Select formalwear – Whether it's a basic tuxedo or a top hat and tail coat, formalwear completes the look of the wedding party. Select a formalwear provider who offers the style you want, has a variety of sizes available to fit all of the male attendants, and offers a large selection of bow ties and cummerbunds or vests.

• Order invitations – Invitations come in many different styles, so you will have a number of books to look through. Decide on a design that best suits the wedding, based on its formality, the time of day and the wedding colors. A stationery professional can help them with this decision.

With these important decisions made, you only have a few things left to do, like selecting favors, writing a wedding bulletin and buying thank-you gifts for your attendants. You are now well on your way to the wedding of your dreams.

Bridesmaid Gowns Can Be Recycled Into Useful Items

Weddings are not always just about the bride and groom. Dolled up in pink taffeta or lime green chiffon, bridesmaids often have the responsibility of making the brides' choices in wedding party apparel look stylish. Even if they normally have grade A style sense, brides never fail to surprise guests with outlandish frocks for their close friends and family.

Though you're usually forced to grin and bear it ... cheer up bridesmaid! Here are a few clever ways to turn that garish gown into functional items after the couple has said, "I do," courtesy of "101 Uses for a Bridesmaid Dress" (William Morrow and Company Inc.), by Cindy Walker.

• Make darling bedroom slippers.

• You can never have too many hair scrunchies.

• Jazz up your tissue boxes.

• Design unique cocktail napkins.

• Stuff it full of newspaper, prop it in the back of your car, and drive in the carpool lane. (You deserve it!)

• If you're bored, wear it to your little sister's prom.

• Make a ruffled skirt for the bathroom sink.

• Or precious little earmuffs.

• Make spectacular baby clothes for the couple's first child.

• Wear it on a blind date (because you were told he had such a good personality).

• Fashion a stylish sleeping mask for your next long flight.

• Cut yards and yards of ribbon for all your wrapping needs.

• Make the perfect lamp shade for that romantic evening.

• Whip up lovely silk flowers to brighten every room.

• Dust rags - just cut into neat squares.

• Make handbags for all your friends.

• Golf club covers that will stand out on the course.

• Give it to your kid brother to use as a tepee.

• Cut it up into frost covers for your rose bushes.

• Design Father's Day ties for years to come!

Your first dance as newlyweds should be a special one. Choose a song that represents your personalities, one that will be cherished for years to come.

Classics and Pop Standards

Nothing stands the test of time better than a classic love song. Guaranteed to remain in style through the years, your song will be enjoyed by many of the guests at your reception who span different generations.

- "All I Ask of You," Michael Crawford (Phantom of the Opera).
- "Always and Forever," Luther Vandross.
- "Crazy," Patsy Cline.
- "Have I Told You Lately," Rod Stewart.
- "Just the Way You Are," Billy Joel.
- "Love and Marriage," Frank Sinatra.
- "Only You," The Platters.
- "The Way You Look Tonight," Sinatra or Bennet.
- "Unchained Melody," Righteous Brothers.
- "Wonderful Tonight," Eric Clapton.

Current Hits

Perhaps a song that is a little more recent is what you are looking for. Following are some selections that were favorites for year-2000 weddings.

- "Amazed," Lonestar.
- "From This Moment," Shania Twain and Bryan White.
- "Could Not Ask For More," Edwin McCain.
- "Truly, Madly, Deeply," Savage Garden.
- "It's Your Love," Tim McGraw and Faith Hill.
- "I Do, Cherish You," 98 Degrees.
- "I Finally Found Someone," Barbra Striesand and Bryan Adams.
- "I Knew I Loved You Before I Met You," Savage Garden.
- "I Swear," John Michael Montgomery.
- "Valentine," Martina McBride & Jim Brickman.

A Little Different

- "Hawaiian Wedding Song," Elvis Presley.
- "I Got You Babe," Sonny and Cher.
- "I'll Grow Old With You," Adam Sandler ("The Wedding Singer").
- "Two Less Lonely People in the World," Air Supply.
- "You're My Best Friend," Queen.

Taking A Humorous Look At A "Proper" Wedding

Many soon-to-be grooms may be left in the dark as to what is the proper etiquette for the series of events leading up to and including their wedding day. Here is a humorous list of guidelines to hand a buddy or relative shortly before he gets hitched, courtesy of Wedding Humor.com reprinted with permission from Nathan's Collection of Humor.

Announcement

It is the responsibility of the bride's family to announce the wedding in a local newspaper. The announcement should include: A photograph of the bride (a high-school yearbook picture is acceptable); name of the groom, education completed by both the bride and groom (DO NOT include elementary school, unless that was the terminal degree); current employment and planned residence after the ceremony. If living with the bride's parents, it is not necessary to specify where in the house you will reside.

Invitations

Because you are having a planned wedding and you are expecting a lot of free stuff, you must send out invitations. They do not have to be lengthy. Something like:

"You are invited to watch _____ and _____ make it legal on _____." will suffice nicely. If you don't want to be so formal, you can always run down to the local bar and yell, "If you ain't doing nothin' on _____, why don't you stop by my house for a cold one about two o'clock. Me and _____'s having some friends over to watch the ball game and witness our wedding."

Proper Attire

For the bride, the key words are "be conservative." No matter how good it may look, she should refrain from wedding outfits made with spandex or adorned with fringe. Excessive slits and dips are also frowned upon.

For the groom, a rented tuxedo is haute couture, but if it means the difference between going on a honeymoon and staying home, consider some alternatives. For example, a leisure suit with a cummerbund and a clean work shirt can create a fine appearance. And though possibly uncomfortable, say yes to socks and shoes for this special occasion.

The Ceremony

At the point in the ceremony which says, "If anybody has any reason why these two should not be joined in matrimony ..." tell the officiant not to pause too long, old flames sometimes die hard and talk too much. As the ceremony is concluded, you and your spouse should realize that a short kiss will do.

Reception

Remember to reserve the UAW hall far in advance, and avoid Saturdays, because that's bingo night. It is perfectly acceptable to ask guests to wipe their feet before entering the hall. After all, the cleaning deposit can be the difference between an oil change and a full tune-up for the car.

And remember, when dancing, never remove undergarments, no matter how hot it is!

Wedding Advice

A trip down the aisle requires planning to ensure the event goes without a hitch. Whether formal or informal, large or small, a first-time adventure or a remarriage, any wedding is a bit of a production. To keep the entire event in perspective, the MetLife Consumer Education center has collaborated with nationally recognized authorities on marriage to offer couples two free brochures titled, "Getting Married" and "Getting Remarried."

The brochures offer tips on how to stay calm and wisely use your wedding dollars. A few points discussed include:

- Researching wedding gown choices because there is a wide range of styles and prices that can fit virtually any budget.
- Developing a wedding budget, complete with handy worksheets that list many possible expenses leading up to the big day.
- Tips on how to cut costs, which range from buffet-style dinners to marriage/honeymoon packages.
- Combining assets, especially if this is a second marriage.
- How to make a stepfamily work.

For more information on how to avoid stress when planning your big day, call (800) 638-5433 for the free Life Advice\R\ brochure on "Getting Married" or "Getting Remarried."

Makeup Tips For The Blushing Bride

There is no mistaking a bride's desire to look her best on her wedding day. She'll primp and preen to make sure every detail is exactly how she imagined.

Makeup is an important tool in the this beauty regimen. It can hide flaws, accent the positive and give you a glamorous makeover. Proper makeup application techniques should be employed so that you will photograph well and the makeup will not wear off after several hours.

Though you may want to rely on a professional to apply your wedding makeup, you can achieve similar results by studying tips from professionals, like those offered in "Ultimate Makeup & Beauty" (DK), by Mary Quant.

There are several steps to creating flawless wedding makeup results.

• Foundation – Cake foundations give a smooth, matte finish that prevents the skin from looking shiny and oily. Some can be applied using a dry sponge instead of a damp one and many contain powder particles, so that you only need to apply a face powder on top if you have very oily skin. Liquid foundation produces a more lightweight finish than the cake variety and tends to be easier to use on dry skin. However, some people find it harder to apply, the trick is not to overload the sponge, which creates a streaky, unnatural effect. To finish, always brush over with a translucent powder to help the foundation stay in place longer.

Learn the basics for makeup application before your wedding.

• Color correcting – They may seem like the last thing that you would want to put on your face, but liquid color correctors can hide a multitude of flaws. They work by using opposing colors to counteract specific complexion problems. For example, green will tone down redness; blue will make a flushed complexion look paler, white will help cover up dark under-eye circles and improve dullness and purple will give an olive complexion a healthier glow.

• Blusher – A subtle sweep of blusher will lift the cheekbones and enhance your face. It is applied after foundation, although if you have clear skin you could wear it on its own. Blusher must be blended perfectly to ensure there are no harsh edges – using a good brush will make it easier. Choose color carefully: The right shade will make you look healthy, while the wrong one will drain color from your face.

• Eyeshadow – Dark and dramatic, light and pearly, frosted and fresh – a wide variety of effects can be achieved with eyeshadows. However, the general rule is to use four different-colored shadows; a neutral-toned base, a main color, a darker shade for emphasizing and a lighter shade for highlighting. It is also important to use a magnifying mirror so you can see exactly what you are doing, and to keep a good range of different-sized brushes and applicators on hand.

• Lipstick and Lipliner – Lipstick adds the finishing touch to makeup. It should help unite the other colors you have used and really bring your face to life. However, if it is applied incorrectly, it will look clumsy and unsubtle. The answer is to use a lip liner to give lips a neat, defined edge and to build up color using a lip brush.

Bridal Registry Dos and Don'ts

• Do register at least six months before your wedding or, if that's not possible, as soon as you can. That way guests can choose gifts from your registry for pre-wedding events, like and engagement party or shower.

• Don't try to register during your lunch hour (too short) or on a Saturday (too crowded). Weekday evenings are often the best times to get individualized attention.

• Do call each store ahead of time to see if you need an appointment. The registry process usually takes one to two hours per store, maybe longer, especially if you're registering for items from several departments. If you run out of time – or concentration – just schedule another appointment.

• Don't register with your mom – or your sister, or your best friend – only your fiancé will do. Because the two of you will be sharing a home, it only makes sense that he be the one to accompany you to the store and share in the registry decisions. Assure him that, yes, real men do register.

Tips For Taking Great Photos

Though a professional photographer is often hired to capture special wedding moments on film, amateurs are also invited to snap away and share their treasures with the happy couple.

For the beginner, here are certain tips, courtesy of www.betterphotos.com that will help ensure your photos of the wedding guests turn out well.

• Show them busily engaged in something that they are doing, and that is really characteristic of them.

• Include some pictures of them just smiling at the camera if this is what you want. Instead of just telling them to smile, though, do something that will make them smile naturally.

• Choose a camera position that lets you see their faces really clearly.

• Avoid distracting backgrounds - and particularly any objects that look as though they are growing out of people's heads. If available, arrange for the background to be out of focus.

• Arrange for your subject to lean towards you. This often produces a more lively result.

During the wedding (200-1000 A.D.), the father of the bride would hand a shoe to the groom symbolically transfering the authority over the woman to her husband. The groom then bopped the bride smartly on the head to signify that he was now her master.

Today, marriages are 50/50 propositions. Just as wedding traditions have changed greatly, so have the wedding flowers. Every bride has a fantasy of her wedding day. Our job is to help her realize her fantasy. Flowers are the most important part of the most important day of her life.

SPRING is full of daffodils, lilac, forsythia, all in abundant bloom.

SUMMER life offers few experiences grander than a garden wedding. Surrounded by summer flowers, you can't help but feel the happiness in the air. Flowers in the palest tints of apricot, carnation, primroses, classic shapes and forms create spectacular, romantic wedding flowers, while capturing the soft tender feelings of new love. And if love has you tickled pink, nothing is as irresistable as pink petals of all kind whether it be stargazer lilies, raspberry ice roses or cherry blossom branches, add candlelight and create a magic spell.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Corps Cpl. Jerry R. Kelly Jr., son of Patricia P. Wolfe of Terra Alta, W.Va., and Jerry R. Kelly Sr., also of Terra Alta, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) home based at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

During the deployment, Kelly's unit defended U.S. policy and supported international interests in the Middle East and Europe.

Rams' Defense Shines In Wins Over Huskies, Wildcats

Outstanding defense continues to highlight the performances of the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team, as the Rams crushed two more opponents this week to strengthen their grip on the area's number-one ranking. Coach Tom Bosley and his squad, who are allowing an average of just over 42 points per contest so far this season, embarrassed cross-county rival Northern on Friday, 80-30, at the Cove, and then walloped visiting Westmar on Tuesday, 60-33, to avenge their only loss and stretch their current win streak to 12.

The pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League victories upped the Rams' overall record to 14-1, and their WMIL mark to 6-1.

Twelve players scored points against Northern on Friday, as the Huskies simply could not contain the first- or second-team Rams, nor could they penetrate the Southern defense. D.R. Parsons came off the bench to score 17 points in the second half after starter Ryan Panther, the team's leading scorer, was pulled from the contest after scoring 15 points.

The Rams took control of the game in the opening moments and held a 19-8 lead by the end of the first period. They stretched that lead to 36-14 by halftime, and allowed only three points by the Huskies the entire third quarter to give Southern an overwhelming 48-17 advantage going into the final period.

Coach Bosley pulled most of his starters at the end of the third stanza to try to keep from running up the score on the Huskies, but the second-team players continued to pour it on offensively and maintain a staunch defense.

Pacing the Huskies in scoring was Greg Speicher, who recorded nine points, while Jeremy Frazee netted seven. It was the ninth loss in 14 starts for Coach Paul Edwards and his team, and dropped them to 0-6 in the WMIL.

The Huskies tasted defeat yet again on Tuesday at home against Allegany (see other story).

The undefeated Southern junior varsity also coasted to an easy victory in the preliminary game, topping the Northern jayvees by a 36-14 spread. The win upped the Ram jayvees' mark to 12-0, and their consecutive win streak to 24.

Senior Josh Sharon led the way for the Rams against Westmar on Tuesday, as he finished with 16 points, but he was one of 10 Rams who scored at least a point to avenge their only defeat, a 51-49 decision in the third game of the season. Ricky Reams added eight points, and Bryson Meyers, Jamie Bosley, and Chad Panther each scored six.

RAMS RAM HUSKIES - The first meeting of the 2000-01 high school basketball season between the varsity boys of Southern and Northern high schools was a heavily lopsided contest, as the Southern Rams crushed their cross-county rivals by an 80-30 margin on the Huskies' court. The Rams are enjoying another outstanding year, currently sporting a 14-1 record and the area's number-one ranking, while the Huskies are having a rather difficult season. Battling for the ball under the board in the photo above left are, from left, Southern's Bryson Meyers, Northern's Josh Swandol, and Joel Helbig and Mike Saturday of Southern.

Putting up a shot in the photo above right is Southern's D.R. Parsons, who came off the bench and led the Rams in scoring with 17 points. Northern defenders are Swandol (#34) and Jensen Long (#44). Below, Northern's Jeremy Frazee tries to find a way to penetrate the Rams' outstanding defense, which is allowing just over 42 points per game so far this season. Ram defenders in the photo are J.B. Murphy and, at right, Bryan Panther. Swandol is in the right background. The two teams will meet again this Friday at Southern.

Each team scored the same number of points in the first and second periods, with the Rams holding a 14-6 advantage at the end of the first and a 28-12 lead at intermission. They erupted for 22 points in the third stanza, including a 12-3 surge at the beginning of the period, while holding the Wildcats to just nine, which gave the Rams a commanding 50-21 spread going into the final quarter.

Josh Glass paced the Wildcats in scoring with 13 points. The loss evened Westmar's record at 7-7 and dropped their WMIL mark to 4-2.

The Southern jayvees were again victorious in the preliminary game, whipping the Westmar junior varsity, 46-27, behind an 18-point effort by Dennis Tressler. Vinny Posey led the Wildcat jayvees with eight points. It was the 13th win in as many starts for the Southern jayvees, who are coached by Jim Bosley.

The Rams will meet the Northern Huskies again this Friday evening in Oakland and will travel to Beall next Tuesday.

Northern Boys Fall To Rams, Alco At Cove

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team had a tough run of luck in the Igloo this past week, as the Huskies fell Friday to the top-ranked Southern Rams 80-30 (see SHS account), then dropped a 64-44 contest to third-ranked Allegany Tuesday. NHS's record has fallen to 5-10, and the Huskies will be looking to redeem themselves tomorrow night as they play for pride in a rematch with the Rams in Oakland.

Northern fell behind to Allegany 15-6 after the first quarter and was down 27-15 at the half. A 37-29 Camper run over the course of the second half ensured the Alco win.

Senior guard Greg Speicher led the Huskies with 12 points, while teammates A.J. Thomas, Jeremy Frazee, and Josh Swandol contributed eight points each. Swandol hauled down nine rebounds as well. Ryan Rebuck scored 24 points for the victors, and Aaron Laffey added 20 points.

Tomorrow night's visit to Southern will be followed by a Tuesday road matchup at Westmar. The Huskies return home next Thursday, Feb. 8, to host the Salisbury Elks. Varsity game time is 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Ram Onslaught Downs Knights By 50 Points

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team gave no quarter Monday night as the Rams vanquished the visiting Preston Knights 82-32. The victory gives fourth-ranked SHS a 13-4 record heading into tonight's big battle in Cumberland against 10-4 Fort Hill, which is ranked fifth in the area.

Southern led by an inconspicuous 13-6 margin after one quarter, but broke loose in the second period by outscoring Preston 24-4 to take a 37-10 halftime lead. Up by a 59-22 margin after three quarters of action, the Rams continued shredding the nets for a 23-10 outburst over the final eight minutes en route to the 50-point triumph. "In the first quarter our defense played well, and in the second quarter both our defense and offense played well," commented SHS coach Don Stemple.

The Rams sank 29 field goals and hit 21 of 30 free-throw attempts. Junior guard Ashley Liller led the way with 25 points, and added six assists and seven steals. The Rams' junior backcourt also provided 11 points by Gina Reeves and 10 points from Megan Burner. Forwards Ashlee Spady and Jennifer Bosley scored nine points apiece. Mindy Miller's eight points led Preston, while teammates Rachel Kisner, Crystal Laren, and Jennifer Beeghly each scored six points.

Southern's junior varsity fell to the Knights' JV by a 43-37 margin. Freshman guard Justine Pagenhardt took game-high scoring honors with 21 points for the Rams, while Preston was paced to victory by an effort highlighted by Ashley Shay's 11 points. The loss give the Rams' jayvees a 12-2 record.

Following tonight's battle at Fort Hill, the Rams will return home to host Allegany Monday and Tucker County next Thursday, Feb. 8. Each varsity contest will get under way at 7:30 p.m., 90 minutes after the junior varsity tip-off.

NHS Crushed By Campers, Rebounds To Swat Hornets

It was the best of times and the worst of times for Northern High School's girls' varsity basketball team this week, as the Huskies were demolished by 30 points in a 52-22 loss to Allegany Monday, then roared back last night to down Hyndman 54-28. Northern's record stands at 7-8 after the week's split.

Monday at Allegany the Huskies fell behind 7-3 after one quarter, and were outscored 18-8 in the second period to carry a 25-11 deficit into the halftime locker room. Northern was down 33-16 as the third quarter drew to a close, and after Alco's 19-6 fourth quarter run, finished an even 30 points off the Campers' mark.

Junior forward Jolene Brenneman's eight points led the Huskies, while teammate Bridget Frazee added six points. Allegany's Bethany Sindy led all scorers with 14 points as the Campers improved their record to 6-7.

Northern's junior varsity squad dropped a 27-15 contest to its Alco counterpart. Andrea Green led the Huskies with six points, and Casey Wilson scored 11 points for the Campers.

The tables were turned in last night's game at Hyndman, as the Huskies led the Hornets from start to finish. NHS was up 8-6 after one quarter, and steadily increased its lead to 20-14 at the half and 34-19 at the onset of the final period.

Elks Hoop Shoot Correction Noted

The reporting on the first round of the national Elks Hoop Shoot competition in last week's sports pages contained an error. The best performance in the entire contest was turned in by Matt Skidmore of the 12-13 boys' category, who connected on 19 of 25 free-throw attempts for an outstanding shooting percentage of 76 percent.

Skidmore and the other Oakland competition winners will be participating in the west regional bracket of the Elks Hoop Shoot this Saturday at St. Maria Goretti High School in Hagerstown. Winners from that contest will advance to the Maryland, Delaware, and District of Columbia competition, slated for Saturday, Feb. 17.

Condoerr Still Unbeaten After Last-Second Win

Sunday's action in the Men's Recreational Basketball League proved more exciting than that evening's Super Bowl match-up, as Condoerr's Mike Saturday sunk a clutch last-second shot to lift his undefeated squad to a 55-54 victory over Smiley's. Long Branch Saloon downed Beckman's 64-60, and Deep Creek Ready Mix defeated Mt. Top Glass 76-70.

Condoerr's record improved to 9-0 with the one-point win, and Dennis Gibson recorded a team-high 16 points while teammate Tom Stem contributed 12. Smiley's was paced by the game's leading scorer, Mike Harvey, who netted 17 points.

Long Branch improved its record to 5-4, behind Doug Copeland's 26-point performance and teammate Jason Shank's 14-point tally. Jared Beckman led all scorers with 27 points for Beckman's.

Deep Creek Ready Mix won the third game with a balanced offensive attack that included 22 points from Mike Browning, 19 points by Joey DiSimone, and 18 points from CJ. Getson. Mt. Top Glass's Ryan Adams recorded the game-high tally of 27 points.

Condoerr will go for win #10 against Deep Creek Ready Mix at 1 p.m. this Sunday at Southern High School. That battle will be followed by a 2 p.m. match-up between Beckman's and Smiley's, and at 3 p.m. Mt. Top Glass will square off against Long Branch. Keeping score for the respective contests will be Long Branch, Condoerr, and Smiley's.

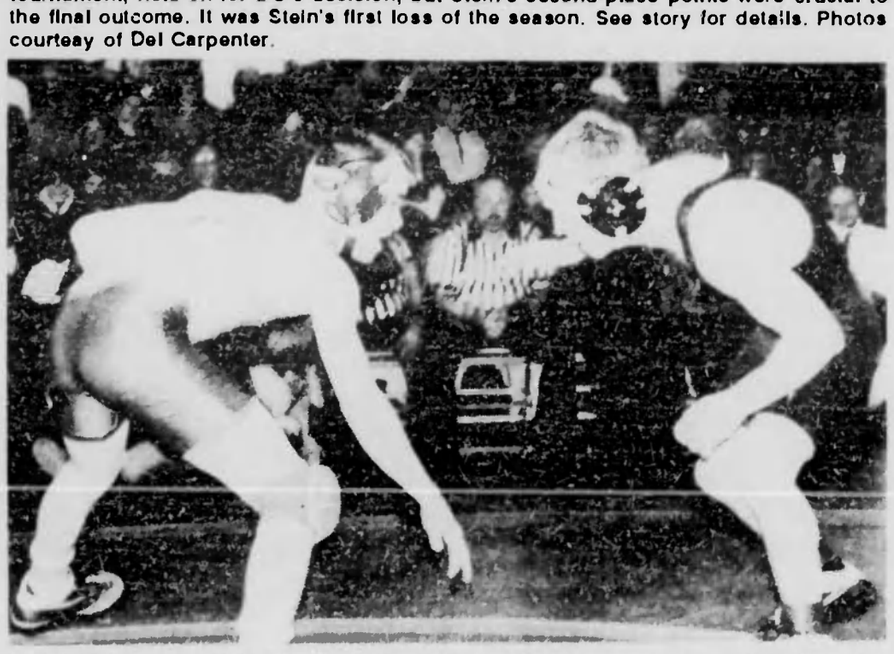
HUSKIES SUCCESSFULLY DEFEND TITLE - The Northern High School wrestling team added another significant feather to its cap this past weekend by winning the prestigious Thomas Chevrolet Tournament in Bedford, Pa., for the second straight year. The tourney includes nearly two dozen teams from Pennsylvania, most of which come from much larger schools than Northern. Besides winning the team title, individual gold medals were won by Mark Wolf, Brandon Kamp, and Blake Huber. Pictured above left, from left, kneeling, are: Mark Wolf, Pete Stein, and Blake Huber. IN the second row are: Coach Scott Stough, Lee Yoder, Danny Ganoe, Darric Kamp, Jeremiah Guard, Brandon Kamp, Kris Knox, and Coach Hordubay. Not present for the photo were Adam DeWitt, Jordan Brenneman, Trey Brenneman, and Bill Rodeheaver. In the photo above center, Mark Wolf (left) sizes up Mike Fowler of Cambria Heights, and eventually pins him, in the championship round of the 171-pound class. Above right, Northern's Blake Huber (right) clutches Mike Berkey of Chestnut Ridge and ultimately wins a tough 3-1 decision to capture the 112-pound division title. Below left, Brandon Kamp earns a gold for the Huskies by pinning Jason Paronish of Penn Cambria in the final bout of the 152-pound division. Below right, Northern's Pete Stein (left) squares off against nationally ranked and Penn State-bound Adam Smith of Newport High School in the finals of the 119-pound division. Smith, the top-ranked 2A wrestler in the tournament, held on for a 3-0 decision, but Stein's second-place points were crucial to the final outcome. It was Stein's first loss of the season. See story for details. Photos courtesy of Del Carpenter.



Husky Grapplers Retain Thomas Chevrolet Tournament Title

When the Maryland class 1A Northern High School wrestling team went to Bedford, Pa., last year to compete against nearly two dozen teams in the prestigious Thomas Chevrolet Tournament, there were few in the gymnasium who thought that the Huskies would return home with the team championship — the exception being many of the Huskies themselves and their confident coach, Scott Stough.

Even when the Huskies won that title, many Pennsylvania fans assumed it was probably a fluke for a school the size of Northern to be the giant killer of so many teams from much larger schools. With the graduation of several outstanding wrestlers, there would be no way that the Huskies could successfully defend their title.

But despite the loss of those team members to graduation, and despite the fact that they are, indeed, one of the smallest schools in the state, the Huskies proved Saturday that last season's title was no fluke by simply winning it again. They rallied from second place after the semifinal round to amass 160.5 final points and edge out North Schaylkill, which finished with 155.4 points. Forest Hills placed third, just .4 behind North Schaylkill, while Penn Cambria was fourth with 148.5 and Tri-Valley finished filth with 136. There were 22 teams in the tournament.

Three members of Coach Stough's team captured individual titles, including Blake Huber, Brandon Kamp, and Mark Wolf, while Pete Stein finished second, Jeremiah Guard placed fourth, and Bill Rodeheaver finished eighth.

Huber, a senior who is ranked first in the state in his division, won the 112-pound final by defeating Mike Berkey of Chestnut Ridge, 3-1. Huber was down 1-0 until he recorded a takedown at the second-period buzzer.

Brandon Kamp, who is a reigning state champion, won the 152-pound division title when he pinned Jason Paronish of Penn Cambria in 4:35, while Wolf, currently ranked second in the state, defeated Mike Fowler of Cambria Heights on points, 6-3, in the championship round of the 171-pound division. It was the second straight Thomas Chevrolet title for Wolf, who is also a current Maryland state champion.

Pete Stein's 3-0 decision loss to reigning Thomas Chevrolet champion Adam Smith of Newport High School in the title round of the 119-pound division was the first loss of the season for Stein, who is also a current state champion and is ranked second in his division. Smith, who was the top-ranked Class AA grappler going into the tournament, has accepted a scholarship to attend Penn State.

In the battle for third place in the 140-pound division, Guard was edged by Demianczyk of Fort Cherry, 3-0, and had to settle for fourth place, but still generated crucial points for the Huskies.

Northern went into the finals trailing Forest Hills in team points, 149-146.5, but pulled ahead for good with the gold medals won by Huber, Kamp, and Wolf.

"Everyone of our guys won at least one match for us," an elated Coach Stough said. "Some thought it was a fluke last year when we won, and we did have a stronger team with a lot more depth last year. But we knew we had five kids who could match up with anybody, and going into the finals we needed points from all five of them since we lost some of our consolation matches that morning. The three gold medals put us over the top."

The Huskies also captured their 12th dual meet win of the season last night by flattening visiting Westmar (see other story). They will wrestle again this evening at home against Fort Hill to conclude their regular season. The Huskies will be favored to win the dual meet regional title next Wednesday night.

Husky Matmen Blank Wildcats To Gain 12th Dual Meet Win

After successfully defending their title against 22 Pennsylvania teams in the Thomas Chevrolet Tournament in Bedford, Pa., on Saturday (see separate story), the Northern High School wrestling team breezed to a 74-0 shutout of visiting Westmar last night. It was the 12th victory in 13 starts in dual meets for the Huskies, who are the fifth ranked team among all high schools in Maryland this week.

A highlight of the team victory last night over Westmar was senior Mark Wolf's pin in the 171-pound class, which was his 100th high school career victory. Wolf is a reigning state champion and is currently 22-0 this season. He has only 20 losses, most of which were during his freshman season.

Other Huskies earning pins last night were: Adam DeWitt in the 103-pound division, Pete Stein (119), Dan Ganoe (125), Darric Kamp (130), Jeremiah Guard (140), Kris Knox (145), Bill Rodeheaver (189), and Trey Brenneman (275).

Brandon Kamp (152) and Lee Yoder (160) won their matches on points, while Blake Huber (112) and Gordon Brenneman (135) were awarded forfeits.

The Huskies are scheduled to host Fort Hill today in a match that will begin at 7 p.m. They will then be off until next Wednesday when they defend their title in the dual meet regional tournament.

Ram Wrestlers Hand Beall Mountaineers Second Defeat

On the strength of five pins in the first seven bouts, the Southern High School wrestling team handed visiting Beall only its second loss of the season last night, upping the Rams' record to 6-3-1.

Chris Hayhurst started things off for the Rams by recording a pin in the 105-pound class. Beall won the next two matches, and the Rams then reeled off four straight pins, by Joe Ashby (127), Jason Weeks (132), Nick Sines (137), and Shawn Shiflett (142).

Jeremy Lear followed with a decision for the Rams in the 147-pound division, Keith Bennett won on points in the 162-pound class, undefeated state champion John Hayhurst (15-0) was awarded a forfeit in the 191-pound division, and Brad Palmer wrapped it up by recording a decision in the heavyweight bout.

Earning pins for the Mountaineers were Nathan Workman (121), Nick Durst (154), and Ty Wiland (173), while Chris Lewis won the 114-pound division by decision in overtime.

The Rams will wrestle again tonight at home against Meyersdale, with that contest set to get under way at 7 p.m. They will host Westmar on Saturday (5 p.m.), and then compete in the dual meet regionals next Wednesday.

Southern High's Ron Petrella Girls' Soccer Coach Of Year

After leading the Southern High School girls' varsity soccer team to a 12-1 regular-season record, the Western Maryland Interscholastic League title, and the Area championship, second-year head coach Ron Petrella was voted the girls' Coach of the Year by area coaches. Petrella will be among those honored at the 53rd annual Dapper Dan Awards Banquet, to be held this Saturday, Feb. 3, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club in Cumberland.

Petrella, who was an assistant coach in the 1998 season under Nan Gangler, assumed the head coaching job of the Rams in 1999 and finished his first season with a winning record (7-5-1). His 2000 squad, despite featuring a number of starting sophomores and freshmen, had a school-record 11-match winning streak after dropping its first match of the season. The Rams' only other loss was in the playoffs to eventual regional champion Williamsport.

The Southern girls also led the area in goals per match, with a 3.38 average (44 for the season), and gave up a total of only seven goals for the campaign. They recorded seven regular-season shutouts.

"This is a great honor," Petrella said. "I never would have expected it.

"I'm thrilled to be a part of Southern High's athletic program, and hope that the girls' soccer program will continue to live up to the tradition that the other sports have set at the school. You just can't say enough about the school and its students, student athletes, teachers, coaches, parents, and fans," he said.

Serving as Southern's coach is not the only connection to the sport for Petrella, who has also been the president of the Mountaintop Soccer Association for the past seven years. Over that period the youth league has expanded from 350 to 560 players, and had a record-high 48 teams this past season. He also holds the Maryland State D coaching license, the highest license possible from the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association.

"Southern is fortunate to get top quality players who come up through the MSA youth program," Petrella said. "They already know the fundamentals of the sport, both technical and tactical, and what we do at the high school level is build and refine what their youth coaches have already taught them.

"The great majority of our varsity girls also have a super work ethic and a wonderful attitude," he said. "They excel both on and off the soccer field. We've had a lot of fun working together."

Matt Redinger, SHS athletic director, complimented Petrella on his accomplishments. "Ron has done an excellent job with the girls' program," he said. "He's especially strong in motivation and player development, and part of his success stems from the great job he's done with the youth league feeder program."

Other coaches of the year who will be honored at Saturday's banquet will be Barry Lattimer of Fort Hill, who was named the Coach of the Year in football, and Ray Kiddy of Beall, who was named the Coach of the Year in boys' soccer.

Among the student athletes to be honored will be Southern's Miriam Sincell, who was named the WMII Player of the Year and the Area Defensive Player of the Year. A junior sweeper, Sincell was one of the primary keys to the Rams' outstanding success on defense.

"Miriam is one of the main reasons we gave up only seven goals this season," Petrella said. "She has tremendous acceleration, great speed, recovers quickly, and never tires. She also makes her teammates around her perform better."

Redinger added, "We're all very proud of Miriam. She's not only an excellent player, but also an excellent student with a 3.8 GPA. She's a great representative of our school and our county."

Lakers Top Germantown, Get Forfeit From Dundalk

Two more victories, one on the court and one over the telephone, were recorded this week by the Garrett Community College men's basketball team, as the Lakers defeated Montgomery-Germantown Saturday at Germantown, 94-83, and were then awarded a forfeit last night from Dundalk. The Lakers received word yesterday that Dundalk would be "unable to play." The wins upped the Lakers' overall record to 17-4 and their Maryland JUCO mark to 8-4.

Kortaa Hall, who was the Lakers' leading scorer early in the season but then missed some games because of academic reasons, was back in peak form against Germantown on Saturday, as he poured in 25 points, including 12 from three-point range, and grabbed eight rebounds.

The Lakers held a 45-38 lead at halftime, but allowed the home team to score nine of the first 11 points of the second half and knot the score at 47-47. Garrett responded by going on an 11-0 run and regaining the lead for good.

Also reaching double figures were Rob Hall, who recorded 17 points, pulled down eight rebounds, dished out 11 assists, and had three steals; Anthony Campbell with 18 points, all but three of which were scored on three-point shots; and Dustin Long with 12 points, plus four blocks.

"Kortaa had a super game for us, but the performances of Rob Hall and Dustin Long were also crucial," stated GCC coach Dennis Gibson.

Leading Germantown with a game-high 28 points was Anthony Williams, who also grabbed eight rebounds, while Mandel Frazier recorded 22 points. Sinaly Kanate finished with 12 points and Jeff Eggert contributed 10.

The Lakers will host Howard CC this Saturday night, and will entertain the Rockville campus of Montgomery College next Wednesday. Tip-off for both contests will be at 7 p.m.

GCC Stymied By Southern Md., Crushes Harford By 58 Points

The women's basketball team of Garrett Community College tasted both victory and defeat this week, as the Lakers fell to the College of Southern Maryland Friday 97-59, but roared back the following afternoon to crush Harford Community College by 58 points, 80-22. A scheduled contest against Baltimore City CC was canceled last night (no forfeit). The split gives Garrett a 9-8 overall record, and a 7-5 JUCO mark.

Friday's contest at Waldorf held few highlights for the Lakers, as they found themselves down to Southern Maryland 46-18 at the half on their way to a 38-point loss. GCC's woes were especially evident in the rebounding department, as the Knights hauled down 62 rebounds to Garrett's 41.

GCC center Tameka Graves provided a bright spot by scoring 16 points and snagging seven rebounds. Guard Crystal Kimble added 11 points and seven rebounds, and forward Erica Henderson had 10 points. Southern Maryland's Nakim Ifejika mounted a double-double with 21 points and 10 rebounds.

The Lakers' tide turned the following evening as they exploded for a 58-point win at Harford. GCC, up by a 42-6 margin at the half, romped to victory with the help of a 74-31 rebounding advantage and a 22-8 steal margin.

"We needed this win," GCC coach Ann Wellham commented. "Our confidence needed a boost, and it was nice to see us play hard for 40 minutes."

Sophomore Graves led the way for Garrett with 17 points, freshman guard Christi Edgell scored 11 points, and sophomore guard JoEllen Kitt contributed 10 points. Freshman forward Donna Lyies swept the boards for 11 rebounds while fellow freshman post player Nikki Jackson grabbed eight rebounds and Henderson hauled down seven. Shawntice McLaughlin dished out six assists, and she and fellow sophomore guard Gretchen Baker each had five steals. Harford's Leah Keller scored five points to lead her squad.

The Lakers will clock a few more miles on their van this week as they sojourn to Montgomery College-Takoma Park tomorrow, Cecil CC on Saturday, and Frederick CC on Tuesday. Their next home game will be this coming Thursday, Feb. 8, against the Hagerstown Hawks. Tip-off is set for 5 p.m.

ARCHERY COMPETITION

After two weeks of archery competition in D & B Sport Shop's winter league, it seems that area youth are leading the pack. The early league leaders are the team of Brian Roderick, Brad Roderick, and Chase Ashby. Brad and Chase are still in high school. Close on their heels is the team of Brad Reams, Bubba Friend, and Zane Kisner. These fellows had excellent scores the first week, but couldn't post a score for the second, as Bubba Friend came up with an arm injury. If they shoot as well in their make-up round, they could take over the lead.

It's interesting that these archers are not only tough competitors but also savvy hunters. Each one of the six archers mentioned bagged a buck with their bows this past season.

FISHING UPDATE

Fishing through the ice of local lakes has been very productive lately. Reports are that there are many perch in the 15-inch class being taken, along with some large walleye. In the past two weeks a 10-pound and a 12-pound walleye have been taken through the ice.

Here are some things to remember if you are thinking about trying your hand at ice-top angling.

Check for known thin ice areas with a local resort or bait shop. Test the thickness yourself, using an ice chisel, ice auger, or even a cordless 1/4-inch drill with a long bit.

Wear a life vest under your winter gear. It's very difficult to pull yourself back onto the surface of unbroken, but wet and slippery ice.

Use the buddy system while ice fishing — it saves lives.

What should you do if a companion falls through thin ice? 1) Keep calm and think out a solution. 2) Don't run up to the hole. You'll probably break through and then there will be two victims. 3) Use some item on shore to throw or extend to the victim to pull him out of the water, such as jumper cables or skis, or push a boat ahead of you. 4) If you can't rescue the victim immediately, call 911. Many people carry cell phones. 5) Get medical assistance for the victim. People who are subjected to cold water immersion, but seem fine after being rescued, can suffer a potentially fatal condition called "after drop" that may occur when cold blood that is pooled in the body's extremities starts to circulate again as the victim starts to re-warm.

What if you fall in? Try not to panic. Instead, remain calm and turn toward the direction you came from. Place your hands and arms on the unbroken surface of the ice. Work forward on the ice by kicking your feet. If the ice breaks, maintain your position and slide forward again. Once you are lying on the ice, don't stand. Instead, roll away from the hole. That spreads out your weight until you are on solid ice. This sounds much easier than it really is to do. The best advice is, don't put yourself into needless danger by venturing out too soon or too late in the season.

FLY-TYING CLASS

Harold Harsh is starting a beginner fly-tying class on Monday, Feb. 5, at 6 p.m. at Spring Creek Outfitters. The cost is $45, which will cover the cost of materials used during the class. You must have your own tools. The class will run for four weeks on the succeeding Mondays. An in-termediate class will start after the end of the beginners class. For more info, call 301-387-2034.

LOOKING FOR SPRING?

On the afternoon of Superbowl Sunday, I saw one fly-fisherman working the Potomac near the mouth of the Savage River. The water flow was moderate and the bright sun made it look a bit like early spring, particularly since there wasn't much snow on the ground around Bloomington and Westernport in contrast to the inundation on the higher ground. Also, the electronic sign at the Westvaco plant was reading 45 degrees at 2:30 p.m.

SPRING GUN FLING

The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a fund-raising "gun bash" on April 14 at the Oakland Elks Lodge. Big prize for the day is a Honda 400 four-wheeler. Tickets are $25 and are available from the fire department members, or they can be purchased at D&B Sport Shop.

STATE PARK PASSES AVAILABLE

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, State Forest and Park Service, is pleased to announce the availability of the 2001 All-Season Pass for Maryland state parks.

When displayed from the owner's vehicle mirror, or presented in hand, the $60 pass offers free day use at Maryland state parks to the bearer and all guests within a single vehicle. Other benefits include free boat launching at most facilities, a 10% discount on all state operated concession items and boat rentals, and a lifetime of memories from a year of discovery. Passes may be purchased at any Maryland state park or at the State Forest and Park Service headquarters in Annapolis.

Maryland has 47 state parks, and the All-Season Pass provides considerable cost savings for families who love the outdoors and who frequently visit Maryland's parks. For more information on Maryland's state parks, call 1-800-830-3974 or visit DNR's web site at: www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/.

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Champion Archery

Tom and Brenda Broadwater, pictured above, and their son Jesse have opened Champion Archery along Old Frostburg Road in eastern Garrett County. The shop offers equipment, instruction, and an indoor shooting range. Champion Archery can be reached by calling 301-689-5010.

The Tom Broadwater family of Old Frostburg Road in Garrett County has opened Champion Archery, a business close to the hearts of the whole family, who is seriously involved in the sport.

Operated by Tom, his wife Brenda, and their son Jesse, Champion Archery offers an indoor shooting range, tune-ups, repairs, instruction, custom strings and cables, bows, accessories, and arrows.

Tom has worked on bows for 12 years, and has hunted and shot 3D, field, and indoor archery for the past 16 years. He said their business is unique because it's run by a family who shoots competitively and has achieved regional, state, national, and world championship titles. Family members are all state champions, son Jason is a regional champion, son Tommy is a national champion, and son Jesse is a five-time national champion and a world champion.

The family belongs to and shoots with the Cumberland Bowhunters Club in Cumberland.

The Broadwaters hope to get more families involved in archery to enjoy the sport and make new friends, as they have for the past 16 years.

"This is a sport that can be enjoyed year round," Tom said. "Archery has no age limit and is a fun sport for the entire family." He added that at their shop his family can help a person get started and fit him or her with the right bow and other equipment.

Champion Archery can be reached by calling 301-689-5010.

AREA MEN ENJOY PRODUCTIVE HUNT - Six local residents recently traveled to Colorado on a hunt for elk and muledeer. Luckily, these hunters hit the migration of the elk and ended up with 100% kill. The hunters were also fortunate enough to draw excess cow tags. They plan to travel back to Colorado in the near future. The hunters are, from left, Charlie Hunter, Frostburg, Wilmer Warnick, Grantsville, Regis McKenzie, Jr., Frostburg, Marvin Warnick, Grantsville, Regis McKenzie, Sr., Frostburg, and Kevin Broadwater, also from Grantsville.

Otto was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI), and an ensuing search revealed that he and his two passengers, Renee Lynn Woodside, 18, Morgantown, W.Va., and Joshua Conners DeBarr, 19, Dellsow, W.Va., were carrying drugs on their persons and in the car.

Each of the subjects was charged with possession of Ketamine, LSD, peyote mushrooms, and associated drug paraphernalia. Otto was released this morning when he posted a $5,000 bond, and DeBarr and Woodside were released after each posted a $1,000 bond.

C3I Child Abuse Arrest

An inmate about to be released from the Garrett County jail after completing a jail sentence there was arrested this past Thursday on child abuse charges that were filed in Allegany County.

Michael Lewis Senn, 34, Newark, Del., was arrested by Maryland State Police Tfc. K.L. Detrick of the Allegany County Combined Criminal Investigation Unit (C3I) on a detainer warrant charging him with second- and third-degree child abuse, fourth degree sex offense, perverted practice, and battery.

Allegations that Senn had sexually abused a juvenile during incidents in Frostburg that spanned a period from 1994 to 1998 were investigated by the C3I Unit, and the arrest warrant was obtained at the end of December. Senn remains incarcerated in the Allegany County jail on a $20,000 bond.

last minute when Duke came back and put the game into overtime. Of course, the Terps choked and managed to lose in the last seconds. Both Robbie and his dad were just sick about it. But Sunday they perked up to host a small family Super Bowl party. Most of the group were luke-warm fans who were rooting for the Baltimore Ravens, since they are our own state team.

But down the road at Lenny and Sally Poholsky's house a few Steeler fans gathered to cheer for the Giants, because according to Lenny and Torrey, Steeler fans should root for the other team rather than the Ravens since the Ravens took the Steelers out of the playoff picture. A group of Grantsville fellow Steeler fans, including Kevin and Mary Jo Johnson, Kevin and Natalie and Joe Helda, and Ellen and Sam Housley and Brent, were among the group.

I don't agree with them that it is better to be defeated by the ultimate championship team. Lenny and Torrey agree that it is about time that that wonderful receiver from the "glory days" of Steeler football during the '70s when we dominated the Super Bowls for many years, Lynn Swann, finally made it in the Hall of Fame. I rarely missed a Super Bowl party in those days, but I can't bother with it now. I could have gone along with my cousin, Courtney Englar, to Thurmont, to my brother Barry's big annual Super Bowl party. But I couldn't bother to go all that way when I couldn't even bother to go next door. But my girls did go down to Rodney's to just hang out with their cousins.

I did watch the game on TV alone, but it did not hold my interest much. In fact, I went outside to look at a lovely winter silver-crescent moon during the half-time show. The announcer said, "Boy, we really have come a long way from the old days when the half-time show 'featured some top college marching bands.'" Yes, I agree we've come a long way – straight down the hill. I mean, really, why they torture real football fans with Nsync, Aerosmith, and Britney Spears? Please give me a break. After those teenbop stars performed, I even stopped watching the rest of the game and went to bed since my bet (a whole two dollars) with Lesa Whittemore was pretty safe. After the game my girls woke me to tell me that the Ravens had won.

Speaking of kids, they do not let any bad weather or bad roads dim their fun spirit. Steve Rounds, Zach Bruch, and Lauren Wiley visited with Brent Housley during last weekend for some snowmobile action in the Grove. I heard from several sources that Steve is one of my biggest fans.

My Caitlin attended a birthday party for one of her best buddies, Dana Hannibal, at Accident. They had a ball watching movies and sled riding. This week the same gang will celebrate Jamie Haydel's birthday. When I was the age of my daughters, there was not much birthday partying. It is a rare weekend when we do not have at least one birthday party for one of the girl's friends.

Don and Jane Sealing will be celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary on February 3. I guess it's not too late to participate in the card shower being planned for them. If you want to send congratulations to them, their address is 251 Maynardier Ridge Road, Bittinger, MD 21522. Better late than never.

Oh my goodness, I almost forgot the biggest news. My nephew, Elliot Glotfelty, age 11, son of Rodney and Marci Glotfelty, placed third in a national art contest to commemorate the Winter Olympics. He placed third among over 500 entries with his drawing of an Olympic skier. He was the recipient of $150 prize money, which is not bad for an 11-year-old boy. We are so proud of him, especially I, his artistic aunt. I gave him an art lesson a few years ago. Hence, he has produced many fine pieces of art. His drawing will go to Switzerland to the international level. Elliot and his twin brother Darryl are in the sixth grade at Northern Middle School.

Elliot's big brother Robbie and Shane Mayle from Bittinger got to take two days off from school to assist a group of blind skiers from the Maryland School for the Blind in Baltimore. They had a ball, both skiing and hanging out with the kids from Baltimore.

Dot Teets accompanied Larry and Sandy Nesline to Baltimore to help Dot's sister and Larry's mother, Audrey Nesline, celebrate her birthday. Robert and Denise Nesline and sons Ryan and Jeremiah, Garrettsville, also attended, along with Harry and Ruth Ellene Shafer from Lebanon, Pa.

Glade Mennonite will hold a "Kids Night" on February 7 at the church. Group activities for kindergarten through 6th grade youth will be from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The group will continue its meetings on the first and third Wednesdays of every month. Persons may contact Nancy Kauffman at 301-245-4041 for additional information.

CHOCOLAT

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:01 - Released 12/22/00

Most movies play solely to the eyes and ears in us, but occasionally one comes along that seems to appeal to all the senses, defying the inherent physical impossibilities; Lasse Hallstrom's Chocolat is such a film. While it portrays a nice love story and no small amount of social commentary, Chocolat has us practically smelling and tasting every scene. A romantic comedy with a decidedly sweet tooth, it tells the story of a single mother in the mid-1950s who moves to a small town in France and opens a gourmet chocolate shop with nearly spiritual consequences. Besides the effervescent interaction among its cast members, and the subtly elegant screenplay by Robert Nelson Jacobs (based on the book by Joanne Harris), the film has so many beautiful images of the preparation of the cacao-based confectionary it's positively inspiring. I've not had a film make me crave chockies so much since Willy Wonka.

As the film's opening narration points out, the tiny, provincial town into which Vianne Rocher (Juliette Binoche) and her pre-teen daughter Anouk (Victoire Thivisol) move is not known for its adventurism. Nearly everyone attends the regular Catholic church services, and since the film begins during Lent, the sermons are all about resisting temptation. The church attendance is overseen by the town's stern mayor, Comte de Reynaud (Alfred Molina), who, because of his lack of faith in the new twentysomething priest (Hugh O'Conor), takes it upon himself to write sermons for the father to deliver. Into this austere atmosphere comes Vianne, who not only does not attend church, but has the nerve to open a chocolaterie in the midst of this holy period. Although some of the more pious townspeople see Vianne as a threat from the start, she does make a few friends, primarily because of the astounding nature of her product. Using an ancient family recipe passed down by her mysterious Incan mother, Vianne blends cacao with Mexican chili peppers, resulting in a confection that lightens people's hearts and prompts vigorous lovemaking between couples who had lost their spark. One of these friends is the elderly Amande Voizin (Judi Dench), whose age-old feud with her daughter Caroline (Carrie-Anne Moss) had turned her into a tired, bitter old woman.

After some time has passed and Vianne has established an uneasy truce with Reynaud and his followers, a group of gypsy-like "river people" led by the dashing Roux (Johnny Depp) arrives, prompting societal outrage and an open campaign of hostility toward the visitors. Naturally, this prompts Vianne to become friends with Roux, and their association nearly tears the town apart. Interwoven into this is another sub-plot involving an abused wife (Lena Olin) who comes to live with Vianne while Reynaud tries to counsel her dim-witted, alcoholic husband (Peter Stormare) back to a state of propriety.

Chocolat gives director Hallstrom, who helmed last year's variously-nominated The Cider House Rules and also the masterful 1993 Depp vehicle What's Eating Gilbert Grape?, the opportunity to weave a complex and socially-conscious story into a more lighthearted presentation, and he does so with great style. His love for chocolate shows through, since it is practically elevated to the status of another character. Rich, brown, swirling bowls of the stuff, hollow Incan figurines and bowtied boxes of nuts and creams; these images are ever-swirling along with the various goings-on among the characters, with considerable depth added by the quirky original music of veteran film composer Rachel Portman. Binoche is radiant with a confident charm; she and Depp have an easy, comfortable connection with each other, and Molina provides the perfect counterpart, a villain who is at the same time a human being. Dench puts out yet another amazing performance; I'm beginning to think the woman can do no wrong. Also notable are 8-year-old Thivisol, who wowed critics as a 4-year-old in the title role of Jacques Doillon's moving Ponette (1996), and teenager Aurelien Parent-Koening, making his debut.

Religious issues, spousal abuse, strife between parent and child, alcoholism, psychological problems, love, lust, social propriety, class struggles, death. All these topics are somehow covered...in Chocolat. ★★★★★

THE WEDDING PLANNER

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:42 - Released 1/26/01

The Wedding Planner, starring Jennifer Lopez and Matthew McConaughey, features a story with clear potential which was shamefully squandered on an inept, formulaic writing approach. Moreover, although it's supposed to be a chick flick, it's one of those movies that would make any self-respecting woman furious, implying that a smart, successful female cannot have a complete life without a man in it. The first major release directed by choreographer-turned-director Adam Shankman, The Wedding Planner has supposedly intelligent characters saying and doing such painfully stupid things, we can't help but cringe. Like a doctor who only eats the brown M&M's because he figures they have less artificial coloring "since chocolate is brown anyway." Whaaaaat? And furthermore, the script by Pamela Falk and Michael Ellis, seems to feel that life is all about lying (it makes this point on several occasions), and its characters are so badly developed, we find ourselves rooting for the wrong guy. Aren't the movies' protagonists supposed to have some sort of redeeming qualities?

San Francisco wedding consultant Mary Fiore (Lopez) is a respected professional who has done numerous major nuptial events for people like Whitney Houston, and her experience has given her the ability to predict the duration of a marriage based on things like the colors chosen for bridesmaids' dresses or the music used in the ceremony. For instance, she says the use of Olivia Newton-John's "I Honestly Love You" puts the marriage firmly in the 12-to-14 month category. How touching. She runs a wedding like a military operation, complete with headsets and on-site computer monitors, saying things like, "I've got a twenty on the FOB (father of the bride)." Still, since her home life consists of eating all her meals in front of the Antiques Roadshow and attending regular Scrabble tournaments with her old man (Alex Rocco) and his geriatric friends, her friend Penny (Judy Greer) seems to think that Mary needs a man, any man, at any expense. So, when Mary survives a patently stupid accident, being saved from a rushing dumpster by cute, caring, M&M-sorting pediatrician Steve Edison (McConaughey), all her problems seem to be over. They go out on a date, dance, watch a movie, and almost kiss...and after all, girls, he's a doctor! The trouble is, he's engaged. And his intended is none other than Fran Donelly (Bridgette Wilson), Mary's latest client.

Besides being utterly predictable and having all its plot elements revealed in the trailer, The Wedding Planner suffers from an inability to craft characters we care about. The most charming person, who we actually would like to see win, is the "other man" — a shy, romantic Italian guy (Justin Chambers) who seems to really care about Mary. Steve, on the other hand, seems to be little more than a boorish lout who can't decide whose skirt he wants to chase. Though he's supposed to be the supervising pediatrician at the local hospital, he seems to have a lot of time on his hands, spending most of the film horseback riding, taking dancing lessons, and breaking the private parts off of public statues (for which he is apparently not prosecuted). His only patient, in fact, is Mary, for whom he orders a CAT scan after her tumble in the street (which does not even muss her hair). Hope she has insurance.

I would not want to have a cynical person like Mary planning my wedding. I would not want to have a selfish jerk like Steve taking care of my kids. So why would I want to see them marry each other? ★½

SUGAR AND SPICE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:30 - Released 1/26/01

One would think that the idea of "cheerleaders gone bad" would have unlimited appeal to an over-the-hill, has-been, married-with-children kind of guy like me. But Francine McDougall's Sugar And Spice, with all its teenage flesh, bouncing cleavage, and panty clad slumber parties, turned me off. To the max. And even though one year ago, Kevin Spacey (who is very close to my age) was inspired to an Oscar-winningly lustful performance by the wicked wiles of pom-pom girl Mena Suvari in American Beauty, here she is just another one of the dippy chicks spouting A-Squad cheerbabble while we in the audience struggle to make it through the sheer stupidity (not to mention moral bankruptcy) of Mandy Nelson's willfully airheaded script. A few months ago, Peyton Reed's similarly-themed Bring It On surprised us with its ability to be more than its silly trailer suggested; Sugar And Spice, whose preview seems to imply a kind of edgy sarcasm, only rarely succeeds at that.

You know you're in a teenage movie when the characters are "introduced," one by one, by means of a voiceover from one of the cast. Here, we meet the five members of Lincoln High School's A-Squad through disgruntled B-Squad member Lisa (Marla Sokoloff, Whatever It Takes), whose desire to be a part of the main group is surpassed only by her intense hatred for them. First there's Diane (Marley Shelton), the ever-perky, ever-optimistic team captain, who is in love with star quarterback Jack (James Marsden), so much so, in fact, that she is expecting his child. The other four are badass delinquent Kansas (Suvari), virginal Christian nitwit Hannah (Rachel Blanchard), geek genius and OCD sufferer Lucy (Sara Marsh), and fanatic Conan O'Brien devotee Cleo (Melissa George). Despite the vast disparities in their obviously contrived character traits, these five girls spend so much time together they experience the harem syndrome. Later they are joined by Fern (Alexandra Holden), whose father supplies the guns.

To make a long and silly story short, the girls decide to rob the supermarket bank branch where Diane works in order to pay for her child's...well, life, I guess. They watch famous bank robbery movies "to learn from the characters' mistakes," buy matching Betty doll masks, and plan their caper down to the last detail. Although they seem to have planned the perfect crime, one particularly savvy eyewitness seems to have the goods on them.

Although Nelson's debut script has a few admittedly clever elements, like Jack lovingly measuring Diane's growing belly every month while she plots the crime of the century behind his back, it's mostly first-class fluff. The mask bit is obviously director McDougall's favorite part, as is evidenced by her tendency to linger on the rubbery faces of the five "Bettys" (and one Nixon). But what seemed like a biting black comedy in the trailer turns out to be just another dumb cheerleader flick. ★½

Hepatitis C Infection: A Silent Disease

Hepatitis C (HCV) is a viral infection with inflammation of the liver. Hepatitis C is considered the leading cause of liver cancer. An estimated 100 million persons worldwide are affected. Over 30,000 Americans contract the virus each year. HCV is one of the so called "silent diseases" because it may take years, even decades, for symptoms to develop, and then the symptoms are often mistaken for the flu. The hepatitis C virus is transmitted through infected blood or blood products. According to the Centers for Disease Control, the virus can enter the body through broken skin (minor cuts or scrapes) or on needles used for tattooing, body piercing, or drug injections. Physical contact is safe as long as blood is not involved.

needed better ventilation," Yoder said. He added that the renovations completed on the building in effect made it more tight, and the air exchange in the center needed to be improved.

The results of the testing and plans for implementing recommendations were discussed with parents in a meeting on Jan. 30. Yoder said that he anticipates that there will be parents who still have concerns. "In no way is anyone required to enroll their child in the Jennings Center. Community Action will work to assist parents who want to use another center or participate in the Head Start home-based component," said Mary Beckman, Head Start director.

Pam Nelson, vice president for Community Services and Family Development at Community Action, also noted that plans are being implemented to develop an air exchange system in the building. "In the short term, we will regularly ventilate the building. At the same time we are in the process of designing and acquiring funding to construct a permanent air exchange system," Nelson said. She also noted that regular monitoring and testing will be conducted.

DANCE

There will be a dance in the SHS cafeteria following the Southern vs. Northern boys' basketball game this Friday, Feb. 2, until 11 p.m. Out-of-school guests must be signed up in advance with either Mrs. Wilson or Miss Teagarden. Proceeds will benefit the class of 2003.

AFTER-PROM

Parents are being sought to help with the planning and organizing of the 10th annual after-prom event, slated for April 28. Interested parents are asked to visit the display set up on parent conference night to pick up a schedule of meetings and browse through the picture scrapbooks we have from the last 10 years.

"We need parents from all grades to bring their ideas and energy to our planning meetings to make sure we continue to provide a safe alternative to drinking and driving on prom night. This year's prom is three weeks earlier than usual, so we'll have to organize in February and March. Any parent is welcome to help us out," said Lisa Bender, coordinator.

A FIREFIGHTER LESSON — Students in Cathy Helbig's class at Dennett Road Elementary School spent some time learning from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. In the above photo, Mike Pritt, in full firefighter gear, demonstrates how a firefighter is to be trusted rather than feared. The students were also given an opportunity to see the Oakland VFD's latest addition, the ladder/equipment truck.

WWII ERA MEMORIES SOUGHT — With its sturdy steel hull, the USS Garrett County, shown above, symbolizes the ironclad determination local residents shared with fellow Americans and their allies to defeat the forces of tyranny at work during the first half of the 1940s. The three-year interview process of the Garrett County World War II oral history project is drawing to a close this month, as Southern High School students, and any interested Northern High students, will be conducting their final interviews. All local veterans and home front survivors of the WWII era are welcome to participate in the project by contacting retired SHS history teacher Matt Novak at 301-334-3413 as soon as possible after this Sunday, Feb. 4, to discuss scheduling an interview appointment within coming weeks. After this month's set of interviews is complete the students will edit the stories that have been collected and will prepare an approximately 300-page book for publication and sale early next year. The ongoing oral history project will continue to seek interview subjects beyond this month, and the students are interested in interviewing people who have stories on the Korean, Vietnam, and Persian Gulf wars, as well as the Great Depression and life in Garrett County before WWII. Any person willing to share such memories with generations to come is asked to contact Novak as well.

Paugh Receives Community Service Award From Baltimore Ravens

In recognition of a lifetime of community service, Sharon Paugh of Elk Garden, W.Va., recently received the Baltimore Ravens Community Service Quarterback Award. She was one of 10 finalists selected from the area that the Ravens, the NFL Super Bowl XXXV champions, call home.

"Sharon is an active duty citizen and a great role model," said Angela Gleason, who supervises Paugh's work as a member of A STAR! In Western Maryland AmeriCorps and nominated her for the award. She averages about 50 hours weekly with the Garrett County Department of Social Services, where she works with foster children.

Along with her AmeriCorps duties, Paugh volunteers for a host of organizations in the Kitzmiller-Elk Garden area. Now in her 14th year with the Elk District Ambulance Service, she kicked off efforts to construct a facility for the service, revamped its policies and procedures, and serves as an EMT and CPR instructor. She is both secretary and EMS lieutenant with the Kitzmiller Fire and Rescue Squad. Although her children are grown, she belongs to both the Kitzmiller and Elk Garden chapters of the PTA. She works with the Kitzmiller Little League, serves as co-spokesperson for the Kitzmiller Autumn Glory Planning Committee, and is recorder for Women of the Moose Lodge 191.

Although she clearly enjoys volunteer work, Paugh says her main priority is her family, especially the two grandsons whom she describes as "the light of my life." She logs many miles between her home in the Elk Garden area to Kitzmiller, where most of her family lives, to maintain those family ties. After working with the DSS, she says she has a new appreciation for her family's closeness, adding, "I thank the Good Lord for what I have."

After holding a variety of positions at both TDEC and Bausch & Lomb, doing shift work in Winchester, Va., and working for a while as a physician's assistant, Paugh decided to challenge herself with the belief that she "can! do anything." She discovered AmeriCorps, and said she was amazed that an organization promoting the kind of service she has performed all of her life and offering an education stipend actually existed. So she signed up, and spent her first year training DSS Welfare-to-Work clients in job skills.

She plans to use her AmeriCorps educational stipend to earn a certificate in social work from Garrett Community College. This past fall, she took a class in principles and practices of juvenile justice, and is taking a break this spring to pursue her EMT and Firefighter I training. She hopes to resume her studies next fall.

Paugh raves about her AmeriCorps experience. "I love AmeriCorps. It's a wonderful program. When people ask me what it is, I say, 'I am AmeriCorps,'" she said.

Now she has her football trophy from the Ravens award to prove it.

Established in 2000 by the National Football League, the Community Quarterback Award recognizes exceptional community leaders in each of the NFL's 31 team markets. The award is funded by NFL Charities, which donates a total of $1 million in grants to the non-profit organizations served by the award winners. Paugh's award will yield $1,000 to A STAR! In Western Maryland AmeriCorps.

"This is a program to highlight unsung heroes, the volunteers in our communities who go beyond the call of duty," said Kenny Abrams, communications and development manager for the Ravens. "You hear a lot about athletes, but not about the everyday person helping the community," he added.

Abrams compares the competition to that of teams in the playoffs for the Super Bowl Championship. A regional winner selected from 10 finalists nominated by each team then goes on to the final level, at which the national award winner is chosen.

FSU directs A STAR! In Western Maryland (Appalachian Service Through Action and Resources) is an AmeriCorps program that enrolls 30 full-time AmeriCorps members providing programs that improve the literacy of school children, enhance the health care and living conditions of children and elderly people, help at-risk youth, improve shelter and support services for low-income families, and preserve the environment. A STAR! full-time members receive a modest living allowance and a full educational award for completing 1,700 hours of service and training during the year.

James Chaney Joins Burlington Family Services

The development program of Burlington United Methodist Family Services Inc. recently welcomed James Chaney to the staff of the program's Keyser office. Gary K. Wilson, Burlington's president/CEO, announced Chaney's hiring as a special assistant to the president in the areas of planned and deferred giving. Chaney will work with current and prospective donors and constituents to cultivate their support for Burlington's ministry to children, youth, and families in crisis.

Chaney joins Burlington Family Services after an established career with the U.S. Postal Service. He has also worked in accounting, marketing, and financial services. A Keyser native, he has an associate in applied science degree in industrial management technology from Potomac State College of West Virginia University, and a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Limestone College in Gaffney, S.C.

He will work with individuals, churches, and others primarily in the Potomac Highlands District of the West Virginia United Methodist Church. This district includes the counties of Grant, Hardy, Hampshire, Mineral, Pendleton, Tucker, and part of Preston in West Virginia, and Garrett County. Chaney will provide personal contact with donors to assist them in deepening their understanding, appreciation, advocacy, and support for Burlington's vision and ministry.

"I've known of Burlington's programs and services for many years, and I have always admired and supported the work they have done. I'm very happy to be a part of the team working to further the goals and mission of Burlington's ministry," stated Chaney.

Chaney has 25 years of experience working for the U.S. Postal Service in a variety of positions. His postal tenure includes 10 years serving as postmaster in Keyser, W.Va., and Cayce-West Columbia, S.C., and four years as a customer relations/commercial accounts consultant in Columbia. He also has experience in marketing and sales of insurance and financial instruments and in accounting procedures in an insurance claims division.

Chaney and his wife Beverly recently returned to the Keyser area from South Carolina. Beverly is a registered nurse employed in the Long-Term Care Division of the W.Va. DHHR. They are the parents of three grown children, and they have two grandchildren.

HYPNOSIS CAN BE VERY DANGEROUS

Never permit yourself to be hypnotized by anyone but a physician or a dentist, who sometimes may use hypnotism as an anesthetic for childbirth, surgery or easing of anxiety or pain. Avoid hypnotists who use it for entertainment. Hypnotism is not a toy.

For in unskilled direction, a reaction may result leaving one with mental disturbances, nausea, with some such cases reported serious enough to need psychiatric treatment or hospitalization. Amateur hypnotists are dangerous.

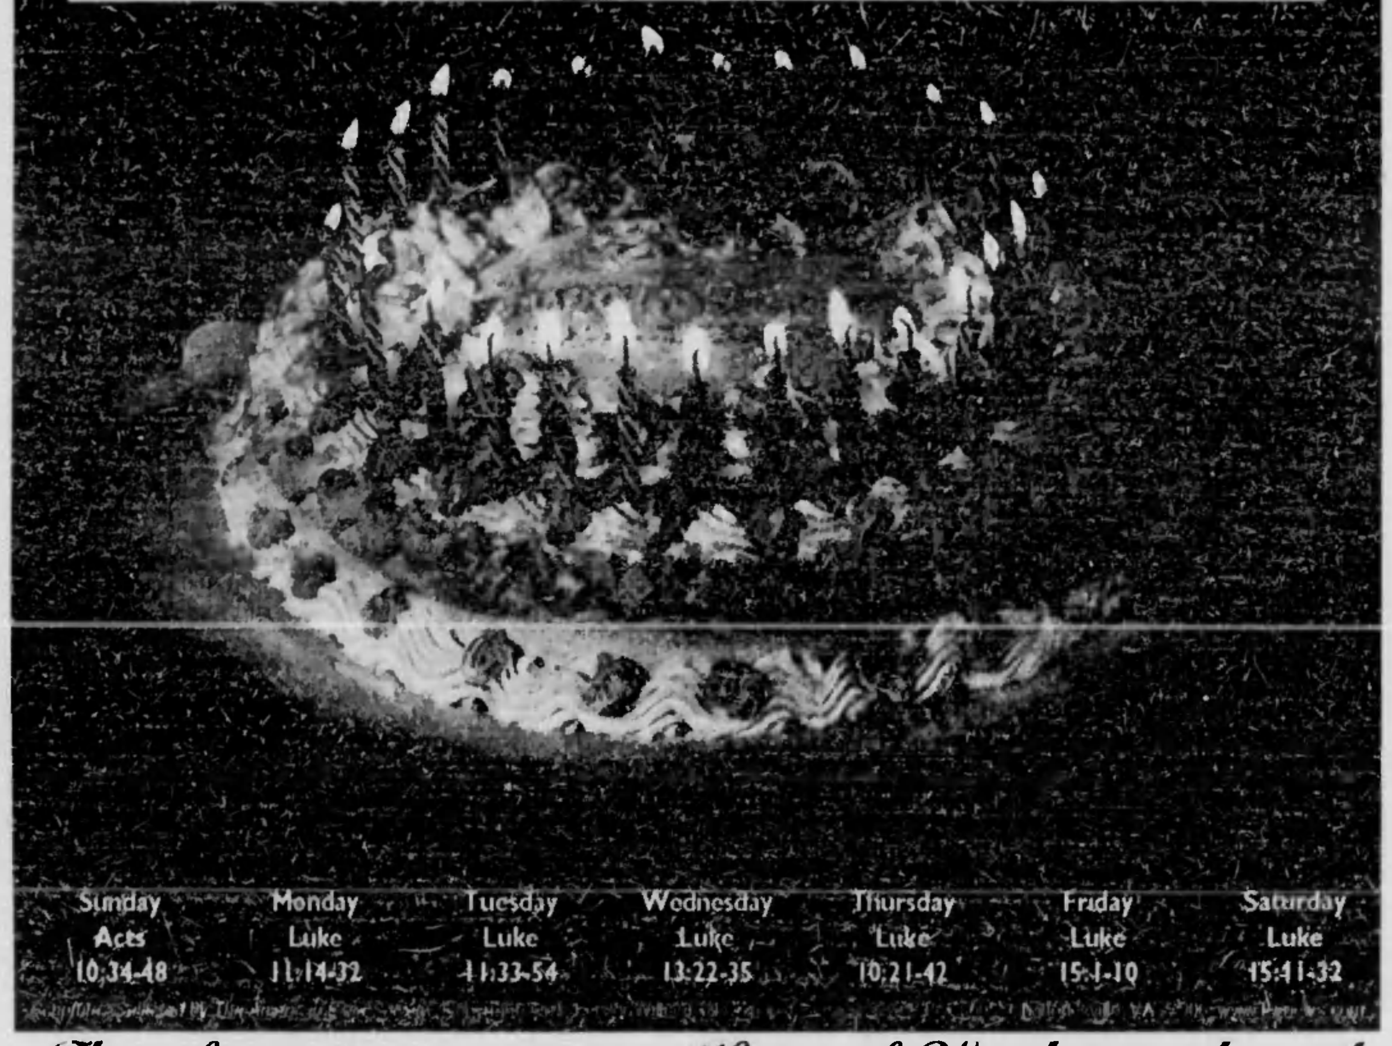
SWEETER THAN HONEY

Oh, how many of us love sweets! Birthdays bring cake frosted with clouds of icing and topped with mounds of ice cream. Easter hatches chocolate eggs and Christmas and Hanukkah claim their own traditionally rich cakes and confections. Of course, sometimes we enjoy them too much and pay weighty consequences.

We read God's Word in Psalms 105:103... "How sweet are Thy words to my taste, sweeter than honey to my mouth!" Imagine a sweetness more wonderful to the senses than anything you have ever tasted. Best of all...the more the better! Does it sound too good to be true?

Indulge your spirit in God's House this week. Don't pass up the richness of God's love and the sweetness of His peace. Faith in our Lord satisfies our every need. Take the occassion to worship this week.



THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GRASPING WHAT HE SAYS

February 4, 2001

Background Scripture: Luke 18:15 through 19:10
Devotional Reading: Matthew 10:34-39

What an advantage we have over "the twelve," the first disciples of Jesus! We have more than two thousand years and billions of written and spoken words to help us understand what Jesus is teaching us with what he said and did. Yet, for all of that, do we really grasp the teachings of Jesus?

In Luke 18:31-34 Jesus assembles "the twelve" and tells them that he and they are going to Jerusalem where death and resurrection await him. "But they understood none of these things; this saying was hid from them, and they did not grasp what was said." The reason they did not "grasp what was said" is that it was so diametrically different from what they expected of the messiah. In time, they learned what all of us must learn: anyone who takes Jesus seriously must be constantly prepared to be confounded by him.

They experienced this, not only in Jerusalem, but on the way, too. Luke 18 and 19 are full of surprises. In 18:9-14, the parable of the Pharisee and the tax collector, he totally redefines the meaning of real piety (the Pharisee wasn't, but the tax collector was!). In 18:15-17, as people were bringing "infants to him that he might touch them," he surprised them again: "Let the children come to me... for to such belongs the kingdom of God." In 18:18-30, his encounter with the "rich ruler" to whom he issues the challenge to "Come, follow me," presents a revolutionary interpretation of discipleship.

Who is Important?

Then, on the way to Jerusalem, Luke 18:35-43, Jesus demonstrates to his disciples just whom they ought to regard as "important." A blind beggar cries out, "Jesus, Son of David, have mercy on me!" Told to shut up, the man only cried the louder and to everyone's astonishment, Jesus stopped and restored the man's sight. A nice thing to do, we might say, but wouldn't it have been better if Jesus had waited to heal someone more important? By his action, Jesus challenged them to see this man in a radically new light.

Then, just in case they didn't grasp his teaching, he did it again as he entered Jericho. Here, it was someone at the very bottom of the social ladder: a rich chief tax collector. Because they worked for their Roman oppressors and became rich while doing so, they were the ultimate swine of society. We can hardly appreciate their sense of shock and outrage when Jesus went with him to his house. What could have been more galling than to hear him say to the hated tax collector, "Today salvation has come to this house, since he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of man came to seek and save the lost."

Well, of course, Jesus came to "seek and save the lost," but shouldn't he be more judicious in terms of whom he includes in "the lost"? Surely the kingdom of heaven—or even our church—is no place for people of bad reputation. If we deem someone despicable, surely Jesus cannot want that person in his domain?

Sinners Transformed

In this incident with Zacchaeus Jesus radically redefines the meaning of discipleship. We do not become his disciples by saying, "Yes, Lord, I believe," but by letting Jesus transform our lives as he did the life of Zacchaeus. He stood up and told Jesus: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor, and if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I restore it fourfold." Zacchaeus did not deny his sins and he was not looking for cheap grace. Yes, he had become wealthy on his share of the taxes he gathered, so now he would give have of his wealth to the poor. Nor did he deny that he had cheated some, but he promised to repay them fourfold what he had taken from them.

The tax collector of Jericho truly grasped what following Jesus meant. It was not enough to say, "I'm sorry," but "This is what I'm going to do because I'm sorry." Grasping the meaning of Jesus' teachings means saying "YES" to his challenge in the most active, positive way.

When Jesus told Zacchaeus that "I must stay at your house today," when they saw it, all murmured, "He has gone in to be the guest of a man who is a sinner." But Jesus also had a radically different concept of who are the sinners. As the comic strip character "Pogo" once observed, "We have met the enemy and he is us", so Jesus teaches us, if we will grasp it, that he came to "seek and save the lost"—and that is us, all of us!

Plummer vanishes into his roles

By Taylor Michaels

Christopher Plummer

Q: Back on Nov. 17, the cover of our local TV Week had a picture of two actors, one of them named Christopher Plummer. Is he the father of the handsome actor from The Sound of Music, which recently had a 35th anniversary airing on NBC? –Lisa Brown, Ruby, S.C.

A: It's the same actor. That November cover picture featured Plummer, now 73, in heavy makeup for his role as F. Lee Bailey in the CBS TV movie American Tragedy. The versatile actor likewise vanished inside his role as Mike Wallace in 1999's Oscar-nominated film The Insider.

Plummer also was artificially aged a bit for his role as Baron von Trapp, since he was only 37 when he filmed The Sound of Music. By the way, in case you haven't heard, Plummer and Music co-star Julie Andrews will reunite this spring for a live CBS telecast of On Golden Pond.

Q: Did I recognize Kevin Bacon in a tiny cameo in Planes, Trains & Automobiles, or was that another actor? Also, I understand that Kevin Costner originally had a part in The Big Chill that was edited out. Who did he play? –David Beaulieu, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A: Yes, Bacon did a tiny cameo as "taxi racer" for director John Hughes, for whom Bacon starred in She's Having a Baby the following year.

As for Costner, he played Alex, whose suicide prompts the reunion of old friends in The Big Chill. Originally, the film included a flashback sequence showing the characters in their salad days, but director Lawrence Kasdan decided the movie was stronger without it and cut that footage altogether. That is really Costner whose body is being prepared for the funeral in the opening title frames, though.

Q: Rae Dawn Chong of Mysterious Ways seemed to drop out of sight for the past few years. What happened to her? –I.P. via e-mail.

A: Chong tells me she took a few years off to help raise the child of a man with whom she was in a relationship at the time. She also has a son of her own from her first marriage in the mid-1980s.

Q: My brother and his friends insist that Shaquille O'Neal is the son of Ryan O'Neal. Can this be true? –Jim Greene, San Francisco.

A: Shaquille O'Neal is the son of an Army veteran named Philip Harrison, who moved his family to a number of military outposts in their early years.

Ryan O'Neal has four kids from relationships with three actresses: Joanna Moore, the mother of Tatum and Griffin O'Neal; Leigh Taylor-Young, the mother of Patrick O'Neal (who is now married to Rebecca De Mornay); and Farrah Fawcett, mother of Redmond O'Neal. Ryan's youngest son.

Monday In Focus

Elizabeth McGovern and Brian Benben star as a couple who open a drive-in theater in The Flamingo Rising airing Sunday, Feb. 4, on CBS.

When Hubert Lee (Benben) constructs a tacky, flamingo-marquee drive-in, the conservative funeral director across the street expresses his displeasure.

Hoping to mend the hard feelings between the commercial neighbors, Lee's wife (McGovern) befriends the funeral parlor's owner, but it may take more than just crossing the road when their children fall for each other.

Robert (Brad Garrett) never seems to garner as much attention as his older brother in Everybody Loves Raymond, airing Mondays on CBS.

Clark Fullerton Thomas of Arlington, Va., recently achieved the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank in the Boy Scouts of America, and will receive his Eagle Scout badge at a March 31 Court of Honor.

For his Eagle Scout public service project, Thomas made a number of improvements to Little Falls Presbyterian Church in Arlington, which he and his family attend. His project included building a large wooden compost bin to ecologically recycle the church's tree and yard waste, rebuilding the retaining wall of the outdoor chapel area, widening and improving paths to the outdoor chapel, painting an outdoor sign, and refurbishing a foot bridge.

Thomas is a member of Boy Scout Troop 647 in Arlington, which is led by Christopher Kihm, and has four years. He also is a member of the Brotherhood of the Order of the Arrow and has received numerous Scouting awards and commendations. He attended Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico this past summer for two weeks of hiking and backpacking. He is a freshman at Yorktown High School, where he is a member of the freshman football team and wrestling team. He also plays baseball in the Arlington Senior Babe Ruth League and is active in his church youth group.

Thomas is the son of Beth and Randy Thomas, and the grandson of Eleanor Fullerton of Arlington, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thomas of Friendsville. He intends to pursue a college degree in oceanography or marine biology.

Long & Foster Notes Deadline For Scholarship

Long & Foster Real Estate is announcing that the Long & Foster $100,000 Scholarship Program will end its search for well-rounded graduating high school seniors entering an accredited four-year college or university on March 1. All applications must be in by the deadline date of March 1 in order for the selection committee, consisting of local members of academia, to select the final scholarship winners by spring 2001.

The Long & Foster Scholarship Program will award $1,000 to each of 100 worthy recipients throughout the five state region for the 2001-2002 academic year. The monetary scholarship award will be made payable directly to the college or university in the student's name. Once the winners have been selected, the scholarships will be awarded beginning May 1, 2001. More than 1,300 applicants vied for the 60 scholarships in 2000. The scholarship was increased to $100,000 for the 2001-2002 academic year.

Eligible high school seniors must have at least a 3.0 GPA on a 4.0 scale, demonstrate financial need, indicate positions of leadership they held while a student, and describe in which school groups they have been involved, community organizations in which they have served, and whether they have held a part-time job while in school, to be considered well rounded applicants.

So that the selection committee can obtain a better picture of each student, applicants will be asked to write a short essay on either their most significant high school experience or their expectations for college.

Applications for the Long & Foster Scholarship Program can be obtained from any of Long & Foster's more than 160 residential sales offices located throughout the Mid-Atlantic region, from high school guidance counselors, via Long & Foster's web site at www.longandfoster.com/scholarship, or by calling 1-800-237-8800.

SHS Sets Open House Event For Incoming Frosh

Southern High School has set an open house orientation event for all incoming freshmen for Monday, Feb. 12, from 6 to 8 p.m. All parents and students of current eighth graders in the SHS district are encouraged to attend to open house to learn more about the scheduling process.

The event will get under way with a one-hour overview program presented by Southern High staff members, and will conclude with a question/answer period and a guided tour of the school facilities.

Parents of current Southern Middle School eighth grade students should be aware that although SMS is conducting individual scheduling for all incoming freshmen during February, the open house event will replace individual parent conference sessions at the middle school.

Persons interested in further information may contact the Southern High guidance office at 301-334-1660.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Michael S. Phillippi, son of Dawn E. and Michael E. Phillippi of McHenry, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the destroyer USS Briscoe, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

Phillippi's ship participated in several multi-national exercises, including Veritas VI. These exercises focused on developing friendship, trust, and teamwork between coalition nations, and increased their combined military readiness for contingency operations. While participating in Veritas VI, an aircrew from USS Briscoe rescued 12 Moroccans adrift at sea.

Phillippi's ship visited cities in Israel and Spain, where sailors had the opportunity to shop, sightsee, and enjoy the local culture and cuisine. Crewmembers also participated in community relations projects.

According to a Navy spokesperson, destroyers like Briscoe have traditionally been the "workhorses" of the U.S. Navy, defending battle groups against threats from land and sea. Equipped with Tomahawk cruise missiles, harpoon anti-ship missiles, and Sea Sparrow missiles, USS Briscoe is capable of hitting enemy targets hundreds of miles away. In addition, Phillippi's ship carries two helicopters with sonar and torpedo capabilities, expanding the ship's reach.

Phillippi is a 1991 graduate of Southern High School, and joined the Navy in February 1992.

U.S. Navy Lt. Scott C. Luers, son of Jane S. King, Kevmar, and Robert F. Luers, Swanton, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the attack submarine USS Albany, home ported in Norfolk, Va.

During the deployment, Luers's submarine defended U.S. policy and supported international interests in the Middle East and Europe.

According to the Navy, Luers's submarine is one of the most sophisticated in the world. Equipped with torpedoes, harpoon anti-ship missiles, Tomahawk cruise missiles, and mines, the warship can provide surveillance and intelligence, support special operations, and launch missiles at enemy ships or land targets.

Luers is a 1991 graduate of Westminster High School of Westminster and joined the Navy in May 1995. He is a 1995 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a B.S. degree.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Toy cars and trucks of all sizes have always fascinated collectors, but in the past five years the toys going up in price the most seem to be the motorcycles.

The first motorcycle was made in 1885 by Daimler in Germany. The idea spread worldwide. One of the earliest motorcycles in the United States was the Indian Cycle made by Hedstrom and Hendee in 1901.

Toymakers quickly realized the appeal of the new machines, and lithographed tin and iron toys were made. The earlier the toy and the better the condition, the higher the price today. Original paint is especially prized.

Crossover motorcycle toys, like the one with Mickey and Minnie Mouse riding a cycle, sell for even higher prices. Last fall, the two mice on a motorcycle sold with the original box for $118,000. Other toys with Popeye, Mickey or other cartoon characters have sold for thousands of dollars. The most ordinary of iron motorcycle toys made before the 1960s sells for more than $100.

Q. I am a European living in the United States. A tall, one-door French Provincial cabinet shown in a recent column was labeled an armoire. We would call this kind of narrow cabinet a bonnettere. It was used in a front hall to hold coats, scarves and caps rather than in a bedroom for dresses and underwear.

A. Most French armoires have two doors, not one. However, the French word "armoire" has been adopted by the English language, while the word "bonnetiere" has not. So you will find that in the United States, people use the word "armoire" to describe any large clothing press or cabinet, whether it has one door or two.

Easing your pet's anxiety

Q. We adopted our dog, Curly, from a no-kill shelter two months ago. He's a sweet dog and trains very easily. However, he gets very upset and tears up his chew toys if he's in his crate for more than an hour. We tried leaving him with a friend during the workday, but he barked until we picked him up. What could be the problem? I think his experience at the shelter affected him. What do you think?

A. I think your instincts are right on. Shelter animals often display strong signs of separation anxiety when left alone, such as destroying toys or household objects, excessive barking (or meowing) and digging. And Curly is clearly anxious when you and your spouse aren't around. He may be worried that yet another family has abandoned him.

Easing Curly's anxiety will be a slow process of rebuilding his confidence in you. Set a schedule of training, crate and play time for your dog, one where he spends less than four hours in his crate at any time (except overnight).

After four to six weeks, increase his crate time to five hours. If he can handle this, then increase the time again after two weeks, and so on, until he has reached the maximum time of eight hours.

Keeping Curly calm at your friend's house involves a similar process. Visit often, for very short periods of time; let Curly get to know your friend, then take him home. After a few weeks, leave him there for 15 minutes before taking him home; gradually increase this time. Curly's familiarity with your friend, and his confidence that you will always return to pick him up, should stop the anxiety attacks.

Medication is normally the last resort for anxious animals; however, a prescribed dose combined with consistent training can have positive results. If Curly doesn't respond to his kennel training within a few weeks, make an appointment with his veterinarian for a checkup and to talk about options.

• On Feb. 7, 1821, American John Davis, a seal hunter from Connecticut who had been searching the South Shetland Islands for prey, becomes the first recorded person to set foot on the continent of Antarctica when he goes ashore at Hughes Bay.

• On Feb. 9, 1825, since no presidential candidate received a majority of the total electoral votes in the election of 1824, the U.S. House of Representatives votes to elect John Quincy Adams, who had won less votes than Andrew Jackson in the popular election, as president of the United States.

• On Feb. 10, 1846, the Mormon migration westward from Nauvoo, Ill., begins under the leadership of Brigham Young, the successor to the founder of the Mormon church, Joseph Smith. They eventually arrived in Utah's Valley of the Great Salt Lake, and pioneers began preparations for the tens of thousands of Mormon migrants who would follow.

• On Feb. 8, 1924, the first execution by lethal gas in America history is carried out in Carson City, Nev. Lethal gas as a method of carrying out capital punishment was largely replaced by lethal injection in the late 20th century.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The word "berserk" comes from two Norse words, "biorn," which means "bear," and "serkr," which means "shirt." In Scandinavian mythology, Beserkr was a great warrior who always wore a bearskin into battle — and nothing else. Supposedly, Beserkr had a dozen sons, and all were fierce warriors like their father. By the 1800s, "berserk" meant wild or frenzied behavior in general.

• Many people say that statistics lie, but that's not true. Statistics can't lie — but they can be misleading. Studies show that the percentage of people who are left handed is much higher among younger people than among the elderly. This led some people to speculate that lefties were more prone to accidents, and therefore tended to live shorter lives. The general consensus these days, though, isn't so unfortunate. It's just that in the past, people who were left-handed were pressured to use their right hands instead, and many people wouldn't even admit to being a lefty. These days, there's no stigma attached to being a southpaw.

• "Angry" and "hungry" are the only two words in common English usage that end in the letters "gry." A word no longer in use, however, is "gry," which is a unit of measure for one-tenth of a line, or anything that is very small.

• In some parts of Africa, the Nile monitor is used as a "watchlizard," due to the fact that they learn to recognize the person who feeds them.

• The tape recorder was first designed in 1878, and it was built 20 years later by a Dutch inventor. He called it a "telegraphone."

Julie Birchland Remembered, Honored At Northern Middle

by Jeremy Carr

Julie Birchland, who tragically passed away this past November as a result of a motor vehicle accident, left an everlasting mark on the a program at Northern Middle School, as well as some of its students.

Birchland, daughter of Geraldine Birchland, Accident, and the late Charles W. Dawson, had been at the school for only seven and one-half weeks before her untimely death. Yet she managed to make a wide variety of friends and become a popular student.

One of the reasons that she became so popular was that she was so quick to help other students. One particular friend of Birchland's was a boy named Andrew Brenes. He was born with cerebral palsy and requires assistance in getting to and from class. Birchland immediately recognized a fellow student in need and responded by talking with Brenes and helping him get to his classes.

"She was always smiling and was friendly to everyone," commented Brenes. As a result of this kindness and her passing, the students at NMS renamed their "Random Acts of Kindness" program after her.

This program was started two years ago as part of the school's character education curriculum. Students were encouraged to help other students or teachers in order to get their picture on the school's "Acts of Kindness" board in the front lobby and to receive special recognition.

It seemed only fitting for the students to name this program after a girl who had had such an effect on fellow students because of her random acts of kindness.

"The kids appreciate the recognition they receive by participating in the program," stated Jack Settle, school guidance counselor. Some of the students also joined together in helping Birchland's family after her death by collecting money to help pay for a headstone for her grave.

All who knew Birchland agree that she was a positive person. "She came from a neighboring state and apparently had a tremendous effect on the classmates who came in contact with her," said Settle.

GCC To Survey Area Community

Garrett Community College will be conducting a survey this month in order to evaluate how well the college is serving educational, economic, and cultural needs of the community. Information obtained through the survey will be used to assist the college in gauging the community's perception of its services and programs for future planning purposes. The survey is part of the accreditation process for the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges, which is required of institutions of higher education.

Survey forms will be mailed to area residences with the next few weeks. The response forms should take between five and ten minutes to complete, according to institutional research technician Kris Miller. All responses will be anonymous and will be used for statistical purposes only.

As an incentive for completing and returning a survey form, residents will be eligible for prizes in a random drawing. First prize will be a $250 GCC gift certificate toward tuition and fees; second prize will be a $50 gift certificate to Uno's Restaurant; third prize will be a GCC sweatshirt. Names of the winners will be published on the GCC web site and in a future news article.

Persons interested in further information about the community survey may call Miller at 301-387-3131.

HONDURAS PROJECT MAKING GOOD PROGRESS — Oakland resident Tom Doyle visited northern Honduras last January with plans to start building homes in the small village of Marion. In March he traveled back to Honduras with Nate Emory, a Spanish-speaking resident of Bittinger, to instruct the villagers in beginning the actual construction of their homes. By the time they left, two weeks later, five houses were under construction. In June, Doyle returned to check on their progress and discovered that the enthusiasm among the villagers was very high, and they were making excellent progress. By October, Doyle and his wife returned to dedicate the completed and occupied houses, and at that time, 40 homes were under construction. The entire village has been involved in the project, and many of the men have acquired a skill which will enable them to find work outside the village. Persons interested in further information can visit the web site, www.ChristiansforHonduras.com. Several of the constructed homes are pictured in the above photo. Many of the children of the village are pictured in the below photo.

Woman Injured In New Germany Road Accident

An Oakland woman sustained minor injuries after she lost control of her vehicle and crashed along New Germany Road Monday morning, according to Maryland park rangers at New Germany State Park.

At approximately 9:30 a.m. Norma Rodeheaver, 50, was traveling north when she hit a patch of ice in a curve just less than a mile south of Big Run Road. Her 1994 Mazda Navaho swerved off the road, struck an embankment, and overturned. She was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

USDA Announces $51 Million For Housing Loans And Grants

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently announced the availability of $43 million in competitive loans and grants for the construction of approximately 420 off farm rental housing units for farm workers, plus the availability of $8 million in competitive grants to nonprofit organizations and public bodies to assist more than 2,000 very-low- and low-income rural homeowners repair and rehabilitate their homes or rental housing.

This year's farm worker housing funding will be available to broad-based nonprofit organizations, nonprofit organizations of farm workers, federally recognized Indian tribes, state and local governments, and public agencies (such as public housing authorities). April 25 is the deadline for submitting applications for funding.

Housing preservation grant funds are awarded to qualified public agencies, private nonprofit organizations, and other eligible entities, which will leverage the USDA grant funds with private, state, and local funds to further extend the housing repair assistance into their local community. The deadline for submitting grant applications is March 26.

Further information regarding these programs and the application process can be obtained by visiting USDA's web site at http://www.rurdev.usda.gov/ or by contacting any USDA Rural Development state office.

4-H Club News

NORTH STAR
by Tonya Broadwater
reporter

The January meeting of the North Star 4-H Club was attended by 13 club members and six adults, and roll call was answered by each member naming his/her favorite Christmas gift. This was the first meeting for the club's new officers.

Members played a computer game called "Life Smart," and discussed a recent club visit to the Goodwill Mennonite Home, where they sang Christmas carols and presented residents with gifts they had crafted from baby food jars. Enrollment papers were completed and record books were turned in to the club leader.

Members discussed and approved a sled riding party, which was scheduled for last week at Darlene Schmidt's house. Members also voted to obtain a photo album for the club. An upcoming guest speaker presentation on the topic of tobacco was discussed (contact a club officer for time and place). A discussion of the 4-H club officers' training program at Garrett Community College also took place.

Robert Broadwater presented a demonstration with his sister's dog Sarara as his topic. Members then voted to sell candy as a club fundraiser.

TOWN NEWS

The town of Friendsville will hold its municipal election Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the town hall. Those who have filed to run for a seat on the town council are Herschel Allen III, Wayne Friend, Edward Kelley, and Robert Sines. Current council members Shirley Metheny and Jess Whittemore announced that they will be seeking re-election as write-in candidates.

The next meeting of the Mayor and Town Council will be held Monday, Feb. 5, at the town hall.

WOW NEWS

Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 met Thursday, Jan. 18, with a covered dish dinner at the Selbysport Methodist Church. Eleven members and one guest were present.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 15, at the Selbysport Methodist Church, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Soup will be furnished and members are asked to bring "the trimmings."

PERSONALS

Recent visitors of Jessie Sines were Cathy Williams and Arden, Dottie Opel, Janice Fisher, Jennifer Savage, Jimmy and Judy Lininger, Reverend Milliren, and Angela Grabenstein. Jessie currently resides in Room 131, Level 1, at the Cuppett Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland.

Wednesday-through-Saturday guests of Pearle Bittner were her granddaughter Debbie with husband Denny and children Craig and Samantha Baden. While here they went skiing at the Wisp.

On a Personal Note:
by Lucretia Sines

Our town will be holding its election of three town council members in just two weeks, and since there are six people running for a seat, it might prove to be an interesting race. Since I know all of the candidates, I thought it would be a good idea to see what might make me chose three out of the six. So here's what I found out about three of the candidates. I will continue with the other three in next week's Friendsville News.

Ed Kelley is married, and has two daughters and one granddaughter. He served in the military for 22 years and was in the First Armored Division out of Germany, serving in Dessert Storm. Ed and his family returned to Friendsville in January of 1995. They attend the Friendsville United Methodist Church, and he has also served as commander of the Friendsville VFW.

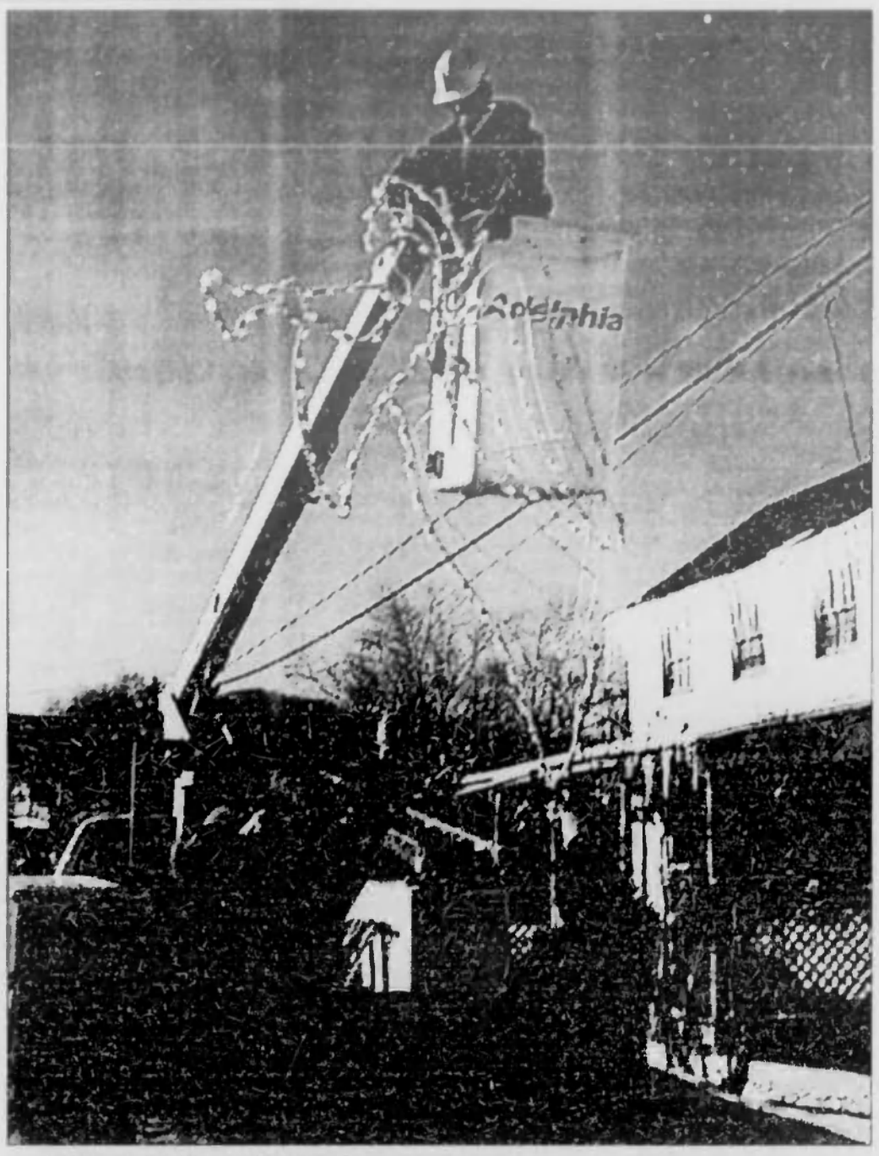
Being a resident of Friendsville and a business owner (he has operated the Amoco for three years) has kept him in tune with the changes. "I am able to talk to many residents to see what changes or improvements can be made," Ed stated. "Serving on the zoning board for the last year and a half has enlightened me to the different policies adhered to in this town. I feel that this has educated me to qualify to run for town council." Ed believes that he can bring some good ideas to the council, and that experiences in other towns that he has lived in will benefit his input. He also thinks that the Crime Watch is very important to the town and he supports it 100%. "I feel that a town council member is a public servant first, to help the people and improve the quality of the town. It is very important that the mayor and town council work closely together to get the work done, and I look forward to being a part of the council."

Wayne Friend has lived in Friendsville for 50 years and is married, with one son, two granddaughters, and two great granddaughters. He is a United States Marine WWII veteran, and a member of the Lions Club, Rescue Squad, VFW, American Legion, Woodmen of the World, and Friendsville United Methodist Church. He has been a member of the town council for the past eight years. "I feel that I do it for the people," stated Wayne. "When people call, someone has to answer and do what they can." Wayne gets out about the town every week to see if anything needs to be done or improved. He also takes care of the town park.

Jess Whittemore is running for re-election as a write-in candidate. He has resided in Friendsville for 19 years and is operations manager at Mountain Surf. He has served on the town council for the past four years, all but six months of it as president. "I have always tried to have an even hand on how everybody is treated when there are requests and decisions are made," stated Jess. "I don't bring personal emotions into my decisions and always treat outsiders in a non-prejudicial way."

Jess has brought his experience with law and research to the town. While he has served on the council, the zoning ordinances have been enforced on an even keel for everyone. "I feel it is our duty to do what's best for the community."

The other three candidates — Shirley Metheny, Robert Sines, and Herschel Allen — will be profiled in next week's column.



GETTING A LITTLE HELP FROM SOME FRIENDS were the Mayor and Town Council of Friendsville, who called upon Adelphia Communications to assist in taking down holiday decorations after a breakdown in the town's equipment. Above, Adelphia employee Jeff Brode hands one of the decoration to a couple Friendsville workers. "We were more than happy to help out," Brode said.

Career Workshops Scheduled By GCC

"Take this job and love it" is the theme for the series of upcoming workshops scheduled by the Career Services office of Garrett Community College. A workshop titled "Take This Job and Love It" is set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 13. "Job Searching for the Utterly Confused" is slated for noon on Wednesday, March 7. Two workshops on "Job Fair Preparation" are scheduled, the first for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 27, and the second at noon on Wednesday, April 4. A workshop titled "Moving On" is scheduled for noon on Monday, April 16, and "Securing Summer Employment" is set for 9 a.m. Tuesday, May 1.

Workshop participants and all local residents should note that the annual Garrett County Job Fair will be held on Saturday, April 7, at GCC.

LOCAL KIDS TRAVEL GLOBE — The Children's Hour of the Ruth Enlow Library features an imaginary journey to another country during each month's program. January's program was led by Oakland resident Orpha Peterahelm, who "took the group" to the Central American nation of Belize where she had served for two years as a teacher with a missionary organization. She was was assisted during her presentation by her 4-year-daughter Katie, and the pair astounded their audience by telling them that the toy selection of Belizian children is often limited simply to a ball and some homemade items fashioned from sticks and scraps. Petershelm is pictured above demonstrating how a Belizian mother might carry her baby papoose-style by wrapping the infant in a scarf tied around the mother's head. Past Children's Hour programs have featured imaginary excursions to Germany, France, and Denmark. Participants will travel to Portugal during this month's presentation by Rev. John Crowe of Oakland, which is slated for 10 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 28. Children's Hour program get under way at 10 a.m. on the last Wednesday of each month.

FSU Exhibition Features New Zealand Works

The contemporary Maori paintings of New Zealand artist and educator Greg Whitecliffe is on exhibit from tomorrow, Feb. 2, through Saturday, Feb. 27, at the Roper Gallery at Frostburg State University. An opening reception is slated for tomorrow from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Whitecliffe's bicultural identity as the son of a Maori father and English mother is credited with inspiring his work in both the European traditions of impressionism and expressionism and the Maori tradition of art as "taunga," a treasure imbued with life force.

The FSU exhibition represents a departure from Whitecliffe's previous path of following in the footsteps of his mother's descendants, who included English court painters. This exhibition explores his Maori roots as a first son of a first son from 13 generations of tribal leaders. The paintings serve as a "living myth," reflecting 29 generations of a Maori tradition that honors "Papa, the earth mother, and Rangi, the sky father."

As founder and president of the Whitecliffe College of Art and Design in Auckland, New Zealand, Whitecliffe has maintained an active professional career. He is a fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in the United Kingdom and serves as a board member of the International Council of Fine Arts Deans. He received a bachelor's degree in fine arts from the University of Auckland and did his postgraduate study in the fields of management, art history, and arts administration. With over 105 exhibitions to his credit, he is active as a member of a number of arts and management organizations in his native country, as a jury member, and as a scholar. His honors also include a Carnegie Scholarship and a Queen Elizabeth II Arts Council Grant.

Groups Pledge "Zero Tolerance" Of Mad Cow Threat In U.S.

A host of meat and dairy industry groups pledged their continued compliance and commitment to BSE (bovine spongiform encephalopathy known as "mad cow disease") prevention in the U.S.

In a statement released Monday, the groups reaffirmed their commitment "to effective implementation and enforcement of sound, science-based measures to prevent BSE in the United States." The groups called for strict enforcement of import restrictions designed to keep the BSE agent out of the U.S., 100% compliance with the FDA feed ban, and continued support for active USDA BSE surveillance in the US.

The National Cattlemen's Beef Association called the meeting of feed industry and government officials to underscore the need for "zero tolerance" of any mad cow disease threat to the United States.

Invited to the meeting were officials of the feed industry, U.S. Agriculture Department, Food and Drug Administration, and the meatpacking and rendering industries.

The meeting was called following the recent wave of reports of growing panic in Europe over beef consumption and more cases of mad cow disease, the fatal brain-wasting disease formally known as bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE).

On Jan. 1 the European Union banned the use of any type of meat and bone meal (MBM) in animal feeds for at least six months as a precaution against the spread of BSE.

Officials said that MBM made from cattle has been banned in U.S. cattle feeding operations since 1997, and the U.S. last month banned all types of MBM imports from countries where BSE has been detected. No case of BSE has ever been detected in the U.S.

Last month FDA officials said that a survey of U.S. feed mills and renderers—which reprocess carcass materials into industrial oils and fats—showed some laxity in labeling and record keeping.

Charles Schroeder, chief executive officer of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, said, "We have made it clear to the feed industry and the renderers from the start of this situation that we have no tolerance for any slippage in compliance of those regulations. As an industry, from the producer side, we have made it clear we have zero tolerance on any violation of those barriers. Evidence thus far is that we have been successful."

Schroeder said U.S. regulators and the cattle industry had actively cooperated for the last decade to keep the 100 million head beef cattle and dairy herd—the single largest U.S. segment of agriculture—free from the BSE threat.

Schroeder said if a BSE case should occur in the United States the industry is ready to deal with it. "We are prepared, if a discovery is ever made, to number one verify that discovery, isolate it, and eliminate it as rapidly as possible from the beef system," he said.

"We have no interest as an industry in trying to mislead the public or hide it from them," Schroeder said. "We are prepared to communicate that discovery—communicate, to the best of our knowledge, any related risk, as well as what the industry is doing to isolate it, contain it and eliminate it."

NASS Reports December Pig Crop Up 3%

According to the National Ag Statistics Service (NASS), the December 2000 U.S. pig crop, at 8.35 million head, was 3% more than the previous year. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 940 thousand head, 2% above last year. The average pigs per litter rose to 8.89 pigs saved per litter for December, compared to 8.77 pigs last year.

The U.S. inventory of sows and gilts totaled 6.03 million head on Jan. 1, 2001.

Farming In Maryland.....

Next Farm Bill Must Address Many Concerns, Meet Goals

The next farm bill will have to address numerous concerns ranging from providing adequate support levels to farmers and meeting international trade obligations to enhancing the environment and justifying farm spending to an ever-skeptical public, according to speakers at a conference on the 21st Century Commission on Production Agriculture's upcoming report.

Speakers included Missouri Farm Bureau president Charles Kruse, Indiana Farm Bureau vice president Don Villwock, who are both members of the commission that was created by the 1996 Freedom to Farm law, trade consultant Paul Drazek, and Iowa State University agricultural economist Bruce Babcock. American Farm Bureau Federation president Bob Stallman, also a member of the 21st Century Commission, moderated the session a AFBF's annual meeting.

A final draft of the commission's report was to have been presented to members of the Senate and House Agriculture committees on Jan. 30.

Through his Farm Bureau and commission involvement, Kruse said he has heard several common themes from the farmers that have contacted him. He said farmers like the flexibility created by the 1996 farm law, stating "We no longer have government-mandated (acreage) setasides we have to deal with. We don't have huge government stocks (supplies) hanging over our heads."

Kruse said farmers also want an automatically triggered, income safety net, so they don't have to continually "go back to Congress" when the farm economy hits bottom. "These adhoc ways of getting assistance are not the way to do it," he said.

Kruse said farm spending limits mandated by terms of the world trade agreement will be one of the challenges facing farm bill writers. He emphasized that the United States needs to be "very, very careful" regarding domestic farm program spending caps in the trade agreement's "amber box" provision. He said, "Europeans would love to have us blow the stack off the amber box, but I believe we can (respect the amber box limits) in a way that makes sense for U.S. farmers and in a way that is not trade-distorting."

Villwock said he sees one major "universal" belief about the shape of new farm policy.

"Producers around this country think markets should send them the signals, then they can decide what to plant," he said.

The Indiana farmer said that, depending on the commodity, production from as many as one in every three U.S. acres is exported. That fact, he pointed out, underscores the vital importance of trade as a farm bill priority, and highlights the need to pass fast-track trade negotiating authority for the president.

Another "almost universal" point among commission members, according to Villwock, was the belief that policies of setasides do not work and return acres to our competitors. He said statistics have shown that during past setaside programs, every U.S. acre taken out of production resulted in an increase in foreign acreage of 1.2 acres.

Paul Drazek of DBT Associates, a Washington, D.C.-based agricultural trade consulting firm, outlined the challenges of crafting a farm policy that will conform to international trade agreement obligations.

Drazek said it would be tricky, but not impossible, for the next farm bill to provide a new countercyclical support program that doesn't exceed limits on domestic supports that the United States negotiated with the European Union and other countries.

He said that most types of payment mechanisms now being proposed could fall under the "amber box" category, which imposes tight limits on spending.

Bruce Babcock of Iowa State said discussion of a new farm bill will raise the profile of agriculture's "public relations problem." He said that's because there is not now any "broad public concern" being addressed by the large government payments to producers.

"There will be a price to pay if agriculture receives government payments" without the public seeing any benefits, Babcock said.

The economist asserted that two possible justifications the public would accept for continuing farm program payments would involve environmental protection and long-term risk management protection that doesn't duplicate current programs.

NFU Applauds Senate Approval Of Veneman

National Farmers Union (NFU) applauded the U.S. Senate for its approval of Ann Veneman to become the 27th U.S. secretary of agriculture.

"We look forward to working with Secretary Veneman on the pressing issues facing America's farmers and ranchers such as: low commodity prices; mergers, acquisitions and decreasing market competition, increasing concern over food safety, and food labeling," said NFU president Leland Swenson. "We will work with her to address the many challenges facing family farmers and ranchers and their rural communities."

Ann Veneman was sworn in as secretary of agriculture on January 20. She previously served at the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) from 1986 to 1993, where she was deputy secretary for international affairs and commodities. She was the secretary of the California Department of Food and Agriculture from 1995 to 1999, and most recently was practicing agricultural law in California. Veneman is the first woman to serve as secretary.

"Ann Veneman has earned the respect of members of Congress from both sides of the aisle," said Swenson. "We congratulate her as she assumes the nation's highest agriculture post."

U.S. Broiler Hatch Down

The November 2000 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 674 million, was down slightly from November of the previous year. There were 618 million eggs in incubators on December 1, 2000, down slightly from a year earlier.

Leading breeders placed 7.11 million broiler-type pullet chicks for future domestic hatchery supply flocks during November 2000.

Cattle Inventory Down 1% As Of January 2001

All cattle and calves in the United States as of Jan. 1 totaled 97.3 million head, 1% below the 98.2 million on Jan. 1, 2000, and 2% below the 99.1 million two years ago, according to the National Ag Statistics Service.

All cows and heifers that have calved, at 42.6 million, were slightly below the 42.8 million on Jan. 1, 2000, and 1% below the 42.9 million two years ago.

Beef cows, at 33.4 million, were down 1% from both Jan. 1, 2000, and Jan. 1, 1999.

Milk cows, at 9.20 million, were up slightly from Jan. 1, 2000, and 1% above two years ago.

Other class estimates on Jan. 1, and the change from Jan. 1, 2000, are as follows:

All heifers 500 pounds and over, 19.8 million, up 1%.

Beef replacement heifers, 5.59 million, up 2%.

Milk replacement heifers, 4.05 million, up 1%.

Other heifers, 10.1 million, down slightly.

Steers weighing 500 pounds and over, 16.4 million, down 1%.

Bulls weighing 500 pounds and over, 2.27 million, down 1%.

Calves under 500 pounds, 16.2 million, down 4%.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter in all feedlots, 14.2 million, up 1%.

The combined total of calves under 500 pounds, and other heifers and steers over 500 pounds outside of feedlots, 28.6 million, down 4%.

Farm Crop Ins. Subsidy To Be In 2002 Budget Proposal

In a gesture of strong support for Maryland farmers and the importance of helping protect farming from the vagaries of weather, markets, pests and disease that can destroy crops, Governor Parris N. Glendening included $550,000 in his FY2002 budget to assist agricultural producers in obtaining federally subsidized crop insurance. The Maryland Department of Agriculture Crop Insurance Assistance Program was enacted by the Maryland General Assembly last year and signed into law by Gov. Glendening, authorizing payments to farmers eligible to participate in the Federal Crop Insurance Program.

"Farmers are a vital part of Maryland's economy and its history," said Gov. Glendening. "This cost-assistance program will protect farmers from financial disaster and help farm operators better manage their risks."

The state funds will be available to reduce premium costs by up to $2 per acre under the U.S. Department of Agriculture's risk management program. The actual amount of the state subsidy will depend on the number of Maryland farmers who take advantage of the program.

"Crop insurance ought to be an essential component of every farm operator's risk management strategy, and Gov. Glendening's initiative to subsidize its cost is an important new incentive," said Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts. "This program also would not be possible without the support and participation of the USDA Federal Crop Insurance Corporation."

To be eligible, a Maryland producer must obtain a crop insurance policy through his or her local agent. No additional application is required to qualify for the crop insurance assistance. The department will pay directly to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation a portion of each eligible producer's premium costs, up to a maximum of $2 per acre. The state payments will be deducted from the producer's bill by the insurance company.

'Maryland is a leader in ensuring that farmers have the tools they need to better manage their risk," said USDA Risk Management Agency acting administrator Phyllis Honor. "This additional subsidy could provide the extra margin of support needed to convince uninsured or uninsured farmers to acquire a higher level of protection over what they would otherwise purchase."

Number Of Turkeys Raised Down Slightly

Turkeys raised in the United States during 2000 totaled 270 million birds, slightly lower than the number raised in 1999.

Minnesota ranked first in the number raised, with 43.5 million, followed by North Carolina with 41.0 million, Arkansas with 28.0 million, Virginia with 25.5 million, Missouri with 23.0 million, California with 18.0 million, and Indiana with 13.5 million. These states accounted for 71% of the turkeys produced in the United States during 2000.

Turkey growers in 23 states intend to raise 1% fewer birds in 2001 than they did in 2000. These states produced over 99% of the turkeys raised in 2000.

The number of turkeys actually raised in 2001 may vary from growers' intentions shown in this report, depending on feed costs, supply of hatching eggs, cost of poults, and prices growers receive for turkeys during the next few months.

U.S. Cattle On Feed Up 3%

According to the National Ag Statistics Service, cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the United States for feedlots with capacity of 1,000 or more head totaled 11.8 million head on January 1, 2001. The inventory was 3% above January 1, 2000, and 11% above January 1, 1999.

The inventory included 7.02 million steers and steer calves, up 3% from the previous year. This group accounted for 59% of the total inventory.

Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 4.70 million head, up 3% from January 1, 2000.

Placements in feedlots during December totaled 1.70 million, 3% above 1999 and 12% above 1998. Net placements were 1.60 million. During December, placements of cattle and calves weighing less than 600 pounds were 504,000, 600-699 pounds were 516,000, 700-799 pounds were 406,000, and 800 pounds and greater were 273,000.

Marketings of fed cattle during December totaled 1.75 million, 5% below 1999 and 4% below 1998. December 2000 had two less slaughter days than December 1999, which limited slaughter and affected the year-to-year relationship for marketings.

Pork Checkoff Voted Down

Pork producers have voted down the Pork Checkoff. Through a referendum that took place last August and September, producers elected to end the mandatory assessment. Of the 30,347 votes cast, 53% were against the checkoff while 47% voted to continue it.

This outcome demonstrates that the Pork Checkoff Program does not have the support of the producers it serves and therefore cannot fulfill its stated purpose. Accordingly, I am directing USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service to prepare and issue a final rule to terminate the order and the program conducted under it," Ag Secretary Dan Glickman said in a statement released this afternoon.

"I realize that this decision is of great significance to the pork industry and to pork producers. My decision was not reached lightly. After carefully considering all points of view, I have concluded that a program that imposes mandatory assessments on pork producers and importers must have the demonstrable support of its participants in order to achieve the objectives of the law. The Pork Checkoff Program does not have that support."

"This referendum is about much more than ending an unfair tax," said Mark McDowell a spokesperson for the Campaign for Family Farms, which led the opposition to the checkoff and was instrumental in calling for the referendum. "It's about farmers organizing and fighting back against corporate power and money. With the checkoff gone, the National Pork Producers Council won't be able to carry water for the agribusiness corporations while claiming to represent America's hog farmers," he said.

"Family farmers are fighting back against the commodity groups that have sold them out and the corporate agriculture system that is trying to force them off their farms. We took down the NPPC and we're going after their corporate allies next," said Dale Leslein, another spokesperson for the Campaign for Family Farms.

"We are deeply disappointed and very concerned by USDA's announcement," said Craig Jarolimek, National Pork Producers Council president. "Instead of a sincere attempt to capture the will of the majority of legitimate pork producers about their checkoff, USDA let political motivation decide the fate of one the most successful commodity programs in American agriculture.

"A group including concerned independent producers, state associations and NPPC is uniting to file for an injunction to overturn this decision," said Jarolimek, a Forest River, N.D., pork producer.

"Producers are citing to us examples of flaws in the referendum voting process," said Karl Johnson, co-chair of the Vote Yes Task Force. "These situations include giving out the wrong voting materials, failing to post lists of producers who had requested absentee ballots, and failing to post lists of producers who had voted in person, all of which resulted in the disqualification of voters without their knowledge."

Other producers were reportedly allowed to cast both absentee and in-person ballots or were allowed to cast ballots in violation of referendum rules, he added.

Lessons Learned From The Pork Checkoff Vote

by Betsy Freese
Livestock Editor
at @griculture.com

Everyone in the pork industry has a theory as to why the mandatory Pork Checkoff was voted out of existence. Of course, a multitude of factors played a part. The question now is, What can other commodity groups, such as the National Cattlemens Beef Association and American Soybean Association, learn from the pork vote?

1. Commodity groups must welcome and LISTEN to every producer, even those who grumble. Six years ago I was in Denver at the National Pork Forum listening to discussion among National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) delegates. I knew from reader letters and phone calls we were getting at Successful Farming magazine that recent $27 hogs, combined with massive expansion by the largest pork producers, was causing grumbling in the grass. Yet, there was very little discussion of these issues at the Pork Forum.

I asked a delegate why there wasn't more debate about issues of the day. "Oh, we got rid of the Farmers Union types a couple years ago," he answered. The same "Farmers Union types" were among those calling for a referendum vote a few years later. If they had been welcomed and listened to early on by NPPC, some problems might have been dealt with internally.

2. Secrecy has no place in commodity associations. If you run for office in a commodity association, prepare to open the books on your farm. At the 1995 Pork Forum, the new president of NPPC, R.H. (Moe) Mohesky of North Carolina, was introduced to the media gathered. I asked about the size of his hog operation. "I'm not going to tell you that," he said. I guess he didn't realize that when you refuse to tell the media something, it makes us wonder why.

Later that year, NPPC held an Environmental Summit, by invitation only, for some of the nation's largest hog operations. The meeting was closed to the media. Holding a closed meeting on an important issues facing the industry opened up questions as to what deals the NPPC was trying to make over the environment.

3. Don't fight a referendum vote. Welcome it. If producers support the mandatory checkoff, it will continue. I support an automatic referendum vote on mandatory checkoffs every 5 to 10 years. With all the changes in the pork industry since 1988, the Pork Act was outdated. The outcome of the vote may have been different if NPPC and the National Pork Board had welcomed the vote and spent their time showing producers what positive things they had done, rather than fighting the referendum.

The soybean checkoff law requires a request for a referendum every 5 years. The last soybean checkoff request for referendum, conducted by USDA, took place in 1999. Less than 3% of eligible producers requested a referendum on the soybean checkoff.

Composting Livestock Carcasses

Losing livestock is just a fact of life on any farm that has animals, and properly disposing of these animals has always posed a problem. Used to be a simple phone call would bring someone to your farm to haul away the dead animal, not so today. It is not a good practice having carcasses cluttering "the back 40"!

Livestock composting began with poultry, progressed to swine, and eventually became a proven means of disposing and recycling livestock carcasses on the farm, even 1,400 pound dairy cows.

The methodology is simply to bury the dead animal in a compostable material. Temporary bins may be made of round hay bales. Permanent bins may be concrete block or pressure treated wood on a concrete slab. Sawmill sawdust is the best medium as it absorbs moisture and retains its pile structure. However, silage and bedding packed manure will also work. Calves and smaller livestock can be placed on a one-foot deep bed of material and then covered on all sides and on top with two feet of compost material. A cow should be placed on a bed two to three feet deep and covered all around and on top with two to three feet of compost material. Calves compost in several weeks, but cows take about six months.

Although, in one demonstration at 100 days, the cow was totally composted except for some large bones. Technically, cows should be cut to open the body cavity and fold in the legs. But somehow I don't believe that is going to get done. So some large bones may have to go back into the next compost pile.

Penn State is developing a fact sheet on this subject that I will try to obtain.

Profit from Cull Beef Cows

Cull cows are often overlooked as an important source of income to the cow-calf operator. However, statistics show that 15% to 30% of a producer's income may be derived from selling cull cows. Many producers sell the cows when they are culled from the herd. Though several factors should be considered to see if this is the most profitable strategy.

When deciding to sell cows or to feed them and sell them later, you should first consider the seasonality of prices. Prices are normally at their lowest in winter and reach their highest in the spring. The second factor to consider is how the cow will grade on the rail. By feeding the cow before market, you increase carcass grade and receive higher prices. Remember that you still must figure the cost of the feeding program.

Check Alfalfa Stands

Alfalfa stands have been seriously stressed over the past several seasons by drought. Then the 2000 season provided an onslaught of wet weather that introduced disease into many fields. Producers will need to examine alfalfa fields closely in early spring to determine plant density. A plant population of four to five plants per square foot is sufficient if each plant is large and healthy. Lower alfalfa plant counts do not warrant keeping the stand. Alternative crops (oats, red clover, annual grasses) may be considered if haylage tonnage is going to be needed. Allow at least a growing season between taking out an old alfalfa stand and reseeding a new stand in the same field.

January Potato Stocks Reach Record High

The 15 major potato growing states in the U.S. held a record high 273 million cwt of potatoes on January 1, 2001, up 14% from last year and 4% above the previous record set in January 1997.

Potatoes in storage accounted for 59% of the 2000 fall storage production, up 2 percentage points from a year ago. This year's storage held more russets but fewer reds and round whites than a year earlier.

Potatoes used for processing up to January 1 were a record high 97.1 million cwt, 5% from last year and 2% above the previous record set during the 1996 season for comparable states.

We thought of you with love today, but that is nothing new.
We thought about you yesterday and the day before that too.
We think of you in silence: we often speak your name.
We have great memories and your picture in a frame.
Your memory is our keepsake with which we'll never part.
God has you in his keeping. We have you in our hearts.

With tears we saw you sinking, we watched you fade away, our hearts were almost broken, you tried so hard to stay.

God watched you as you suffered, and He knew you had your share. In life we loved you dearly, in death, we do the same.

It broke our hearts to lose you, you did not go alone. For part of us went with you, the day God called you home.

You left us beautiful memories, your love is still our guide and though we cannot see you, you are always by our side.

Our family chain is broken, and nothing seems the same, but as God calls us one by one the chain will link again.

Children's Dental Health Month

by Dr. William G. Savage

As we approach National Children's Dental Health month (February 2001), I think of all the changes and advances in the healing art of dentistry I have seen in the 35 years that I have practiced in Garrett County. Even with the scientific advances and procedures available today, we still find that dental caries (decay) is the most prevalent disease afflicting the American population — especially our children. All that science has to offer does not help us unless we avail ourselves of it — and unless we use the basic common good sense with which we are endowed. The practice of dentistry today emphasizes prevention rather than restoration and replacement. We should bear in mind a number of considerations when raising our children to ensure their dental health and their ability to retain and use their teeth throughout their expected longer life spans.

The diet of our children is the point at which to start monitoring their dental health. Nutritious and natural foods and those low in refined carbohydrates (sugars) are generally far superior to the highly refined carbohydrates and fats that are so common in diets today. Though an occasional individual may exhibit high caries resistance in spite of his diet, the overwhelming majority of us profit in many ways from a diet low in carbohydrate and fats.

Proper home oral hygiene and professional care are equally important. For most of us, thorough and regular brushing two or three times daily is a "must," as are two trips each year to the family dentist for x-rays, examinations, cleaning, and fluoride treatments. This is especially true for our children because their incidence of cavity development is far higher than that of adults. Professional monitoring of our children's teeth through oral exams and x-rays provides the ability to intercept dental caries and gingival disease, and prophylaxis (cleaning) and fluoride treatments can prevent the development of caries and gingivitis. Any necessary steps to restore carious teeth or to provide orthodontia (braces) can be instituted at an appropriate time. Additionally, the professional placing of sealants can be achieved to give further dental protection.

We have found that the addition of fluoride to our community water supplies has definite benefits to aid in caries prevention. Unfortunately, this practice has become a controversial subject; however, to date, no serious scientific evidence controverts it, and the benefits are obvious. For those children whose water is from wells or springs, the use of fluoride supplements or fluoridated vitamins is an appropriate substitute. The family dentist can provide this as part of the regular check-ups.

To conclude — A team of the parents, with their ability to emphasize a healthy diet and to monitor their children's dental care, and the family dentist, who can provide the proper professional services, can help ensure the dental health of our children throughout their lives.

Health Site Introduced To Serve Region

Western Maryland InfoHealth, a web site offering links to health services and resources in the region, has been launched by the Consortium of Health Information Libraries Outreach (CHIL-Out). The site may be accessed at www.healthalliconet.org.

"The intent of the National Library of Medicine's initiative is to increase the public's access to electronic health information," stated Kery C. Hummel, executive director of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center, the lead agency for the project. "This new site provides a one-stop, centralized location for western Marylanders to access local resources. It is a companion site to the National Library of Medicine's consumer health directory MEDLINEplus."

The Western Maryland InfoHealth site is divided into a number of categories, including cancer services, child/teen health, hospitals and clinics, and preventive health/health education. In addition to these links and information, an on-line reference service is provided. HealthRef links users to a health science librarian through e-mail to answer reference questions on health-related topics. (No medical advice is given).

The National Library of Medicine is interested in learning about the health information needs of the public. In response to this, an on-line health information needs assessment is featured on the site, and visitors to the site are requested to complete this form. Information gathered through this tool will be compiled and presented to the National Library of Medicine.

Western Maryland InfoHealth is intended to be a comprehensive list of health services and resources in the western Maryland area and will be regularly updated. Any organization offering health services or resources may be added to this site. Brochures, pamphlets, fact sheets, or other information may also be digitized and placed on the site in full text.

The new web site is funded by the National Library of Medicine under a contract with the University of Maryland and was developed through the collaborative efforts of health librarians in CHIL-Out. Interested persons may contact Mary Spalding Edgerly at 301-777-9150, ext. 147, for more information.

Seniors Need Help With Prescriptions

The Area Agency on Aging, operating under Community Action, is inundated weekly by inquiries from seniors who need assistance paying for their prescriptions. These inquiries are primarily from moderate-income seniors who do not qualify for established government programs like Maryland Pharmacy Assistance.

The statistics for individuals who have no insurance covering prescription drugs are staggering," stated June Heselbach of the AAA, adding that 12.5 million Medicare beneficiaries have no insurance covering prescription drugs. "Recently conducted surveys indicate that of those with insurance covering prescription costs, 30 percent stretch medications, 34 percent sometimes skip filling prescriptions, and 23 percent spend less on food, choosing rather to pay for their medicines," Heselbach said.

Seniors contact the AAA not only for assistance but to learn what they can do to improve their situation. According to Heselbach, seniors must advocate on their own behalf in order to effect change, because it is vital for representatives to learn about the problems firsthand from their constituents.

The AAA is available to assist seniors or provide the information they need to reach their representatives. Further information can be obtained by calling the AAA at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403 or scheduling an appointment with Heselbach at the AAA administrative office at 104 E. Center Street.

Over-50 Fit Kit Available

Older people who "hibernate" during these chilly months could lose stamina, strength, and flexibility, according to the National Institute on Aging (NIA), which invites persons to stay fit this winter with the NIH's inexpensive, at-home exercise program. The program's 48-minute video is based on medical research and "roadtested" by scores of older Americans.

The exercise program emphasizes:

- endurance exercises, which increase stamina and may help delay or prevent diabetes, colon cancer, heart disease, and stroke;
- strength exercises, which increase metabolism helping to control weight and regulate blood sugar (studies show, they also may help prevent osteoporosis);
- flexibility exercises, which may help prevent, and aid recovery from, injuries; and
- balance exercises, which help prevent falls — a major cause of broken hips and other injuries that lead to disability and loss of independence.

As added motivation, participants who stick with the program for a month will receive a certificate of recognition signed by NIA director Richard J. Hodes, M.D. To view an on-line clip of the exercise video, users should go to http://www.maillist.org/exercise. To order the exercise book and video, persons may mail a check or money order for $7 payable to the National Institute on Aging and send it to NIAIC, Dept. BR, P.O. Box 8057, Gaithersburg, MD 20898-8057. For more information, persons may call 1-800-222- 2225.

The NIA, part of the National Institutes of Health at the Department of Health and Human Services, leads the federal effort supporting and conducting research on aging and the special medical, social, and behavioral issues of older people. A substantial part of NIA's research involves ways to prevent frailty and reduce disability with age.

ADVANCED DIRECTIVES: ARE YOU PREPARED? Is th name of a seminar to be presented next Wednesday, Feb 7, at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services Center by Debby Ward, pictured, who holds a master's degree in social work. The seminar, which is part of the hospital's Senior Wellness Program, will provide information on how to prepare a legal document that will guarantee a person the right to make his own health care decisions even if he is incapacitated by illness or injury. "Often, doctors and family members are unsure what a patient would prefer in a given situation," Ward said. "The best way to make sure one's wishes are respected is via an advance directive, which is a legal document, that will be kept with a patient's chart." The seminar is offered free of charge, and will meet from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Seating is limited, so persons wishing to attend are asked to telephone 301-533-4327 to register.

GCM Hospital Purchases New Sterilization Unit

The Central Sterile Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently acquired a new sterilization unit, the Sterrad 50, which is designed to provide non-toxic, dry, low-temperature sterilization in less than an hour. According to a GCMH spokesperson, the unit offers a fast turnaround, reduces operating and outsourcing costs, and reduces instrument repair costs. This unit is used to sterilize delicate instruments that cannot be processed in the steam sterilizer.

The Sterrad 50 sterilizes surgical instruments by using a process patented by Johnson & Johnson Medical Inc. involving the generation of low-temperature plasma. Low-temperature plasma can be produced by a strong electric field, similar to neon lights, the spokesperson said. "This type of plasma consists of a reactive cloud of ions, electrons, and neutral atomic and molecular species. By using this plasma, the Sterrad 50 destroys a broad spectrum of micro-organisms. The Sterrad 50 makes the sterilization process safe for personnel by using non-toxic peroxide plasma and allows more than one instrument to be sterilized at the same time," he said.

With a total surgery volume between 250 and 300 procedures per month, the Sterrad 50 is a "welcome" addition to the OR. "The unit was very easy to install," said JoAnn Forno, nurse manager, Surgical Services. The entire sterilization process takes only about 45 minutes, and since low temperatures are used in the process, instruments can be taken out immediately. Forno added, "Not all hospitals have a sterilizer like this. We are very fortunate to have this state-of-the-art equipment."

Feb. Is Dental Health Month

February is National Children's Dental Health Month, and the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Board of Education are trying to address the dental health needs of children through an outreach hygiene program.

This program includes proper instruction for dental brushing and flossing, proper dental techniques, and a fluoride-rinsing program.

In a new local initiative the area dentists and the health department have created a network of dentists who are providing dental services for children and pregnant women covered in the Maryland Children's Health Insurance Program (MCHP).

Bob Stephens, director of Community and Family Health, said that "these new initiatives are critical because of the high percentage of children who are not

THE SUN — February sunlight hours each day increase — starting at 10.2 hours on February 1 and growing to 11.3 hours at month's end. The sun's midday peak height creeps upward from 33 to 42 degrees (30 degrees is third of the way up). Sunrise times ease backward from 7:26 a.m. on February 1 to 6:52 at the end of February. Sunset times slide forward from 5:38 p.m. on February 1 to 6:09 p.m. on month's end. February 2 (Groundhog Day), also known as Candlemas marks the middle of winter. Other mid season days are May 1 (spring), Lammas on August 1 (summer) and Halloween (fall). In February your first view of the bright evening planets and stars at dusk will move from 6:15 to 7:10 p.m.

THE MOON — Early February features a half full moon in the evening sky (looks like a D.) that's great for crater spotting for telescopes and binoculars. At the beginning and end of the month the moon lines up with the planet Saturn. On February 2 the moon will appear close to the planet Jupiter. The evening moon grows to full on the night of February 7-8, then rising just before sunset. By Valentine's Day the moon will have shrunk to half full, then rising after midnight. On February 15 the moon appears near the planet Mars in the southern dawn. By the 21st the moon last appears as a sliver low in the eastern dawn. On February 23rd the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. Just before February ends the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus in the western dusk. The end of February offers great views of the moon's craters and mountains through binoculars and telescopes.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. The brilliant planet Venus appears as the first bright point of light in the western dusk. High in the south the bright planets Jupiter and Saturn are prominent. Jupiter is the brighter object. The planet Mars is a morning object, appearing in eastern Libra.

FEBRUARY'S BEST SIGHTS — In the southern evening sky Orion with his three-star belt (in a row) is conspicuous. This belt points upward to the bright planets Jupiter and Saturn. The belt points downward to Sirius, the night's brightest star. The Big Dipper is becoming prominent in the north northeast. The Dipper's two top stars point left to the North Star, a modest star about 1/2 way from the horizon to the top of the sky.

FEBRUARY ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — The Frostburg State Planetarium feature for February is "Astronomy and Astrology," exploring the differences between these related fields. Our planetarium programs start with a live tour of the current evening sky using our planetarium projector. Our free public programs are each Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., each presentation lasting about an hour. The planetarium is in the front lobby of Lewes Hall, near the middle of the Frostburg State campus. There is free convenient parking nearby. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will have its monthly meeting on Friday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask a sky question, persons may call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "Skywatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFRM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in northern Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Karen Beachy, an employee at the restaurant, also anticipates "a lot of good changes."

Five Arrested On Drug Charges By Task Force

Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County and spokesperson for the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, announced the arrest of five persons for drug violations by task force investigators.

On January 10, a search and seizure warrant was executed at a Loch Lynn residence, where a quantity of suspected marijuana was recovered, according to Welch. A juvenile was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and was released to a guardian pending a conference with Garrett County Juvenile Services, she reported, adding that additional arrests are pending.

In a second case, an Oakland man was arrested on January 17 after a search of the vehicle he was traveling in revealed a quantity of suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia, reported Welch. Gary Thomas, 49, was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Thomas had been traveling on Rt. 219 near Oakland when he was stopped, and a K-9 scan of the vehicle resulted in a positive alert for drugs. He was released pending a Garrett County District Court hearing.

Task force personnel also executed a search and seizure warrant on a Valley View Lane residence near Finzel on January 25. As a result, suspected marijuana plants, processed marijuana, and drug paraphernalia were recovered from within the residence, stated Welch.

The following three persons, all of Frostburg, were arrested on the strength of arrest warrants on a later date: Stephen Dawson, 21 (released after posting $5,000 bond), Bryan Dawson, 40 (released on $10,000 unsecured bond), and Andrea Dawson, 18 (released on personnel recognizance).

All are charged with manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, maintaining a common nuisance, and possession of drug paraphernalia, stated Welch.

Task force personnel were assisted in the cases by deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack.

Salisbury Will Not Relocate Students To NHS

The Salisbury-Elk Lick School District voted last night 5-4, not to close Salisbury High and Middle schools and relocate students to other schools, such as Northern High School. This issue has been discussed because of the increased operating costs to update the building codes.

The school board decided to start the process of obtaining an occupancy permit and solicit bids to renovate the buildings.

Increased operating costs and a $4 million renovation project to update the buildings' codes have led to the possible closing of the schools. This proposal was being considered to avoid increasing the school taxes in order to continue operating the schools.

Salisbury High School is almost 50 years old and has not had any major renovations, because when it was originally built, there was no occupancy permit for the school. The school would have to be brought up to building code standards and made accessible to people with disabilities.

Prior to this decision, Garrett County school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets said he had met with Dr. David Welling, the Salisbury-Elk Lick school superintendent, and was willing to accept students who want to attend Northern High. Teets said the Salisbury school district would have to pay the Garrett

County Econ. Development Leaders Update State Officials On Projects

Garrett County Director of Economic Development Jim Hinebaugh last week requested the continued support and assistance for future economic development projects being pursued by county officials during a meeting held in the county with Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development Secretary David Iannucci and other state and county officials.

Among the most significant projects Hinebaugh spoke of were the expansion of the Southern Industrial Park and the creation of an additional industrial park along Interstate 68, as well as the development of the Adventure Sports Center Complex.

He also briefed state officials about the need for improved telecommunications access to local businesses, as well as work force development and education.

Hinebaugh also updated the officials on the progress of ongoing projects, expressing appreciation for the state's support.

Addressing Iannucci, Hinebaugh said the state has shown "great support on both big and little projects" and is anticipating the continued collaboration with the state agency on new and proposed initiatives.

"We appreciate that," responded Iannucci, "but while Maryland continues to out-perform the general economy, you all did this. We're just glad we could be a partner."

Hinebaugh then updated the group on the status of various county projects, explaining that since Closet-Maid will be occupying the remainder of property available at the Northern Industrial Park, county officials are currently looking to purchase additional land along I-68 near Grantsville.

In addition, marketing efforts are underway at the Southern Industrial Park to attract new tenants, said Hinebaugh, noting that eight "pads" of varying sizes are available for occupancy.

He also reported that several local businesses

Pharmacy Robbery Suspect Appears In Circuit Court

Sheriff's deputies assigned to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation arrested Richard Glenn Kennedy, 25, formerly of Dublin, Va., on Tuesday after bringing him to Garrett County from Avery Mitchell Correctional Center in Spruce Pine, N.C.

Kennedy is one of two men indicted by the March 2000 term of the grand jury for charges including two counts each of robbery, first-degree assault, and second-degree assault, and one count of felony theft. The charges stem from the August 20, 1999, armed robbery of Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville.

Kennedy was arraigned before Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin yesterday and his bond was set at $100,000. "The setting of a bond amount in this case is only a technicality as Kennedy cannot be

Ferren Could Be Eligible For Parole In March

Paul William Ferrell, a Gormania, W.Va., native and former Grant County, W.Va., deputy sheriff sentenced to a jail term in 1989 in connection with the disappearance and suspected murder of 19-year-old Catherine Denise Ford of Gorman, may be eligible for parole as early as next month. Just before leaving office, former West Virginia governor Cecil Underwood commuted Ferrell's minimum sentence from 16 years to 10 years with an executive order dated Jan. 12.

Ford was last seen on Feb. 17, 1988, and, although her body was never found, her abandoned and burned vehicle was discovered during the course of the ensuing investigation. Ferrell was subsequently charged in connection with Ford's disappearance, and was convicted by a jury in Grant County Circuit Court the following January. He was sentenced to consecutive life terms with the possibility of parole on a kidnapping charge, plus 5 to 18 years for second degree murder, and 1 to 3 years for third degree arson. At that time his earliest parole eligibility would have been 2005.

Underwood's recent order changed the sentences from consecutive to concurrent terms, thus reducing Ferrell's parole eligibility wait to 10 years. He has already served 12 years in the Huttonsville, W.Va., Correctional Center, where he has been described by authorities as an exemplary inmate.

According to Underwood's order the decision was made in part because Ferrell had no previous record and because Ford's body was never located. "The convictions are not supported by the presence of the alleged victim's body, weapons, eyewitnesses, or physical evidence such as fingerprints or hair. During habeas corpus proceedings, forensic DNA test results became available and are, at a minimum, inconclusive to support the convictions," the order said.

During closing arguments of the 1989 trial, Grant County prosecutor Dennis V. DiBenedetto listed bloodstained carpet that Ferrell had allegedly removed from his trailer and statements of a neighbor that screaming and a gunshot was heard in the area of the trailer on the day of Ford's disappearance. Defense attorney Ross Maruka countered that the mobile home had not been secured by the police, and that

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival 2001 Schedule Is Released

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival executive director Elizabeth Johnson has announced GLAF's 2001 performance season, which will begin March 16 with Chen and Dancers.

This year represents the 15th year that GLAF has been presenting performing arts and arts education in Garrett County. The season will take place from March through September, with a diverse schedule to entertain all ages and interests, according to Johnson. For further information or the purchase of tickets, persons may call the GLAF office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 301-387-3082. The 2001 schedule is as follows.

Chen and Dancers will kick off the season at Southern Garrett High School on Friday, March 16, at 8 p.m. The innovative modern dance company is based in New York City's Chinatown, and has evolved into the largest Asian-American dance institution in the country. The group will also present free lectures/demonstrations at Northern and Southern high schools for students during the day on March 15 and 16. Recent performances were presented at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts (Washington, D.C.) and Lincoln Center (New York City). International touring includes two European tours and seven Asian tours.

The National Players will return for the third year on Friday, April 27. The community performance of Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter will take place at 8 p.m. at the auditorium of Garrett Community College. School workshops and performances will be offered on April 26 and 27 during the day, with William Shakespeare's The Comedy of Errors.

GLAF will collaborate with Will O' the Wisp to present its first cabaret dinner performance on Saturday, May 26, at 6 p.m. The dinner and concert on the main level will feature vocalist Lisa Moscatiello. The program, "Welcome, Stranger," will be a menagerie of rock, acoustic, pop, blues, and Celtic ballads.

Molasses Creek will take the stage at Garrett Community College on Saturday, June 16, at 8 p.m. "The folk band has entertained audiences from the coast to the mountains with their soulful harmonics, powerful musicianship, and captivating presence," stated one critic. In 2000 the group from Ocracoke Island, N.C., was selected to perform on Garrison Keillor's "Prairie Home Companion" on National Public Radio.

The summer schedule will continue with a pops concert by the Maryland Symphony Orchestra on Saturday, June 30. Under the direction of music director Elizabeth Schulze, the MSO has become widely recognized as a leading cultural asset to central and western Maryland, as well as Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. The concert will take place at the auditorium of Garrett Community College.

Following on the heels of the MSO, a huge tent will be raised on the lawn of GCC to house the July 4th celebration with the Garrett Community Concert Band, under the direction of Jerry McGee. The band, which consists of Garrett County

Citizens Urged To Be Wary Of Lottery Scam

The Garrett Bureau of Investigation has issued a warning to local residents of a telephone lottery scam originating from Ontario, Canada, that has targeted at least one area senior citizen in recent days. The scam has operated in the same fashion before, according to GBI detective Clark Warnick.

The scam unfolds as a representative of a business identified as Global Matrix calls a local resident to tell him or her that he or she has won a large amount of money, usually $60,000. In order to secure the money the citizen is instructed to send Global Matrix a certified check in the amount of $1,500. The lottery "winner" is told that the winnings will be sent once the certified check is received in Canada.

Global Matrix and other telephone scams tend to target senior citizens, Warnick said, adding that the Federal Bureau of Investigation does have an active task force of detectives that are working in tandem with Canadian authorities to apprehend perpetrators of such scams.

Black Bear Greets Guests At Visitors Center

Living with black bears is one of the stated missions of the Heritage and Wildlife Division of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. For this purpose, programs have been developed and brochures published on avoiding and solving problems that may occur where people and bears share common ground.

Oakland resident and self-described avid outdoorsman Allen Naylor recently presented the DNR with a gift for the black bear education program. "Mr. Naylor donated several items to us. One of them was a mounted juvenile black bear piece that is perfect for display," said DNR naturalist Clarissa Harris.

The DNR staff wanted to place the bear where visitors to the county would be most likely to see it and pick up educational information, Harris said. "So we decided to talk with Ken Wishnick at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and see if there was a spot we could use at the Visitors Center, where the bear would be very visible," she explained. According to the chamber records, more than 33,000 visitors are greeted at the center annually, making it an ideal location.

The chamber agreed to place the young bear just inside the entrance to the center, where it has generated great interest, according to staff members. "Everyone stops to look at it — old people, young people, couples, children. "It really

RESIDENTS LEARNING TO LIVE WITH BLACK BEARS — Vicky Insley and daughter Trista stopped by the Garrett County Visitors Center in McHenry recently for the opportunity to "get up close and personal" with a black bear and learn how to keep a safe distance from these furry neighbors to prevent dangerous situations from occurring. Trista, a fourth grade student at Dennett Road Elementary School, noted that even a very young bear has huge strong claws. This young mounted black bear is displayed as part of the education program of the Department of Natural Resources, "Learning to Live with Black Bears." It was donated to the Department of Natural Resources by Oakland resident Allen Naylor. See story

County Rejects Recommendation To Drop Fees

The Garrett County commissioners this week rejected a recommendation made by Garrett County treasurer Patty Glover last week to eliminate the service charge applied to county tax bills that are paid on a semi-annual basis.

The request was made by Glover following complaints from taxpayers who are required to pay a service charge, which consists of interest and administration fees, when they choose the option of paying their county tax bill in halves.

The reason cited by the commissioners for rejecting the recommendation, according to Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, was the loss of revenue which amounted to approximately $8,700 this past year, he said.

Glover had told the commissioners last week that the service charge penalizes those in the low and moderate income bracket, and also informed them that six counties in Maryland had agreed to drop the fee.

Trustees Discuss Distance Education Efforts At GCC

A regular meeting of the Garrett Community College board of trustees featured a discussion of the college's distance education programming recently. While distance learning will never make the traditional classroom environment obsolete, the growing use of high technology in the delivery of course material will have to increasingly be factored into Garrett's future plans, according to college president Dr. Steven Herman. Innovations such as on-line courses and videoconference leeds are already allowing the college to expand its offerings and increase its service to the local community and beyond.

"GCC cannot be left behind in the higher education movement to deliver education in non-traditional methods such as distance learning," Herman said. Pointing out that the threat of competition for students will grow as more colleges expand their on-line offerings, he stated that "a 10 percent loss in enrollment due to the distance learning option equates to about 70 students for GCC. Our difficulty is that GCC does not have the resources to hire someone to come to the college to head a new distance learning department."

As part of the increased emphasis on distance learning, Herman announced at the meeting that Math Department chairperson Dr. Nancy Priselac has agreed to provide leadership in GCC's continuing foray into the field. Priselac, who also serves as "special assistant to the president," was described by Herman as "one of GCC's most energetic leaders for many years and is the most informed and active faculty member in terms of the application of information technology to the instructional setting."

Priselac already had formed a distance learning team prior to the trustees' meeting that includes Dean of Administration Lillian Mitchell, Dean of Finance Michael Kilgus, and Dean of Continuing Education Lowell Bender. "We're trying to create new initiatives that will serve all our students, particularly Garrett County residents who are working and don't have time to travel to and from campus," she explained.

"We're gauging our students' needs by meeting with a focus group of seven students who are interested in distance learning and working out strategies based on their input; we'll expand the focus group to include a larger number of students next fall."

Garrett will be expanding its offerings through a variety of high-tech formats, Priselac said, including on-line instruction and videoconferencing. Priselac added that the college is making arrangements with other institutions that offer courses not available at GCC.

"On-line learning is not for everyone," Priselac cautioned. "The course regimen is rigorous, and a student must be a self-motivated, independent learner. It requires much more discipline than one might expect." The college will be offering distance learning orientation programs in the future that will help give such students preparation for the new educational format.

Juvenile Justice Program

The college's new Juvenile Justice Program has been approved for West Virginia reciprocity throughout that entire state, which should enable the program to gain a number of additional students. GCC currently has 15 transfer students in good standing under the reciprocity program at West Virginia University. Herman said that Priselac's efforts were instrumental in gaining the reciprocity agreement.

Agriculture Grants

The Agriculture Program was the recipient of two grants recently that will assist program director Willie Lantz's efforts in promoting alternative agriculture among small and part-time farmers.

The Forum for Rural Education awarded a $20,000 grant that will be used to reinstate the position of alternative agriculture coordinator for the Advanced Technology Center. The two-year grant funding through the original ATC grant ran out at the end of last year, and since that point the position has been funded on a temporary basis. This FRE grant will carry the position through for another 12 months.

The Appalachian Regional Commission awarded a $7,500 ARC internship grant that will go toward sponsoring the summer project of a West Virginia University graduate student. The project will examine the feasibility of using water from the ATC's fish tank to help grow plants in the center's hydroponic facility, which is expected to be operational by the end of April. "Used" water, rich in nutrients from fish feces, will be taken from the fish tank, filtered through the hydroponic tank to provide nutrients to those waterborne plants, and then recirculated back into the fish tank.

The new director of the Institute for Applied Agriculture of the University of Maryland at College Park, Dr. Tom Hartsock, visited the GCC campus recently. The Institute has been partnering with Garrett CC for several years, and is now exploring the formation of an alliance that will lead to a new two-year degree program in Environmental Horticulture. The program will address topics including the development of native plant species for landscaping use in this area, as opposed to importing "foreign" plants; and developing plants for special uses such as the reclamation of wetlands or for the use along roadside embankments.

Employee Tuition Reimbursement

The trustees approved a new employee tuition reimbursement policy for the college, which changes the employee tuition waiver to a reimbursement and has been extended to spouses and dependent children of employees. "It's a good opportunity, not only for college employees but for their entire families," board president Doug Sites commented. "We hope employees make full use of this benefit."

Mission Statement

The board reviewed a letter from Karen Johnson, secretary of Higher Education for the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC), that approved GCC's mission statement in very laudatory language. Herman praised the work of GCC institutional research analyst Kris Miller, who worked with him in developing the document, which is required by the MHEC. The mission statement had also been reviewed by the trustees and the college community at large.

Temporary Building

Herman reported that the county's Planning and Zoning Commission has voted to extend its approval to allow GCC to keep its modular building until August of 2007. By that point the college should have renovated the current academic building and constructed an additional one.

Academic Report

Dean of Academic and Student Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell reported that the spring enrollment is up 5 percent from this point last year, with 554 students registered, compared to 530 last spring. The full-time enrollment figure is in excess of 200, as compared to 193 last year — a 3 percent increase.

There are 338 full-time students so far this semester, an increase of 8 percent over last year's number of 313. Part-time student enrollment is about the same at 216 this year and 217 last year.

Financial Report

Mike Kilgus, dean of administration, reviewed the budget report as of Dec. 31, 2000. Actual overall spending stood at 47.1 percent, under the even spending figure of 50 percent, because instructional costs remain below even spending. Scholarships and fellowships remain above even spending until a revised budget is prepared. Academic support, institutional support, and operation of plant are still above even spending.

The FY2001 operating cash forecast continues to look very positive, Kilgus told the board. Although he wasn't able to make investments during November or December because of the timing of the receipt of state aid and upcoming payroll obligations. Kilgus recently renewed the college's line of credit at the same $300,000 figure, and no short-term borrowing is anticipated for the remainder of the fiscal year. He reported that he is planning to invest $500,000 in April.

The next monthly meeting of the GCC board of trustees is slated for Tuesday, Feb. 20, at approximately 7:30 p.m. in Room 315 of the Continuing Education Center.

Drug Charge Results From Traffic Stop

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested an Oakland man on a drug possession charge after a Saturday evening traffic stop along Garrett Highway just south of Oakland.

Michael Paul Liller, 23, was stopped in his Chevrolet Camero by Dfc. Chris Helbig at 7:45 p.m. at the junction of Garrett Highway and Weber Road. A consensual search that ensued revealed that Liller was carrying a bag of suspected marijuana and two suspected marijuana cigarettes in his pockets.

Liller was released on his own recognizance after appearing before a district court commissioner.

DWI Charges

Two traffic stops led to charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) for a pair of Oakland-area residents, George Ronald White, 57, and Jason Shawn Reall, 26.

Burglary

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the burglary of a residence located at 10 West First Avenue in Loch Lynn. The incident occurred during the late night hours Friday when the perpetrator(s) apparently gained entry by shoving on the door hard enough to break the door knob, the door jamb, and a hasp that had been locked. Nothing appeared to have been taken from the residence, and the damage to the door was estimated at $250.

Single-Vehicle Accidents Lead To DWI Charges

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office cited two local men for driving while intoxicated (DWI) after separate accidents in which each driver's vehicle overturned after running off the road. Both were released on their own recognizance pending trial appearances in Garrett County District Court. A third accident, a two-car collision which did not involve alcohol, did result in a traffic charge against a Preston County, W.Va., resident.

The first accident occurred at approximately 11:30 p.m. Friday when Terry Jay Shope, 23, Swanton, lost control of his 1993 Ford pickup on Gorman Road just north of Doc Tolson Road. The truck left the southbound lane, crossed over the oncoming lane, and overturned in a ditch along the northbound side of the road.

Shope was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. His passenger, 23-year-old Shannon Lee of Swanton, refused medical treatment at the scene. Personnel from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department were on hand at the site.

Deputies charged Shope with DWI, driving while his license was revoked, violating a court order for alcohol restriction, and negligent driving.

An early Tuesday morning accident along Broadford Road resulted in a DWI charge for Scott Harrison Meyers, 26, Oakland, who lost control of his vehicle on the snow-covered roadway just south of Kings Run Road. The 1995 Dodge van left the road at approximately 12:15 a.m. and overturned, but Meyers escaped injury.

Meyers was subsequently charged with DWI, driving on a suspended license, and failure to reduce speed in dangerous weather conditions.

A two-car collision in the Hutton area at 12:50 p.m. Tuesday afternoon resulted in a charge of failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision for Conrad Grant Hardesty, 39, Terra Alta, W.Va. Hardesty was traveling west on Hutton Road just west of Ashby Ellis Road when his 1995 Geo Tracker rear-ended a 1984 Pontiac sedan that was stopped in the same lane waiting to make a left turn into a driveway. The Pontiac's driver, 19-year-old Jody Lynn Uphold of Mtn. Lake Park, was transported by private vehicle to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Routine Traffic Stops Result In MSP Drug Arrests

Following two separate incidents of routine traffic stops this week by the Maryland State Police (MSP), three persons were arrested on drug possession charges.

According to MSP reports, two Kentucky residents were arrested for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia following a traffic stop Sunday at 3:15 p.m. of a truck operated by Adam Creech, 19, traveling eastbound on I-68 at Grantsville Exit #19.

MSP Cpl. J LeMay reportedly stopped the vehicle because its occupants were not wearing seatbelts. An odor of burnt marijuana was reportedly detected, and Creech then produced a bag of marijuana, several burnt marijuana cigarettes and rolling papers. A search of the vehicle also produced a brass pipe containing burnt marijuana which reportedly belonged to fellow passenger James Ratcliff, 20.

Following their arrest, both men were released on $500 bond each.

Fratz, Hare, Sincell Awarded All-State Chorus, Band Honors

HOLLY HARE

MICHAEL FRATZ

ADAM SINCELL

Three Garrett County students, two from Northern High School and one from Southern High School, were recently notified that they are among the members of either the Maryland All-State Senior Chorus or Maryland All State Band, and will be performing with those groups over the next several weeks.

Following highly selective auditions held late last year, Northern High School's Holly Hare and Michael Fratz were named members of the All-State Chorus, while Southern High School's Adam Sincell was selected a member of the All-State Junior High School Band. The All-State Chorus will perform at the Baltimore Convention Center Feb. 16-18, while the All-State Junior High Band will present a concert on March 11 at Francis Scott Key High School in Frederick.

Holly Hare, a junior at Northern, is the first Garrett County female vocalist ever named to the All-State Senior Choir. She has been taking vocal lessons for two years from Kathryn Sincell-Corwell at Frostburg State University, where she is a member of the FSU Opera Workshop. She is also a member of the Northern marching and concert bands, for which she plays clarinet. She has been a member of the county honor band for the past three years, and also plays piano, having taken lessons for seven years.

Holly is the daughter of James and Mary Ann Hare, McHenry.

Michael Fratz, a senior at Northern, is only the second male vocalist from Garrett County and the first from Northern ever selected for the Maryland All-State Senior Chorus. He has studied voice with Allen Emerick of Frostburg State University for the past three years, and is also a member of the FSU Opera Workshop. He has for the past five years been involved with numerous local theatre/vocal productions, several of which have been with the Garrett Choral Society and Brenda Brosnihan and Company.

Michael is a member of the Northern High band, for which he served as drum major for the 2000 marching season, leading the Northern band to a fourth place finish in the Atlantic Coast Championships Tournament of Bands. He is also the senior class president.

His plans for next fall include attending college and majoring in vocal performance. He is the son of Michael and Nancy Fratz, McHenry.

Adam Sincell, a freshman at Southern, was among eight trombonists selected from a field of 42 who auditioned for the All-State Junior High Band, which includes musicians in grades 6-9. He is a member of the Southern High School marching and concert bands, for which he is the first-chair trombone. He takes private lessons from Duane Salisbury.

An honor student, he also plays piano and has performed a number of roles in musical productions of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry and the Garrett Choral Society since he was a preschooler.

Sincell is the son of Don and Suzie Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park.

Cast For Fools Announced By OTT Director

The cast for a production of Neil Simon's Fools: A Comic Fable at Our Town Theatre was announced this week by Jane Avery, OTT director and head of the Southern High School Theatre Department. The play will be performed by the following SHS students the first week of April.

The cast will include: Brandon Mason as Leon, Ben Peracchio as Snetsky, Anthony Oliverio as the Magistrate, Andrew Hill as Slovitch, Molly McGowan as Mishkin, Karen Gallagher as Ducha, Abbie Getty as Yenchna, John Armstrong as Dr. Zubritsky, Christie Hamilton as Lenya, Suzanne Gilbert as Sophia, and Kyle Snyder as Gregor.

Avery will direct the play, and will be assisted by Alison Ulino and Lacey Holtschneider, stage managers. Carrie Johnston will be mistress of props.

The first read-through for the cast will be next Tuesday, Feb. 13, at Our Town Theatre, beginning at 7 p.m.

Cherries & Chill Festival Planned At Spruce Forest

An event using a President's Day theme has been scheduled for Feb. 16-17 at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville. The second annual Cherries & Chill Festival will be held at the village from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. which is located near the historic Little Crossings Inn, now known as Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop.

"Our colonial village consists of authentic, restored log cabins which are heated for our visitors' comfort," said village administrator Trish Morgan, "and inside folks will find artisans who handcraft, showcase, and market their artworks. For example, on campus during the festival, visitors will have the opportunity to meet the world-renown bird sculptor Gary Yoder, whose works have garnered numerous regional, national, and international awards."

Also at the festival will be Lynn Lais, potter; Jody Best, blacksmith; Connie Stark, teddy bear artist and herb specialist; Peggy Nixon, slate painter; Ann Jones, weaver; Meriam Brode, basketweaver; and Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, stained glass.

Visitors are asked to stop in at the Village Office upon arrival, where hostesses will offer complimentary hot chocolate and chances to win a variety of door prizes. The Miller House and Compton School will also be open for tours.

The Saturday activities will begin with a Cherry Dessert Contest in the heated Village Church, where entrants will bring already-prepared cherry desserts for judging in six categories. Each entrant must bring two of each item entered, one is for judging and one is for public tasting. All entrants must bring recipes printed on 3x5 index cards. All desserts must include frozen, dried, fresh, or canned cherries.

The categories include: cakes, cookies, candies, breads and muffins, pies, and jams, jellies, and preserves. There is no cost to enter, and certificates, ribbons, and gift certificates will be awarded. Registration for all entries will be from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m.

Local "Dessert Connoisseurs" will taste each item, rating texture, taste, and appearance. Following the judging, the public is welcome to sample all of the desserts. A "Celebrity Auctioneer" will lead an informal auction of all category winners and the Best Dessert Grand Champion. All proceeds from the auction will benefit the nonprofit Spruce Forest Artisan Village.

There are also planned activities for children, weather permitting. There will be story telling and snow building contests, in addition to other activities.

This festival is sponsored in part by Penn Alps and the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils. Admission to all activities is free. For directions to Spruce Forest or to verify the times of various activities, persons may contact Trish Morgan at 301-895-3332 or may e-mail her at tmorgan@spruceforest.org.

Tolbert Receives NETA Award For MPT Production

Local filmmaker Glenn Tolbert was recently informed that Images of Maryland, 1900-2000, a Maryland Public Television (MPT) production, written and partially produced by Tolbert, was named first place winner in the category of Program: Documentary—Biography by the National Education Telecommunications Association (NETA) at the 2001 NETA Conference held in Savannah, Ga.

All six segments of the hour-long documentary, showcasing six Maryland photographers, including Garrett County's own Leo Beachy, were written by Tolbert, who has been the recipient of numerous awards for his documentary work, including two Emmy awards.

Tolbert produced both the Beachy and Aubrey Bodine segments.

Also featured in the program were four other Maryland photographers, Marion Warren, Middleton Evans, J. Henry Phillips Sr., and Roger Miller.

"It's always great to get an award, but this one should go to Leo Beachy for producing photographic art and for living a life that gave this program a powerful beginning and to Maxine Beachy Broadwater for doing such an outstanding job in preserving Beachy's legacy," Tolbert said.

HONOR BAND HONOREES - Five members of the Northern High School marching and concert bands will be among scores of outstanding high school musicians who were selected to participate in the West Virginia University Honor Band. Pictured from left above are: Jordan Haisig, Todd Foley, Andy Fike, and Katy O'Donnell. Not present for the photo was Erin Nell. The WVU Honor Band will present a concert the weekend of Feb. 17-18.

Inspired by Beachy's photographs of early Garrett County, Tolbert is currently working with the Maryland State Highway Administration to develop a documentary on the history of the National Pike, also known as U.S. Rt. 40.

MPT also received a second-place NETA award in the category of Program: Documentary—Science and Nature for the production Bower and Bees.

Chamber Exhibits At Huge Show In Harrisburg

Hundreds of booths filled a ½-mile square facility in Harrisburg, Pa., hosting last week's 46th annual Eastern Sports, Boat, Camping, Travel, and Outdoor Show. Garrett County was represented at this nine-day show with a large display of photographs, brochures, and vacation guides, all promoting area attractions.

Deb Clatterbuck of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce staffed the chamber's booth and reported a "near frenzy" of activity Saturday and Sunday. "In one day alone, 42 tour buses brought vacation-planning families to the show. Among those stopping by were at least a hundred people from Garrett County giving us a 'thumbs up.' Of course, thousands of other people traveled to the show from throughout the entire mid-Atlantic region," she said.

A $10 dollar admission fee is charged to the event, which ensures that attendees are serious about looking for future vacation destinations, Clatterbuck explained. "The people who came to our booth had either heard about us or were drawn in by our dramatic new display. They asked many questions and definitely showed interest in choosing our area for their next vacation," she noted.

As part of the chamber's marketing strategy, representatives will continue its road show schedule by attending several other venues over the next four months.

It's Worth a Shot...

One of the more controversial decisions in the new GW Bush administration is his desire to make federal funds available to support what he describes as "faith-based" organizations and programs, a proposal that is drawing fire from both ends of the political spectrum. The American Civil Liberties Union and those of a more liberal vein are screaming that this poses a major threat to the separation of church and state, while those on the more conservative side believe that religious freedom would be threatened by red tape and strings attached to the grants awarded.

There is some justification for concern on both sides of the issue. Any legitimate threat to the separation of church and state is downright scary, as the relationship of church and state in merry old England was one of the major reasons our forebearers packed up and sailed to America. Our religious freedom, with no strings from government, is one of the keystones of our republic. The thought of a particular "faith-based" group that forces its beliefs down the throats of people being the recipient of federal funds is repulsive.

However, most Americans will agree that the government cannot solve all of our society's ills, and that our churches are in a logical position to do far more to address problems such as crime, juvenile delinquency, drug and alcohol abuse, homelessness, teen pregnancy, dysfunctional families, and any number of others. The problem is, churches are typically not in a financial position to do all that the members would like to do in outreach ministry. They simply cannot afford it.

And speaking of money, a 1995 survey by the U.S. Department of Justice revealed that it costs the government (us taxpayers) just under $90,000 annually for each juvenile sent to a group home or halfway house. Regular incarceration runs in the neighborhood of $50,000 per juvenile per year. Why not provide $30,000 in federal support to help a church hire a director of a faith-based, after-school program, through which not one, but possibly several, at-risk youths may avoid legal problems altogether?

Something that may help avoid allocating monies to fanatical or dangerous religious organizations would be to award funds only to groups that have already established, proven programs, such as a soup kitchen that has been in successful operation for five years or more, a church-based program that teaches people how to read, or a church-sponsored after-school program that has a good track record of keeping youth safe, assisting them with their homework, and helping them avoid alcohol and drug abuse.

Ivan Penn, a reporter for the Baltimore Sun who took a leave of absence to serve as a youth pastor, said it well in an article in this past Sunday's Sun: "While the adults spend time squabbling over possible violations of the Constitution, children will continue to suffer. The working poor will continue to work long hours just to make ends meet while their children roam the streets unmonitored."

Heaven knows our federal government has poured billions of dollars down a variety of rat holes. A trial run of the president's proposal, with close scrutiny and follow-up evaluation a year or two later to determine if it should be continued, could turn out to be a wise investment in the future of our nation. It's well worth a shot.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in hopes of encouraging a return to common sense in Loch Lynn. The majority of our citizens want to do what is best for our town. Personal animosities have no place in government, whether federal, state, county, or local.

This town has many difficult decisions to make, and these decisions deserve to be made by majority consent.

Please attend the town meetings, and do not rely on the opinions of someone else. If you have any questions or concerns, take them to the town meetings, which are held the first Monday of each month in the town hall at 7:30 p.m.

Thank you,
Ruth Foley, a very concerned citizen

To the Editor:

We take this opportunity to express tremendous pride in the efforts of the five young ladies from Westernport Elementary School who, with the leadership and guidance of Delegate Kevin Kelly and the support of WES principal and staff, have taken the initiative to create Bill 157 – to adopt the calico cat as our state symbol.

We sincerely hope that their efforts are rewarded and that Maryland joins with Maine and Massachusetts that have adopted cats as state symbols. We are proud to know these young ladies and their families, and are keeping great hope that their trip to Annapolis was worthwhile and productive.

So if you see Lexi Gentry, January Mullen, Molly Nelson, Abby Rawlings, and Emily Weber this week, give them a great pat on the back and tell them what wonderful examples of United States citizens they are!

To the Editor:

Maryland has the highest per capita income in the country. The median household income for Maryland is 50 percent higher than the median household income for Garrett County. One-fourth (actually 24.2%) of the children in Garrett County are living below the poverty level, according to figures released by the U.S. Census Bureau in November 2000.

The slice of the economic pie held by the top one percent of the country's wealth-holders increased by 15% between 1993 and 1998, while the wealth-holders at the bottom of the ladder lost 40% during the same time period.

While welfare programs for people who really need help has all but been eliminated, well-fare programs for wealthy business owners and developers has been dramatically increased. While those same wealthy people hoard their money, the common folk have to put up with the hordes of people who own expensive second homes in the county.

Near as I can tell, Appalachia has pretty much always been this way, going all the way back to the time when John W. Garrett brought his railroad and rich friends (including U.S. presidents) to the area.

The thing is that this has been happening for generations with the blessing, indeed the assistance, of local politicians and so-called leaders, most of whom are native sons. It just puzzles me why people continue to believe their doubletalk and outright lies.

George Falter, Founder
Garrett County Chamber of People

P.S. Is it possible that people will ever get tired of this kind of treatment and do something about it?

To the Editor:

The Area Agency on Aging, operating under the direction of the Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., was surprised and delighted upon arriving in our office Monday morning. To our astonishment, the agency was the recipient of a very generous ($1,000) contribution to the Meals on Wheels program from a donor who wishes to remain anonymous.

The donor learned of the Meals on Wheels program while visiting in another state. Recognizing the importance of a program that helps frail elders remain in their own home and in their community, through the delivery of a well balanced, nutritious meal, they inquired as to the availability of such a program in Garrett County. Learning of the agency's program, our generous benefactor forwarded a check.

The agency wants to express its sincere thanks to our wonderful benefactor. We respect your desire to remain anonymous, but believe it is important to acknowledge your generosity. On behalf of the many seniors you are aiding through your wonderful contribution, I extend a sincere and heartfelt thank you.

Over the years, the AAA has made numerous pleas to the community to assist the agency to provide nutritious meals for our frail, homebound residents. Unfortunately, our pleas have, for the most part, gone unanswered. On occasion, we have had a few concerned citizens send a donation or businesses make a contribution during the annual Christmas Dinner/Bazaar fund-raiser; however, we have not experienced a tremendous outpouring of aid.

The agency operates two programs designed to provide meals to the homebound — the home-delivered meal program and the Meals on Wheels program. The home-delivered meal program is funded through the Older Americans Act (OAA), State Nutrition program, and county dollars. This program provides regular diet meals to an average of 150 frail elderly throughout the county. The meals are prepared and packaged at one of the nutrition site kitchens operated by the agency. Delivery for both programs is contracted through Garrett Transit Service. The home-delivered meals program operates on a contribution basis as mandated by the OAA. Historically, available funding has been limited, preventing the agency from providing more than three meals per week to each recipient. In recent years, the agency has been the recipient of grant funds making it possible to expand the program to more than three days per week on a short-term basis. Because of the most recent grant, as well as federal, state, and local funds, and client contributions, the AAA is able to provide meals five days per week for the current fiscal year (Oct.-Sept.) for the first time in 16 years.

The Meals on Wheels program provides meals to individuals who require a special diet. The agency must contract for the preparation of the meals with a facility capable of preparing customized diets for each recipient. Meals are delivered five days per week. Recipients are strongly encouraged to contribute $4 for each meal delivered to help cover the cost of the food and delivery expenses. The only funding the agency receives for the Meals on Wheels program is a reimbursement of $.54 from the USDA for each meal served. The program is restricted to individuals residing within a five-mile radius of Oakland. Attempts to identify a facility to prepare special diet meals in the northern portion of the county have been unsuccessful thus far. In the past couple of years, the program has been struggling to survive.

Although contributions are encouraged, many frail elderly are on low, fixed incomes and are unable to provide the suggested contribution ($4 Meals on Wheels; $2 home-delivered meals) because of the added burden of medical expenses, prescriptions, etc. The average contribution for the home-delivered meal program is approximately $1.

As you can see, our generous donor's contribution means a great deal to the agency and the seniors who benefit from these meal programs. The funds will be used to support the Meals on Wheels program, which has been in jeopardy of elimination because of budget shortfalls.

Again, I would like to thank our kind benefactor for his selfless act of generosity. I would also like to encourage others to consider donating to the meal programs. In addition to financial contributions, the agency also welcomes volunteers. Additional information about the programs may be obtained by contacting the agency at 301-334-9431.

Sincerely,
Adina Brode, Director
Area Agency on Aging

To The Editor:

I write in reference to the press release which appeared in the Cumberland Times-News on Feb. 1. The release was about the air quality testing that was done at the Jennings Head Start building in Grantsville. I am a full-time working mother of six children, ranging in age from 26 to 4. I have 20 years-plus experience with the Head Start program and all my children have benefited from it.

On January 30 a meeting was held in the Grantsville Senior Center with Duane Yoder, president of Community Action, Mary Beckman, Head Start director; Pam Nelson, vice president for Community Services; and many concerned parents and staff members. For the most part, everyone was quiet until the group explained the test results that were done, which they said indicated a low to normal level of fungi or bacteria found.

The solution to the air quality problems would be to open all windows and doors and run the exhaust fans in the kitchen and bathrooms for one hour every day before the children came to school so that the air in the school would be purged. After the children would arrive at the school, the fans would continue to be run and the windows left open by three inches and the heat would be turned up. The reason behind this is that it would cost the department $20,000 to put in a permanent air exchange system. At this time there is no money for the system, and they were not sure that this would help the problem.

We also discussed how the testing was done.

The first problem was that the building was to be completely closed for 48 hours before the testing was done, and it wasn't, because people had been in and out of the school the day before the testing was done.

Second, there were holes made in the walls so they could test for fungi and bacteria in them, and the holes were closed up before the testing was done.

Third, no testing was done with all the children and staff there, to check the levels of carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, and formaldehyde.

Fourth, early last year the school was damaged by flood waters and sewage, and the sand in the sandbox and wood chips have not been replaced in the play yard where the children spend a lot of time.

If the school does not reopen by February 12, it will lose its funding, which is $8,000 a year per child. There are 28 children who attend this school, so we are talking about a lot of money, but not enough money to pay the rent at Maranatha Church and keep the children and staff healthy until the new system is in place at Jennings.

They know this building is sick, and we, the parents and staff know this building is sick. No one will stand up and do something about this problem. This is our children's and staff's health we are taking about. I don't know how I can send my child back to the school and have her become sick again, because she is happy and healthy were she is.

Sincerely,
Donna M. Burton

To the Editor:

As we go through life, there are many ways to make a difference. In Merrill Sturtz, we found such a person. He made a difference, as he came to help us with bingo.

He was a friend and a volunteer who showed the true spirit of gentle care and devoted concern. Mr. Sturtz was right there to clean tables, push wheelchairs, or to help win a game. Yes, we were all winners with Merrill as a friend.

With the demise of Mr. Sturtz, the Goodwill Mennonite Home has lost another faithful volunteer. But he leaves the challenge for us to help others to win in the true spirit of friendship.

Sincerely,
Idella Bender

To the Editor:

Every fire department, ambulance, and rescue squad in Allegany and Garrett counties is pleading for community support in the passage of Senate Bill 292, which if passed will increase the motor vehicle registration surcharge by $3 annually. Why is this increase necessary?

The Emergency Medical Systems Board, which distributes the funds received from the present motor vehicle registration surcharge, has projected a $7.2 million deficit for Fiscal Year 2002. The impact of this deficit will be felt by the Maryland State Police Aviation Program, the Maryland Institute of Emergency Medical Service Systems, the R. Adams Cowley Shock Trauma Center, the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute, and every career and volunteer fire, ambulance, and rescue squad in the state of Maryland.

Funds for the emergency services statewide face a possible reduction of 28% without the passage of SB 292. This means a reduction of $63,773 for Allegany County fire, rescue and ambulance companies, and $56,000 for Garrett County companies. This reduction would impact these organizations as follows:

- The purchase of new emergency fire apparatus and ambulances would be impossible for most all organizations.
- Payments of previous debts incurred for the purchases of apparatus, equipment, and new or renovation stations would be in jeopardy.
- Departments would be unable to purchase personal protective equipment, prohibiting personnel the opportunity to perform their duties at the highest level.
- Departments would be required to conduct additional fund-raising activities, taxing an already economically strapped community.
- Personnel would unable to complete training programs to improve their proficiency and to meet mandated requirements and standards because of additional time needed for fund raising.
- The ability to purchase new and advanced life safety and fire suppression equipment would be terminated.

Each year emergency services compete with many other organizations in the community for the limited funds available in their county and communities. Whether it be the PTA, senior citizens, Lions club, local schools, churches, Scouts, etc., there is only so much funding available in a specific geographical area and the cut of the pie continues to shrink.

The $3 annual increase is a very cheap insurance policy, considering the quality of medical service you have available and the quality of fire protection and rescue services present in your communities. It amounts to less than one penny per day. Compare this increase to the cost of

IN DEFENSE OF THE BOY SCOUTS

Today is the 91st anniversary of Boy Scouting in America. Mr. William D. Boyce of Chicago had visited London the previous year. He was having trouble finding an address when a boy offered his services, and showed Mr. Boyce to his destination.

The American reached in his pocket to find a tip for the boy. The boy was a Scout doing his "good turn daily." He declined the tip. Mr. Boyce was so impressed that he took steps to bring Boy Scouting to the American shores.

Between my eighth and 18th birthdays the Boy Scouts of America influenced me enormously. I was a Cub Scout first, and then a full-fledged Boy Scout.

More important than the badges, and the fellowship of camp-outs and service projects, Scouting imbued me with the principles of honor and duty. There is little that is wrong with the world today that would not be remedied if everyone lived by the precepts of Boy Scouting.

As an adult I have not been active with the Scout organization. I have lost nothing, however, of my sense of gratitude and loyalty for what the Boys Scouts did for me. I was surprised a few years ago when the secular establishment began its attacks on the Boy Scouts of America.

Thus far, the Scouts have waged a successful defense against the forces of immorality in our land who wish to force homosexuality upon them. Given the power of the secularists, one has to wonder how long the Scouts will be able to withstand the barrage.

Essential to the principles of Boy Scouting is that some courses of conduct are right and others wrong. Some actions are healthy, and others are unhealthy. The Boy Scouts have bravely stated that homosexuality is wrong and unhealthy. They have made their defense modestly without attacking the persons who engage in homosexual behavior. They have argued simply that homosexuality is inconsistent with the code of conduct — of moral straightness — expected of Scouts.

For that modest and simple defense of their principles they have been vilified and even persecuted. All across America the advocates of homosexuality are seeking to drive the Boy Scouts from public facilities on the basis that they are a discriminatory organization.

Those of us who hold that homosexuality is wrong should take note. The lobbyists for the homosexual agenda are trying to put homosexuality on the same basis as race or gender, that people engaging in homosexuality be in law a protected minority. That would make anyone who even speaks against homosexuality guilty of discrimination, subject to lawsuits and perhaps even punishment as criminals.

The political and media lobbies for homosexual activity have been able to make inroads into the mainstream of America because all of us know people who engage in homosexual acts, people who, as often as not, are nice people who mind their own business, and sometimes people whom we love very much. The lobby seeks to move us from acknowledging that they are nice people to admitting that their homosexual behavior is acceptable.

Scouting taught me that lots of nice people make unhealthy choices and do wrong things. Boy Scouting teaches, among many other lessons, that it is necessary to restrain our base desires, that the decisions of life require sifting because both good and evil are before us.

The Boy Scouts may be the only non-religious organization which is also nationwide that stands for moral right. For that reason the secular establishment hates it, as evidenced by the booing of the Scout honor guard at the 2000 Democratic National Convention.

In every community of America the Boy Scouts need and deserve the support of all people who believe that there is a right and a wrong, who believe in the bright light of duty and honor.

College Park Man Handed Jail Term For Bar Incident

The events surrounding a November barroom argument have resulted in a one-year jail sentence for a Prince George's County man following a Garrett County District Court hearing last week.

John Kenneth Friend, 44, College Park, pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and driving on a suspended license and was convicted on both charges. He also pleaded guilty to unlawful taking of a motor vehicle and received a stet ruling. His total sentence comprises an 18-month sentence, six months of which were suspended, a fine of $1,000, and two years' supervised probation.

Friend was arrested by Maryland state troopers after he argued with two fellow patrons of the Kopy Katz bar in Accident and allegedly took their truck and fled the scene. He was stopped a short distance away on Garrett Highway just north of McHenry, where he failed a battery of sobriety tests.

In other district court news, an Oakland man was handed a jail term after he pleaded guilty to bad check writing.

Kevin Lee Hartman, 27, was charged with the offense at the felony level after he purchased four satellite receivers with a check written on a closed bank account. Detectives with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation made the arrest in November. Hartman's sentence included an order that he make a restitution payment of $570 to the Electronic Diagnostic Center.

Norman G. Archibald, 28, Grantsville, entered a not guilty plea to second degree assault but was nonetheless convicted and placed on one year of supervised probation. He had been arrested by state troopers in November for striking another man in the leg with a piece of furniture during an argument.

Ryan Lewis Coleman, 19, Piedmont, W.Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and misdemeanor theft scheme, and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ). The ruling included a sentence of 60 days, all but two days of which were unspended, a $300 fine, and six months of unsupervised probation. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Coleman was arrested by state troopers after an October traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Grantsville. A search ensued after the odor of burnt marijuana was noted emanating from the vehicle, and the remains of burnt marijuana cigarettes were found in all three of the car's ashtrays. A small mail weight machine, allegedly stolen from the Rocket Center facility in Mineral County, W.Va., was also found in the vehicle.

Jeremy Edward Dean, 21, Rowlesburg, W.Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ. He received a 30-day sentence with all but two days suspended, a $200 fine, six months' supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Dean's October arrest came after state troopers stopped his vehicle on Garrett Highway in McHenry. A search undertaken after the smell of burning marijuana was observed recovered a bag of marijuana and a homemade tin foil smoking device from his pocket, a pack of rolling papers from his wallet, and a jar with suspected marijuana residue from the vehicle's back seat.

Rodney Wayne Rhodes, 20, LeRoy, W.Va., received a PBJ after he pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. He was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, fined $200, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Rhodes was arrested November after the odor of burning marijuana was noted by state troopers who had stopped his vehicle on I-68 near Friendsville. He voluntarily turned over a wooden box containing marijuana and a pack of rolling papers.

Lester Martin Lewis, 47, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of violating an ex parte order. He had been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies last month for showing up at his wife's Mtn. Lake Park apartment while the court order was already on file.

Bobby Rydell Lloyd II, 19, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon, with the condition that he forfeit the weapon. After being stopped in Friendsville by state troopers this past November, Lloyd volunteered that he was carrying a knife concealed under his shirt.

James Lee Layton, 66, and Doris Ann Layton, 63, both of Frostburg (Garrett County), were deemed not guilty of respective charges of second degree assault. Robert Charles Marsh, 50, Minnetoka, Minn., was deemed not guilty of malicious destruction of property.

DWIs/DUIs

Several cases involving charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) were heard by Judge Burnett recently.

Robert Lee Hovermale Jr., 50, Md., pleaded guilty to two separate charges of DWI. He was fined a total of $500, handed a 90-day sentence with all but seven days suspended, and placed on two years of supervised probation.

Ervin Dale Brown, 39, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $500, handed a six-month sentence with all but 30 days suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation.

Jeremy Scott Foy, 24, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, a $300 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Leonard Wade Kincaid, 39, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a PBJ, a $200 fine, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Harry Alfred Baker, 38, Md., was deemed to be in violation of his DWI probation; his probation agreement was revoked and a 30-day jail sentence was reimposed.

School Bus Violation

John Alan Guard, 37, Md., pleaded guilty to passing a stopped school bus that was displaying alternately flashing red lights. He was handed a PBJ, fined $77, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

A NEW WORLD is opened to selected students of the Maryland School for the Blind, who travel to the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry each year and learn how to ski, thanks to the efforts of many local volunteers. The photo above was taken yesterday at the base of the beginners' slope known aa Belly Flop. Many of the volunteer guides are students at Northern or Southern high school. Pictured above right is Barbara Law, a member of the Northern High School faculty, who serves aa a volunteer coordinator for the program. The Deep Creek Lions Club is the primary sponsor of the Blind Skiers' Program at the Wisp, which has taught hundreds of visually impaired youth how to ski. The final week of instruction for this season is next week.

Minor Injuries Result From Local Mishaps

Two local residents were slightly injured when they were involved in a pair of separate single-vehicle accidents near Red House this week, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. No charges were filed in either incident.

The first mishap took place this past Thursday, Feb. 1, shortly after 5 p.m. when Donald Chris Virts, 46, Swanton, reportedly blacked out behind the wheel of his truck while traveling east on George Washington Highway near the Garrett Highway intersection. Virts's 1989 Chevrolet S-10 pickup crossed over the oncoming lane and struck a tree along the westbound side of the road. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported Virts to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

The second accident occurred on Friday at 4:12 p.m. when a pickup operated by Larry Wayne Cooper, 58, Oakland, slid on a patch of ice on northbound Garrett Highway just south of Earl Hauser Road. The 1995 Dodge Ramcharger crossed over the oncoming laue, ran off the road, and overturned.

Cooper was able to make his way to his home along Garrett Highway, which was not far from the accident scene, and call for assistance. The Southern Rescue Squad responded to the residence and transported him to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Flood Damage Bill Clears Committee; Funding Uncertain

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has reported that a bill to establish a grant program to fund flood damage restoration has this week cleared the House Environmental Matters Committee and is on its way to the Senate.

However, said Edwards, even though House Bill 124 has the support of the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), MDE officials would prefer that no specific monetary amount be included in the budget.

The bill, co-authored by Edwards, had included $1 million in state funds be set aside each year for use in flood damage restoration beginning in Fiscal Year 2003.

His fear, he said, is that the bill may never be funded if such a stipulation is upheld.

Edwards stated that the proposed legislation is especially important to Garrett and Allegany counties "because of all the bridges and roads that have been damaged due to the serious flooding."

He explained that the bill is intended to deal with rebuilding, repairing or replacing any publicly owned roads, bridges or buildings that subdivisions would be responsible for funding. The bill would have provided 75% of the funding to any subdivision awarded the grants and would have required that subdivision to provide the remaining 25% in matching funds.

Edwards noted that there is no funding mechanism currently provided by the state, and that "all of Garrett County could be wiped out by flooding, and we still wouldn't meet the federal standards for compensation."

Spurrier Interns For Sen. Hafer

An Oakland resident and Frostburg State University student has been assigned to intern for the Maryland General Assembly. Shannon Spurrier will be assisting Sen. John Hafer, who is serving a third term representing Garrett and Allegany counties.

"Shannon is a quick study and has already established herself as an integral and important part of my office in Annapolis," Sen. Hafer said. The internship program is offered through the Department of Political Science at Frostburg State University under the direction of John Bambacus, professor and mentor at FSU.

This program provides students with a real "hands on" experience with government and a chance to see politics in action and not just from the classroom. Spurrier's internship responsibilities include responding to constituents' concerns and questions, tracking important legislation, writing news releases, and attending meetings and committee hearings.

Spurrier is the daughter of David and Pam Spurrier of Oakland. She is a 1997 graduate of Southern High School, and will graduate from FSU in the spring of 2002 with a degree in political science and criminal justice and a minor in sociology. "I am honored to be working with Senator Hafer in serving Garrett and Allegany counties, and I know this will be an unforgettable opportunity that will prepare me for future aspirations," Spurrier said.

Spurrier is working with district administrator Mary Beth Pirolozzi and legislative assistant Victoria Clark to respond to constituents' concerns during the legislative session in Annapolis.

When Spurrier is not in Annapolis, she also works part time at Will O' the Wisp as a reservationist.

FROSTBURG STATE UNIVERSITY

A CENTURY PLUS FOUR - That's the milestone that will be reached by Oakland native Edith Kimmell Starkey this Sunday, Feb. 11. Edith spent her early years on her father's farm about three miles outside Deer Park, but has lived in Ohio and Florida, and has resided for the past five-plus years in Harrison, Ark., with her daughter. Mrs. Starkey's father, J.W. Kimmell, was treasurer of Garrett County for two terms, during which time she worked with him in the courthouse. One of her favorite pastimes is writing poetry, with the focus of many of her poems being life in Garrett County just after the turn of the 20th century. One of the those poems appears at right.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

This will be a tough week for news in Bittinger, as even my most dependable sources, Sally Poholsky and Ellen Honsley, had no items. But I did get a small item from Sally's sister, Cindy Stanton, that she and Sam Stanton visited Leah in Towson last weekend for just a quick visit, and they took Leah and her roommate out for lunch. Probably Cindy did some laundry for them, too.

Another local item: Dr. and Mrs. Jack Perkins from Fayettsville, Ark., and Madeline Cattlet of Flat Woods, W.Va., were Thursday luncheon guests of Ralph and Ethel Buckel. The Perkinses were in Flat Woods to attend the memorial service for Mrs. Cattlet's daughter, who was killed in a car accident.

Luckily I saw Sandy Neshne at the Accident Elementary School when I went to Meredith's teacher's conference on Monday night. I asked her how her mother-in-law was since she was on our church prayer list for several weeks. Sandy said she is much better, and, in fact, they went to Baltimore to help her celebrate her birthday last weekend.

The first thing I did this morning was call my brother Barry in Frederick to wish him a happy birthday. My girls sang "Happy Birthday" to him since he threatened that if they didn't the cards and checker games he played with them would stop. They sang, of course. Down in Frederick they got several inches of snow between 6 and 7:30 a.m. That is unusual when they get more snow than we do up here in Garrett County, which brings my non-news item about Ground Hog Day in Bittinger. I don't care what Puxatawney Phil or what some poor media group of young people, who don't look any different from the Garrett County kids.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty used another of their share of the season tickets purchased by them and the Bass family, and Barry Glotfelty, to see another action-packed basketball game at College Park between the Terps and another NCC team, Clemson. Marci doesn't care that much about the games, but she just enjoyed getting away from the snowbound mountaintop. Maybe they had the same motive as the Stantons and the Neslines for taking a trip to the city. Most everyone from up here is very glad to get home and away from the traffic and crowds. I know that I am. Blakely went up to stay with her "Gram" Ruth DiPaolo, and the boys stayed with their Aunt Carol Bass and family. After church on Sunday, "Gram" took Meredith and Blakely to lunch at the Crab House on Long Stretch. They met Ruth's friend, Shirley Johnson, from Cumberland.

When I was a little girl it always made me sick when Uncle Dale would take the boys to see a Pirate game, but not me; I was a girl.

Just when I thought I had finished this week's column, I got a phone call from Carla Beitzel that she found a young female black Lab. She said she wore no collar and is very sweet and friendly. The Beitzel's phone number is 245-4388 if you know someone missing a sweet young Lab. Please let them know. She does not want to take her to the animal shelter, but they already have two other stray dogs to feed. She also told me that her husband Danny is now going back to school to pursue a nursing degree after many years running with the Rescue Squad. After hitting the big 40 birthday, he decided to take a new career path.

around the groundhog in Pennsylvania think.

I doubt any real groundhogs would crawl out of their hole since the ground was too cold to wake them up from their "long winter sleep." Anyway, their holes are pretty clogged with deep thick snow pack. But if they did come up at daylight, they would definitely have seen their shadow, since the morning in Bittinger was sunny for half of the morning, with blue sky. Then the rest of the day was overcast with nothing but more new snow. So as for my long-range forecast, we will have real wintry weather for at least six weeks. No more snow after March 21, except for any freakish snow in May or June, which we have had in the past few years, especially in this "neck of the woods." I believe we will have a nicer spring than most years, but that is pure guessing.

Oh yes, I do have another item to write about. About 30 teenagers and their advisors from the WV/MD Synod of the Lutheran Church took a break from their annual skiing expedition at the Wisp to attend worship service at Bittinger Lutheran Church on Sunday morning. Several of the youth took part in the readings, and they also performed a short vocal number during the service. It was good to see a fine

HIGH UP IN THE ALLEGHENIES

High up in the Alleghenies
Where I spent my childhood days,
Where I watched the sun descending
In the evening's purple haze.

High up in the Alleghenies
Is the home I love so well,
Where the wild crabapple blossoms
Like the daisies in the dell.

High up in the Alleghenies
Where the fairest wild flowers bloom
Where the fragrant honeysuckle
Fills the valley with perfume.

High up in the Alleghenies
Where the purest water flows
Where the crystal springs are bubbling
And the rhododendron grows.

High up in the Alleghenies
Where the Youghiogheny flows,
Where the speckled trout lies gleaming
In the sunlight's glittering throes.

High up in the Alleghenies
Are my friends and kindred still
And I hope again to meet them
In my home among the hills.

Children's Dental Health Month

by Cynthia Bowman
Registered Dental Hygienist

Good oral hygiene and the prevention of dental problems is something that begins at birth. As the dental hygienist for the Garrett County Health Department, I have seen many children who needlessly suffer from pain and discomfort because this has not occurred. Unfortunately this is often because parents are not aware of the significance of baby teeth.

One common belief about baby or primary teeth is that they are not important. They are! Primary teeth are as important as permanent teeth. Primary teeth are for chewing, speaking, and appearance. They also hold space in the jaws for the permanent teeth. If a primary tooth is lost before the permanent tooth is ready to erupt, nearby teeth may tip or shift into the vacant space. This may cause crowding of the permanent teeth and may result in an improper bite for the child. Thus, it is important that children avoid losing their baby teeth until their permanent teeth are ready to come in.

If for some reason your child does loose his primary teeth before the permanent teeth are ready to come in, a dentist can prevent complications with a space maintainer. A space maintainer is an appliance used to maintain space for the permanent tooth.

An even better strategy is to begin good oral hygiene habits at an early age. Beginning the lifelong habit of brushing and flossing should begin when baby teeth begin to erupt. It is also important that children should avoid foods that have high sugar content. By age 3, a child should have his or her first visit to the dentist. It is important that a child's first trip to the dentist be an enjoyable one. Parents should not wait until they suspect problems. Your child and your dentist will both have a pleasant experience if during the first visit there are no problems identified. If you are not sure if your child is ready for his or her first visit, check with your child's doctor.

A second common misconception is that it is normal for a baby to have a fever while teething. A fever is not normal. It may be coincidental if your child has other symptoms along with teething. If your infant has a fever while teething, call your primary care physician. You can relieve your child's teething pain by gently rubbing your baby's gums with a clean finger, or cool wet gauze, or by letting your child use a teething ring.

The Garrett County Health Department Dental Clinic is here to help answer questions regarding your baby's dental needs. Please call us at 301- 334-1319 if you should have questions.

Breakfast Kickoff Held For March Of Dimes Walk

More than 100 persons representing 35 teams, as well as sponsors and key volunteer organizations, participated in the 31st anniversary March of Dimes WalkAmerica Western Maryland Division TeamWalk kickoff breakfast held January 24 at Holiday Inn in Cumberland.

The Allegany/Garrett County WalkAmerica event is scheduled for Saturday, April 28, in downtown Cumberland. The route starts at the Downtown Cumberland Mall and proceeds along the C&O Canal towpath to Oflutt Street, returning to finish at the downtown mall. The length of the route is 10 kilometers (6.2 miles).

The community goal for 2001 is $120,000, as announced at the kickoff by Walk chair Steve Diggs, TeamWalk chair Bill Lynn, and division director Nancy Thoerig. Last year's income was nearly $118,000. Nearly 60 teams and 1,300 walkers participated.

New teams represented at the kickoff were CybeRep coM, AES Warrior Run, Rocky Gap State Park, and Curves for Women.

Veteran teams represented were Allegany Aggregates, Allegany County Department of Social Services, Allegany County Health Department, Alliant Techsystems, Biederlack, the Bon Ton, Brandenburg Center, CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield, Century 21, Columbia Gas Transmission, Country Club Mall, FCI, First Union Securities, F&M Bank, Hampton Inn, Holiday Inn, Hunter Douglas, JCPenney, Kmart, Martin's Food Markets, McDonald's, M&T Bank, PharmaCare OptionCare, SECU, S. Schwab Company, Stangel's Financial Services, State Farm, Verizon, WCI, Weight Watchers, and Western Maryland Health System.

Also represented were Civil Air Patrol and United Commercial Travelers, day-of-event logistics volunteers.

Guest speakers were Betsey Hurwitz-Schwab of S. Schwab Company, first Western Maryland Division Premiere Partner sponsor; Ed Mullaney, Downtown Mall manager; Vicki Lucas, vice president of Women's Services for MedStar Health and Baltimore Walk chair, and March of Dimes grant recipients Kery Hummell, Western Maryland AHEC, Jennifer Thorn, Maryland Cooperative Extension, and Sue Coyle, YMCA Family Center.

"One of the more exciting announcements this year," noted Thoerig, "is the return of WalkAmerica to the C&O Canal towpath and the Downtown Cumberland Mall. Construction of the canal parkway will be complete for the most part by the end of April, and the National Park Service has approved our access that is necessary to assure emergency and safety services for our anticipated 1,500 walkers." The event was held the past two years at Allegany College.

"Also exciting this year," Thoerig added, "is the local office's new alignment with the Maryland Chapter March of Dimes and expansion of the Western Maryland Division to include Washington and Frederick counties.

"Melissa Clark has joined our staff as community director for Washington and Frederick counties. She will develop relationships with veteran and new volunteers to coordinate WalkAmerica events in Hagerstown and Frederick this year, as well as stage other special events and identify future March of Dimes grantees.

"This is a time of change and growth for the Western Maryland Division March of Dimes," Thoerig said. "We look forward to renewed commitment with our volunteers and another year of successful events, grant awards, and community activities."

Sponsors to date for this year's Allegany Garrett County WalkAmerica, in addition to S. Schwab Company, are CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield, Western Maryland Health System, Allegany Aggregates, Chessie Federal Credit Union, CBIZ Benefits & Insurance, McDonald's, Biederlack, First Union Securities, Martin's Food Markets, and Chesaptown Eagles. Bank Days host is Fidelity Bank.

Founded in 1938 by Franklin Delano Roosevelt to find the cure for polio, which was accomplished in the mid-1950s, the mission of the March of Dimes today is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality.

For more information about the March of Dimes or WalkAmerica, persons may call the Western Maryland Division office at 301-722-5818.

RECEIVES CERTIFICATION — Garrett County Memorial Hospital Plant Operations manager Gary Brack recently earned the designation of Certified Healthcare Facility Manager (CHFM). The CHFM is a national credential that distinguishes an individual as being among the elite in a critical field of healthcare management. To earn the CHFM, an individual must satisfy eligibility requirements that incorporate a blend of work experience and education, agree to adhere to the Professional Standards of Conduct, and pass the CHFM examination. The examination tests knowledge required of a competent healthcare facility manager in the areas of compliance, planning, design and construction, maintenance and operations, finance, and administration. The CHFM Program supports the community of healthcare facility managers and is designed to provide an objective and rigorous assessment of professional knowledge. "Patients, visitors, and staff at Garrett County Memorial Hospital will all benefit from Gary's expertise as a healthcare facility manager," stated Donald Battista, GCMH president/CEO. "This credential places him among the elite in a critical field of healthcare management." Brack has been employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for 11 years and resides in Oakland with his wife and two children.

Road Contractor Earns Award For Oakland Project

Belt Paving of Cumberland has been recognized for the quality of its work in expanding a turn lane at the Oakland intersection of Maryland Highway and Third Street and the landscaping of the small park on that same corner. The firm was one of 18 companies that received a Maryland Quality Initiative Award of Excellence (MdQI) for transportation-related projects completed during the past year.

The MdQI awards were developed in 1990 to foster excellence in the quality of state road construction projects. The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration and the Maryland Highway Contractors Association announced this year's award recipients at an MdQI banquet in Hunt Valley last week.

Participating contractors were evaluated by a panel of judges representing the construction industry and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), and SHA reviewed the nominations. Criteria included design, specification compliance, traffic maintenance, cooperation, contract administration, materials compliance, production equipment, erosion and sediment control, adherence to schedules, subcontracting, and overall quality.

"We are proud of SHA's partnership with private industry to provide quality highway projects that reflect and respect the surrounding community and environment," said SHA administrator Parker F. Williams. "This partnership brings citizens a transportation system that provides mobility and supports the state's economy while adhering to Maryland's Smart Growth and Smart Transportation principles."

Members of the church surprised fellow member Chauncey Friend on Sunday, Feb. 4, with a birthday dinner to celebrate his 97th birthday. Approximately 60 people were present for the covered-dish dinner. Cake and ice cream were served. Entertainment was provided by Ronnie Beitzel, who sang and played the guitar. Ronnie Edmonds spoke briefly about Chauncey and told him, "You listen to me whether you want to or not. You're a grandfather to me."

Chauncey seemed very pleased with all of the attention, and said, "My ego is so swelled that I'm ready to bust."

FRIENDSVILLE MUNICIPAL VOTING

Voting for three town council members will be held next Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the town hall from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Absentee ballots are available from the clerk-treasurer by calling 301-746-5919 or 301-746-5847.

TOWN COUNCIL CANDIDATES

Running for a seat on the Friendsville Town Council are Robert Sines, Herschel Allen, Wayne Friend, and Ed Kelley. Write-in candidates are Jess Whittemore and Shirley Metheny.

Robert Sines was born and reared in Friendsville. He is married and has three daughters, two sons, and 12 grandchildren. He is a member of Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 and attends the Friendsville United Methodist Church.

Robert has previously served two terms as a member of the town council and is running this term because he sees a need to help control the spending in the town. "I want to look out for the elderly as much as possible, because I'm one of them," stated Robert. He feels that, because of the fixed income of the elderly, costs should be kept to a minimum.

Herschel Allen has been a resident of Friendsville for 10 years, is married, and has one son. He works out of his home as a chemical civil engineer. He served in the U.S. Army, with two years of service in Vietnam. He previously served on the town council for two years, at which time he initiated the effort to install handicapped accessible sidewalks and also headed the project for the energy-saving street lights. Herschel is running for a seat on the council because he sees a need for a change, someone with different ideas. He says he would work for the people. For example, Crime Watch would get his support and help.

"I care about the people and the town," stated Herschel, "I've seen what other towns have gotten through grant money and feel that we can do the same in this town."

Shirley A. Metheny is running as a write-in candidate. Shirley has been a resident of Friendsville for 24 years. She is the mother of three daughters and the grandmother of seven grandchildren. She works for Keystone Paving as an accountant/secretary. She has served on the town council for the past four years and has helped with such programs as the Senior Citizen Center, the town Christmas decorations, the town park, the Spring Festival, Christmas Light-Up Night, and many more projects too numerous to mention.

Shirley wishes to serve on the town council again because a lot of people have asked her to run for another term. "I feel that there are a lot of projects yet to finish," stated Shirley, "such as a town square in the middle of town, complete with shrubs and a brick walkway." She feels that she works for what's good for the people, especially the seniors, and is not in it for herself or for any kind of personal gain. "I have seen a lot of changes in the four years that I have been a member. It has been a council that has worked together and there are a lot of new things to come," she added.

The other three candidates for town council were profiled in last week's Friendsville News.

FREE BLOOD PRESSURE CHECKS

There will be free blood pressure screening offered on Thursday, Feb. 22, at the Old Mill Restaurant from 4 to 6 p.m. Anyone interested is urged to drop in. This is made possible by the Garrett County Health Dept. and Brenda Frazee, outreach worker.

The next Friendsville Crime Watch meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the Old Mill Restaurant beginning at 7 p.m.

Starting on March 13, the meetings will be held in the Friendsville Elementary School cafeteria on the second Tuesday of every month at 7 p.m.

Members of the Crime Watch recently distributed "Crime Watch Security Lights" to the seniors in the town.

On Saturday, Feb. 17, Crime Watch will be sponsoring a movie titled "Chicken Run" for the children of Friendsville at the Elementary School cafeteria from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served. Following the movie, children will be able to participate in a "Chicken Limbo' and a "Chicken Dance." Children under the age of 4 are to be accompanied by an adult or older sibling. There will be a sign-in and sign-out sheet for parents to sign. Door prizes will also be given. Persons may want to bring a pillow or blanket to sit on during the movie. For more information, interested persons may contact Jo Ann Ross at 301-746-4210.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Friendsville Elementary School has been selected to be a Korean War Commemorative School. Principal Doug Gaither applied for this honor after being notified by the Department of Defense following his part in establishing a Vietnam Memorial Wall in the school foyer last year. The school would like to recognize those men from the Friendsville area who lost their lives in the Korean War by displaying a similar memorial on the same wall. Anyone who has any information on these men is asked to contact Doug Gaither at the school. The information collected so far is limited, and any information would be "greatly appreciated." A dedication ceremony is being planned for the end of March. This year marks the 50th anniversary of "The Forgotten War."

There will be no school on Feb. 9 and Feb. 19.

The school is collecting "Pepsi Notes" for free musical instruments and supplies for the classroom. Points can be found 24-oz., 2-liter, and 3-liter bottles, as well as cartons of 12 and 24 cans. Points can also be found on Frito Lay products. Pepsi points may be dropped off at the school in care of Ms. Sweitzer, the music teacher. The last turn-in date for the Pepsi points is Feb. 15. Points can be mailed to the Friendsville Elementary School at P.O. Box 59, Friendsville, MD 21531.

They are also saving General Mills box tops for education.

The next Friendsville Dinner Theater is scheduled for Friday, March 2, Saturday, March 3, and Sunday, March 4. This year the show is titled "Clowns." They are looking for individuals or businesses who would like to place a complimentary ad in the dinner theater booklet. Anyone interested in placing an ad may do so by contacting the school at 301-746-5100.

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

A surprise birthday celebration was held Monday, Feb. 5, in honor of Chauncey Friend, who turned 97 years old on Tuesday, Feb. 6. Forty-seven people were present to help in the celebration. Adina Brode and Veronica Padmos presented him with a rose boutonniere on behalf of the Area Agency on Aging. Helen Vitez presented Chauncey with a bouquet of a dozen roses, followed by a kiss on his forehead. The roses were a gift from all of the senior citizens.

The "birthday boy" was then surprised by a three-tier cake lit with 97 candles, which he blew out with a little help from a few others.

Mayor Spencer R. Schlosnagle honored Chauncey with an honorary Key to the City and Lucretia Sines gave a short speech on Chauncey's history.

Everyone joined in singing "Happy Birthday" and the eating of cake and ice cream. He said he was "very surprised."

Lakers Flatten Howard, Top Rockville To Up Mark To 19-4

A resounding 85-36 defeat of visiting Howard Community College on Saturday, followed by a tough Maryland JUCO 92-85 victory last night over Montgomery-Rockville, also in McHenry, upped the Garrett Community College Lakers' overall record to 19-4 and their conference mark to 10-4.

Five Lakers finished in double figures in the easy win over Howard on Saturday, with Jontae Harrington and former Northern Husky Dustin Long leading the way with 14 points apiece. Long also pulled down eight rebounds.

The Laker defense held Howard to just 18 points in the first half, giving Garrett a commanding 45-18 advantage at intermission. That defensive effort included 29 steals, with Rob Hall recording eight of them.

Also reaching double figures in scoring were Antonio Lappegard with 13 points, plus six rebounds, Robert Hall with 11 points, and Kortaa Hall with 10. Robert Hall, who is among the nation's leaders in assists, dished out 11 of GCC's total of 25.

Pacing Howard in scoring was John Mejorada with 13 points, while Brandon Earles also reached double figures with 10. Luke Dorsey scored only two points, but finished with a game-high 16 rebounds and had four assists. Escsa Imoisilli had nine points and 10 rebounds.

"Dustin and Rob did a great job," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "We changed our line-up a little bit to try to increase our defensive intensity, and obviously it worked."

Last night's contest with Montgomery-Rockville, however, was far more offensive, with Kortaa Hall leading the way for the Lakers. Hall hit eight of 13 attempts from the floor, including four three-point goals, and was four-for-six at the foul line for a total of 24 points. He also recorded seven rebounds and four assists.

The Lakers, who scored 54 points in the first half and hit just under 50 percent of their shots (33 of 69) for the game, kept the visitors at arm's length most of the way. They led 54-45 at halftime.

Getting a double-double for the evening was Laker Jontae Harrington, who hit 20 points and grabbed 16 rebounds. Rob Hall finished with 16 points, six assists, and four steals, while Lappegard recorded 14 points and Lee Parris had 12 points and three blocks.

Earning a game-high 27 points was Rockville's Vernon Buckles, while Lewayne Ford netted 11 points, pulled 10 rebounds, and blocked one shot. Buckles also had three assists and three steals.

"We moved the ball well against one of the best defenses that we face all season," said Coach Gibson. "They just couldn't stop Jontae and Antonio inside. Once again, we got a great effort from our bench, especially from Antonio and Lee Parris."

The Lakers will entertain the Essex campus of the Community College of Baltimore County this Saturday (tip-off at 7 p.m.), and will play at Anne Arundel CC next Wednesday.

Lakers Drop Three Straight To Takoma, Cecil, Frederick

The women's basketball program of Garrett Community College has fallen on hard times of late, as the Lakers fell three times this week by scores of 88-52 to Takoma Park on Friday and 70-47 to Frederick Tuesday. Those blowouts bookended a one-point loss to Cecil Sunday that saw GCC's hopes evaporate when Cecil connected on a jumper in the closing seconds to clinch a 71-70 margin win.

Garrett fell behind early at Takoma Park and was never able to get back on track. The Lakers were down 41-27 at the half as the hosts out-hustled GCC to roll to a 36-point win.

Tanieka Graves scored 10 points to lead the Lakers, Nikki Jackson added nine points, and Christi Edgell contributed eight, six of which came on a pair of three-pointers. The hosts were led by 24 points by McNott and 20 points by Boston.

"I have to give Takoma Park a lot of credit," GCC coach Ann Wellham commented. "Their level of intensity was well above ours. We still need to decide if we have the drive to go the extra distance."

The Lakers heeded their coach's call for Sunday's battle at Cecil, which was a hard-fought affair from beginning to end. GCC was up by a bucket, 36-30, at the half, but was outscored 37-34 over the course of the second half.

The game went down to the wire as Donna Lyles hit a field goal with 19 seconds remaining to put Garrett up 70-69. Cecil's Lesley Staehli connected on a field goal with 12 seconds to go to put the hosts up by one. GCC got the ball down the court, but missed a shot attempt with three seconds to go. Lyles grabbed the offensive rebound but wasn't able to make the final shot as the buzzer sounded.

Graves led Garrett's scorers again with 12 points, while Lyles put in a double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds. JoEllen Kitt scored 10 points, and Edgell and Crystal Kimble scored nine points each. Kitt and Shawntice McLaughlin dished out six assists apiece. Garrett outrebounded Cecil by a 64-40 margin.

GCC's intensity waned Tuesday night at Frederick, as the host Cougars were able to mount a 31-16 halftime lead on their way to a 23-point win over the Lakers. Kitt scored 16 points and Lyles hauled down a game-high nine rebounds.

Garrett (9-11 overall, 7-8 JUCO) hosts the Hagerstown Hawks tonight and CCBC-Essex Saturday, with both contests slated for 5 p.m. tip-offs.

Rams Make Mountaineers 13th Consecutive Victim

The current win streak of the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team was upped to 13 Tuesday night when the Rams coasted to a 50-32 victory over host Beall in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League contest. The win stretched Coach Tom Bosley's and the Rams' overall mark to 15-1 and their WMIL record to 7-1.

It was the only game played by the Rams this past week, as Friday night's scheduled encounter with cross-county rival Northern had to be postponed because of winter weather. That contest has been rescheduled for Thursday, Feb. 22.

Ricky Reams was the only player in Tuesday night's contest at Beall to finish in double figures, as he netted 12 points for the Rams, who did not need a lot of points anyway because of another outstanding defensive effort. Southern scored 16 of the first 17 points of the game, and did not allow a Mountaineer to connect for a field goal until halfway through the second period. Beall finished with just seven baskets for the entire game.

After holding a 16-1 lead at the end of the first half, the Rams out-scored their hosts in the second period by a 12-11 margin to take a 28-12 halftime advantage. Beall out-scored Southern by a 13-11 margin in the third stanza to cut the Rams' lead to 39-25 by the end of the period, but it was too little too late.

Josh Sharon and Mike Saturday finished with eight and seven points, respectively, for Southern, while Darren Johnson led the Mountaineers with eight points, and Ryan Harper chipped in with six.

The loss dropped Beall to 2-12 overall and 1-6 in the WMIL.

The Southern junior varsity remained undefeated with a 58-39 victory in the preliminary game behind a 21-point effort by Dennis Tressler. Mahlon Harper paced the jayvee Mountaineers with 15 points.

The Rams will travel to Parsons this Friday to take on Tucker County in a non-league match-up. Just 24 hours later they will go to Cumberland to face second-ranked Fort Hill, a team that is anxious to avenge an earlier loss to the Rams in Oakland and try to win at least a share of the WMIL title.

Southern's next home game will be next Tuesday, Feb. 13, against Victor Cullen.

Huskies Split Road Contests With Spartans, Mountaineers

Both games of the Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team were blowouts, as the Huskies came up on the short end of a 67-37 rout at Bishop Walsh Saturday, then roared back to flatten the Mountaineers 66-33 Monday night at Beall.

Northern fell behind early at BW as the Huskies found themselves behind 19-3 after one quarter of play and down by a 34-9 margin at the half. The Spartans had rolled up a 55-16 lead by the opening of the final period, and eventually won by 30 points.

Forward Bridget Frazee put in a fine all-around effort for the Huskies, as the junior snagged an impressive 17 rebounds and scored a team-high 12 points. Sophomore Amanda Frantz added nine points. Spartan sophomore Karen Knight paced all scorers with 22 points as she led Bishop Walsh to its eighth victory in nine games.

Northern won the junior varsity game 33-30 as Karie and Kayla Kamp scored 10 points each. Katie Larkin had 15 points for the Spartans.

The Huskies started out slow Monday night at Beall, and were down by an 11-9 deficit after one quarter. NHS pulled into a 21-21 tie with the Mounties by halftime, then rolled out the big guns to outscore Beall 45-12 over the course of the second half during 27-4 third quarter and 18-8 fourth quarter runs. Northern shot an outstanding 63 percent from the field during the second half.

Junior forward Nicole Sisler paced the Huskies with 16 points on the night, while Lyndsi Butler added 14 (inciuding a trio of three-pointers), Frantz 12, and Heather Lander 10 points. The Mountaineers' Cheri Simmons scored 12 points for Beall (3-10).

Northern took the junior varsity contest 36-28 as Kayla Kamp scored 12 points, Karie Kamp scored 10 points and hauled down 18 rebounds, and Kelly Stein added 10 points. Beall's Amy Williams scored 12 points.

The Huskies (8-9) are slated to host Salisbury tomorrow night and are off until a Thursday, Feb. 15, homecourt rematch with Bishop Walsh.

In memory of my husband
Harold Lipscomb
August 29, 1935—May 2, 2000
On Valentine's Day

You were my special friend, sweetheart and husband for 42 years. We worked, laughed, and cried and raised a family together. You were the best husband, father and grandpa. It broke my heart when God called you home. Life's not the same without you. All I have left are happy memories and pictures, so I will treasure all these things until we meet again and I see your big smile and hear you say everything will be okay and I love you.

Hugs and kisses to my only Valentine.

I miss you, your wife Garnet (Boots)

Rams Run Win Streak To 11 By Downing FH, Alco

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team stretched its winning streak to 11 games this week by snapping host Fort Hill's win streak at six with a 57-44 victory, and nipping Allegany's long WMIL win streak with a 47-41 win.

The Rams (15-4 overall, 8-0 WMIL) clinched at least a tie for the WMIL title with the victory over the Campers, and they can lay sole claim to the league crown with a win Monday at Westmar or at home Wednesday against Beall in the regular season finale. Before that, however, SHS will be put to the test in defending its winning streak tonight against West Virginia Class AA powerhouse Tucker County, which comes to Oakland for a 7:30 p.m. match-up tonight.

Junior Ashley Liller's 28 points led Southern past the Sentinels by 13 points last Thursday in Cumberland. Liller hit 12 field goals, connected on four of seven free throws, and nabbed seven steals. "She was definitely the difference," commented FH coach Debbie Wilson. "The ball was in her hands most of the time, and she did what she is very good at."

Southern led 12-7 after one quarter, widened its lead to 26-18 at the half, and ran up a 41-30 advantage by the opening of the final period. The Sentinels' coach praised the Rams' defense, noting that Southern's pressure "definitely bothered us, and we committed 25 turnovers. You have to give them all the credit in the world."

In addition to Liller's performance, the Rams got excellent production from the freshman trio of Becca Flanagan, who scored 11 points, Kate Dugan, who had nine rebounds, and Robbin Gregg, who dished out five assists. Fort Hill (10-5, 6-2 in the WMIL) was paced by Becky Vance's 15 points and Jen Vance's 13 points. SHS's defense shut down Jessica George, who had been averaging 13 points per game for the Sentinels, by holding her scoreless for the night.

The outcome of the junior varsity contest was never in doubt, as the Rams' JV romped to a 47-23 victory behind 15 points from Justine Pagenhardt.

The six-point win over defending state champ Allegany got off to a rocky start Tuesday night in Oakland, as the Rams found themselves down 8-7 after the first quarter. SHS forged into a 17-15 lead at the half, then a 10-2 flurry midway through the third quarter gave the Rams a 29-19 lead one minute before that period closed.

After mounting a slow and steady comeback Allegany took the lead at the 4:10 mark with a layup that put the Campers up 34-32. SHS coach Don Stemple called a timeout to plot strategy with his staff and players, and their plan paid off as the Rams scored 11 of the game's 13 points to turn the two-point deficit into a seven-point lead.

Forward Jennifer Bosley sank a jumper to tie the game at 34 with 3:50 left, and Gregg followed with back-to-back baskets. Liller cut between a pair of Campers to hit a jumper of her own, then converted a free throw for the three-point play. Gregg then stole the ball at the Alco end of the court and hurled a strike that hit Liller on the fly for a breakaway layup that made the score 47-36 with 2:15 to go. SHS went on to win by six by virtue of its 30-26 second half tally.

Just as it has been throughout the season, Southern's defense proved key to beating Alco, as the Campers turned the ball over 25 times to SHS's 10 miscues. "All year long our offense has been jump-started by our defense, and that's what happened in the fourth quarter," Stemple remarked. "We thought if we could keep our defensive intensity for the whole game, it would wear on them and hopefully force some mislakes.

"One of the big keys for us was that our defense was able to keep it respectable until Ashley Liller (who scored only two points in the first half, both from the foul line) got on track on offense. When your top scorer doesn't have a field goal in the first half and you are still ahead, I think that's a sign of a pretty good team."

Liller, who scored eight points in the third quarter and seven in the final period, finished with a game-high 17 points and added six rebounds, six assists, and four steals. Gregg, who scored nine of her 11 points in the final seven minutes of the Rams' game-clinching run, had four steals, and Bosley contributed 10 points. Teandra Smith scored 16 points to lead Allegany (7-8, 4-3).

Southern's jayvee unit took its stellar record to 14-2 after a 27-23 win paced by Pagenhardt, who has led the team in scoring in each of the squad's 16 outings. The freshman had 12 points as opposed to the six-point Camper-high tally of Casey Wilson.

It was an uncharacteristically close contest for the Rams' JV, as Southern found itself down was down 7-1 at the end of the first quarter. The Campers had put an exceptionally tall squad on the floor to try to overpower the Rams under the basket, and the strategy worked early as several SHS shot attempts were swatted away.

Southern adjusted in the second quarter by going on the attack both offensively and defensively. Two of the taller Rams, forward Mandi Stahl and center Nina Stoner, boxed out well and hit the boards hard to pull down a number of rebounds. Guard Casey Taylor used her speed and reflexes to provide an outstanding defensive effort that keyed a Ram shutout of Alco's scorers over the entire second quarter.

SHS's junior varsity will lead off tonight's action against Tucker County at 6 p.m. on the Southern court. The varsity battle follows 90 minutes later, and will be broadcast on 92.3 FM.

Speicher Leads Balanced NHS Attack Over Westmar, 72-65

Senior Greg Speicher and the Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad had a field day on offense at Westmar Tuesday, as NHS scored a season-high tally in its 72-65 victory over the Wildcats. Friday night's showdown at Southern was postponed and moved to Thursday, Feb. 22, in Oakland.

Speicher hit for 24 points Tuesday, half of which came from long range on four three-pointers, and three other Huskies scored in double figures to make for very balanced attack. Northern (6-10 overall, 1-7 WMIL) needed all the firepower it could muster down the stretch to win in the hostile confines of Westmar's gym, as the hosts held the upper hand for the first three quarters.

NHS was down 21-18 after the first period, 36-34 at the half, and had fallen behind by six points as the fourth quarter opened, 54-48. The Huskies went on the warpath in the final period, outscoring Westmar 24-11 with Speicher's ballhandling and a strong inside game anchored by center Jensen Long, who netted seven of his 15 points during the fourth quarter.

NHS Guard Jeremy Frazee, who fouled out late in the contest, had 11 points on the night, as did forward Josh Swandol. Westmar (7-8, 4-3) was led by Josh Glass's 17 points, while Andy Kolberg had 14 points, Curtis Broadwater 11 points, and James Wills 10.

The win was especially sweet for the Huskies, who had been downed by Westmar 55-54 in the season opener in Accident. Northern comes back to the Cove tonight to begin a two-week, four-game homestand that will close out the regular season. Tonight the Huskies will host a strong Salisbury squad (12-6) and Jesse Hoover, one of the area's top scorers, in a 7:30 p.m. battle. Bishop Walsh visits NHS Tuesday night.

Benefit Game Scheduled By Sheriff Depts.

The second annual Sheriff's Scholarship Challenge basketball game has been scheduled for Saturday, Mar. 24, at Northern High School. Proceeds from the contest, which will pit personnel of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office against those of the Allegany County Sheriff's Office, will benefit each office's scholarship funds.

The Garrett County staff will be playing to support their David Livengood Scholarship, established in memory of Deputy Livengood and his K-9 dog Sarge who were killed in the line of duty while responding to a silent-alarm robbery in Oakland in 1979. The Allegany County staff will be playing to support the Kevin Joy Scholarship, named for Deputy Joy, who died from medical complications in 1999.

Tickets for the game, which will tip off at 7 p.m. that evening, are now available at both sheriffs' offices. Prices are $5 for adults and $3 for children ages 12-17. Weekend getaways, items from professional sports teams, and other prizes will be given away during the game. The grand prize will be accommodations for two, plus two rounds of golf, at Nemacolin Woodlands Resort and Spa in nearby Pennsylvania. The Ali Ghan Shrine clown unit will provide entertainment for the children.

Any business, organization, or individual wishing to make a donation to either scholarship fund is invited to contact the local sheriff's office for details.

Southern Mat Club Wrestlers Win Back-To-Back Tourneys

The Southern Mat Club youth wrestling team won first place as a team at tournaments in Connellsville, Pa., this past Saturday and Buckhannon, W.Va., the Saturday before. The team finished in first place in two consecutive tournaments, a feat that the SMC had never accomplished in the 16 years the club has been competing. The event in Connellsville has been called "one of Pennsylvania's toughest tournaments."

In Buckhannon, the SMC outscored the host team, which finished second, and the team from Calhoun County, W.Va., which placed third, by wide margins. Twenty-seven SMC wrestlers competed and 24 earned trophies for fourth place or better. Ten SMC grapplers earned top individual honors by winning all their matches and placing first. Four earned second-place trophies, six finished in third, and four more SMC team members placed fourth.

The SMC champions at Buckhannon were Dillon Bennett, Bubba Scheffel, Nicholas Brant, Gavin Murphy, Scott Wildesen (two divisions), Brutus Scheffel, Justin Ratliff (two divisions), and Jeremy Gregory. Second-place winners were Lex Ozias, Jeremy Gregory, Coy Ozias, and Ryan Bennett. Placing third were Brutus Scheffel, Colin McCaffrey, Ryan Fitzwater, Greg Beckman, and Jeffrey Gregory. Finishing the day in fourth were Bubba Scheffel, Zach McCaffrey, Colin McCaffrey, and Anthony Soult. Also competing but falling a match short of winning a trophy were Patrick Beckman and Chris Tepper.

This past Saturday in Connellsville, 16 SMC wrestlers entered, with 10 earning trophies for fourth place or higher. The four team members who won all their individual bouts in Connellsville were Bubba Scheffel, Scott Wildesen, Gavin Murphy, and Brutus Scheffel. Winning all but their final match to place second on the day were Lex Ozias, Jeremy Gregory, and Coty Rasel. Third-place award winners were Justin Ratliff, Nathan Sines, and Chris Tepper.

"Winning as a team in Connellsville is probably the Southern Mat Club's biggest accomplishment yet," commented Coach Dave Taylor. "We placed ahead of powerhouse teams like East Fairmont, Waynesburg, the host team from Connellsville, and the Cougars from Parkersburg, W.Va. I couldn't be more proud of our kids."

This Saturday, the Southern Mat Club will host its own tournament at the Southern High School gymnasium. Wrestling will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will continue through the afternoon. "We would love to see the community stop by and see what Southern Mat Club wrestling is all about," stated Coach Dan Clark. "These kids are committed to this sport and would love to have a huge hometown crowd cheering them on. Also, the list of competitors who are coming from D.C., Virginia, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia include nearly 15 who have won national championships in the past. Southern's gym will literally be filled on Saturday with the best of the best," he added.

catches their attention," said one staff member. Another she said had been asked several times if the bear is for sale.

Most of the people who stop to look also pick up the brochure "Maryland's Bear Country, Learning to Live with Black Bears." "Black bears are delinitely here in western Maryland, and it is important that people learn about them and their behavior," Harris said, adding that when armed with proper information, people are able to take the precautions to avoid attracting bears and therefore reduce the potential for problems.

"We are grateful to Mr. Naylor and to the DNR for this important informational display at the Visitors Center. Although we are not aware of any bear attacks on people in Garrett County, we support wildlife education and conflict prevention," said Wishnick, chamber president.

During the winter, the Visitors Center is open Sunday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Survey Results

tion (36.8%), recreation (31.3%), family togetherness (30.8%), and school involvement (27.3%).

Over half of the respondents (53.8%) believed that jobs and employment are the greatest challenges in their community. At least one in five respondents indicated additional community challenges to be: income and finances (32.7%), lack of recreational activities (28.4%), illegal drug use (28.3%), alcohol use (22%), and access to health care (20.3%).

Two out of three respondents (65%) turn to family for help, 51% go to a friend, and 43% turn to church and clergy for help. Respondents are also likely to go to Garrett County Memorial Hospital (26%), law enforcement (13%), and/or the health department (13%) for assistance. Populations of special concern in the county are the unemployed (51%), the elderly (39%), teenagers and youth (31%), and single parents (28%).

When asked to identify barriers to service delivery from a list of responses, almost two out of three persons selected "not aware of existing services" (63%) as a barrier. Additional barriers identified are "too proud to ask for help" (45%), "rules and eligibility exclude people" (34%), and "lack of transportation" (20%).

Another section of the survey asked the 1,840 respondents to rate the adequacy of 34 resource areas for children and families. The instructions asked persons to only rate resources that they "had an opinion" about. The rating scale was 1 to 3, with 3 being "Excellent." Resource areas with the highest rating are emergency services, 911, etc (2.60), churches and religions organizations (2.56), elementary and secondary education, and law enforcement (2.22). Resource areas with the lowest ratings are: employment and job training (1.57), homeless services (1.63), legal aid low cost legal services (1.66), and transportation (1.70).

"Brown Bag Brag" information sharing luncheons are hosted by local health and human services agencies on a quarterly basis, providing an opportunity to update front-line staff on new program developments. The Garrett County Health Department will host the April 2001 meeting. Persons may call the Garrett County Partnership office at 301-334-1189 for additional information.

Just what is an Evangelical Free Church?
Evangelical: We seek to know Jesus Christ personally and to make Him known through evangelism both locally and around the world.
Free: It's a term that goes back to our European roots, when our founders sought to be free from state church control. ("Free" does not mean out-of-control worship!)
Church: We're a body of biblical, evangelical Christians who follow Jesus Christ and desire to grow in our walks with Him. Our services are a blend of contemporary and traditional worship.

Kennedy's co-defendant, Jason Dalton, previously appeared in circuit court, where he pleaded guilty to one count each of robbery and first-degree assault.

Sherbin sentenced Dalton to a total of 15 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, to run consecutively to the sentence of 60 to 81 months he had received in North Carolina.

County school district a tuition fee for each student attending. That fee had not been set and was open to negotiation.

A three-person committee from the Salisbury-Elk Lick school district had toured Northern High School with principal Gary Reichenbacher, who said that NHS does have room for more students. Presently, there are 600 lockers in the school and 540 students.

Several hundred people had attended a public meeting Jan. 31 to discuss the impact of this program on the Salisbury students, the school district, and the community.

Many of the students in the audience wore "Save Our School" T-shirts with a picture of an elk, the school mascot.

The Salisbury-Elk Lick school district is located in Somerset County, Pa., which is eight miles north of Grantsville. Meyersdale School, in Somerset County, was also being considered.

Arts Festival

musicians, will produce "patriotic pride with their All-American repertoire," followed by fireworks off nearby Marsh Mountain.

Chautauqua programs will return Thursday, July 5, through Sunday, July 8. Also held under the tent, the free performances will include local talent followed by the featured presentation of historical characters involved in "Founding a New Nation." Humanities scholars will bring the following historical figures. Benjamin Banneker, George Washington, Phyllis Wheatley, and Abigail Adams.

July will close with a chamber concert at the Sitzmark Room of Will O' the Wisp on Sunday, July 22. Titled "From Russia with Love," the performance by Arkady and Tamara Orlovsky is an example of virtuosity on cello and piano. Arkady Orlovsky is known to many because of his past performances with the Deep Creek Chamber Players," Johnson said. He is the principal cellist with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and conductor of the Columbus (Ind.) Symphony Orchestra. His wife Tamara, a master pianist, will accompany him. "She receives critical acclaim and standing ovations everywhere she performs," said Johnson.

The highlight of the GLAF season, according to Johnson, will be the new, weeklong Classical Music Festival, August 17 to 25, under the direction of Maestro David Wroe. A native of Great Britain, Wroe is the music director and conductor of the Westfield (N.J.) Symphony Orchestra. With a vision of making classical music more relevant to a broader public, Wroe will offer a variety of performances for different audiences. These include a Sunday Brunch Chamber Concert in the Four Seasons Dining Room of Will O' the Wisp on August 19, a narrated children's concert with full orchestra on August 22, and two "Nights at the Symphony" on August 24 and 25.

The festival will break new ground developing collaboration with Washington, D.C.'s, Levine School of Music, a summer music camp for youth exploring both classical and jazz music. World-renowned jazz violinist Didier Lockwood will be in residence, working daily with the students. The festival will also celebrate genius, this year in the form of 11-year-old violinist Ryu Goto, the younger brother of famed violinist Midori.

The U.S. Navy Band rock ensemble, the Cruisers, will return on Labor Day Sunday to Deep Creek Lake State Park for a free concert of classic rock standards. September 16 will feature William Feasely, who has rapidly become recognized as one of today's top classical guitarists. Feasely will perform Sunday at the Sitzmark Room of Will O' the Wisp. His program, "Echoes of Goya," will be a multimedia presentation of the life of the famous painter Francisco de Goya. The program is in cooperation with Music at Penn Alps, where he will perform a different program on the Sept. 15.

The 2001 season finale will be the September 22 performance of Chamber Orchestra Kremlin, led by Misha Rachlevsky. The ensemble, composed of the top young musicians in Moscow, has completed 16 European tours, three visits to the Far East, and three U.S. tours. Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will be the first performance on their 2001 fall U.S. tour. Their stay will include a free school performance on Sept. 21.

Season sponsors for Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, and Sprenger-Lang Foundation, with funding in part by Garrett County Arts Council and Maryland State Arts Council which is supported by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

O BROTHER, WHERE ART THOU?

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:46 - Released 12/22/00

I have not been so thoroughly and omnidirectionally entertained in a long while as I was when I watched O Brother, Where Art Thou?, the latest off-the-wall comedy by the incomparable, multiple award winning writing/directing team of Joel and Ethan Coen. As with previous projects like Raising Arizona, Fargo, and The Big Lebowski, the Coen brothers again show their great respect for the written word, where the script (based on, of all things, Homer's Odyssey) is more than simply a tool for furthering the plot, but a canvas on which to paint beautifully intricate narrative landscapes and uncompromisingly memorable characters. While the story of O, Brother is twice- and thrice-twisted, and repeatedly and consistently unpredictable, the words themselves are no less engaging, with each line and sentence carefully chosen to make its relative impact.

As if this weren't enough, the film is visually stunning, using yellow-range filters and desaturated colors to evoke the vibrant yet dead-looking landscape of Depression-era Mississippi, and the epic cinematography by Roger Deakins (The Shawshank Redemption, Kundun) somehow counterpoints this. The entire film looks black, white, and yellow, the poverty of the characters and of the land is thusly emphasized, and yet there is a beauty, a majesty of spirit to this setting, as if the characters and indeed the film itself will not stand still for the abject misery of the times. The liberal use of old-time country/spiritual music (often earnestly sung by the characters themselves) adds great depth to this down-home, backwoods feel, and its subjective nature (even characters singing around a campfire sound as if they were recorded in a professional studio) is somehow humorous and richly enjoyable at once. Finally, the actors — George Clooney, John Turturro, and Tim Blake Nelson, along with a large cast of supporting players in various smaller roles — make the experience consistently fun. Clooney bursts out from his established style with a comic depth I have not seen from him before, and Turturro and Nelson support him with hilarious honesty.

Ulysses Everett McGill (Clooney), a smooth-talking bumpkin whose religious use of Dapper Dan brand pomade in his greasy hair is of utmost importance to him, and his friends Pete Hogwallop (Turturro), and Delmar O'Donnel (Nelson) are three 1930s prison escapees from Mississippi whose partnership is based solely on the fact that they are chained together at the ankles. They are united, however, by their mutual desire to find the 1.2 million dollars Ulysses says he buried at his home before his arrest. Promising each man $400,000, he convinces them to help him escape, and here begins their great journey to freedom. It is impossible to recount all the numerous adventures they experience, but they go from one tight spot to another, sometimes lucking into what seems to be an incredible opportunity, other times nearly being killed by someone or some thing, or each other, or the ever-present police and prison staff which dogs them throughout. As this story unfolds, each chapter teaches us something more about one or more of them. At one time or another, they are trapped in a burning barn, shot at, saved by Jesus, seduced by a trio of beautiful women, robbed by a smooth-talking bully, and befriended by famous criminal George "Baby Face" Nelson, and their fortunes ebb and flow as a result of each of these chance occurrences. But it is perhaps their unlikely recording of a hit single called "Man Of Constant Sorrow," under the name of the Soggy Bottom Boys, which has the greatest effect on their eventual fate. Among the multitude of actors playing small, supporting roles in this story (most of them hysterically funny) are John Goodman, Holly Hunter, Charles Durning, Stephen Root, Chris Thomas King, and Michael Badalucco, each of whom plays a pivotal role in the turn of events.

It seems amazing that this complex and heavily populated story is only 106 minutes long, well below the 2-hour mark, and yet it moves briskly enough that as the end credits roll we almost wish for more. The Coen brothers have once again outdone themselves. ★★★★★

SNATCH

Rated R - Running Time: 1:42 - Released 12/6/00

Snatch, the sophomore effort by writer/director Guy Ritchie (Lock, Stock, And Two Smoking Barrels), is certainly not a simple movie to describe. Like its predecessor, it tells a complex, densely populated story of crime in London, with a tendency toward graphic violence, a strange sense of humor, and a plot that revolves around its numerous characters like a wheel around its own various spokes. Ritchie's story is fascinating, in a soft-yellow-underbelly-of-society sort of way, and his presentation is frenetic and quirky. Brad Pitt, who in the trailer looks like the star (and who owns the arguably biggest "name" in the picture), is actually only one of many in an ensemble cast with no main character.

The story is told by bare-knuckle boxing promoter "Turkish" (Jason Statham), who explains to us how he and his friend Tommy (Stephen Graham) got involved in a deal with the notorious "Brick Top" (Alan Ford), a ruthless bookie and crime lord who has a habit of feeding the bodies of his enemies to his pigs. When the fighter Turkish was going to supply for Brick Top's fight gets K.O.'ed by "One Punch" Mickey ONeil (Pitt), Turkish plans to use Mickey for the fight instead, but Mickey's unpredictable nature quickly puts Turkish and Tommy in the position of being possible pig food if they cannot control him.

Meanwhile, in a tangentially related story, a Russian named Boris The Blade (Rade Serbedzija) hires a couple of pawn shop owners named Vinny and Sol (Robbie Gee, Lennie James) to hijack an 86-carat Belgian diamond stolen by Franky Four Fingers (Benicio Del Toro) for a dealer named Doug The Head (Mike Reid) and his American cousin Avi (Dennis Farina), but their plan goes sour and they soon find themselves pursued by Brick Top and Bullet Tooth Tony (Vinnie Jones), who is hired by Avi to find the diamond after Franky disappears. Confused? So was I.

Despite the complex nature of this story, it's really the characters more than the plot that make it interesting. Writer/director Ritchie established his Tarantino-esque style with Lock, Stock... and continues it here, creating a multi-faceted crime story deeply imbued with this multitude of tough-guy types (and, incidentally, using many of the same actors). Although it is often violent, there is an undercurrent of humor permeating every scene, with plenty of good lines in the dialogue, and the violence itself is hardly ever shown on screen. Pitt, Farina, Ford, and the rest of the practically all-male cast aquit themselves well, making an interesting collage of personalities. In the spokes-and-wheel metaphor, it could be said that the huge diamond is the hub of the wheel, since it seems to touch practically every character in some way at some time, and all their experiences radiate outwards from this central conceit.

Snatch, while somewhat hard to follow, represents a fascinating study in character interaction and complex plot development. With its foreign feel and low-budget style, it may not get much wide exposure in this country, but it's worth a look from a filmmaking standpoint, and it will afford Brad Pitt fans with an interesting departure from anything he has ever done before. ★★★★

HEAD OVER HEELS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:27 - Released 2/2/01

One of the first things we learn about Amanda Pierce (Monica Potter), the main female character of Mark S. Waters's romantic comedy Head Over Heels, is that she's got had judgment in men. Unfortunately, Potter doesn't mention her judgment in movies. Working as a restorer of ancient paintings for the Renaissance department of New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art, Iowa-born Amanda tells co-workers that she thinks men are "too complicated," lacking the simplicity of the paintings she restores, whose beauty makes her weak in the knees. You got it, folks—she's looking for a man as two-dimensional as a painting. Thank God for Freddie Prinze Jr.

Although John J. Strauss and Ed Decter were part of the team responsible for the witty and offbeat There's Something About Mary, they must have misplaced their sense of originality when writing this story, or maybe their mistake was turning it over to novice screen writers David Kidd and Ron Burch. Whatever their error, we all must pay, as we are subjected to a story as bland, as trite, and as two-dimensional as our friend Amanda could ever hope for, blending pretty faces with a plot designed for the mentally and romantically challenged.

Having discovered her latest boyfriend in bed with another woman, Amanda seeks a new place to live, moving to a ritzy apartment shared by four supermodels (played by real supermodels Shalom Harlow, Ivana Mihcevic, Sarah O'Hare, and Tomiko Fraser). As these women are intended solely to act as a unit without any substantial non-physical characteristics separating them, there is no need to even mention their characters' names. They just look good and spout shallow, supermodel-esque comments about love, romance, etc., while going out every night with a different crowd of slavering, tuxedoed walking erections who compete fiercely for the deeply significant honor of picking up the check.

Through an utterly uninspired dog-related accident not unlike the one seen 40 years ago in Disney's original cartoon 101 Dalmations, Amanda meets suave bachelor Jim Winston (Prinze), who makes her knees wobble just like the paintings. Even though he seems to have everything she wants (he's pretty, he's got a nice frame, and he disappears when turned sideways), she tries to convince herself that she's not attracted to him. Soon she and her pretty, sideways-disappearing roomies discover that he lives in the building across from them (and never uses blinds or curtains), so naturally they all begin spying on him as he does various sexy, manly-type things like chin-ups and Girl Scout Cookie buying. Then he does something really manly: he kills a beautiful woman — or so they think. So the girls decide to conduct their own wacky investigation, with consequences that are at best negligibly humorous.

Freddy Prinze Jr. always seems to find his way into the most appallingly insubstantial of movies, and he's hit another bullseye with this one. Director Waters, who helmed the dark but clever House of Yes (1997), has downshifted to the kind of crowd-pleasing, lowest-common-denominator style Prinze has grown accustomed to, substituting pretty faces and windowpane-thin characterizations (not to mention some astoundingly out-of-place potty humor) for any semblance of real substance. Don't get me wrong; I don't expect a light romance released this early in the year to be Eyes Wide Shut, but one would at least hope for something that is not so gleefully lobotomized. In this case, one would be disappointed. ★

On a personal note:
by Lucretia Sines

Over the weekend I had the distinct pleasure of attending birthday parties for two fine men of the Friendsville area. The first party was held on Sunday in honor of Ernest Savage (the quilt man) who turned 80 years old on Feb. 7th. There was a great showing of friends and family to let him know what a good person he is. He was so happy to have everyone there, and I think that he personally talked to each and every one. Ernest commented on how thankful he was to be turning 80 years old, "which you only do once in your life," and it was such a comfort to hear him thank God for his many blessings through the years, that I had to sit and count my own blessings also. It was so evident that he is a very respected man in the area, a man of faith, a man of wisdom, and loved by all who know him. He can tell a story with the best of them and can come up with a few rib ticklers that can really cheer you up, as a lot of you probably have experienced. But he has also suffered some sadness. He mentioned his beloved wife Jessie, the love of his life, who passed away over a year ago. I really felt that she was there smiling that day.

The second party was given by the senior citizens to celebrate Chauncey Friend's 97th birthday. They surprised him with roses and a cake, and I was very happy that they invited me to witness such a celebration. From the time that I entered the building, there was just a buzz of excitement. When Chauncey saw me he knew something was up, but I didn't let the cat out of the bag. I wouldn't have missed the look on his face when they started the celebration and when he saw the birthday cake "on fire" with 97 candles. He looked like a kid at Christmas! He struggled to stand up to blow out his candles and he did so with just a little help. (The smoke rolled, but no sprinklers were activated.)

Chauncey was pleased also when Spencer Schlosnagle presented him, the oldest resident of Friendsville, with the "Key to the City," and I know I saw a tear in Chauncey's eye. The senior center was filled with such love and respect for this man.

Chauncey gave a little speech, saying that he didn't deserve it, but that it was very much appreciated. He has been a part of so many lives and I am honored to know him.

Chauncey told me before I left the party, "You guys have made me out to be too big. I'm just an ordinary person." Well I hate to tell you, Chauncey, but there is nothing ordinary about you.

God bless Ernest and Chauncey with more birthdays to come. We're not finished with either of you guys yet!

CELEBRATES 80TH BIRTHDAY

Ernest Savage was honored with a birthday dinner/party to celebrate his 80th birthday on Sunday, Feb. 4, at the Sand Spring Church of God social hall. The party was given by his children: Ernest Savage Jr. of Luthersville, Elisabeth Smith of Charlestown, W.Va., Freda Sines of Friendsville, Earl Savage of North Lillington N.C., and Ross Savage of Friendsville.

All of his grandchildren and great-grandchildren were in attendance, as well as his brothers, Robert O. Savage and Harry Savage, both of Friendsville, his sisters, Mary Frantz of Friendsville, Dorothy Riebau of Pasadena, and Linda Overton of Virginia, and his sister-in-law, Alberta Savage of Morgantown, W.Va.

Approximately 160 people were present for the celebration. Freda Sines welcomed everyone and Ernest Savage gave the blessing. After the singing of "Happy Birthday," the friends and family members shared a meal.

The walls of the social hall were decorated with many of Ernest's handmade quilts, and golf balls were autographed by him to be given as party favors. He had two large cakes, one decorated with a golf course, and the other had the design of a floral basket quilt. Guests were also asked to sign a large sheet that he will later make into a quilt for a remembrance of the special occasion.

Besides the birthday dinner, his children also presented him with a golf cart.

The food was prepared and served by the ladies of the Sand Spring Church of God.

According to a spokesperson from the shelter, the following is a list of items they would like to receive: adult and teen board games, Disney family videos, Sega or Super Nintendo and games, carpet cleaner, air purifier, luggage, umbrellas, CD player, cassette player, magazine rack, cordless screwdriver, laundry detergent, diapers, toddler "Pull-ups," household cleaning products, hair and beauty salon gift certificates, general gift certificates, and grocery store certificates.

RAFFLE WINNER - Garrett County's United Way and Ann Hill are the beneficiaries of a recent raffle that was conducted, thanks to a donation by the Mettiki Coal Company. Hill was the lucky winner of a baby beef donated by Mettiki Coal to benefit the United Way. She is pictured above with Dave Thomas, corporate affairs manager for Mettiki Coal and chairman of the Garrett County United Way. United Way volunteers will also be conducting a local phone-a-thon next Tuesday. Thomas is also in the photo at right with Jeanette Fitzwater of First United Bank & Trust, vice chairman of the United Way, in front of the organization's "goal thermometer." The local drive has reached the 30% level of the overall goal of $61,000. The drive will continue through April.

Partnership Offers New Information Site On The Web

Information containing public and private nonprofit agencies and organizations that service the Garrett County community is now available via the Internet to the general public at web site address http://garrett partnership.org/cif.

The Garrett Partnership for Children and Families Inc. (GC PCF) maintains a keyword searchable database that contains approximately 450 listings. Garrett County Local Management Board Online Community Information File (GC LMB Online CIF) records provide information on a variety of subjects such as child care, health care, disability services, education job training, housing, and youth services. Persons with specific needs can access information from the GC LMB Online CIF at any computer with Internet access. For those who do not have individual Internet access, this information can be accessed at local library sites. Library staff are available to assist any local nonprofit organization providing services to children and families who wish to modify or update existing records or to add a new service to the site.

During the recent Community Resource Survey conducted on Election Day, 1,840 individuals answered the question "What do you consider to be the barriers that prevent children and families in Garrett County from receiving the services they need?" Overwhelmingly, 63% answered that they were "not aware of existing services." According to a spokesperson, it is a part of GC PCF's mission to reach out to children and families and make information easily accessible to all. The Online CIF is part of this effort.

Staffing for this project during fiscal year 2001 is supported by a multi-county Resource Development Enhancement Funding Grant from the Maryland Subcabinet for Children, Youth, and Families. Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties are working collaboratively on the Online Community Information File project as part of the Western Maryland Partnership's Youth Services Network.

Nonprofit organizations desiring to obtain more information about the Online CIF, add their organization to the database, or apply to become a registered user may contact Sue Sharpless or Lucia Biers by e-mail at: partners@genetmail.net or by telephone at: 301-334-1189.

someone could have dropped evidence at the crime scene. He also noted that the neighbor who testified gave conflicting reports to the police.

Leaders Update

have undergone expansions, including Phenix Technologies Inc. and Wood Products Inc.

Now, he said, with an unemployment rate of around 7.5 %, there is a shrinking labor pool and a greater need for a skilled and educated labor force.

That effort is taking shape, though, with the development of the Information Technology program at Garrett Community College, said Hinebaugh, reporting that one student has already had to discontinue the program to take a $70,000 job in the Washington, D.C., area.

Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg stated, "Our goal has been to raise the standard of living for our citizenry, and this works," adding that he hopes some of those who have been forced to leave the county for better jobs will now begin to return.

Hinebaugh also pointed out to the group that Wood Products Inc. would probably increase its operation to a greater degree if more of the county's premium hardwoods could be harvested from the approximate 90,000 acres of state-owned land located in the county. He said that, according to local foresters, the hardwoods should be harvested at a higher than the current rate, "for the health of the forest."

Commissioner Gregg agreed with that assessment, saying, "If you don't selectively manage the forest, you are not going to have the optimum return on your investment."

He added that one of the frustrations of the commissioners has always been that "we've not been able to sucessfully recruit furniture and other related manufacturers" to an area with such a plentiful natural resource.

Hinebaugh also informed the state economic leaders of the high level of enthusiasm being reported over the development of the Adventure Sports Center Complex.

"People have been coming out of the woodwork since the publicity began on this venture," he said, adding that there is no other facility like it in the nation. "It will put us on the map," he said.

Drug Arrests

earlier that day when Ian Scott Depew, 20, Annapolis, was stopped by Tfc. K.P. Stakem at 12:20 p.m. along I-68 near Shade Hollow Road for reportedly speeding. It was then discovered that Stakem was in possession of suspected marijuana, later confirmed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, which also identified another substance in Depew's Jeep as heroin.

According to reports, Depew was then charged with possession of marijuana, possession of heroin, and possession of drug paraphernalia, and was later released on his own recognizance.

Mountain Lake Park Observer

by Dan Whittelsey

I can't emphasize enough how important it is that citizens attend our town council meetings. More than one councilman has remarked to me that it means a lot to them to see people giving up their TV time and taking the trouble to show their appreciation of what the council is doing and the support you extend to them. You do not need to make any statements at the meeting; your attendance is enough. So, please, come to the council meetings.

Participation by the public leads to good government. We have a very qualified electorate in Mountain Lake Park. How do we take advantage of this strong base? By rotating the jobs of councilman and mayor. For instance, there could be established a limited time that a councilman may sit in sequential elections. For talking purposes, let's say three years. Elections would be staggered so that there is always a new councilman sitting. After a year's time-out, a former councilman or mayor could run again for his previous position or any other he may desire. The same would be for the job of mayor; say, four years would be a maximum time to serve. Thus, opportunities open up for various members of the community to take part in our local government.

There are several objections that can be raised to this proposal. First, "We can't get volunteers to serve." Not so! When residents see that there are others pitching in and serving the town, they will want to also take part. It's cumulative.

Another negative would be experience and understanding of how our town government works. The answer to this is that it will be necessary to properly organize our town government so that councilmen and the mayor are not doing administrative tasks. Both Leo Martin and Paul Shockey are deeply involved in administrative work for which they receive no compensation suitable to the knowledge and skills required. This must be fixed. The jobs of councilmen and mayor are designed to be representatives of the people, not office workers or administrators.

Probably one exception to the above would be the work Fred Learey does in financing and accounting. This is proper. A member of the town council should have hands-on the financial condition of the town.

Why do I think this proposed arrangement would increase public participation?

At one time or another all of us have probably joined and served volunteer organizations. Remember how the best and most effective were those that had upward mobility in officerships? There was a challenge there that called for hard work and success, which would guarantee your promotion to the top office. So why wouldn't there be the same motivation in your town government?

If you have any recommendations for the town budget, now is the time to send them in.

Please don't feed the bears!

Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week Scheduled

National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week will be observed Feb. 11-17 as law enforcement agencies around the state concentrate efforts on enforcement of and education about child safety seat laws.

Maryland's child restraint law requires that all children under the age of 16 be properly secured in a vehicle. Children under 4 (regardless of weight) or who weigh 40 pounds or less (regardless of age) must be secured in a federally approved child safety/booster seat. Any child weighing more than 40 pounds and younger than 16 must be secured by either a child safety/booster seat or a seatbelt.

As part of the stepped-up awareness and enforcement activities, every Maryland State Police barracks, including the McHenry barrack along Friendsville Road, will be staffed and equipped as a child occupant protection "fitting station." These checks and installations are free, and "it only takes a short time to ensure the safety of our most precious cargo — our children," stated Lt. Colonel William Arrington, chief of Field Operations for the MSP. "This program is vital in our efforts to protect our children and keep our highways safe."

Any person interested in having a child safety/booster seat checked or a new one installed may call the McHenry barrack at 301-387-1101 and make an appointment.

Public Transit Meetings Slated By Comm. Action

Two public meetings to discuss community transportation needs and services in and around the county have been slated by the Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC), which operates public transit such as Garrett Transit Service/People Movers. The meetings will take place at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland, and the same time the following evening at the Grantsville Senior Center.

GCCAC is formulating a transportation development plan that will guide the direction of Garrett Transit services over the next five years. The plan is required by the Maryland Mass Transit Administration, which provides grant assistance to Garrett Transit, and is being prepared by the community transportation planning consulting firm the KFH Group.

Free transportation is available to the meetings and can be arranged by calling Garrett Transit at 301-334-9431.

DRUG TOLERANCE WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

The word tolerance when applied to drugs is not particularly a good thing. For it can mean that over a period of time our body has become adjusted to a medicine and the drug will no longer achieve the desired affect it once did

This tolerance effect can apply to many types of common use drug products-laxatives, cough preparations, skin treatment creams and ointments. With prescription medicines the tolerance effect can be even more serious. We will always caution you when such a possibility exists.

See how she shimmers in her golden gown, stretching against the rising sun. She is calm now as the day begins. Soon she becomes restless, stretching her fingertips toward the sand. As time goes on, clouds surround her, dimming her beauty. A storm ensues and with thunder and lightening she pounds the shore. Yet, as quickly as it left, the calm returns to her hypnotic face. Then it is evening. She dons her gown of black velvet. Slipping slowly into the night, the excitement of her fragrance lingers. Yet she returns each morning. She never fails.

The way of love is much like that of the sea. It is so beautiful, yet unpredictable. Storms may brew through the course of a day, but calm always returns to make way for loving and happy moments. Most importantly, like the love of God, true love never fails.

As Valentines Day approaches let us meditate upon the way of true love and rededicate our love to that special one in our life. Happy Valentines Day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

TRUE GREATNESS

February 11, 2001

Background Scripture: Luke 22 1-30
Devotional Reading: Mark 10 25-45

Over the years I have noted that sometimes the most profound moments in life are followed by the silliest most shallow reactions. Many years ago in the parish I was serving, we scheduled an administrative board meeting of the church to take place shortly after the Maunday Thursday communion service. For the life of me, I cannot imagine why we did that, but we did and it was a disaster. Not more than 20 minutes after the conclusion of what I thought was a moving service of holy communion, the board meeting broke out in a verbal brawl over some aspect of the church's building project. That night, after the meeting was over, I went home in a deep sense of depression.

Then, however, I realized that something similar had happened on the night of the first Maundy Thursday, the night when Jesus introduced his twelve disciples to what would become the most profound sacrament in Christendom. What moment more holy could Jesus and his disciples share than the Passover breaking of bread and sharing the cup? But how did the disciples react to this profound experience? They quarreled over "which of them was to be regarded as the greatest"(22.24). How could they have been so childish and ego-driven? The answer it came easily to them— as it does to us.

William Barclay has commented upon this passage "It is one of the most poignantly tragic things in the gospel story that the disciples could quarrel about precedence in the very shadow of the cross". Instead of feeling humbled by the momentous night and what it portended for Jesus, they let their egos run wild.

Where To Sit

The momentous issue was of where they were to sit at the Passover table. Normal custom dictated that the tables were to be formed into the shape of an inverted 'U', with the host sitting in the center of the bend of the 'U'. To his right would sit the most honored guest and to his left the next most honored guest. Back and forth from right to left the most honored guests were seated. The least important were those who sat at the bottom of 'U'. I assume that the dispute arose when the disciples began to jockey for positions of honor.

I think we may safely assume that Jesus had already spoken to them about humility and the preference of humble service. If he did, it evidently didn't make much of an impression on them. You and I may find it difficult to think that His disciples would openly argue on this matter. We would be much more likely to feel what they felt, but keep it to ourselves, for we wouldn't want Jesus to realize how egotistically we could behave. Today we are not ashamed to want to be first, so long as it doesn't seem like we are acting that way.

Although we have learned to be more subtle about it, our problem today is still very much the same. No less than the twelve disciples themselves, we have not grasped the teaching of Jesus that the standards of the kingdom of heaven are not the standards of this world. As in almost everything else, Jesus revolutionized the standards for greatness: "... let the greatest among you become as the youngest, and the leader as one who serves."

A Living Example

I might have trouble accepting that teaching from most people, but Jesus himself was the living example of what he asks of us: "I am among you as one who serves" (18 27b). Jesus did not consider serving others as demeaning. Humble service was not something enforced but chosen. As Martin Luther put it, "A Christian man is the most free lord of all, and subject to none, a Christian man is the most dutiful servant of all, and subject to everyone." That is what true greatness is — humble service after the example of Jesus Christ.

Let us also understand that humble service is not just for those with the most spectacular gifts. Frederick William Robertson wrote that "It is not the possession of extraordinary gifts that makes extraordinary usefulness, but the dedication of what we have to the service of God." The widow's mite was a more important gift than the rich man's gold coin. The question of discipleship is not. 'Who is most gifted?' but 'Who serves most with the gift he or she has been given?' That is true greatness.

TV-PIPELINE

Parker earned stardom early on

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: I remember Sarah Jessica Parker playing in a family TV drama in the mid-'80s set in Seattle. Was this her real start? Why doesn't she ever mention it? –Cynthia Weiss via e-mail.

A Well, if you ask her, Parker will assure you she has warm memories of working on A Year in the Life, the 1986 miniseries and 1987-88 NBC weekly drama that followed. Year drew tremendous critical acclaim and a small but loyal following yet was canceled in one of the first cases of a show being "too good for television."

However, Parker already had established herself as an actress by then, having starred on Broadway in Annie and in an earlier, very smart CBS sitcom, Square Pegs. Her excellent work in the large Year in the Life ensemble cast merely cemented her reputation.

Q: I remember enjoying a show called Please Don't Eat the Daisies as a child. When was the show on, and are any of its cast members still acting? –T. Brown, Waverly, Ohio.

Q Based on a best-selling book by Jean Kerr and a 1960 movie hit starring Doris Day, Daisies focused on a suburban family headed by writer Joan Nash and her professor husband, Jim (Patricia Crowley, Mark Miller). They shared an eccentric, castlelike home with their four sons and Ladadog, a rambunctious sheepdog.

The NBC series ran from 1965 to 1967, and its repeats have turned up fairly regularly on various cable channels. Of the cast, only Crowley continues to act regularly. She has a regular role on the ABC soap Port Charles and has done guest spots on Frasier, Charmed, Friends, Beverly Hills, 90210, and Family Law.

Sarah Jessica Parker

Q: Whatever happened to Wally Ward? –Terry via e-mail.

A Now working as Wallace Langham, the Texas-born actor is a regular on CBS' midseason The Joan Cusack Show and co-stars in Showtime's upcoming Sister Mary Explains It All.

Q: Why do AMC and TCM insist on using "letterbox" format? I find it very hard to watch. –A reader via e-mail.

A The two channels you specify are devoted to serious movie lovers, and they present the film image in the ratio the director originally envisioned when shooting for the big screen. This "letterboxed" image is indeed controversial with some viewers, although the alternative — reformatting the original image to fit a square TV screen — requires cutting out part of the original image altogether, something that infuriates both moviemakers and devotees.

In Focus

Reggae musician Bob Marley is profiled in Bob Marley: Rebel Music — An American Masters Special airing Wednesday, Feb. 14 on PBS. Check local listings.

Born in Jamaica in 1945, Marley was influenced by the conflicts of the Cold War, the social upheaval of the 1960s and political events in the Caribbean. While he wasn't the originator of reggae, no one has influenced that musical genre more than Marley.

Oakland Native Joins Staff Of March Of Dimes

Melissa Ann (Davis) Clark, formerly of Garrett County, has joined the March of Dimes staff in Cumberland as community director for Washington and Frederick counties, as announced by Nancy Thoerig, Western Maryland Division director, and Tracy Hart, state director for the Maryland Chapter March of Dimes.

Since January 2, Clark has communicated with and visited veteran and new volunteers and businesses in both counties, and will coordinate WalkAmerica events in the cities of Hagerstown and Frederick.

As community director for Washington and Frederick counties, Clark will work with March of Dimes volunteers to foster relationships in fund raising and community awareness of the March of Dimes mission, and availability of grants to support community projects that improve the outcome of pregnancy.

A native of Oakland, Clark is a graduate of Southern High School and Garrett Community College. She earned her bachelor of science degree in communications in 1995 from Frostburg State University.

She has worked most recently in radio sales and production, and previously in retail and grocery store management. She served an internship with the Allegany County Visitors' Bureau.

She has volunteered as a team co-captain, and her son Cullen was a team ambassador in the Allegany/Garrett County March of Dimes WalkAmerica event last year. She served on the auction committee for the 2000 Allegany & Garrett Counties' Star Chefs event.

Clark received the Lifetime Television Network "Cool Women Award" in fall 2000 in recognition for her volunteer work as coordinator for Literacy 2000, an outreach to 25 schools in Allegany County and in Mineral County, W.Va., promoting literacy at the youngest level, and with such organizations as Shoes for Orphan Souls, Children's Miracle Network, Safe & Snug, and United Way.

She assists in the leadership of Kids Club and serves on the board of directors, finance committee, and pastor/parish relations committee, and is a trustee and lay delegate to the annual conference at her church, Wesley Chapel United Methodist.

Clark and her husband Michael and their son Cullen live in Ridgeley, W.Va. She is the daughter of Ralph and Kathy Carrico, Ridgeley, formerly of Oakland.

Emory Completes Safety Course

Dwight Emory, P.E., county engineer for the Garrett County Roads Department, recently completed the Federal Highway Administration's National Highway Institute course. The two-week certificate course, titled Safety Inspection of In-Service Bridges, was conducted in Hunt Valley in January.

The course was based on the updated "Bridge Inspector's Training Manual 90", which provides training on the safety inspection of a variety of in-service highway bridges. Completion of the course fulfilled the training requirements of the National Bridge Inspection Standards. Emory received a perfect score on the comprehensive examination.

Emory's educational background includes a bachelor of science in civil engineering from the University of Maryland, College Park, and a master's degree in civil engineering from Clemson University in South Carolina.

He is a licensed professional engineer in the state of Maryland, and has been employed with Garrett County government since 1997. He resides in Grantsville with his wife Diane.

Annual Christmas Bird Count Tally Impacted By Cold

The Christmas Bird Count event of mid-December had the lowest number of individual bird sightings in 12 years of counting because of this winter's bitter cold temperatures. The annual census tally was compiled by eight field observers and five feeder watchers, each of whom volunteered their time for the count.

Fifty-seven species and 3,853 individual birds were observed during the December 16 count, which took place in temperatures ranging from 29 to 36 degrees Fahrenheit. Skies were cloudy with intermittent showers, and the prevailing northeast winds were clocked at 7-17 miles per hour. Still water was approximately 90 percent frozen, but moving waters were still open. Many volunteers reported fog which greatly hampered observations, as did the cold.

"The cold made it difficult to kick up the birds," said this year's count compiler Connie Skipper, park naturalist at Herrington Manor State Park. "Not only that, but the lakes and ponds were largely frozen, so there were fewer waterfowl than we have become accustomed to seeing. The cold weather has driven those hardy species which sometimes stick around during mild winters on to warmer climates," she said, noting that the commonly sighted winter finch was among the absent birds this count.

The absence of several of the usually present species was offset by the first sightings of several other species not often sighted during the local count. Among those unusual observations this year were the following species — surf scoter, northern shoveler, winter wren, rusty blackbird, common grackle, pine siskin, snow goose, and golden-crowned kinglet.

The five most commonly observed species, and the number seen, were as follows — Canada goose, 1,204; mallard, 659; American crow, 482; American coot, 233; and dark-eyed junco, 152. A total of 66 woodpeckers of four different varieties were observed, the most being the downy woodpecker at 33 birds. Sportsmen may wish to note that 19 wild turkeys and two ruffed grouse were sighted.

The volunteer bird counters this year were field observers Kevin Dodge, Courtney Englar, Barbara and George Gaffney, Aaron Holoshwost, Jeff Opel, Fran Pope, and Connie Skipper, who spent a collective total of 42.5 hours covering 336 miles on foot and by car. The feeder watchers, Dessie Bowman, Frances Hoecker, Cheryl Newcomb, Barbara Skipper, and Glenn Welch, spent a total of 19 hours watching their feeders.

For further information on the Christmas Bird Count, or to volunteer for upcoming counts, interested persons may contact Skipper at 301-334-9180 or Dodge at 301-245-4503.

Campaign Finance Data Available Via The Internet

The State Board of Elections (SBE) had completed the first component of an ongoing project to provide the public with on-line access to campaign finance data. The first component allows the public to search all contribution data reported by Maryland candidates, PACs, parties, and other campaign committees.

For example, a user can enter the name of an individual and obtain a listing of all of the campaign contributions made by an individual. Similarly, a user can enter the name of a candidate and obtain a listing of all of the contributions received by that candidate.

The State Board of Elections anticipates that this information will be beneficial to the public by providing meaningful insight into how campaigns raise and spend their money.

The remaining components of this project, which include access to the expenditure, outstanding obligation, and summary information reported by the campaign accounts, will be completed by April of this year.

In order to search the on-line campaign contribution database, users should go to the SBE web site www.elections.state.md.u and follow the shortcut to "Campaign Finance Database."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Feb. 13, 1866, in Liberty, Mo., the James Gang, America's first well organized robbery gang, holds up its first bank. Over the next two decades, the gang would become America's most notorious outlaws, robbing banks, trains, stagecoaches, stores and individuals of a total of some $300,000.

• On Feb. 17, 1880, in Russia, Czar Alexander II narrowly survives an assassination attempt when a bomb explodes in the imperial dining room at the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg. It was one of several unsuccessful attempts on the czar's life that culminated on March 13, 1881, when a hand-bomb thrown by a member of the People's Will hits its target, killing him.

• On Feb. 14, 1929, Sir Alexander Fleming introduces the mold by-product penicillin as a cure for bacterial infections.

• On Feb. 18, 1930, Pluto, generally the ninth most distant planet from the sun, is discovered at the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Ariz., by astronomer Clyde W. Tombaugh.

• On Feb. 16, 1960, the U.S.S. Triton, a nuclear-powered submarine, departs New London, Conn., on the first global circumnavigation by a submerged submarine. On April 24, it completes its underwater around the world journey, having traveled 41,500 miles in 84 days.

• On Feb. 15, 1965, in accordance with a formal proclamation by Queen Elizabeth II of England, a new Canadian national flag is raised above Parliament Hill in Ottawa. It is red and white, the official colors of Canada as decided by King George V of Britain in 1921, with an 11-point red maple leaf in its center.

• On Feb. 12, 1999, the five-week impeachment trial of President Clinton comes to an end with the Senate vote to acquit the president on both articles of impeachment: perjury and obstruction of justice.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• The first rapid fire gun, the Gatling Gun, was actually invented before the Civil War. It just wasn't perfected and put into production until later.

• At birth, opossums are tiny. You could fit a dozen of them in a teaspoon.

• The next time you hear someone say, "I'll be there in a jiffy," don't buy it. A "jiffy" is an actual unit of time, equal to 1/100th of a second. I don't think you know anyone who can move that quickly.

• The pictograms used in writing the Japanese language, borrowed from the Chinese system of writing, are called kanji. Japanese is a difficult language to master, but there is a certain logic to some of the kanji. A small version of the kanji for "sun" next to a small version of the kanji for "moon" gives you the kanji for "light." The symbol for "gate" looks like a gate with two doors; put a sun in the middle, and you get the kanji for "between." The symbol for tree looks like a tree; two of them together makes a forest; three of them makes a jungle. Interestingly, if you put three of the symbols for woman under the symbol for a roof, you get the kanji for "trouble."

• The English language picks up words anywhere and everywhere. This has resulted in an enormous vocabulary — around two million words. By comparison, French is officially restricted to 50,000 words.

• The poles of the planet Uranus really go to extremes. One pole has 42 years of summer while the other has 42 years of winter, then they reverse.

• In Japan, apprentice geishas have their hair elaborately styled once a week, and they sleep on wooden pillows to keep from mussing the hair. Once they become full-fledged geishas, though, they are allowed to use wigs with the traditional style, so they can keep their own hair however they like it.

Antiques

by Ralph and Terry Kovel

Table lamps have changed over the years because the light source has changed from kerosene to gas to electricity.

The first light bulbs were invented in 1879. By the 1890s, electric lamps were used in the home. At first they looked like the familiar gas fixtures. Bulbs were often bare, because they were new inventions and were admired. Very dim light was the rule, so lampshades were not needed. Shades, when used, were usually made of glass, probably because makers of earlier lamps had to worry about the danger of flames.

By 1910, light bulbs had been improved and lamps were often made with painted- or leaded-glass shades that concealed several light bulbs. The Art Nouveau and Art Deco lamps with glass shades sometimes resembled mushrooms or dancing women holding seashells. The famous Tiffany, Handel and Pairpont lamps were made in this era.

By the 1920s, the fabric shade was popular. It was often made with a beaded or fabric fringe. The shade, made from a metal frame covered with translucent silk, was in style by the late 1920s and has remained popular. By the 1950s, very expensive lamps made from antique vases or figurines had hand-painted silk shades made to match. Modern-style lamps were made with paper, plastic or other shades.

Today's most extreme lamps can use the new, small halogen bulbs. Designers create metal, glass and even paper lamps that resemble toys, rocks, spaceships or hanging bulbs.

Q. For years, my family has displayed a plate picturing Queen Victoria of England. The plate is cream-colored with a banner on the top that reads, "County Borough of St. Helens." On each side of the queen are the dates 1837 and 1897. Do you know what the plate commemorates and what it's worth?

A. Your plate celebrates Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897. It marked her record 60th year on the English throne. Plates, mugs, plaques and various other souvenirs were commissioned by towns all over England to celebrate the event. St. Helens is a city near Liverpool in Lancashire, England. Your plate is worth at least $100.

Winter can be tough on pets, too

Q. My golden retriever, Dan-O, loves playing outside in the snow! It doesn't seem to bother him. But could the cold weather be dangerous for him?

A. Most medium- and large-sized dogs do just fine out in the snow, as long as they aren't already wet, and as long as they come in when you do. Small dogs, however, can chill easily and should be picked up as soon as they ask you to (or as soon as they start to shiver or slow down). A good-fitting "sweater" (available at pet stores) will help short-haired dogs stay warm.

There are a few winter dangers you should be aware of, however. The Iams Company offers some suggestions to pet owners:

• After taking your pet outside in snowy or icy weather, check his or her paws for cuts or ice balls.

• Wipe your dog or cat's feet if they walked on pavement treated with salt or chemical snow removers. Use a damp cloth, and treat their pads afterward with a bit of petroleum jelly to prevent dry, irritated skin.

• Keep at least three days' worth of pet food in the house. Just like humans, pets have to eat during a winter storm as well.

• Make sure your home and garage are pet-proofed! A restless dog or cat can get into all sorts of trouble, so place all chemicals out of reach and make sure the containers are tightly sealed. Clean up any spilled antifreeze or other agent right away.

Keep an eye on your pets throughout the rest of this winter, and stay warm!

"Thanks to all for another great Warm the Children campaign!"

With your donations, the total raised was over $19,000 this year. We helped out 240 children, buying winter clothing and footwear to keep them warm in this ongoing frigid weather. We can only do this with the help of many wonderful people. Special thanks to the staff of the Department of Social Services (especially Dora Hanlin), who not only helped with our selection process, but also served as volunteer shoppers. The Civic Club of Oakland members, led by Bobby Andersen and Bobbie Henderson, were again invaluable volunteers in the southern part of the county. Lisa Broadwater (the Grantsville coordinator of the program) and her army of willing volunteers at the northern end served 183 kids! And thanks to the public school staff members, who helped us find our recipients.

Our store partners were wonderful as always. The staff of Ames in Frostburg went well out of their way to help us, as did Annie and Larry Steyer at the J.C. Penney store in Oakland. Ames in Cumberland participated this year, too, and we thank the staff there.

A special event for the recipients was held, thanks to volunteer Linda Thomas. She coordinated free showings of holiday movies at the Garrett 8 Cinemas for the WTC kids. While she had first planned to pay for the event, Grieg Johnson, owner of the cinemas, let the children in free, giving them complimentary popcorn and soda, too. An anonymous donor then paid for all the parents; who were already being given discounted tickets. The children had a great day, also being given special coupons to Smiley's Fun Zone by owner Jonathan Kessler. Thank you, everyone, for this pleasant addition to the program this year.

And a final note—both Accident and Broad Ford elementary school students raised money for the campaign this year. They were so excited to do it— they should feel good about their efforts. There is something very special about these youngsters helping their peers. Thanks, kids!

Thanks to everyone, and see you next year!

Choral Society Auditions Set

The Garrett Choral Society is sponsoring a production of the Broadway musical Annie Get Your Gun in June. Auditions are set for Tuesday, Feb. 13, 6 to 8 p.m.; Wednesday, Feb. 14, 6 to 8 p.m.; and Tuesday, Feb. 20, 6 to 8 p.m. The auditions will take place at St Mark's Lutheran Church along Second Street in Oakland.

According to director Nancy Learey, the cast will include 20 men, high school or adult age; nine women, high school or adult age; seven children, elementary to 9th grade; and a chorus of children and adults of all ages. A stage manager, costumer, and general manager are also being sought.

Those auditioning must be able to sing and move freely on stage and commit to a rehearsal schedule, which will begin April 9. Persons are asked to dress comfortably, and will be asked to perform a song and quote a part from any play or musical. Action must accompany the singing and speaking parts.

The performance dates are June 1, 2, 8, 9, and 10. The set designer for the performance will be Asa McCain, the accompanist will be John Hawkins, and the choreographer will be named later.

Persons auditioning are asked to enter St. Mark's through the Center Street side entrance.

Spruce Forest Summer Festival Seeks Artisans

The 24th annual Summer Festival and Quilt Show, which will be held at Spruce Forest Artisan Village near Penn Alps from July 12 to 14, is seeking artisans and crafts persons who are interested in reserving booth space at the outdoor festival.

Artisans are asked to submit a completed application with the nominal reservation fee, along with a sample and/or photos of their work for consideration by the festival jury committee, which meets the second Tuesday of each month through May.

Following the jurying session, artisans are then notified by mail of their acceptance or declination. All artisans accepted into the show will share the traditions of their craft and will sell their crafts and artwork throughout the three days of the festival.

"Thousands of folks from all over the region visit this annual northern Garrett County festival nestled near the Casselman Bridge on the Old National Road, enjoying nearly one hundred artisans, musicians, and storytellers, and sampling delicious country and ethnic food concessions," said Trish Morgan, village administrator, "and we're just thrilled to say that for the first time since the very beginning of this festival we have brought the quilt show back to the village." The quilt show will be headed up by Jane Benson, and she will coordinate the display of hand-stitched quilts, clothing, and accessories inside the air-conditioned Village Church at Spruce Forest.

Persons interested in the festival and quilt show, or who wish to request an artisan application packet, may contact Morgan at 301-895-3332, or visit the organization's web site at www.spruceforest.org. Deadline for the application is May 1, and spaces are limited to the first 85 juried into the show.

Swamps, Marshes Focus Of Local Writer Barbara Hurd's New Book

by Liz Douglas Medcalf
FSU News Service

Swamps seem to have been always at the margins of Barbara Hurd's life. She lived near swamps in the Boston and Philadelphia neighborhoods where she grew up. These days she lives near Finzel Swamp in Garrett County.

The swamps and bogs and murky places have moved closer to the center of attention, now that the Frostburg State University English professor has published a book of essays on the topic — Stirring the Mud: On Swamps, Bogs and Human Imagination (Beacon) — that is receiving high advance acclaim.

Just like the watery land she writes about, Hurd's subject matter has remained fluid. Hurd said her original intent was to write a collection of scholarly analyses of swamp imagery in Western literature. But the swamps sucked her in, and her essays took on a more introspective tone.

"These essays are more lyrical, poetic, first-person," she said.

Hurd's fascination with boggy land started early with the swamp near her childhood home in Boston. She said there was a certain sense of mystery, enhanced by a story about a girl who got lost in the swamp, that has stayed with her.

"They're eerie, wonderful, mysterious. There's a sense of both 'don't go there' and 'can't wait to go there,'" Hurd said.

Later, when her family moved to the Philadelphia area, a swamp was nearby, handy for exploration throughout Hurd's teenage years. But it is western Maryland swamplands, primarily Finzel and Cranesville swamps, that capture her imagination today.

The imagery of a place that is neither land nor water, that contains so much mystery and ambiguity, is explored in many different ways in her collection.

"The sense of wanting to stick your hand down under to see what's under there has strong pull for me," she said.

Positive advance reviews of the collection have appeared in Library Journal, Publisher's Weekly, and Utne Reader, which said, "Hurd's poetic inquiry into the life and margins of marshy terrain takes us on a magic-filled metaphorical mystery tour of human desire."

Essays from the book have already been excerpted in a variety of journals, ranging from straight literary journals to nature publications to those that emphasize personal introspection. An early version of one chapter was chosen for The Best American Essays 1999 (Houghton Mifflin Co.).

Hurd will kick off the book with a reading and book signing at Main Street Books in Frostburg on Thursday, Feb. 15, at 7 p.m. Readings are already scheduled in Baltimore, Maine, and Morgantown, W.Va., and more are in the works. She had also taped an interview that will appear on the Barnes & Noble TV web site after the book is released.

Issues Of Interest To Farmers Being Discussed By General Assembly

A number of bills interesting to the Maryland farm and rural community were on the docket to be discussed this week by the General Assembly.

House Bill 90, calling for repeal of the inheritance tax, introduced by District 36 Del. Obie Patterson, was heard by the House Ways and Means Committee on Tuesday. The bill would repeal the inheritance tax for individuals dying on or after July 1, 2001.

The administration bill S.B. 204 calling for establishment of an Office of Smart Growth with a special secretary and staff was heard by the Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs committee on Tuesday. This office would examine and coordinate all smart growth programs, services and plans of state agencies to ensure interagency cooperation. It would make recommendations to the governor on the effectiveness of current smart growth programs.

A Maryland Farm Bureau spokesman said that while Farm Bureau supports the effort to coordinate state programs between agencies, the organization is concerned about the additional cost to taxpayers that would occur with the creation of a new bureaucratic agency. Farm Bureau believes that the work proposed for the new office of Smart Growth could and should be handled through the newly elevated Department of Planning; therefore Farm Bureau opposes S.B. 204.

A bill (H.B. 350) introduced by the Washington County Delegation would add motor oil and fencing materials to the list of items that are specifically exempt from sales tax when used on farms. This bill was heard by the House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday.

Information on all farm-related issues before the General Assembly can be found on Farm Bureau's web site at www.mdfarmbureau.com under "Hotline." This information indicates the date, bill number and title, sponsor, committee, room number, and time of the hearing. Below that information will be a brief explanation of the bill and the position Maryland Farm Bureau is taking.

Additional information can be obtained from Maryland Farm Bureau's Annapolis office, staffed by Valerie Connelly and Jessica Fritz. The office is located at 68 State Circle, above Johnson's Men's Store on the corner of Maryland Avenue. The telephone number is 410-269-0656, and the best time to reach the staff is during the morning hours.

The Maryland General Assembly's web site can also serve as a valuable tool for legislative information. The home page offers the proceedings and agendas of the House and Senate, hearing schedules, bill information and status, and other data about the General Assembly. Plus there are links available to other related web sites. The web site is updated nightly, and may be accessed at http://mlis.state.md.us.

Farming In Maryland.....

Important FB Functions Are Scheduled

The deadline to register for the Maryland Farm Bureau Washington Drive-In is Feb. 21. Members are asked to work with their fellow Farm Bureau county members who will represent farmers in Washington on March 20 and 21. Farm Bureau personnel stress that this is a big year for farm policy and the support of all members is needed. For registration information, those interested may call the MFB office at 410-922-3426.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmer's Day in Annapolis is scheduled for Wed., Feb. 28, at noon at the Calvert House, 58 State Circle, in Annapolis. For this activity, all members of the Maryland General Assembly are invited to attend.

MDA Plans 14th Annual Open House

St. Patrick's Day 2001 will offer another reason for dressing up in green in addition to the traditional color for the popular Irish festival. Green also is the color of agriculture, and on Sat., March 17, the Maryland Department of Agriculture will celebrate its 14th annual open house from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the headquarters building in Annapolis.

"The open house attracts thousands of visitors every year," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "This year's theme — 'MDA makes Your Day' — emphasizes the department's broad responsibilities to all Maryland citizens not just to support and promote the production of food and fiber, but to protect consumers from such concerns as pests, pesticides, and inaccurate measurement of the products they buy."

Since 1988, the department's open house event has been held in conjunction with the celebration of National Agriculture Week. Popular attractions include the hog calling contest, petting zoo, and pony rides. Throughout the day, crowds can participate in demonstrations that highlight the duties of the agency to inform and protect consumers through the weights and measure office, state chemist laboratories, turf and seed inspection stations, and plant protection and mosquito control facilities.

"Marylanders heard a lot about our mosquito control program during last summer's West Nile virus alert," Secretary Mister noted. "Open House will provide an excellent opportunity for visitors to see first-hand how we monitor and plan for mosquito spraying operations, and how every individual can help reduce these pests around their home and in their neighborhood."

In addition to department displays, Maryland agricultural commodity groups will offer numerous exhibits featuring poultry, seafood, beef, dairy, and more. A "Maryland Farm Market" will allow visitors to purchase everything from plants to herbs, to muffins and salsa. Kids of all ages will love the petting zoo and the various farm song sing-a-longs.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture is located at 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway in Annapolis. The event, which will be held rain or shine, is free. Parking is also free.

For more information or directions, those interested may call 410-841-5770. Persons needing special accommodations should call TDD 1-800-735-2258.

Farmstead Milk Processing Class Scheduled By Extension

Alternative income opportunities for milk producers will be the topic of the upcoming technical program, Farmstead Milk Processing II, scheduled by the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service on Sat., March 24.

The program will be held at Dutch's Daughter Conference Center, 581 Himes Ave. in Frederick, beginning with registration at 8:30 a.m. Sponsored by the USDA Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program and the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the program will involve a full day of informational and educational activities and classes.

Morning topics include: Navigating Cheese Markets, and discovering how cheeses are bought and sold; Marketing Dairy Foods to Restaurants, and what products are in demand; The Diverse World of Premium Cheeses, an overview of the world of cheeses; Regional Farmstead Milk Processors, a visual survey of small-scale processors; and Wine Industry Affiliations, a potential for co-marketing.

Lunch will include the Dutch's Daughter buffet, a cheese and wine tasting, and vendors' displays.

In the afternoon, attendees will be told what educational resources and equipment suppliers are available, and learn how to be successful from leaders of small-scale operations. The day will adjourn with an evaluation of Maryland premium ice cream, featuring products from Maxley's Ice Cream Parlor and Lakeside Creamery, a local Garrett County business.

This one-day educational program is designed primarily for milk producers (cow, goat, and sheep) wanting to understand the fundamentals of successfully manufacturing legal, high-quality dairy foods on the farm.

The $35 registration fee will include: tuition, continental breakfast, course materials, cheese and wine tasting, break refreshments, and a hot buffet lunch.

To register, those interested may contact Jim Simms at the Garrett County Extension Office, 301-334-6960, or Scott Rankin, Department of Animal and Avian Sciences, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742-2311, 301-405-4568. Registration fees must be in by March 16. Late registration is dependent on space available and will be assessed a $10 late-handling fee.

Sen. Daschle Introduces Agenda To Promote Rural America

The National Farmers Union (NFU) has commended Sen. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., for setting priorities for the 107th Congress that will restore fairness to farming and strengthen rural communities.

"Senator Daschle continues to be a leader on issues affecting rural Americans," said Leland Swenson, president of NFU. "He has a keen understanding of the elements that make for a prosperous and sustainable rural economy and farm culture. His initiatives will help our farm and ranch families and small towns share the prosperity that has visited most of America in recent years."

Daschle's legislation, the Securing a Future for Independent Agriculture Act, S. 20, will address an array of issues that are of primary importance to family farmers and ranchers as well as the rest of rural America. His comprehensive policy, among other things, includes a fair competition act for the agriculture and food industries, makes agriculture a top trading priority, requires that production contracts be fair and understandable, mandates country-of-origin labeling for food, equalizes loan rates upward, enhances America's commitment to food safety, and promotes rural economic development.

Additionally, Sen. Daschle, with several other Senate colleagues, offered a resolution as a basic guide for developing this year's farm policy. It calls on Congress to enact a new farm bill this year, set aside in the budget funds sufficient to provide a safety net for farm income, ensure that farm-related payments are distributed promptly and fairly, and provide in the budget adequate funds for rural development, conservation, research, food safety and nutrition.

"Sen. Daschle is starting the new Congress off on the right foot," continued Swenson. "His legislation sets an important tone for the upcoming policy debate that can bring needed changes to current farm policy this year and build on the values of rural America."

The E-commerce Ag Industry Keeps Growing

Agriculture, because of farmers' abilities and desires to embrace and use new technology, is one of the top five industries targeted by entrepreneurs who sell "business-to-business" e-commerce goods and services, according to two successful Internet businessmen speaking at an e-commerce conference at the American Farm Bureau Federation annual meeting.

"Agriculture is wired—much more than any other industry—you have a history of adapting to change and are not afraid to try new technology," said Fulton Breen, CEO of XSAg.com, an agriculture Internet marketplace. "You have an extremely high adoption rate of new technology."

Breen, joined on the panel by e-commerce consultant Frank Beurskens, said independent research shows that Internet-based trade between producers and agricultural suppliers is poised for dramatic growth. In fact, Breen said, 40 percent of independent farm supply dealers could be out of business by 2004 due to consolidation and other factors that make doing business over the Internet more efficient and more profitable.

Beurskens told the conference that one of the challenges of being successful in e-commerce is that too many firms operate on-line businesses the way they run their brick and mortar shops. "But, as we've seen, that's not always sustainable," he said.

The consultant encouraged farmers and ranchers to educate themselves about the Internet and prepare for new "outside the box" businesses, such as online crop and livestock marketing portals and even a budding Internet site dedicated to trading and tracking cash land rental rates. "If a producer is not Internet-savvy, you'll likely miss an opportunity to build your business and capitalize on other opportunities," Beurskens said.

He added that Farm Bureau, with its county, state and national structure "is one of the most valuable networks in the country today in e-commerce terms because of the vast net of farmers, contacts, and shipping and dropping points that are inherent with the organization's makeup." Beurskens cited examples of agriculture e-commerce ventures and other business-to-business enterprises developed in Europe and India that are targeting and poised to enter U.S. markets.

U.S. Calf Crop Down Slightly

The 2000 calf crop was estimated at 38.6 million head, down slightly from both 1999 and 1998.

Officials of the National Ag Statistics Service said calves born during the first half of the year are estimated at 28.4 million, down slightly from both 1999 and 1998.

Beef Cattle Needs Extra Feed in Cold Weather

This November and December were among the coldest on record, and despite some breaks in the weather, the forecast is for more cold weather. This extreme cold means cows are more likely to be stressed and need extra feed this winter. It is important to supplement your feeding program to ensure cows don't lose weight.

Cows and heifers that are not fed extra during long cold snaps (more than 2 weeks) are in danger of reduced reproductive performance. Problems with cows not fed extra during extreme cold include weak calves, increased calving difficulty, poor colostrum and reduced pregnancy rates. In addition, calves born to these cows often have more health problems such as scours and respiratory infections. Cows will need about 1% more TDN in the diet for every degree below 30° F. Generally, cows will need a 20-40% increase in total energy when they are cold or wet than if they are dry and the temperature is above 30 degrees. For example, a cow in late gestation needs 13.2 lbs. of TDN per day.

If the temperature drops to an average of 25°F, then she will need an extra 5% TDN in her diet. This means she needs 13.9 lbs. of TDN per day or an extra 0.7 lbs. of TDN.

1 pound of corn for every 5 degrees below 30°F for late gestation cows;

1.5 pounds of corn for every 5 degrees below 30°F for lactating cows and late gestation heifers;

1.7 pounds of corn for every 5 degrees below 30°F for lactating heifers.

So put another log on the fire and feed the cows some extra grain, and you'll both be warm!

Watch Out for the Growth Trap!

Statistically, growth is the number one reason businesses fail. Just underestimate your capital by 25% in a major farm expansion or in constructing a house and see your blood pressure rise. Or have your lender resign two-thirds of the way through a project, and enthusiasm and excitement can be replaced with anger and resentment.

Investigate costs and build in cost overruns. You can have detailed contracts concerning materials and building cost, but people can change their minds midstream. Murphy's Law frequently disrupts the best-laid plans. Managers need to build in 25% more time to complete a project. The additional time alleviates tension in the workforce and allows employees at all levels to assimilate change.

Know the cost of doing business. One of the initial steps is to know your cost of production. Whether it is contract production, value added, or commodity marketing, failure to know cost per unit is the first step to failure. Far too many farmers don't know the actual cost of production other than what is left over in the checkbook or what's reported on the income tax form. In today's world of lower margins and volatile costs and prices, a sound but simple record system with monitoring devices is your first key to success.

Some of these failures were caused by improper planning, others by ineffective execution and follow-up. Granted, Murphy's Law is out there; however, many failures could have been prevented by proactive best management practices.

FSA Announces Results Of County Committee Election

Results of this year's election for a vacant seat on the Preston County Farm Service Agency (FSA) were announced recently.

Dayton Bolyard of Eglon was elected to represent Local Administrative Area 3 (Lyon, Reno, and Union districts) and assumed his duties on January 1. Bolyard will serve a three-year term.

Wade Harsh, Edward Utterback, and Linda Blakely came in second, third, and fourth, respectively, in the election, which was held between November 24 and December 4.

Since he finished second, Wade Harsh of Eglon, will serve as the chairperson for the Community FSA Committee and first alternate to Dayton Bolyard.

Edward Utterback, Aurora, will serve as vice chairperson of the Community Committee and second alternate to Bolyard.

Linda Blakely, Eglon, will serve a three-year term as a regular member of the Community Committee.

First and second alternates serve in the absence of the elected county committee member for a three-year term. They may also be called upon to fill the unexpired term of the county committee member.

County FSA committee elections are held annually. Candidates are nominated by local farmers, and must live in the local administrative area they will represent and must be eligible to vote in the county election.

Duties of county committee members include:

- informing farmers of the purpose of USDA-FSA programs,
- keeping the state FSA committee informed of local conditions,
- recommending needed changes in farm programs,
- participating in county meetings as necessary, and
- performing other duties as assigned by the state FSA committee.

The 2001 Preston County FSA Committee consists of Patrick Foley, chairperson; Dayton Bolyard, vice chairperson; Millord Gibson, regular member; and LaDeana Teets, committee advisor.

The County FSA Committee established its regular meeting day as the Wednesday of the first full workweek of each month. Regular meetings begin at 9 a.m. and are open to the public.

New Small Loan Process To Speed Loan Assistance

The Farm Service Agency has reduced the paperwork required for farmers to receive farm operating loans from USDA. Producers who need to borrow $50,000 or less and those who have a record of borrowing from and repaying FSA on annual operating loans will benefit from the new procedures.

This brings us closer to private sector lender practices. Until now, a producer in need of FSA assistance submitted the same amount of information, whether the proposed loan was for $2,000 or $200,000. We need to focus more on the larger, more complex cases which constitute the highest risk to the government and make it easier for smaller producers to access FSA loans.

The changes in documentation requirements will reduce the time loan officials need to review application information and process the low documentation (Lo-Doc) loans.

Requirements that are repetitive or are not essential for a sound credit decision in light of the financial risk involved are being dropped. Decreasing the time required for FSA employees to reach both eligibility and feasibility determinations on smaller, lower risk loans allows more time to concentrate on larger, higher risk loan applicants.

To qualify, a producer must fit into one of two categories: The first is those who requet small loans (operating credit needs of $50,000 or less). Under small loans a producer must meet FSA loan eligibility requirements; be current on all debt payments; have no FSA debt restructuring in the past five years, submit a signed and dated loan application, FSA 410-1, "Request for Direct Loan Assistance"; a check or money order for a credit report; a cash flow projection for the next operating cycle; and environmental information about the land to be farmed along with additional financial and organizational information if an entity applicant.

Loans under this provision may be used to pay annual production expenses, to purchase or repair equipment, and to meet similar needs. Producers seeking loans for refinancing existing farm debts will be required to submit additional information for a more intensive credit analysis and will not qualify for a "Lo-Doc" operating loan.

The second category is recurring FSA borrowers. They must meet FSA loan eligibility requirements; have repaid at least two FSA annual production loans on time; have no past due payments to any creditor; and have no FSA debt restructuring in the past five years. They must also submit: a signed and dated loan application, FSA 410-1, "Request for Direct Loan Association"; a check or money order for credit report; a cash flow projection for the next operating cycle; and any changes in environmental information about the land to be farmed. Additional financial and organizational information is required if one is an entity applicant.

Loans under this provision may be used to pay annual production expenses and limited farm and family subsistence needs only.

For all applicants who apply under this "Lo-Doc" process, FSA may request additional material when information submitted deviates from local norms, conflicts with other available data, or otherwise creates the need for further analysis or support.

These changes will make it easier for the producer to obtain government services and will be less time consuming for FSA employees. It will allow us to provide more timely assistance, so applicants will receive their FSA operating funds earlier in the production year. We will be able to spend more time with producers of larger, more complex operations who really do need in-depth analysis and monitoring.

Farm Storage Facility Loan Program Finalized

The Farm Storage Facility Loan Program, which provides low-cost financing for farmers to build or upgrade on-farm grain storage and handling facilities, has been expanded under its announced final regulations.

In addition to seven-year loans for structures to store and handle dry grain, the program now includes structures to store commodities (such as corn, grain, sorghum, oats, wheat, or barley) even when harvested as other than whole gram. However, flat storage structures to store facility loan commodities harvested as dry hay are not eligible for loans. The interest rate for farm storage facility loans approved during February 2001 is 5.125%. The interest rate at approval remains in effect for the term of the loan.

Other key program provision changes include a change in the loan amount limit from $100,000 per loan even for independent borrowers obtaining loans on joint structures to $100,000 per individual qualified borrower and removal of the provision limiting loans to actions taken during the period of February 2 through May 30, 2000, according to McCartney. Crop insurance is still required only for crops of economic significance. Such crops include any insurable facility loan commodity that contributes 10 percent or more of the total expected value of all crops grown by the loan applicant.

Loan-eligible storage or handling equipment now includes re-manufactured oxygen-limiting storage structures built to the original manufacturer's design specifications using original manufacturer's "rebuild kits" designed for whole grain storage or other than whole grain storage having a useful life of at least 10 years.

New structures that are upright, bunker-type, horizontal, or open silo structures designed for whole grain structure or other than whole grain storage having a useful life of at least 10 years are also included, as are permanently affixed grain handling equipment and grain drying equipment determined by the approving FSA county committee to be needed and essential to the proper functioning of a grain storage system (without a loan for storage structures).

"Also eligible under the program are loans for renovating existing storage without an increase in storage capacity and for the purchase of safety equipment as required by Commodity Credit Corporation and meeting Occupational and Safety and Health Administration requirements such as lighting, and inside and outside ladders.

The final rule was published in the Federal Register on January 18, 2001. Farmers are encouraged to contact their local USDA Service Center or FSA county office for further details at 300 Tunnelton Street in Kingwood, telephone 304-329-1923, or fax 304-329-3056. Additional information can also be found on the Web at www.fsa.usda.gov.

Farmers To Be Surveyed On The Economic Condition of Agriculture

Implementing effective farm policy depends on accurate information, and during February and March, Maryland farmers will be surveyed on the fiscal health of the state's leading industry. The 2000 Agricultural Resource Management Study, which is mailed to 900 farmers in Maryland and Delaware, is designed to gather vital statistics about the economic condition of production agriculture.

"Farm income continues to decline nationwide as well as in Maryland and we need to better understand how this is affecting farmers" said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Hagner R. Mister. "We need the cooperation of farmers to provide the data needed by legislators, farm organizations, USDA, farm suppliers, lenders and others whose decisions affect our growers."

Locally, the surveys are used in developing emergency assistance programs. The results also will determine the ownership status of land in agricultural production at the state and national level.

"The 2000 harvest was a record throughout the Mid-Atlantic states, yet prices were at near-record-low-levels." said Maryland state statistician Ray Garibay. "We know that farmers are under a financial strain because of low prices and the high cost of inputs from fertilizer to fuel, but we need a better understanding of how this is affecting the decisions of individual farm operators."

In addition to mailed surveys, personal interviews are being conducted through March 31 to gather more detailed information. Results will be published in a series of reports on the current farm financial condition by the USDA National Agricultural Statistics Service. Copies of the reports, including Maryland-specific agricultural information, will be available on the Internet at www.usda.gov/nass/md, or by calling 1-800-675-0295.

State Jobless Rate Decreases, County's Higher

A dwindling number of job seekers offset seasonal employment reductions during the last month of 2000, lowering Maryland's unemployment from 3.5 percent in November to 3.3 percent in December. With this decline, the state jobless rate dropped even further below the national level, which was 3.7 percent in December.

The month of December, which typically shows a decline in the number of employed workers, continued this trend at the end of 2000 as the number of employed people fell by about 12,100. Even with this decline, December's employment level of 2,745,719 workers represented the highest on record for the month. The withdrawal of job seekers from the labor market offset this decline.

Garrett County's jobless rate, however, jumped 1.5 percent, from 7.8 in November to 9.3 in December. The December 1999 rate was 7.9 percent.

"Maryland's positive employment figures are a sure sign that the state is maintaining its strong economic success," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "It is absolutely critical that we build on our business and job development efforts to ensure that Maryland families keep good paying jobs, businesses continue to flourish, and this prosperity lasts."

Labor force reductions produced unemployment declines in 15 of the state's 24 local jurisdictions during December. More than one-half of the local jurisdictions recorded unemployment rates below the statewide average, with the lowest levels at 1.5 percent in Montgomery County, 1.6 percent in Howard County, 1.7 percent in Frederick County, and 1.9 percent in Carroll County.

During December, activity generated by the holiday season prompted the hiring of part-time workers in a number of retail trade establishments. This expansion, coupled with hiring in health and business services, helped to downplay the effects of seasonal reductions in construction, hotels, amusements, agricultural services, manufacturing, and education.

"We are optimistic that the state will continue this positive trend," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. "We are committed to providing the services and technologies that will keep companies in the state, train our labor force to be the best in the country, and encourage more businesses to relocate in Maryland."

Bartlett Bill Would Restore G.W. Holiday

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and his colleague, Representative Tom Lantredo, held a news conference Wednesday at the House Triangle on the grounds of the U.S. Capitol to announce the introduction of their bill, the Washington-Lincoln Recognition Act.

The bill would direct all federal government agencies to refer to the federal holiday on the third Monday in February by its legal name, George Washington's Birthday. Washington's actual birthday is Feb. 22. In 2001, the George Washington Birthday holiday will be observed on Feb. 19. The bill also calls upon the President to issue a proclamation each year recognizing the anniversary of the birthday of President Abraham Lincoln.

"George Washington's birthday is already a federal holiday and February also marks the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, another of our greatest presidents," said Congressman Bartlett. "There is a terrible and inaccurate misconception that the George Washington Birthday was changed to Presidents' Day. Use of the term Presidents' Day insults the memory and denigrates the contributions of both George Washington and Abraham Lincoln."

STORYTELLING WORKSHOP AT SWAN MEADOW SCHOOL — Dr. Gail Herman, professional educator and storyteller, recently led a storytelling workshop for fifth through eighth graders at Swan Meadow School. The five-day workshop was designed to train students to effectively tell to younger students the family stories they had developed in their writing class with teacher Liz Rees Gilbert. The project was awarded a grant funded by the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils. On the first day, Dr. Herman told her own family stories to all Swan Meadow students, serving as a role model for the older students as they began to plan how they would tell their own on the final day of the workshop. Dr. Herman used each of her 15 percussive, musical instruments, from slide whistle to kokiriko, throughout the session so the students could hear how each instrument could enhance their own stories. Three days of the workshop were spent in the writing classroom, making "story maps" of the stories and selecting vocal and instrumental sound effects with mime gestures for each of the events in the students' stories. The students worked with partners to fine tune their stories. The students remarked many times during the five days of the workshop that they were excited to see how their stories gained another dimension through their telling. On the final day of the workshop, the school gathered for a storytelling assembly, and many of the students told their stories.

SHS & NHS Band Boosters Request Financial Support

Concerns of the band boosters and an improvement plan for Northern High School were the highlights discussed this week at the monthly board of education meeting.

The Northern and Southern High Band Boosters asked the board for financial support. According to Kathy Johnson, spokesperson for the SHS Band Boosters, enrollment is falling and the burden of supporting the program is left to one-third of the parents. She said that the boosters' expenses are approximately $46,000; 18 percent of the funds needed come from the board and the remaining 82 percent must come from fund-raisers.

"The board needs to take a long serious look at our finances, because we are flailing and we are exhausted," Johnson said. "I feel we carry music with us our whole lives. What I use today is what I learned back when I was in the band at Southern."

The major fund-raiser for the boosters is bingo. According to Johnson, bingo requires 100 adult volunteer hours every month, and it is played almost every week and continues throughout the summer. Bingo is a major undertaking, and without the monies from it, the finances for the boosters will be compromised, Johnson said.

Susan Bell, president of the NHS Band Boosters, said that "the future of band programs in high schools, especially at Southern, is at risk." She said she feels the effort needs to be made at the middle school level. According to Bell, the four-period day and the fact that the band students do not have practice every day are hindering the program. She said there are 74 members in the band and only one teacher and one assistant, which she feels is inadequate.

Bell said the boosters currently pay for whatever outside instruction is needed or get volunteers, but they would like to be put on equal footing with sports so they can hire additional assistants with funding from the board.

"Band gives a very healthy, competitive attitude," Bell said. "Our bands represent our county in three states. The spirit that these kids have is amazing.

OPEN WATER at Deep Creek Lake is still hard to find, despite several days of above-freezing temperatures and rainfall this week, since the ice has been over two feet thick in some locations. Organizers of the third annual Deep Creek Dunk, slated for Saturday, Feb. 24, not to mention the dunkers, will no doubt appreciate a little assistance from Mother Nature in providing an area of open water for that event. Proceeds from the dunk benefit the Maryland Special Olympics program. All who venture onto the lake for fishing, snowshoeing, or walking are cautioned to watch out for thin ice, which is usually present wherever there is a spring or stream running into the lake. Colder temperatures and snow are forecast to return this weekend.

Jennings Head Start Center Closed Again

For the second time in about two months, the Jennings Head Start Center, housed in the Jennings Community Center, was closed Wednesday because of a concern about the air quality in the building. The decision was made when two employees were transported to the hospital yesterday morning after complaining of breathing problems.

The Northern Rescue Squad was summoned to the center Wednesday to transport Lois Bittinger and Teresa Durst to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland, where they were treated and released after complaining about breathing problems, dizziness, and general illness.

The center, which is sponsored by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, was closed the first time on December 18 after parents reported that the children who attend the center were experiencing a wide variety of respiratory problems and allergy-like symptoms. A number of air quality tests were performed in the building by the Garrett County Health Department, Jenkins Envi-

Oakland Man To Serve Four Years On Assault Charge

During Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings held last week, Scott Anthony Bowman, 20, Oakland, received a sentence of four years to the Maryland Department of Corrections upon his conviction for second degree assault. A related charge of child abuse was dismissed by the state. Garrett County State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch explained, "To convict Bowman of the child abuse charge, we had to prove not only the assaultive behavior, but the additional element that Bowman was a household member of the child. There was not sufficient evidence of this."

The 2-year-old child had been turned over to the Garrett County Department of Social Services by the mother in late August, and a routine physical was scheduled with a local physician. Upon observing numerous bruises on different areas of the child that appeared to be of various ages, a report was made of suspected abuse. Oakland City Police charged Bowman after a joint investigation with caseworkers from Social Services was conducted and witnesses came forward to report specific in-

GCC Enrollment Rises Markedly

Garrett Community College's enrollment for spring semester 2001 shows a 7 percent increase over last year's spring enrollment, according to figures just released by Deloris Edgar, director of records and registration.

This spring a total of 669 students are enrolled, compared to 627 in spring 2000. Of this number 387 are enrolled full-time (taking 12 or more credit hours), a 9 percent increase over last year, and 282 are enrolled part-time, a 4 percent increase over last year. Garrett County residents, as always, are the greatest majority of students enrolled, numbering 457.

These numbers are expected to rise as students register for the new I-Tech courses and the special interest Beacon courses that will get under way later in the spring.

GC Aerobic Team To Compete In National Contest

The Garrett County Sportaerobic Team has been selected to compete in the 2001 Youth Sportaerobic National Championship this April. The team consists of 20 young athletes from all over Garrett County.

Marlana Beitzel and Jessie Railey will defend their 2000 national championship honors. Marlana has won two consecutive national championships in the varsity individual division and has finished in the top eight at the World Championship for the last two years. Jessie won a gold medal last year as part of the Varsity Trio and went on to place seventh at the 2000 World Championships.

Five other 2001 team members have national and international sportaerobic experiences. Jessica Crosco was part of the 1999 National Champion JV Team. That team went on to place fifth at the 1999 Worlds. Kelly Taylor won two gold medals in 1999 as part of the Junior Trio and Junior Team. The Junior Team ended up placing fourth at the 1999 World Championships.

Rachel Margroff, Kira Farley, and Missy Ray were all part of the 1999 National Champion Junior Team.

Third St. Bridge Project Slowly Moving Forward

According to Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, the Third Street bridge replacement project, despite some continued delays, has been placed high on the federal government's funding priority list of Garrett County's bridge projects, second only to the Corona-Bayard bridge project.

When asked to speculate on the timetable for the finished bridge, McCain said he was "hopeful" that the work would begin as soon as the new building season starts, but that sometime in October would probably be more "realistic."

McCain explained that numerous issues have had to be resolved, and recommendations and cost estimates for various stages of the bridge's design, manufacture, and construction are still unsettled.

"We're still waiting for a firm commitment from CSX," said McCain. Assistance from CSX is needed for such things as the removal of the existing bridge and hauling away debris from the site.

McCain said the town is also waiting for federal funding to come through and for rough cost estimates from a bridge manufacturing company. Even decisions regarding the type of bridge to be installed are

Delegate's Bills Would Help Fund County Projects

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has recently introduced a number of bills in the Maryland State Legislature, several of which will assist in funding local capital projects such as the renovation, repair and remodeling of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the remodeling of the Garrett County Courthouse. A third bill would allow the Garrett County commissioners to finance a portion of the funding for the Garrett County Health Center, already under construction.

House Bill 113 would authorize the creation of a state debt in the amount of $1.6 million to be used as a grant by Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the planning, design, construction and capital equipping of a new emergency department, as well as for the renovation, repair, reconstruction and capital equipping of the entrance, helipad, outpatient surgery area, radiology department, gift shop, and main lobby of

Contract For Superintendent Is Renewed

The Garrett County Board of Education unanimously voted to renew the four-year contract for Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets this week.

"I have enjoyed the past four years and look forward to four more," said Dr. Teets. "We have the best students, school personnel, and support throughout the county. We also have a great board, which I enjoy working with."

Dr. Teets said he appreciated the support from the county commissioners. "We have gotten a lot accomplished in the last four years and plan to continue providing the best education to our students."

According to Rodney Durst, board member, the board is very pleased that Dr. Teets is staying for another four years. "We are moving forward and are on the cutting edge of education reform," Durst said. "We are very fortunate to have a superintendent stay around for four more years. Stability is important. Around the state, it seems like superintendents move around frequently. We are very pleased that he is staying with us."

Dr. Teets is originally from Aurora, W.V., and has held various education positions before moving to this area, including superintendent for the Taylor County Board of Education. Dr. Teets received his education at West Virginia University and Shepherd College.

He resides in Oakland with his wife, who is a teacher in West Virginia. Their son resides in West Virginia and daughter resides in Cumberland.

MLP Woman Shot To Death Outside Gortner Bar Monday

Suspect Arrested At Home In Davis, W.Va.

A 21-year-old Mtn. Lake Park woman died after she was shot once in the abdomen with a small-caliber handgun late Monday night outside Shorty's Bar and Grill, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. The GBI has a murder charge pending against a Davis, W.Va., suspect who was apprehended at his residence the following morning.

Sharyn Jean Burch died shortly after the 11:10 p.m. incident during emergency surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Burch was shot while she was standing among a small group of patrons who had just left the Garrett Highway bar in the wake of an incident "that may have involved some kind of physical altercation" inside the establishment, GBI detective Jeff Murphy said.

Eight hours after the shooting, Michael Todd Messenger, 34, was taken into custody at his Davis home by law enforcement officers from the GBI, West Virginia State Police, and the Tucker County, W.Va, Sheriff's Office. Messenger, who reportedly did not know the victim prior to the incident, is being held on a $250,000 bond in the Potomac Highlands Regional Jail in Augusta, W.Va., on a fugitive from justice charge based on the GBI's investigation.

Messenger is scheduled to appear in Tucker County Circuit Court tomorrow for an extradition hearing on the fugitive charge. Should he waive extradition, he would be transported back to Oakland tomorrow for processing on GBI charges of second-degree murder, first- and second degree assault, reckless endangerment, use of a handgun in commission of a felony, and malicious destruction of property.

The investigation is still continuing, and the information released by authorities to this point remains incomplete pending compilation of witness interviews being undertaken by several detectives. As Murphy stated, the shooting is believed to have to stemmed from an incident inside the bar involving the suspect and several other patrons, and Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch said that the suspect and the victim evidently did not know each other prior to meeting at the bar.

A physical altercation reportedly ensued inside the tavern late Monday night after a bartender asked Messenger to leave. He was escorted to the door, and once outside reportedly punched the door's window, then went to his vehicle to retrieve a small-caliber handgun. A group of four or five patrons exited the bar around that time, and Messenger allegedly fired between four and six shots, striking Burch only. The suspect then got into his vehicle and left the scene.

The shooting report was phoned in immediately to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and officers with the sheriff's office, the Maryland State Police, and the Oakland City Police responded to the scene. The first officer to reportedly arrive at the scene, Oakland policeman Chris Feller, "did a tremendous job of administering CPR to the victim until the Southern Rescue Squad arrived," according to Murphy.

Burch never began breathing on her own, the detective said, and would have expired in the bar's parking lot within minutes of the incident if not for Feller's efforts and the work of rescue squad personnel. The wound was so severe that "she never really had a chance," commented Murphy. None of the other bullets reportedly fired from the weapon have been located at this point.

After developing initial leads from witness interviews, officers responded to the Messenger family's home in Davis several hours later and executed a search-and-seizure warrant. Evidence linking Messenger to the shooting was recovered at the residence, and he was arrested there without incident at approximately 7 a.m. Tuesday morning.

Messenger has reportedly

Hafer Sponsors Garrett Co. Right To Farm Bill

District 1 Senator John Hafer has introduced a bill in the Maryland General Assembly that would authorize the Garrett County commissioners to adopt an ordinance or regulation to protect a person's right to farm.

"The bill would strengthen agricultural activity in Garrett County by granting farmers additional protection, while benefiting small businesses involved with agricultural activities as well," said Hafer. According to statistics from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, agricultural activity contributes approximately $11 billion in revenue annually and employs 350,000 people in the state.

Several other counties in Maryland, including Washington, Charles, Somerset, and Dorchester, have already provided county commissioners with the authority to adopt right-to-farm ordinances or regulations. Senator Hafer's bill would require county commissioners to first hold a public hearing and provide reasonable notice of hearing.

The bill has been assigned to the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee and will be heard on Tuesday, Feb. 20, at 1 p.m. Anyone interested in testifying at the hearing should call Hafer's Annapolis office, toll free 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3565. Also, those interested in expressing support for the bill may call or write letters to the Judicial Proceedings Committee at 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3623.

WINNER OF BOARD OF EDUCATION CHRISTMAS CARD CONTEST — The design by Laura Bonser, a freshman at Southern High School, was selected for the 2000 Christmas card from the Board of Education and the superintendent, which was sent to employees and other organizations all over the state. This was the third year for the contest and the first year a freshman's design had been selected. "As in previous years, it was a difficult choice to select one card from the many creative and exceptional designs which were submitted," said Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent. Laura is the daughter of Robert and Suzanne Bonser of Pleasant Valley. Pictured below are Cindy Zindler, art teacher at Southern High School; Madeleine Collins, president of the board, and Dr. Teets, presenting Laura with a plaque.

Correction Noted To Arrest Report

This past Thursday, after The Republican had gone to press with an arrest report concerning the 1999 armed robbery of Grantsville's Beachy Pharmacy, amended information was received from the Garrett County state's attorney's office that corrected the suspect's name to Robert Glenn Kennedy.

A 25-year-old resident of Dublin, Va., Kennedy faces charges of two counts each of robbery, first degree assault, and second degree assault, and one count of felony theft. He remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $100,000 bond pending trial in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Highway Radar Detail Leads To Six Drug Arrests

Maryland State Police troopers working speed enforcement operations along Interstate 68 near Grantsville made a pair of drug busts this week in the wake of separate traffic stops. All six individuals charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance were released on their own recognizance after being arrested.

The first incident took place at 11:09 a.m. Thursday when a Chevrolet Blazer was stopped for speeding along westbound I-68 at the Casselman River. Tfc. Greg Becker noted the odor of suspected burnt marijuana coming from the vehicle, and an ensuing search located suspected marijuana in the vehicle and on the occupants.

Arrested and charged with CDS possession were: Joshua James, 23; Bennett Douglas Gurin, 21; and David James Grossnickle and Erin Lynn Sprague, both 19. The hometowns of the defendants, each of whom were released on their own recognizance, were not provided by the arresting officer.

On Saturday afternoon at the same location, westbound I-68 at the Casselman River, a 1997 Ford Escort was stopped at 12:45 p.m. for speeding. Cpl. John LeMay detected the odor of suspected burnt marijuana as he was speaking to the driver, and she produced a burnt marijuana cigarette upon request. A search that followed revealed additional marijuana, drug paraphernalia, and an unspecified quantity of the designer drug Ecstasy.

The vehicle's occupants, Olney residents Erika Stripling and Jennifer Reuther, both 18, were released on their own recognizance after being charged with possession of the drugs and paraphernalia.

New Germany Mishap Injures Three Friday

Two adults and a juvenile were transported to Cumberland Memorial Hospital early Friday morning after their compact sedan was struck by a pickup truck along New Germany Road near Grantsville, according to the Maryland State Police. The truck's driver has been charged in the accident.

The collision occurred shortly after 1:30 a.m. when a 2000 Ford F-250 pickup operated by David Rounds, 30, Swanton, pulled from westbound Chestnut Ridge Road into southbound New Germany Road. Rounds allegedly cut his turn too tight and entered the northbound lane of New Germany Road, where it collided with an oncoming 2000 Ford Aspire operated by Justin Robison, 28, Lonaconing.

Robison and his two passengers, 18-year-old Robert Wiland of Grantsville and a 17-year-old male juvenile, sustained injuries in the mishap and were transported to Cumberland Memorial by the Northern Rescue Squad. Wiland was hospitalized for two nights, Robison was treated and released, and the juvenile's status was not available from hospital spokespersons. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

State troopers charged Rounds with failure to yield right of way.

In other state police news, a 4 a.m. Friday morning accident along Interstate 68 near Friendsville resulted in minor injuries to a Kentucky tractor-trailer driver. The mishap closed eastbound I-68 near the six-mile marker for several hours.

The driver, James Henry Potter, age and hometown not available, was reportedly traveling eastbound when his rig ran into the center median guardrail and overturned. The tractor-trailer, owned by Sterling Transportation of Pocola, Okla., was loaded with electrical boxes. Potter sustained a laceration to his arm, and was transported by a Friendsville rescue unit to Cumberland Memorial, where he was treated and released.

Broadwater Heavy Towing of Grantsville worked with a State Highway Administration crew throughout Friday morning to unload the trailer and upright the rig. The investigation is continuing.

Man To Serve

cidents with the child, including the second-degree assault that occurred in May 2000.

The mother of the child was originally charged with child abuse and second-degree assault. With her agreement to cooperate in the prosecution of Bowman and the determination that Bowman was the sole actor, the charges against the mother were amended to "causing a child to be in need of assistance" for her failure to protect the child. That case remains pending in District Court.

Michael Lynn Sisler, 36, Oakland, pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to a charge of child abuse, and was then sentenced to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin.

Sisler had been charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation last September after it was determined he had inappropriate contact with a juvenile a number of times from December 1998 through August 2000.

Sisler will be required to register as a child sex offender upon his release, according to the Garrett County State's Attorney's office.

In other court news, Justin Russell Rinker, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana last week. The state then dismissed related charges of possession with intent to distribute fake controlled dangerous substance and CDS paraphernalia. Judge Sherbin sentenced Rinker to four days in the Garrett County Jail and imposed a $300 fine.

Rinker was charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force who were part of a special assignment last August. Rinker was stopped along Hutton Road for speeding, and officers noticed the odor of burnt marijuana on the person of the juvenile passenger. The contraband was found in a backpack when his vehicle was searched.

James William Ferguson, 25, Wheeling, W.Va., entered a guilty plea to possession with intent to distribute LSD (lysergic acid diethylamide). Judge Sherbin sentenced Ferguson to three years at the Department of Corrections and fined him $2,000.

Ferguson was charged by officers with the narcotics task force last August after the car in which he was a passenger was stopped for a speeding violation. Investigation revealed the driver was in possession of marijuana. During a subsequent search of the car, five vials of liquid LSD were found on the floorboards of the passenger side. Ferguson was also charged with possession of marijuana and CDS paraphernalia. These charges were dismissed by the state when he pleaded guilty to the felony.

James Eugene Reed, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to conspiracy to distribute marijuana. Related charges of distribution and possession of marijuana were dismissed by the state. Sherbin sentenced Reed to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and required him to pay a fine of $500.

Reed was indicted by the September 2000 term of the grand jury for the offenses, which occurred in early January 2000. Officers with the narcotics task force presented evidence that Reed had conspired with another area man to provide marijuana to a police informant.

served as a tobacco inspector for the West Virginia State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission for the past two years. He was not authorized to carry a gun as part of his duties, said ABCC commissioner Thomas Keely, who has suspended the suspect from his position. Messenger is also the son-in-law of former W.Va. state senator Gino Colombo, who had represented Harrison County.

Observes 10th Year At Salem

Dora Faidley, an employee at the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, recently marked her 10th year of service to the agency.

Faidley was hired in 1990 as a teaching parent, working with up to eight children in the residential program at Salem. In 1993 she was promoted to resource teaching parent, and her duties included supervising and training teaching parents, and providing guidance and support to them regarding issues with the children.

Faidley was promoted again in 1998 to her present position of residential specialist, whereby she is active in the hiring and supervision of new teaching parents, updating agency policies and procedures, and providing leadership to her supervisees as they promote positive change within the lives of the children in their care.

Prior to coming to Salem, she was employed by the Children's Aid Home, working with abused and delinquent children. She was also a licensed day care provider and operated her own day care home from 1972 to 1981.

"Her great love for children and her professional demeanor are most appreciated by her colleagues and the children living at Salem," said a spokesperson from the agency.

Faidley lives in Markleton, Pa., with her husband David and has two adult sons, Michael and Daniel.

still unsettled until all the information being sought is received.

Town officials have also been engaged in discussions regarding tax differential issues with the Garrett County commissioners.

According to Garrett County Administrator Monty Pagenhardt, "We will do whatever we can to help." He explained that the county is providing assistance in the form of engineering, support and document preparation expertise from the Garrett County Roads Department engineer and bridge inspector, Dwight Emory.

McCain stressed that the goal of town and county officials is the same, and that is to provide the local residents with a permanent, quality structure. "We're looking at a two-lane bridge with no weight limits and a pedestrian lane," he said.

Different Mind-Set...

Rarely does an issue of this newspaper not contain an article about someone who has been arrested for possession of marijuana, or about one or more who have been convicted and received jail sentences for said possession. Likewise, almost every issue contains a story about those who have been arrested or convicted of driving while intoxicated.

However, there is a completely different mind-set, a totally separate attitude, of most people when it comes to the judgment and the "degree of seriousness" when comparing the two aforementioned crimes. Most seem to think of marijuana users as low-life, good-for-nothing, dangerous losers, for whom a jail sentence is certainly warranted. But many of the same people think of DWI offenders, unless a fatality is involved, as "good ol' boys" who should receive a slap on the wrist for their "error in judgment." It's only when there is a tragedy, or when a person is arrested for DWI umpteen times, that folks finally agree that he should lose his license for good and spend some time in jail.

In the meantime, drunk drivers continue to kill and/or maim hundreds of innocent people — men, women, and children — every day, while the number of annual highway fatalities attributed to marijuana use probably does not even reach three digits. Repeat DWI offenders are somehow allowed to keep driving and driving and driving. For some reason, driving is mistakenly considered to be an inalienable, God-given right, rather than a privilege. There's something radically wrong with this picture.

Maryland Lieutenant Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend took a commendable step yesterday by strongly endorsing a package of bills before the state legislature aimed at ridding Maryland's roads of drunk drivers. She stated quite accurately that "drunk driving deaths are 100% preventable" and that "drunk drivers are among our deadliest criminals."

The proposed legislation includes seven steps: lower the legal blood alcohol limit from .1 to .08; enhance penalties for repeat offenders; prohibit open alcohol containers in cars; increase penalties for severely impaired drivers; make breathalyzer test information admissible evidence in court; revoke the license of juveniles convicted of an alcohol offense; and limit the use of probation before judgment in DWI cases.

We join our lieutenant governor in a hearty endorsement of all seven, and urge our Maryland readers to contact their delegates and senators and strongly recommend that they support these bills. The legislation is currently being considered by the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, and hearings on the bills will begin in the House of Delegates next Wednesday.

We keep locking up the far less dangerous marijuana users while allowing drunk drivers to keep the death meter clicking right along. It just doesn't make sense.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

This is to congratulate the Northern High varsity wrestling team for capturing the runner-up medal at the state dual meet tournament, which is impressive when you consider that only the two best teams in the state make it to the championship finals.

There is indeed an element of chance in any athletic contest at the highest levels, as everyone can see by the number of upsets that occur every four years in the Olympics. Thus, I think it is only a matter of time until the Huskies claim a state title again.

Craig Speicher
Grantsville

To the Editor:

As an annual subscriber to your newspaper, I must admit that the "Letters to the Editor" column is one of my favorites. Readers are always treated to a variety of opinions on many topics.

I would like to suggest a topic for future letters and also offer an opportunity for your readers to come to present their ideas in person in a public meeting.

The League of Women Voters of Maryland is asking for concurrence on a position on vouchers from all local leagues. In order for the LWV of Garrett County to arrive at a position, we will hold a public meeting on Feb. 26 at the Ruth Enlow Library beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Concurrence means that the local league either accepts or rejects the following proposed position in total, with no change in wording:

Choice in Education — Action to oppose using public funds for private school vouchers. Voucher programs permit parents to use public funds to send their children to private schools.

With both President George W. Bush and Md. Gov. Parris Glendenning proposing variations on vouchers, this is a topic we are sure to read and hear more about in the next few years. The LWVGC offers the citizens of Garrett County the opportunity to join us on Feb. 26 to participate in this timely discussion.

Any letters which you include in this column between now and your March 8th issue will be copied and attached to our report to the state league along with comments from our concurrence meeting.

Thank you for allowing me to use this letter as a public invitation to share in the league's discussion.

Sincerely,
Henrietta Lease
1st V. Pres. LWVGC

To the Editor:

Your Feb. 8 editorial page was outstanding (even the cartoon). Your editorial "It's Worth A Shot" was excellent. I would go much further than you in heartily endorsing the "faith-based" programs with all the "real accountability" factors thoroughly in place and enforced for the duration of the contract!

Pres. Bush stresses accountability, and I now believe he really means what he says. Accountability has been missing far too long in our governmental (local state, and federal) expenditures, almost wherever or however they are spent.

The best service I ever received in Garrett County was from a "faith-based organization, Catholic Charities, based in Cumberland with a down-state contract which was summarily not renewed by the down-state connection. Because they did the cleaning job too well? I wouldn't know, but I never heard or saw the word "religion" from Catholic Charities or any form thereof in my home.

However, they did the most perfect job performance I have ever seen, with no stress or problems of any kind for me. I cannot say that for any other agency, business, or governing body in Garrett County. I have been a tax payer here for 61 years!

Furthermore, although I am eligible for that service to be provided for me, I have never had it except when Catholic Charities had that contract. I have pleaded in vain for all these years! No one really listens or attempts to do anything about it.

I find that the disabled elderly, plus many other people, are disenfranchised in Garrett County for whatever reason.

For those who may want to blast me, go ahead; but remember, I am not a Catholic. I am a registered Independent, not Republican or Democrat! I am an American! A disabled American veteran, 89+ years (70% disabled) who has given wholeheartedly of myself and my poverty-level income for 55 years and am still giving to the best of my ability. I will continue to do so for the U.S.A. and the freedom I love as long as I live!

This is my opinion,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

To the Editor:

Friendship. True friends are definitely hard to find. I am very lucky to have the best. But all of us have been betrayed by someone, at some time in our life, by someone we trusted, loved, and nurtured.

I know the past year has been a difficult one for Charlie Tressler. (I'm sure he is familiar with the word betrayal.)

But hopefully after Monday, Jan. 29, he also recognizes how many caring citizens and true friends he has. Charlie was honored with a surprise party in appreciation of 26 loyal years of service as mayor of the town of Loch Lynn. One hundred-plus friends gathered for a buffet style dinner to show their sincere appreciation, to say "thank you" and "farewell" to Charlie as their mayor.

Charlie has given much more than he ever received. It was his personal touch that made him extraordinary.

Charlie was famous for removing snow from citizens' driveways with his own plow, expecting nothing in return.

He went above and beyond the call of duty. In fact, at one time as his duty as mayor (and I hope he isn't offended by my mentioning this, but to stress the degree of dedication this man had to your town), when the bank account was low, Charlie signed a personal note for the town. (I'm sure most of you didn't know that.)

So when you see Charlie, tell him again how much you appreciated him. Charlie, as you can see, many of us will never forget your sincere acts of kindness.

Friends are part of your life that give you warmth, comfort, strength, joy, and tears, but most of all, true friends never hesitate to show how much they care. So Charlie, we hope you could tell by your party how very much we care and how proud we are to call you friend.

Sheila O'Neill

To the Editor:

President Bush's proposal to give tax monies to faith-based organizations is an honorable proposal but, as with most government directives, it will require expansion of the size of government as well as its control of individuals and/or organizations. (I thought the goal of Republicans is to reduce the size of government, not expand it!)

Why not simply use the income tax form to do what President Bush wants? Simply remove the "Donation to Charities" section from "Schedule A - Itemized Deductions" and place it in the "Adjusted Gross Income" section of form 1040. By doing this, individuals and companies will give more to the charities of their choice (including faith-based charities) and receive deduction from their gross income.

The advantages are: 1) incentive to individuals on all levels to give more; 2) individuals will direct their own monies to charities of choice; 3) those against giving to faith-based charities need not give; 4) government is not expanded by having new agencies; and 5) it's an income tax reduction for most Americans!

This proposal is simple, yet should appeal to both parties of government.

Sincerely,
Vincent D. Geneo

ronmental Inc., and Naylor's Hardware, which showed no dangerous or unusually high levels of carbon monoxide, carbon dioxide, formaldehyde, fungi, or bacteria. The only recommendation was that the building needed better ventilation.

Pam Nelson, vice president for Community Services and Family Development for the Community Action Committee, said that the center was closed as soon as it was learned that the employees became ill. "It will remain closed until we can determine what needs to be done," she said.

Nelson said that the parents of the children were being contacted this morning, offering them the option of having their children temporarily attend either the Accident or Friendsville Head Start center, or receive Head Start services in the private homes of certified family child care workers.

"We are going to do everything we can to solve whatever problems exist at the Jennings site," Nelson said, "because that center is so much a part of that community."

She said that Jenkins Environmental Inc. had also been contacted this morning to begin another investigation and whatever testing is necessary.

View From My Window

CHICKENS IN THE CELLAR

Four years ago was the last time I started chicks. One hen from that brood is left, and is kept company in the henhouse by four Rhode Island Reds that a neighbor gave me because he had new hens ready to go. The four reds are clearly at the end of their career, and will be soup or pot pie before many more weeks go by.

Ten days ago a clerk at the post office called to say that my new chicks had arrived. The box that held the 25-day-old chicks was small (a foot square by six inches) in a way that surprised me initially, but made sense as I thought about it. In transit, body heat was their lifeline. The small area maximized the natural generation of warmth.

My cellar is partly cellar, under the oldest part of the house — coming on for its 200 birthday — and partly basement proper under the 19[illegible] additions. The chicks are set up on newspaper in the dirt floor cellar, and surrounded by an 18-inch cardboard shield. A red 250-watt bulb in a safety reflector hangs above the chicks, giving them an environment of 90-95° F to begin with. Each week I will reduce the temperature five degrees by raising the bulb until it reaches 70° F. Sometime shortly thereafter they will go to the henhouse.

The most exciting part of having chickens in the cellar is when they are big enough to jump over the cardboard shield, and then we really have chickens in the cellar. They are weeks away from that. Today their chirping can often be heard in the kitchen as they eat and drink and make merry.

In spite of their singing, these are Iowa chicks, not to be confused with Dixie Chicks. They come from the Murray McMurray Hatchery in Webster City, Iowa (800-456-3280). They boast of being "the oldest and largest rare breed hatchery in the United States." A family-owned business since 1917, their price schedule of chicks by the 25, 50, or 100 announces their commitment to the small holder.

I have had barred Plymouth Rocks for a dozen years now. It is a powerful, handsome breed. A flock of them makes a formidable sight as they stride across the yard, their black and white bars against the green background. My cats and dogs have always given them a wide berth.

I had intended to get barred Rocks again or perhaps one of the parent breeds, Dominiques. The one quality I especially desired was that of broodiness, the quality that enables a hen to rear its young. The hatchery could not guarantee broodiness for either of those breeds.

The first hens I ever had, now 15 or 16 years ago, were given to me by a colleague who pastored a small rural church. He was getting rid of his backyard flock. His hens possessed the quality of broodiness. Because they were my first chickens and they were broody, I assumed that the quality was common among hens. The opposite is true.

Even at a hatchery dedicated to rare breeds there are few breeds which they can offer with the likelihood of the hen going broody. The one breed which they did quickly recommend, however, was buff Orpington. The catalogue picture of the breed shows it strongly resembling the barred Rock in size and conformation, but the color of a gold watch where the barred Rocks have the black and white horizontal bars.

Like the barred Rocks, they lay brown eggs, and will dress out nicely for the table. The Orpingtons have white skin while the Rocks have yellow skin.

My hope is to have layers and fryers in several months. Beyond that I hope to have a sustainable flock, one that will renew itself through the natural process that all chickens once knew so well. When I told a friend that I had had to switch breeds to get the quality of broodiness, she was amazed to learn that it had been bred out of most chickens. "What strange creatures human beings are!" she said.

So we are. I hope to reverse that strangeness on my little corner of the earth and let chickens do their thing as I do mine.

Aerobic Team

The group went to the 1999 World Championship and brought home the only medal the Garrett County Sportaerobic Team has ever earned. They placed third, earning the bronze.

The other 13 athletes are new to national and international competition, but they are not new to the sport. Most were part of last year's team which did not travel to the competition. "This group of athletes will train very hard over the next few months in an effort to reach the high level of success this team has achieved in the past," said Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop. "The dream of gold is in each of these athletes' heads, and with the help of excellent coaches, those dreams can become a reality."

The 2001 Nationals will take place in Miami in April, with the World Championships being held in San Francisco in July. Currently, a fund-raiser is being held to help defray expenses for uniforms and travel. Persons wanting more information on the fund-raiser may contact any of the team members or phone Brenda's Body Shop.

"The countywide financial support in the past has been dynamite," said Brosnihan. "To have Garrett County represented in a National Championship and the Worlds is extraordinary. Not only are the girls and their families extremely excited at the opportunity, but with the overwhelming local support it makes us proud to represent our county."

People wanting more information or to follow the team's progress may visit the organization's web site at www.sportaerobics.org.

Band Boosters

Northern and Southern are very supportive of each other in these competitions. They clap for each other and are not rivals."

According to Bell, the boosters would like additional help to replace band instruments. It has currently taken NHS 12 years to save enough money to purchase new uniforms. Because of the rural nature of NHS, it is difficult to raise money beyond the fair booth and fall band show, Bell said.

The board members will take these comments, as well as the ideas and concerns from all the school organizations, into consideration, said Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent.

"The schools couldn't survive without the support from these groups," said Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent.

In other board news, five objectives for a school improvement plan for Northern High School were outlined by Gary Reichenbecher, principal of Northern High. The first objective is to increase proficiency in technology. With the increasing demand to be "computer literate," the teachers and staff are being extensively trained in the use of computers and the Internet.

Many teachers are using the Internet in their lessons and have designed their own web pages. The teachers also have access to a cart with four TVs and a computer that can be rotated among the classrooms. A new computer lab with 24 new computers has also been added that can accommodate an entire class.

One objective is to increase the students' math skills. The use of a daily journal has been incorporated into the classes, including the math classes. The math journals are a daily log of homework assignments and insights into how particular problems had been solved, Reichenbecher said.

One Advanced Placement (AP) unit will also be taught in each class to introduce and prepare students who will continue in the AP curriculum. The AP teachers will also visit underclassmen and explain what is expected of them in the AP classes.

According to Reichenbecher, when the students take an AP class they take a national test on that subject. The tests are scored from 1 to 5. If the student scores a 3 or above, most colleges will award them college credit for the course. "This is a wonderful opportunity for students, and many take advantage of it," Reichenbecher said.

Another objective is to extend the lessons and activities in the homeroom class. Each homeroom will consist of 15 students who will remain in that homeroom class for four years. Reichenbecher stated that sometimes the homeroom period can be extended when special activities are involved.

Providing information to aid students in the planning process for post-secondary education is also a goal of the improvement plan. Web sites are being designed with links to scholarship sites. The electronic message board in the cafeteria and various other bulletin boards will be used to alert students of upcoming scholarship deadlines and other college information.

Local Priest Put Faith Into Action By Reaching Across Racial Divide

by David Foster

This is Black History Month, an occasion not ordinarily noted with large observances here on the mountaintop simply because of our demographics — there just aren't that many black people here; however, it's important to remember that black history is not just black, and it's not just history. Whether black, white, red, brown, or yellow, all of us who identify ourselves in that most superficial and insignificant of ways — skin pigments — share a common humanity, and therefore our histories are intertwined.

The personal history of western Maryland native Paul Byrnes, who divides his time as a Catholic priest between Garrett and Allegany counties, is intertwined with others by his choice and action. A strong sense of the difference between right and wrong helped spur Byrnes, a white man, to take an active role in seeking justice for people who didn't look like him during the civil rights movement of the 1960s — a time when sticking your neck out could be downright dangerous.

Spittle of Hatred

"I was teaching at Cumberland's Bishop Walsh High School in 1966," the soft-spoken Byrnes said recently at his family's home in the Hazelhurst area, where he can often be found when not tied to his duties at St. Michael's Church in Frostburg and St. Ann's in Grantsville. "For the summer vacation I was temporarily assigned to a parish just north of Baltimore. At that time there was an independent preacher from the Deep South who came to Baltimore area on a regular basis to preach that 'we should hang all the niggers.' Amazingly, he was drawing big crowds and lots of news coverage.

"Several of us young priests were having supper at Phil Berrigan's house (Berrigan, along with his brother Daniel, was a nationally known civil rights advocate and anti-Vietnam War protester), when Phil got a call from the police chief asking him to get a group of priests together to go over to Patterson Park where that preacher had scheduled a rally. It was a heavily Catholic neighborhood, and the police chief thought that if priests walked around the crowd showing their Roman collars it would calm things down a bit.

"It was pretty scary," recalled Byrnes. "People were spitting on us; one man spit on me and said 'I'm a Catholic, Father, but I hate niggers.' Lots of people made it clear in no uncertain terms that we weren't welcome there.

"That really made me appreciate the bravery and the commitment of black persons who marched for civil rights under much more hostile conditions."

Roots of Justice

Born in Lonaconing, Byrnes's ingrained appreciation of the value of the rights of all peoples sprang from values passed down through his family. His great-grandfather, Patrick Byrnes, was among the first union organizers in the coal mines of western Maryland. In 1883 Patrick's body, arms and legs severed, was discovered on the railroad tracks between Ocean and Midland. The death records of St. Michael's parish record that the 41-year-old Byrnes had been "killed on the railroad," but the handwriting of a priest evidently sympathetic to the union movement crossed out the word "on" and replaced it with "by."

Paul's parents, Duck Byrnes and his wife Florence, both passed their values to their son through unmistakable examples. One formative encounter took place when the 5-year-old boy accompanied his father to a Lonaconing food market. "A pair of elderly white women came in with their black servant, a very old woman herself. I had never seen a black person before, so I just kept looking at her. My dad said to me right there in front of her, 'Don't stare, she's just the same as you are.' I never forgot that."

The example of intolerance was offered to the boy as well, by persons outside his family. "When I was 8 or 9 I went to the movies at the Palace Theater in Frostburg. My friends and I took seats in the front row on the righthand side, as we always did in our 'Coney theater. An adult, not an usher, came up to us and said 'Don't you sit there, that's the nigger section.'"

The structure of local society at the time caused some walls to rise where none had been before. "When I was a child the only swimming pool in the area was across the Potomac in Piedmont, and all the kids from the Tri-towns area, white and black, went there," recalled Byrnes. "When a new pool was built in Westernport, that became the whites-only pool, and no white kids would go over to Piedmont anymore. The kids on both sides of the river lost something then."

Passion in the Pulpit

The prejudicial acts Byrnes witnessed, however, would have remained just stories had he not been moved to action by his faith and the faith of other Christians. "I got interested in the civil rights movement around 1960 while studying at St. Mary's Seminary in Baltimore. Martin Luther King Jr. was already well-known throughout the nation, and the teaching and the general atmosphere at the seminary was very challenging and vibrant, full of good influences."

Ordained in 1962, Byrnes was assigned to St. Mary's Church in Hagerstown, where the young priest began constantly preaching on racial justice, which had become his passion. "There was enormous resistance, and often people would get up and walk out of the church while I was preaching. It was remarkable that the pastor didn't intervene to ask me to stop, but finally I asked him to post the priests' mass schedule in the bulletin so people could avoid my preaching if they thought they had to."

From Preaching to Practice

Brynes's passion for justice was not confined to words from the pulpit, however; he joined the local chapter of the NAACP and got actively involved in making black neighborhoods in Hagerstown more livable and, bucking society's trend even further, integrating white neighborhoods with black families.

"We would help families that could afford to buy a home do so," he said, noting that given a chance, any family, black or white, would prefer to send their children to the best possible schools, grow up with yards of grass, and feel secure in safe neighborhoods. "The trouble was in getting people to sell their homes to blacks. We would get around that by buying a home in a white neighborhood by using a white person as the buyer, then we would sell it to a black family." The NAACP group was forced into such deception, Brynes added, although it was not breaking the law.

As is often the case, however, the best of intentions can backfire when the overriding color for some of us — the green of money — blinds people to what is right. For instance, Byrnes pointed out, "In Baltimore, a real estate agent would sell a home in a white area to a black family, then the same agent would go to the white neighbors and tell them property values were dropping because a black family was moving into the neighborhood. This created a 'panic,' and the whites would sell their homes as fast as they could at undervalued prices. The real estate company would buy up lots of homes and turn around and sell them to black families for much more than what they had just paid for them.

"At one time here in Garrett County," he added, "it was written into sales contracts for lake properties that the home would not be resold to a colored buyer."

One's Own Eyes

In August 1963 Byrnes was one of two white persons who boarded a bus packed with fellow NAACP members bound for the "Great March" on Washington. "It was a wonderful experience; the whites were welcomed and embraced by blacks at the march. Martin Luther King's speech was electrifying; it still sends shivers up my spine when I hear it today. In my opinion, however, what converted more people to support civil rights was seeing news broadcasts of other protests, when peaceful marchers were being attacked by police dogs and sprayed with high-pressure fire hoses.

"When you see with your own eyes someone suffering for basic rights that you have, it has to have an effect.

"The non-violent protests of the civil rights movement, which began with the Montgomery bus boycott and escalated over the next few years like a wave, was a marvelous time in history. It was very much based on Christianity, loving your neighbor and showing no bitterness when you are attacked. It appealed to me because it was very much in the way of Jesus, and I never questioned that it would one day win out."

The Subtleties of Race

"Civil rights is still an issue today, in subtle ways that we need to be more alert for. For example, when I first arrived at a church for a new assignment just five years ago, there was a statue next to the sanctuary of an archangel with white skin who had his foot on a black-skinned devil with a chain around his neck. I didn't want to remove the statue and offend the family that had donated it, because I knew they weren't racists; however, they refused my offer to paint it cream, the color of all our other statues in the church.

"I said nothing more about it for a year, until a group of students from Westernport came to that church for a Christmas program. One third grade student, who was black, went back to the school and asked his teacher, 'Why was there a statue of a white angel killing a black man in the front of the church?'

"When I heard that, I knew he was right, and that statue had to go."

Making Choices

Over the years the priest has come to believe that the roots of prejudice run deep. "We naturally tend to identify and categorize things by their dominant features, what makes them stand out in our eyes. We tend not to see individuals but see the group instead; therefore, some people will say 'All black people are alike.' One of my prejudices, a simple one, is that even though I'm Irish, all Irish music sounds alike to me. Someone else could say, 'All rock music sounds the same,' or 'All black people look alike,' or 'All white people look alike.'

"It's getting to know individuals that breaks down prejudices. I don't think we'll ever be without prejudice, because it is a feeling," Byrnes said. "It's making the choice to act upon those feelings that leads to injustices and makes it a moral issue; standing up to confront injustice takes an active choice as well."

What More to Ask?

Any discussion of America's civil rights movement invariably refers back to those famous words of Martin Luther King, "I have a dream." Yet, as Byrnes pointed out, King's letter from the Birmingham Jail to his fellow clergy and the nation as a whole makes a more realistic statement: "I'm not asking for you to love me — just don't kill me."

As we move beyond this Jekyll and Hyde of a 20th century, 100 years in which the human race experienced its greatest advancements as well as its worst violence, what more is there to ask?

Ethos Percussion Group To Perform At Frostburg St.

The Ethos Percussion Group will perform at Frostburg State University on Sunday, March 4, at 3 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall. The concert is part of FSU's Cultural Events Series.

As part of the performance, FSU's Collegium Musicum will present "Missa Luba" in a special guest appearance. The "Missa Luba" is a mass in Congolese (Zairian) style for mixed chorus with tenor solo and percussion accompaniment.

"The Ethos Percussion Group uses instruments that range from drums from all over the globe to marimbas to Swiss cowbells to Brazilian scraped percussion, with Chinese opera gongs and plastic tubing thrown into the mix. Their repertoire is as eclectic as their instruments, and includes compositions in traditional, contemporary, and global styles," a critic said. "With a decade of ensemble experience, the group has developed a distinctive sound that the Washington Post calls 'spellbinding.'"

Dedicated to advancing the percussive arts on stage and in the classroom, the group has been much in demand around the country. Appearance locations include Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall, the Kennedy Center, and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Individually, members Joseph Gramley, Eric Phinney, Yousif Sheronick, and Michael Sgouros have performed or recorded with a variety of orchestras, including the American Symphony and the Manhattan Chamber Orchestra. Students at the Juilliard School, the Berklee College of Music, and the University of Maryland, among others, have been exposed to the group's percussion expertise. Ethos also sponsors the popular "Bing! Bang! Boom" educational program for children, and has received an educational residency grant at the Children's Museum of Manhattan.

The ensemble's recordings include "Ethos Percussion Group" and "The Persistence of Past Chemistries." They have also recorded arrangements of works by Georges Bizet and Franz Liszt with the Philadelphia Virtuosi Chamber Orchestra.

In a review of the group's international debut at London's Wigmore Hall, England's Musical Opinion raved,"...in terms of programming, musicianship, and technical ability, Ethos is a winner."

A pre-performance open discussion designed to increase awareness and understanding of percussion repertoire and its performance, practice, and history will be offered at 2 p.m. and is open to the public.

This performance is presented in association with the FSU Department of Music; Yamaha Corporation, Band & Orchestral Division, and authorized Yamaha Dealer Music & Arts Center Inc., with local affiliate Kauffman Music.

A dinner theatre special in partnership with Giuseppe's Italian Restaurant is available with the performance. The special includes a five-course meal with tax and tip included. Transportation is available.

For information, reservations, and menu selection for the dinner-theatre, persons may contact the Lane Center Box Office at 301-687-4411, Monday through Friday, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the PAC box office one hour prior to curtain.

Under The Gaslight To Be Performed At FSU Theatre

University Theatre at Frostburg State University will present Under the Gaslight, one of the most famous melodramas ever written, a classic tale of good versus evil filled with suspense and action, according to an FSU spokesperson.

Performances are scheduled for March 2, 8, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre. A matinee is scheduled for March 3 at 2 p.m.

Written in 1867 by Augustin Daly, one of the first modern directors, Under the Gaslight is set in the post-Civil War period of the 19th century. For its time, the play displays a surprising awareness of major social issues of the time — class conflict, income tax problems, capricious court systems, poor treatment of war veterans, and women's suffrage, the spokesperson said.

"The action begins in Manhattan when the pure and lovely Laura Courtland's engagement to rich playboy Ray Trafford is thwarted after the villainous Byke calls her birthright into question. With her position in high society destroyed and her engagement ended, Laura seeks answers among her former high society peers and the city's rough street people, none of whom are what they appear to be. Despite Byke's efforts to thwart and control her, Laura's strength and resourcefulness prove her to be more than just a pretty face," the spokesperson said.

In the play's most famous scene, Laura is kidnapped by Byke and plunged into a raging river, while a wounded soldier tied to the railroad tracks faces a locomotive rumbling right toward him — on stage. By the play's end, family secrets and characters' hidden motives are exposed.

Information and reservations can be obtained by calling 301-687-4145 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets are $7 for non-students and $3 for students.

GC Arts Council Now Accepting Grant Applications

The Garrett County Arts Council is currently accepting grant applications from nonprofit organizations seeking funding support for arts programs and projects scheduled to begin after July 1. To qualify for funding consideration, applications must be for programs open to the public, accessible to persons with disabilities, and must be held in Garrett County or for the benefit of Garrett County citizens, according to Steve Schlosnagle, GCAC director.

Organizations requesting more than $500 in funding support must apply by March 21, which is the arts council's annual application deadline for project grants and general operating grants. Organizations requesting less than $500 in annual funding support may apply at any time during the year, but must apply at least 45 days prior to the program for which funding is requested. All applicants must provide a cash match for funded programs.

The Garrett County Arts Council allocates over $30,000 annually to local organizations presenting performing, visual, folk, and literary arts programs in Garrett County. In fiscal year 2000, the combined budgets of the arts council and associated grantee organizations totaled $456,000, funding the presentation of arts programs to a combined audience of nearly 150,000 individuals.

Grant application forms, guidelines, and additional information are available by calling the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-334-6580.
